abaster moves court to church

by Bert Seaman

The pews of a former Alabaster church will be occupied by defendants rather than worshippers this year.

The church building is the city's new annex, located just across the railroad tracks from city hall.

Next week, the first municipal court session of the year will be held there. And Municipal Judge Joel Watson will hear cases from a bench built in the space the pulpit formerly occupied.

The building was purchased by the city in December from the First Assembly of God.

In addition to the courtroom and future offices, the new building also provides space for a larger library.

Now that remodeling has been completed, librarian Mamie Templin has moved the library's 10,000 books from city hall into the new quarters in the basement.

Some new shelves are on order for the larger area, and at Monday night's council meeting, Councilman Cal McCune suggested the city pay part of their Willing to go along with Mc-Cune, the council will wait to hear a recommendation from Finance Chairman L.O. Farris at the next meeting as to how much the city can afford to pay of the approximately $360 cost.

The library occupies 1,500 square feet of the building which cost the city $60,000. Remodeling, so far, has cost an additional

Pelham tries again for race track

Legal steps are beginning this week to obtain a greyhound racing track inside the city limits of Pelham.

A legal advertisement, appearing on page B-9 of this week's issue of the Reporter, is the first step in the process of seeking a legislative act which would permit a vote on the issue.

The advertisement must appear in four consecutive issues as a notice to the general public that legislators will be asked to introduce a bill allowing a vote by residents of Pelham.

On previous occasions, such bills have been advertised, but no local legislators have introduced the bills in the legislature, so no local vote on the question has ever been held in Shelby County.

Last year the Pelham City Council voted in favor of holding an election on the issue, but without an act of the legislature, it was not possible to hold the election.

Several years ago, a move was made to establish a county-wide dog track, but that move also failed to be introduced in the legislature.

brief round-up of other events that occurred during last year as Shelby County's people coped with inflation and a slow-down in population growth.

Government

The County Commission started the year with a new member, Don Murphy of Pelham, and the optimism to plan several new projects. As the year wore on, however, the commissioners' plans were often dashed by circumstances beyond their control.

Murphy urged the adoption of a standard personnel policy for all county employees, and the commission took steps to develop one. But the heads of various county departments made it clear they did not want their authority to hire and fire stepped on, and sought rulings from the attorney general. The upshot was that the county commission only has the authority to set the number of employees an elected department head can hire, and the employees are so scattered, a general personnel policy is almost impossible to

Later the commissioners voted to build a new county building with $350,000 left over from a previous bond issue. After weeks of discussions, and final agreement on an architect, the plan fell by the wayside because general agreement could not be reached about which departments could be located in the limited space of the proposed new building.

The county computer gave so much mechanical trouble early in 1981 that it almost caused a rift

New boundary nixes Saginaw town petition

Backers of the proposed new Town of Saginaw are re-drawing the boundary lines.

According to Probate Judge Tommy Snowden, the group wanting to set up the town has asked to withdraw the petition they submitted last week, to change the borders.

Snowden said that he does not know just where the changes will be made. But he expects a new petition with the revised boundaries will be submitted to his office within the next week or two.

Snowden said however, that the proposed new Town of Liberty is going ahead as scheduled, with an election sea for the residents of the area on January

Both of the new towns were proposed as a means of stopping Alabaster's plans to annex the areas they represent.

Both of the new towns are south of A abaster. Liberty's proposed bot adaries go from the Maylene Load to east of Highway 119. The northern border of Liberty is close to Alabast s's present southern

Clinic handles emergency in first 5 minutes

by David F. Moore

It didn't take long. Riverchase Family Medical Center opened for business Monday at 8 a.m. At 8:05 a.m. the facility's Minor Emergency Room handled its first emergen-

A restaurant worker who had sliced her thumb with a meat cutter was rushed in. Her injury was examined, cleaned and sewn, and in thirty minutes she walked out the door, even while electricians and other construction workers continued with the finishing touches to the clinc portion of the yet unfinished facility.

It didn't take long for RFMC to have its first emergency patient, and it didn't take long for the $2.5 million center to be built, either. A joint effort between Brookwood Hospitals, which has operated a clinic on Valleydale Road since 1978, and Shelby Medical Center, construction of RFMC started only last September.

Grand opening ceremonies are set for Sunday, January 31. Governor Fob James is expected to be on hand, along with a band and live coverage by a county radio station.

In the meantime, Brookwood assistant administrator William Stewart, who is in charge of the new center, is trying to figure out exactly what type of freeway sign should go up at the Valleydale exit on I-65, visible through the trees from RFMC's Riverchase Parkway East location. No freeway sign, it seems, accurately describes the facility.

RFMC boasts accommodations for minor emergencies, capabilities for general surgery, a variety of doctors, x-ray equipment, lab facilities and ambulance service--but it's certainly not a hospital. Likewise, with its plans for a pharmacy, optical shop, dentist offices, day care facility, community meeting rooms, aerobics and health care classes, and a van to pick up elderly patients from the county, RFMC is more than just another suite of doctor's offices.

"We're a health resource center," Stewart said. "We're trying to directly respond to what the Health Services Agency said was needed in this area."

Although the Minor Emergency Room is one of RFMC's highlights, Williams explained that the facility is limited in scope and designed specifically to treat acute medical problems not requiring hospitalization. Heart attack, stroke, serious burn, and vehicle accident victims will not be transported there unless so instructed by a physician over an ambulance's emergency radio.

Nonetheless, minor burns, fractures, sprains, cuts requiring suturing, and abdominal and respiratory problems can all be handled at the Minor Emergency Room. It is staffed with a qualified physician and is open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8 to 8 Saturdays and Sundays, 365 days a year. Payment is required at the time of service.

Plans call for an eventual medical staff of at least 18 parttime, rotating physicans, including an ear-nose-throat group, optometrists, dentists, OB/GYN, dermotologists, urologists, a general surgeon and an orthopedics specialist. Williams said this full line of services should be available by April

A fulltime pediatrician and two fulltime family practicioners will also operate at RFMC, along with the regular staff of 10 technicians, RN's, nursing assistants and office workers, Williams said.

He explained that patients requiring hospitalization are by no means obligated to go to Brookwood or Shelby Medical

Williams added that the A&A Ambulance Service now located there, will not pickup patients and bring them to Riverchase, but instead transport people from RFMC to hospitals. Furthermore, he said ambulance service in North Shelby was poor and the Riverchase location was being provided to improve it. Another major point stressed by Williams is that of quick service and short waiting times. "Our goal is to see patients within 15 minutes," he said. He added that with the exception of some lab results which take at least 24 hours, all patients should have a one-day turnover period.

When asked about the race for a new hospital somewhere in North Shelby, Willimas said he wanted to keep Riverchase Family Medical Center totally out of the issue.

All he said he was worried about was providing good primary health care to the area.

"What we're trying to do is build a better a better mousetrap," Williams said.

The value of the land donated by the City of Pelham for a Health Department building was overstated in last week's story in the Reporter.

According to Ron Stutts, Director of the Shelby County Health Department, the land is valued at about $85,000 not a quarter of a million dollars as stated in the article. The Reporter regrets the error.

The total cost of the project will be about $445,000 and $320,000 should be the approximate building cost, as stated.

The incident occurred when Davis went to her home with a deputy and another officer to serve an arrest warrant for her

Alexander had pled guilty to the assault charge Oct. 14.

Vickie Duke was the other woman sentenced. She had pled guilty to 3rd degree burglary on September 14 of last year.

Danny Alexander, another defendant who pled guilty to 3rd degree burglary that day, was given a year's sentence in the state penitentiary.

A three year sentence was imposed on an inmate who escaped from the Shelby County jail. Randy Kish pled guilty to 3rd degree escape on November 9, 1981.

He also pled guilty to the felony possession of marijuana and received an additional three years for that crime.

Doug Ellison was sentenced to serve 30 days of a 3 year suspended sentence. That was a condition of a four year probation. He was also ordered to pay court costs.

Ellison had pled guilty on September 14 to the felony possession of marijuana.

Youthful offender status was denied to Chris Talley who pled guilty to the misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

He received a six month suspended sentence plus a $250 fine and court costs.

Jimmy Massey, who pled guilty to a DA's information (in lieu of grand jury indictment) on the misdemeanor possession of marijuana, also received a six month suspended sentence and was fined $250 plus costs.

Others pleading not guilty who were denied youthful offender status include: James Russell Brown, charged with burglary and carrying a concealed weapon; Joe Delbridge, charged with 3rd degree burglary; Reginald Dates, charged with two counts of 3rd degree burglary.

Charles Allen Jennings, charged with two counts of escape; Glen Allen Campbell, charged with 3rd degree burglary.

Their trial date has been set for February 22, 1982.

A probation appeal for William David Bullock was denied. He was sentenced September 14 to serve 10 years for robbery.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Things I'll Do In 1982: Plant my garden on Good Friday and hurry out there Saturday morning to see if anything's up.

I'll plant enough peas for me and the deer and enough beans for me and the rabbits and enough strawberries for me and the mockingbirds. If we get showers I'll be happy and if we don't I'll still be happy, knowing that He who sends the rain knows my needs better than I.

Go bird hunting with George Foster and Earl, up a dozen hills and down a dozen hollows, and look for little wild flowers and tiny speckled sparrows, because He made them too, in a world almost too beautiful for man.

Chase November's prettiness over a hundred hills, looking until my eyes hurt, knowing in my heart that too soon December will come with her frost and her cold wind and blow the leaves away.

Go squirrel hunting with Henry Foster and sit down a dozen times to rest, by a noisy waterfall or a patch of winter flowers, since Henry and I were hunting squirrels half a hundred years ago, up and down these same hills.

Go hunting with almost anybody I know, if they are old enough to have voted for Herbert Hoover, and are willing to sit on top of the hills and rest and see how lovely He made the day.

Scrambled

Look at every pretty girl I see, if they are over two and under two hundred, since pretty girls were made to look pretty and eyes were made to see with-that much I know.

Write the best column I can every week, since the talent belongs to Him and it's my obligation to use it the best I know how.

Always walk on the sunny side of the street, where things like happiness are, and kindness, and love for the other person.

Listen for the bluebirds, wherever I am, at whatever time of the year, and hope, in my heart, that their happiness will spill over and get on me.

Hunt little blue daisies in March and rooster-head violets in April, and tarry behind each patch I see, while my heart fills Go fishing every chance I get, with just any of my fishing buddies--not so much for the fish but for the fellowship.

Watch the sky late in the afternoon, hoping little clouds will catch on fire, while He paints a thousand pretty pictures above the trees. Gather peaches in July and muscadines in September and pears in October--and when the frost comes and the bitter wind-I'll have jelly and preserves, and hot biscuits and butter, and laughter and soft talk.

Name your candidates for governor

by Bob Ingram

If you are keeping a record of such things, you can feel safe now in taking the name of Joe McCorquodale from the list of "possible" candidates for governor and placing his card in the "almost certain" file.

McCorquodale's announcement last week that he will not seek another term in the House was for all practical purposes an announcement that he will be running for another office instead---governor of Alabama.

In vacating his House seat from Jackson, the 61-year-old McCorquodale will be leaving behind an enviable record. He has served in the lower chamber during four decades---from the 1950s to the 1980s--- and shares with Rep. Pete Turnham of Auburn the title of senior member of the Legislature. He is the only man in state history to have served two consecutive terms as Speaker of the House.

McCorquodale's announcement was not the only development at year's end in the upcoming governor's race. Montgomery Mayor Emory Folmar, who aspires to be the state's first Republican governor since the Reconstruction, was acting more and more like a certain can-

Folmar, who has a wearisome schedule of 22 out-of-Montgomery speaking engagements scheduled this month, was meeting with key supporters and reportedly was trying to recruit other candidates to join him on the Republican ballot in the 1982 elections. He has even approached several incumbent Democratic officeholders and tried to persuade them to switch parties.

This increased activity on the part of McCorquodale and Folmar re-ignited talk that perhaps both of them knew something that nobody else knew---that perhaps Gov. Fob James might not be a candidate for a second term. The close ties between James and Folmar are well known, but there also exists a strong relationship between James and McCorquodale.

Odds and Ends--Judge John Bookout of the State Court of Criminal Appeals has announced he is resigning that $48,000-a-year post on Feb. 1 to become vice president/general counsel of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Company in Omaha, Neb. His seat on the court will be filled by gubernatorial appointment.

What with a regular session and three special sessions, it was no surprise that the cost of operating the Alabama Legislature in 1981 was an alltime high. The total cost was $3.9 million, with most of the expense going for legislative pay. The lawmakers are paid $65 a day while in session and $400 a month year-round.

Court offices

open till 4:30

Beginning January 4, all state court system offices in the county courthouse will stay open an extra half hour in the afternoons, to

The later closing was ordered in Montgomery, to bring Shelby County closer to other counties n business hours. In some counties, the courts reportedly remain open until 5.

The change affects the offices of the clerk, the district attorney, and the two circuit and one district judge here. Employees are to be compensated by being given a half hour for lunch.

What is it that inspires a person to clean house?

When my son-in-law returned from a Christmas vacation, he attacked drawers and closets at his house with a vengenance.

And as soon as Christmas was over, my son and his wife took down my tree and cleaned up all the mess that ensues from that

But every time I look at the clutter in my room and other areas of the house, I always think of something more pressing I have to do.

The other day I'd almost talked myself into getting started when I was saved by the bell--Ma Bell, that is.

My daughter called to see if I'd like to go bowling. And at that moment, there was nothing I would rather do.

Well, it is important to get a sufficient amount of exercise, isn't it? And doing something different every once in awhile is a good way to clear the cobwebs out of your head.

And just because it was raining cats and dogs outside was certainly no reason for not going. In fact, I figured I wouldn't do a very good job of cleaning anyway, with the weather so

So off I went to meet my daughter and her boyfriend for a trip to the alleys.

Since none of us had bowled in so long, we couldn't remember how to keep score. As it turned out, I wish it would have remained that way.

But two little helpful Harrys who were using the adjoining lane reminded us how to do it. You probably think we didn't do too well. And you're right. However, I don't think it was too fitting for the guy who collected our money to laugh when we asked to keep the score sheet. "With scores like these," he sneered, "why would you want to remember?" I didn't say anything, but I'd a lot rather remember the fun I had making a lousy score instead of remembering the lousy time I had cleaning house.

Bill Robinson says NO!

I recently had an encounter

I wish to thank Mr. Talmadge Butler publically for his letter in last week's Reporter, which shows his concern about irresponsible litter bugs. I congratulate him for enforcing the law within Oak Mountain Park.

I monitor police calls and realize that the Deputy Sheriffs, as well as local police officers at lower pay, have a heavy load. I also understand that recent pay increases for the Deputies was mandated by the State legislature acting over the heads of the County Commission.

I only wish that county and local officers, along with the Highway Patrol, would show their concern for the growing litter along State and County roads. A single publicized arrest would help.

I reiterate my earlier promise to donate the amount of the first such conviciton. I have already contributed $50 to my church in appreciation for the Reporter's publicity on this problem.

License inspector boosts county revenue

by David F. Moore

Shelby County license inspecfor Bobby Joiner gets a lot out of his job. For instance: dog attacks, threatening phone calls, fong hours, headaches--all this, plus $13,000 a year to boot.

Even if some of Joiner's 'clients' complain from time to time, the county coffers certainly don't.

Since the County Commission hired Joiner in March of 1980, revenue from the sale of business license and mobile home tags has increased by an estimated $49,000.

In his first year of inspections, the sale of various business, or privilege licenses alone increased from $21,295 to $27,094. Last year these sales increased to $29,635.

But the main reason Joiner was hired was to enforce the sale of license tags for mobile homes. Last year 1,926 such tags were sold, an increase of 813 over the 1980 period.

If Joiner discovers a mobile home without the proper tag, a $25 late fee is usually involved, bringing tag prices into the $40-$80 range. Although exact figures were unavailable from the court house, an estimate of $50 per tag means Joiner's efforts brought the county $40,000 in revenues which otherwise might not have been collected.

As one might surmise, not everyone is overjoyed to see Joiner in their place of business or at the door of their mobile home.

"A lot of them get mad. They curse and holler and snort, but they'll usually go on down (to the court house) and buy the tag because they know they have to," he says. "All they're doing is paying a tax on their homes like everyone else."

Joiner says that most people with whom he has dealings are nice. Those that do cause him problems, however, make him truly appreciate the cooperation most people give him.

A 16-year employee of the county, Joiner ran a grade-all before bidding for and receiving his present position.

"I didn't know grits about nothing when I first started," he

Since he's the county's first license inspector, no one else here knew much about the position either. To learn the ropes, Joiner spent time traveling with the Talladega County inspector. Since then, his job has been a learn-on-the-run experience.

One thing he's learned is to let people speak their piece, then go on about his business.

"If you let people speak what's on their mind, get it off their chest, and just listen to them, whether it's pleasant or not, then ordinarily they'll try and work something out with you," Joiner explains.

Another thing he's learned while on the run is about dogs: don't mess with them unless you absolutely have to.

Once, while ringing the doorbell to a man's trailer on highway 26, three German shepherds charged around the corner with pants seats on their minds. Joiner was cornered.

As the dogs closed in on him, he leaped from the porch to the roof of his nearby car. While trying to keep the pack at bay with a canister of spray mace, he finally managed to scramble through the car window to safety.

"I went back and called the fellow on the telephone--that's what I did," Joiner says.

Especially in the first year, Joiner ran into a lot of people who did not know they were required to buy yearly tags for their mobile homes. Most of them eventually cooperated, but one man in Pelham told Joiner abchase a tag for his trailer.

Joiner later returned to issue the man a citation, only to find he had lived up to his refusal. To prevent buying the tag, the man had sold the mobile home.

Another irate and tagless trailer owner called the court house and left the inspector a rather unfriendly message: he threatened to shoot Joiner if he came back on his property. The solutely that he would not pur- man left no name, but no one Joiner revisited paid him any buckshot compliments.

As a tip, Joiner says mobile home owners who are set up on their own property can at least defray the $4.50 cost of the tag by assessing their trailer along with their land. Most people are confused about this, however, Joiner

Privilege licenses also cause confusion, because, as Joiner can readily show you in his copy of the state code, a given business seldom gets off with only one license.

Business licenses and mobile home tags now come under the scrutiny of inspector Bobby Joiner. Since his appointment in 1980, the county's revenue has been beefed up about $50,000.

You need a license for each gas pump you may have, you need another to sell cigarettes, you need one for every vending machine from cokes to Space Invaders. You need a license to be a detective, another license if you're in a city, still another from the county, one from the state-you just about need a license to get a license. But that's the way it

"It's just my job," Joiner comments.

"The majority of the people know who I am and don't get ugly about it," he continues. "Most everybody knows what they're supposed to do. The last thing I ever want to do is arrest somebody. But if I have to ... "

Joiner realizes that sometimes people simply do not have their tag money. In such cases he is not heartless, but tries to find ways to work with the person. Still, the tax has to be paid.

But all in all, the county's first license inspector enjoys his work. Even if work days often stretch out to 8 p.m., he does get to travel all over the county. And he does get to meet a lot of people. And like it or not, he also has to meet a few dogs here and there.

Governor starts plan anew

by Fob James

On January 7, 1981, the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Education, delivered a letter of finding to me on behalf of Alabama state government, indicating there were vestiges of racial segregation in our institutions of higher education. The letter stated that operation of Alabama State University in Montgomery and Alabama A & M University near Huntsville (both "Traditionally Black Institutions") meant that our state still had a system of segregated education in our universitites and colleges.

Now a year has passed, findings have been updated, and a plan to end the "vestiges" was almost submitted to the Department of Education in Washington. Since I had been directed to develop a comprehensive plan, all state operated universities and colleges were a part of the plan.

Two weeks ago, after a long conversation with Secretary of Education Terrell Bell in Washington, I was given an option: either submit the plan or ask that the whole matter be transferred to the Justice Department and start fresh with development of a new plan. I opted for the lat-

In previous legislative sessions I have developed several ideas for legislation which would allow all of us in government, and you the taxpayer, a way to determine if we were spending our education dollars efficiently and effectively. After I get the budgets underway in January, I will probably look at this kind of legislation again.

But back to the issue at hand. Once the transfer is made from the Department of Education to the Justice Department, we can expect an orderly negotiation process to begin which will lead to a plan to end what the federal government perceives as racial segregation in higher education.

We have spent the last year collecting data and developing the plan which was ready to be sub-

The council said that anyone whose property adjoins the present city could petition to come into the city within 30 days, and their legal fees would be absorbed by the city.

In other action at the meeting, the council accepted petitions from 21 families south of town to be annexed. The new city limit will go down highway 31 about 11/2 miles south of the Mental Health Clinic, on the west side of the highway.

Councilmen also accepted a petition from four families east of town who wanted to join the city.

These families live on highway 25 across from the Union 76 station, and their land adjoins the Buxahatchee Country Club. which is already in the city.

The council also heard a report from Tommy Moon, assistant offering, rather than the quantity fire chief, who said there were of universities and programs. four fires the department attended last month. Mayor Prichard commended Moon and the department for their fine work in extinguishing a serious industrial fire at Allied Products.

Councilman Doug LeSueur reported that the heavy weekend rains resulted in a big overflow of water east of the railroad tracks near highway 25. He asked permission to go ahead with installing a 42 inch pipe or culvert to correct the situation.

In a final piece of business, the councilmen heard Jim Johnson describe an apartment complex his company wants to build in Calera. The company will conduct interviews of citizens later this month to determine if there is a need for the building.

Looking back through 1981

between Commission Chariman Tommy Snowden and the commissioners. But that issue was resolved when Snowden arranged for its repair.

Landfills occupied much of the commission's time. Under the gun of the Health Department, 80 acres for a new landfill west of Columbiana was purchased after court condemnation proceedings. This was required because the Calera and Helena landfills were ordered closed. Although the hope was to make the changeover in the fall, the new landfill was not opened in 1981, but will open on January 14, 1982.

The Commission turned over the operation of the county animal shelter to the Humane Society in April, but cities in the county failed to give the Society any financial support. The operation was improved by the end of 1981, but the hoped-for expansions had not taken place, for financial reasons.

All county departments felt the effects of the closing of the CETA program which had prowided federal funds to hire dozens of workers. By October nearly all the workers had been terminated. The County Commission did not have the funds to continue the positions, but was forced to replace four of them at the county jail.

As a means of catching the attention of the Shelby Memorial Hospital Board, the Commissioners decided to appoint five new persons to the board when five terms expired in March.

The new board members helped carry the day for the commission in the fall when the commission needed two of the four mills of ad valorem taxes that had earlier gone to the hospital.

The mission was not accomplished however, without a months-long hassle. The Attorney General gave two rulings on the matter, reversing his first decision with the second. The county attorney served as a mediator in the final showdown. The matter was decided with the hospital 'contracting' with the county for health services such as the landfill and the health depart-

The hospital, which changed its name to Shelby Medical Center in mid-year, enjoyed a prosperous 12 months, with a strong financial sheet at the end of its fiscal year, September 30.

Directors voted to buy a CAT soanner to aid in diagnosing various ailments.

AMELICANISM CONTROL CO

The Phase II construction was completed at the hospital and a formal dedication was held on December 13. The three-year construction cost about $13 million and added 40 beds, making a total of 210 beds at the

In late fall, the hospital's directors voted to apply for a certificate of need to state health agencies to build an entirely new hospital on highway 280 to serve the growing population there.

But several other medical groups also petitioned for new hospitals, including Baptist Medical Center, and a private Riverchase group. Brookwood Hospital, which draws from Shelby County, served notice it wanted to add several new beds. State hospital officers resorted that there is no need for additional beds int he area, and a fight over the matter seemed to be shaping up at the end of 1981.

When a committee from Vincent failed to get fast action from the county hospital and the county commission on a medical clinic for Vincent, the group iwent ahead on its own and built the clinic. They entered into an agreement with Baptist Medical Centers to staff it. In less than five months from the start of construction, the building was opened and put to use, serving more than 25 patients per day.

The County Commission faced budget troubles again when it made up the new budget by the deadline of October 1. They found out after making it up that the State Law Enforcement Personnel Board had raised the pay of troopers at the last minute. thereby raising the county deputies' pay. The item came to well over $100,000 and shot the county budget full of holes.

An error by an accountant also reduced the amount of revenue sharing the county was to receive, but some fast catch-up work may restore the funds in late 1982.

The several-year hassle over property reappraisal, which had kept the county's treasury much smaller than expected, was finally resolved as the old year went out and the commission was happy about it.

In a federal court, Shelby County was awarded $200,000, plus $68,000 it had withheld, from the company that had bonded the defunct Jacobs Company. Jacobs was the company that had been responsible for the reappraisal program in Shelby Hundreds of Shelby County landowners, whose taxes had been misfigured, or whose property lines had been misreported, drew some comfort from the federal court's decision.

Columbiana's Chamber of Commerce pushed for a new highway linking Columbiana with Pelham, and won initial approval of the long-planned roadwill come from the state's oil windfall tax money.

The state legislature redistricted the state, and Shelby

County was one of the places where the boundary lines were changed the most. The county will now have a representative in the House from the westnorthwest side of the county. The district will have only a very small section of Jefferson included. This is a considerable change from the past when the district included a large part of Hoover and Vestavia. Other district boundaries were not changed very much in the county. Oak Mountain State Park saw a change of directors late in the year, with Phil Easterwood replacing John Meredith as park director.

Cities

The high cost of providing services caused most Shelby County cities to re-examine their services. When Montevallo decided to discontinue fire and police protection outside the city limits, a group in Dry Valley asked the city to annex the area. But when the election was held in mid-year, the annexation was defeated by 78 to 67. Several property owners whose property adjoined the city have since requested and received admission to the city.

Calera and Alabaster sought to annex large areas, also.

But legislators failed to introduce bills allowing elections for those two towns at first.

It took two more sessions of the legislature for Calera's acts to pass. However residents of South Calera voted down the annexation in the fall, and the residents north of town turned it down as the New Year began.

Alabaster was re-drawing its proposed annexation lines at the end of the year, but groups from two areas south of the city jumped the gun by announcing plans to create their own cities.

Private volunteer fire and rescue services were being improved in some areas to serve people whose city services were withdrawn. Aldrich set up its own fire department, and Almont created a legal fire district.

The chief argument used by those who did not want their property to be annexed to cities was the zoning regulations of the Others, especially subdivision residents with little property other than a home and a small lot, preferred to be in a city for the police, fire and rescue protection. Arguments raged all year.

Columbiana raised its sales tax by one percent to meet inflated costs, and other cities tried costcutting measures.

Pelham started its long awaited sewer system.

Bids were taken for a new post way. Funds to survey and build it office in Wilton, which was served most of the year by a mobile post office unit.

> Wilsonville's city council talked about annexing Sunrise Cove, but dropped the idea when several residents protested.

Harpersville and Vincent looked forward to more residents and increased business activity as progress in four-laning Highway 280 proceeded throughout the year.

Cable television moved rapidly to serve Montevallo, Calera and Columbiana during the year, and additional service came to Alabaster and Pelham.

North Shelby County had its problems with two cable companies competing to serve them.

Business

The opening of the Shelby County stretch of Interstate 65 from Hoover to Alabaster on May 20, was a major watershed for government, business and lifestyle in Shelby County.

The new artery took through traffic away from over-used Highway 31 and caused many local people to venture out on 31 more often than they had in the

On the other hand, the loss of through traffic hurt some of the county's service stations and restaurants, temporarily.

But in the long haul, leaders believed it would help the county far more than hurt it.

The high points of business during 1981 included the opening of a major discount store, Wal-Mart, in Pelham on December 1. Earlier an Alabama corporation opened a Marvin's store in Pelham, which specializes in retail building supplies.

The Shelby Bank opened a branch in Montevallo; the First National Bank of Columbiana broke ground for a new branch in Inverness; and the First American Bank in Pelham built an entirely new building and held a grand opening in the fall.

Inverness and Riverchase continued construction on major office complexes and a 6-story office complex on Valleydale Road at the Riverchase Parkway East was announced.

Alabama Power Company, at the Southern Electric Generating Company complex near Wilsonville announced a major chemical breakthrough in mid-summer.

Scientists at the Catalytic laboratories had succeeded in converting raw coal into clean burning liquid fuel. Earlier, the scientists had developed a method of converting the coal into liquid, but the new development meant that it would not emit sulfur and other pollutants into the air. It was announced as a major improvement.

Receipts from sales taxes continued to show gains in most of the cities, and at the county level. But observers thought part of the gain came from inflation rather than real gain.

Federal policies on interest rates continued to depress the housing industry in Shelby Coun-

This in turn slowed down the population growth, as many completed houses remained empty, and construction workers had to look elsewhere for jobs.

The business slowdown resulted in the closing of some big businesses and several small retail outlets.

Eagle Chevrolet and Action Track of Pelham were among the

Tax act affects income returns

Last summer, the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 was signed into law. Its provisions began affecting taxpayers as early as July 20, and will continue to do so for several years to come.

Although the changes brought about through this legislation are many and varied, relatively few will affect taxpayers filing 1981 income tax returns in the coming months. Here is a summary of the changes for 1981:

Individual Tax Rate Reduction

Tax withholding rates for individuals were reduced by 5 percent on October 1, 1981; since the rate reduction was only in effect for the final quarter of the year, this will result in an overall reduction of 1.25 percent for 1981. Taxpayers who use the tax tables will not have to compute this amount, because it has been figured into the tables.

Tax-exempt "All Savers" Certificates

Taxpayers investing in qualifying "All-Savers Certificates" between October 1, 1981, and December 31, 1982, can exclude from their incomes up to $1,000 of the interest on individual returns, and up to $2,000 on joint returns. Although most certificates will not yield interest until 1982, some credit interest on a monthly basis. If the taxpayer has access to interest earned in 1981 on these certificates, it should be reported on either the Form 1040A or Schedule B of Form 1040 in a special section provided for this purpose.

Interest Exclusion for 1981 Only

Finally, although it was not enacted through the Economic Recovery Tax Act, taxpayers should be aware that, for 1981 only, there will be a $200 exclusion ($400 on joint returns) of qualifying interest and dividend income. Only certain types of interest income qualify for the exclusion, such as interest from U.S. bank accounts, credit unions, savings and loan associations, and similar institutions. ## Pelham hikes rates over protests

by David F. Moore

The Pelham Council passed a water rate hike Monday night, but it certainly didn't come easiand $.50 per 1,000 thereafter.

On the extension, the new rates increased to $2 per 1,000 for every 1,000 over the minimum; an increase from $2 per 1,000 for the for the next 2,000 over the minimum, $1 per 1,000 for the next 5,000, and $.75 for every 1,000 over 10,000 gallons.

Dunaway estimated that the average Pelham water customer

'The citizens don't know how much this increase is. They'll be hostile' -- McCrary

The arguments may have fallen in just short of bringing down the house, but at one point during the often heated discussion, the ceiling above the audience suddenly started raining water from an apparently leaky pipe.

"This may be the answer to our water problems," quipped Chandalar resident Bob McCary who had the wet floor at the mo-

McCary may have not have been serious in that comment, but he was serious when he told the council: "I don't think the average citizen knows how much this increase amounts to. When they find out, they're going to be hostile. Alabama Power gets a rate increase, but they don't ask for 100%!"

Among the vocal supporters of McCary's point of view were Burt Carroll, Jim Latham and Chuck Gilpin, all of Chandalar.

The old rates, which were published along with the proposed new rates in a story in the December 24 issue of the Shelby County Reporter, had not been raised since Pelham entered the water business in 1965.

the summer 18,000-20,000 gallons. During non-lawn- watering months, the average dropped to about 8,000 gallons, he said. What this means is that under the new rates on the original Pelham line, summer bills will jump from about $13.50 to $28.50. During other months bills will increase from about $8 to that the city had had to pay for some of the lines laid to Wal-Mart because the water board did not have the money.

Cleveland said the water board lost $12,000 over the last two

The mayor also said that as far as he was concerned, as soon as the loans for the improvements had been paid off, the city could return the excess profit to the citizens.

McCary told the mayor that the city would probably play politics with the rates and find another way to spend the money.

"If we're going to have what you want next spring, we better get started right now," Dunaway said, pointing out that any delay might lead to that much time this summer when water becomes short again.

When asked why action hadn't been taken before now on improving the water situation. Councilman Ken Maynard responded, "We've been working spring, we'd better start now.' - - Dunnaway

On the extension, average summer rates will increase from about $23.75 to $40, and in other months will increase from about $15 to $18.

None of the residents complained about the new commercial rates. These rates were also published previously in the Reporter. The citizens requested that the city do or consider the following before passing the new rates: provide a financial statement of the Pelham Water Works; provide projected revenues from the new rates; provide the specific costs of said, "My criteria is: are the new rates in line? I think they are. If the rate increase is too much, the rates were too low (to start with)."

"But why should we suffer from mistakes made by the water board in the past?" one of the residents wanted to know.

Mayor Burk Dunaway explained that the new rates would not effect residential customers in the minimum usage bracket of 3,000 gallons. That amount will still cost $4.50 for customers on the city's original water line, and $8 on the Cahaba Valley extension. But new rates on the original line call for $1.50 per 1,000 gallons of water over the minimum; an increase over the old residential rate of $1 for the first 1.000 over the minimum, $.60 per 1,000 for the next 5,000, Councilman Bob Cleveland the project and information on financing it; set up one time assessment fee; include stipulations calling for a return to the old rates after several proposed water improvement projects had been paid off; hold a citywide referendum on the issue.

The mayor explained the new rates were necessary to procure loans to pay for some $250,000 worth of improvements to the exsisting system. Even with all the improvements, the mayor still could not gurantee all the water everybody might want during the summer.

Dunaway said that during last summer's water shortages in the city, which stemmed mostly from grass watering, he was told by numerous residents to get them more water "whatever the cost."

Though he did not have the water board's financial standing on hand, he said the utility was just starting to break even, and on it since the phone started ringing about azaleas dying (last summer). We've haven't had an easy time making this decision."

The mayor also noted that several engineering firms had helped them arrive at the new rates. Cleveland conceded that the rates were high, but said they were necessary.

Before all the fireworks began, Maynard had moved that the rates be passed, but an hour and a half later he withdrew the motion. Maynard then moved to table the rate increase till the January 18 meeting, but that motion died for lack of a second.

Cleveland next moved to accept the new rates, Councilman Ray Hamilton seconded the motion and it passed 4-1.

"I think the increase is needed, but until we show proper respect to these citizens, I can't vote for it," Maynard said, dissenting.

The mayor said that bills by the new rates would probbly not go out until at least Feburary.

The council, after the crowd voiced its dissent during the water controversy, also passed an ordinance establishing a sewer rate schedule and hookup fee.

The optional hookup will cost an initial $1,000 and the bills will be 75% of the residential water bills, and 125% of commercial water bills.

Initially, the sewer system will chiefly service businesses along highway 31 in south Pelham. Conceivably, the sewer system may never even be offered to the majority of the city's residents. The mayor said the idea behind the sewer was to attract businesses and increase the city's tax base.

In other action Chuck Gilpin also asked the council to enforce both its sign and weed ordinances. He also asked about the status of the revised weed ordinance. Councilman John Tanner said the new ordinance is still under review.

Maynard recommended that former councilman and fire commissioner Roy Jowers be appointed to the vacamt position on the park and recreation board.

checks out tornado sirens, buys new truck Heating bills are what most people are concerned about right However, an Alabaster resident has been thinking ahead to the summer months when many water bills will be going up.

Although the sewer maintenance charge has been discussed at council meetings before, Roger Wheeler brought it up again Monday night.

The fee is charged on water bills, and with more water used in the summer for watering lawns, washing cars and filling swimming pools, many residents pay at least $10 or $15 extra each month.

Alabaster reexamines water charges,

Wheeler urged the council to charge a flat maximum rate rather than base the payment on 75% of the water charge.

Other residents have expressed the same sentiments as Wheeler, saying it is unfair to have to pay the charge when the water doesn't go back into the sewer.

Councilman Cal McCune, who heads the sewer committee, feels that way too. "I hope we can come up with a program like that - I believe we need it," he said.

However, because of the tremendous cost of the sewer system, which was completed in 1978, that charge must be made to pay off bond issues and for maintenance of the treatment plant and lines.

According to City Clerk Dot Henry, the city must pay between $85,000 and $100,000 a year on bond payments alone.

After talking about the tornado warnings that were issued for the county Sunday evening, the council decided it would be a good idea to establish a warning system for the city.

There are three sirens located in various sections of the city. Fire Chief John Cochran pointed out, however, that they would need to be tested on a regular basis to make sure they are in good working order.

Cochran was asked to check with Jefferson County's Civil Defense unit to see what signals they use for sounding an alarm and for letting citizens know when the danger is over.

Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin added that it would be a good idea to use the sirens for other disasters as well.

The panel agreed that bids be sent out on a pickup truck for the street department to replace a 1969 model now being used. According to Councilman

Willie Arrington, the price of a new truck was included in the department's budget. Bids will also be sent out for resurfacing the tennis courts in the city park.

Since they are badly in need of repair, Councilman Jack Reagin urged that the work be done immediately with the sealer to be put on in the spring.

Reporting on the number of runs made by the Fire Department in 1981, Councilman Glen Naish said 652 calls had been answered.

Of those calls, 470 were inside the city limits, 182 outside, including 32 assists given to other

Maternity clinics report higher use

Pregnant women are taking advantage of maternity clinics in increasing numbers, and better health is the result.

Figures compiled by the Alabama Department of Public Health's Bereau of Maternal and Child Health/Family Planning (MCH/FP) show that 17,231 persons were served in maternity clinics throughout the state during fiscal year 1981.

In Shelby County, 291 maternity patients made a total of 1545 visits to the clinic. Only 30 percent of these patients were admitted during the first trimester of their pregnancy. However, this is an increase over the 20 percent recorded in fiscal year 1980.

Commenting on the significance of the figures, Dr. Beverly Boyd, MCH/FP director, said, "We are pleased that more women in Shelby County are getting to the clinic early in their pregnancies. It is important that they receive early and regular prenatal care either at the clinic or from their private physician. Nutrition counseling and medical advice are necessary in order that healthy women have healthy babies. Also, the earlier in their preganancy these visits begin, the better chance there is to forestall possible problems including those of genetic origin."

Clinic personnel will be stressing preventive health care, which can lead to a healthier community as well as to reduced medical expenses for each family concern-

'Hams' learning air rules

Fifteen future ham radio operators are in the sixth week of study for their Novice License. Classes are being conducted each Tuesday night at the old Depot in Alabaster with members of the Shelby County Amateur Radio Club instructing.

Upon completion of the current course, participants will be given a Federal Communications Commission examination which will test their knowledge of Morse Code, radio theory and rules and regulations. Those who pass will be issued novice class licenses which will allow communication via Morse Code on certain frequencies within the amateur radio bands. "On the air" experience with other amateurs around the world, will enable the novice to gain code speed and proficiency in preparation for a future higher class per year. Exact dates will be announced later. The club meets the second and fourth Friday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Civil Defense building in Columbiana. Anyone having an interest in amateur radio is welcome to attend according to Jerry Caudill.

Baptist Medical Centers needs your support to build a hospital.

Why a new hospital is needed.

Forecasts show that Shelby County and south Jefferson County, the fastest growing area of our state, will have an estimated population of 142,000 by 1985. With heart attacks, strokes and accidents on the increase, readily accessible health care — especially emergency service -- is a must.

BMC plans to build a hospital in the heart of this area.

Baptist Medical Centers of Birmingham wants to meet the health needs of this fast-growing region by building a 120-bed general hospital in Riverchase by 1984, and later a complete medical complex. Services provided by the hospital would include emergency care, acute medical, surgical, obstetrical, intensive care, ambulatory care, occupational health programs, community education services, health promotion programs, and multiphasic health screenings.

Why your new hospital should be Baptist Medical Centers.

BMC is locally owned and managed. Baptist Medical Centers has been a major contributor to the Birmingham community for 60 years. Unlike some other hospitals that are controlled by out-of-state owners, BMC manages and operates its own hospitals.

BMC is non-profit. With no shareholders to pay, any excess monies are used to add new or improved services. Because we operate several hospitals, we can provide quality services more efficiently and

BMC is self-supporting. No taxes are collected for operation of Baptist Medical Centers. Therefore, our hospital would not be a drain on the community.

BMC already is helping to meet the health needs of residents of Shelby County through BMC-East Shelby Health Center in Vincent and BMC-Leeds Family Health Center.

BMC stands for excellence in health care. Baptist Medical Centers has an outstanding reputation for surgical and medical care, using the latest techniques and having superb facilities.

BMC is committed to meeting people's needs. As part of our ministry of healing, we're dedicated to serving the total needs of the body, mind and spirit of our patients and demonstrating our Christian concern to the community - such as providing hospice care for the terminally ill, chaplain services, charity care and health education programs.

You can help determine the quality of health care in your area. For the future. Give Baptist Medical Centers your support today. For more information, and to learn how you can help, call 322-9367.

Aging group urges use of generics

The Alabama League of Aging Citizens urges all low and fixedincome recipients to save money by using generic drugs.

By simply asking your doctor for a "Product Selection Permit" and presenting it to your pharmacist, you can cut your drug bill by as much as 50%, according to Rubin Hanan, League president.

Also, if you ask, doctors can often substitiute other drugs in the same family that are covered by Medicaid co-payments, which will provide you with substantial savings, he said.

If your doctor feels a different drug would not be good for you, ask him submit a "Prior Authorization" form to the state Medicaid agency in Montgomery, which if authorized, will allow you to pay the small co-pay fee rather than the entire cost.

to forest owners

Own a forest? Need help in making plans for it?

The first step you need to take is to procure up-to-date maps and aerial photos of the land, which is probably easier and cheaper than you think.

The Alabama Forest Owner's Association will hold a workshop for this purpose on Tuesday, January 12, at 7 p.m., at Resource Management Service's offices on highway 280, just east of the Pet Motel.

All necessary application letters and forms will be available, but you do need to bring a legal description of your land.

president of the Central State Bank of Calera.

Schroeder was employed by the First National Bank of Birmingham from 1966 to 1968. He joined the Calera bank in 1968 and has been a member of its staff since that time.

A native of Shreveport, Louisiana, Schroeder attended the University of Mississippi and the University of Alabama. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree and has a certificate from the LSU School of Banking of the South.

Active in Shelby County civic affairs, he is a past president of the Calera Civitan Club, past captain of the Calera Quarterback Club, former member of Calera's water board and park and recreation board and is currently chairman of the Industrial Development Board of Calera, treasurer of Shelby Shores, Inc., member of the board of directors of the Chilton/Shelby Mental Health Board.

Schroeder is married to the former Dorothy Louise Downs. They are the parents of three children.

'Legal' drugs blasted as bad dope

by Food and Drug Administration

Those "100 percent legal" fake "uppers" and "downers" that the fast-buck boys are peddling not only aren't legal, they also may be downright dangerous.

They are illegal because they are made up to look like something they are not, and there's a federal law against that. U.S. Marshals -- at the request of the Food and Drug Administration and the Department of Justice -- recently seized so-called "look-alike" drugs at nine manufacturers in various parts of this country, netting about 15 million filled capsules and manufactured tablets and more than 20 million empty capsules imprinted with counterfeit markings. The marshals also seized machinery used in the manufacture of the counterfeits, including punches, dies, imprinters and presses, valued at more than $1

Some of the phony pills are similar in size, shape, color and markings to "uppers," amphetamine products that can be prescribed legally but often are abused by being sold on the streets. The counterfeit "uppers" usually contain a combination of non-prescription ingredients such caffeine, phenylpropanolamine (a nasal decongestant and appetite suppressant) and ephedrine (a decongestant).

The counterfeiters also make pills that look like "downers." That's the street name for legal prescription sedatives such as Quaalude-300 or potent narcotic analygesics like Dilaudid. The real things are often abused through illegal sale and use.

FDA can only police counterfeit manufacture through its seizure mechanism, but the agency also is cooperating with states in enacting legislation banning the distribution of the counterfeit drugs. A recent count found that 13 states had enacted such legislation.

In addition to the illegalities and dangers, FDA sees these problems posed by the counterfeit drug products:

•They induce school children and others who do not usually abuse drugs to do so.

•They counteract drug abuse educational programs by fostering the false notion that these products are legal and safe.

•They give the false impression that real amphetamines, diet pills, etc., are not as potent and dangerous as they really are.

•The cheap imitations confound federal Drug Enforcement Administration and police efforts to deal with real drugs of abuse.

Denton concurs with farm bill

Senator Jeremiah Denton (R-Alabama) says he is satisfied with the agreement that was reached on the 1981 Farm Bill.

"While this proposal would not provide as much protection for the farmer as I had hoped, it is probably the best compromise we could have worked out in this time of budget-cutting," he said.

"Farmers need the protection the bill provides. Farm income is expected to be down to $8.1 billion this year, adjusted for inflation. That's down from $15 billion in 1979 and $25.1 billion in 1973, for example. With farm income in a slump, this would be no time to undercut the farmer, especially since a large sector of our non-farm economy is dependent on a healthy farm economy.

Ouch!

Talk about getting out of the frying pan and into the fire.....Thompson's Warriors are in for some hot times the next two weeks.

Monday night the Warriors tangled with Sylacauga. On Tuesday - Pelham. Friday -Shelby County. Next Tuesday -Childersburg. And finally Friday - Berry. Not a schedule worthy of envy.

All this faces the Warriors and first year coach Thomas Johnson. "We've got a lot of talent" the coach told the Reporter, "But it's young talent. We've only got one returning starter and two from last year that had much playing time. But, we're starting to get our legs under us."

Coach Johnson added that his team is pretty well balanced with a lot of players scoring and playing well as a team. Top scorers for the Warriors are Lester Gaiters and Donald McKnight.The most improved member of the squad seems to be a ninth grader; Chris Thomas. According to his coach, Thomas has lately started coming around to fulfilling his potential.

It's going to be a rough two weeks, but it would be hard to find a tougher training ground for the upcoming Shelby County Tournament.

team's best game of last year was the season opener against Fayetteville. Vincent won the game 82 to 39. Since that game, the team has averaged scoring 60 points and giving up 47.

Vincent took on Lincoln this past Tuesday night. Thursday night they travel to Columbiana to face the Wildcats. On Saturday they hit the road again, this time to Sylacauga to tangle with the Aggies. Vincent returns home next Tuesday night to host Moody High School.

improvement. We've been more like a water faucet - hot one minute and cold the next. When we all get playing well at once we'll be tough to beat.

It looks like a busy schedule nd the Rebels will have their work cut out for them but with a little glue, things should start sticking together.

Columbiana's Wildcats haven't let two weeks go to waste. Several practices were held during the holidays and coach Don Piazza thinks it paid off. "We really have good enthusiasm coming back' he told the Reporter. "It looks like we're ready to play."

That's not a warning to other teams but just a commitment for the new year. Shelby County takes a 6-4 record into 1982 and the team is ready to add as many numbers to the left of the dash as possible.

Which was the best game? Piazza says it hasn't happened yet. "We've played good offense in some games, and in others we've been tough on defense, but we haven't put all the pieces in the right places yet."

Steady play has been attributed to several of the Wildcats. Piazza named Randy Lewis, Bruce Martin, and Thomas Simon as the core of the team but quickly added that his team wouldn't have the record it has without the combined effort of the entire squad.

Most improved to this point in the year is Don Phillips. According to the coach, Phillips has gotten tough under the buckets and that has helped the enthusiasm of the entire team.

The Wildcats take to the courts with three games this week. Tuesday they faced B.B. Comer in Columbiana. On Thursday evening Shelby County hosts Vincent, and the following night Thompson awaits in Alabaster.

Tough stuff

starts now

Briarwood Christian High School has an even record for the basketball season thus far. Coach Steve Franklin's team posts a 4-4 record going into the new year and his team heads into the meat of its schedule starting this week.

On Tuesday night the north county school faced West Birmingham Christian. This Friday the team hosts Calera and next Friday entertains Chelsea.

The leading scorer for Briarwood is center Peter Clemens, a six foot-three tough inside man. He has averaged about 15 points a game and also leads the team in rebounds. Another player mentioned by the coach is point guard Jeff Nelson who "makes things happen" according to the coach. The best game of last year for Franklin's team was against IMS of Mobile. "We haven't been able to beat them in anything" Franklin told the Reporter. The' 12 point winning margin was a dividual fundementals in our kids and we plan to attain that two ways. One - practice hard and, two - play a tough schedule."

Briarwood gets the chance to play tough opponents in the coming weeks, and the practice during the holidays and renewed effort should soon show results.

Small size, few numbers

"I like to play 'pressure basketball' but we don't have the height or depth," Montevallo coach Kurt Pnazek said.

The coach may have a point. This is the shortest team the Bulldogs have courted in several team will finish the first week of 1982 with a 3-0 record.

The coach is looking for more games with the same effort put forth against Clanton a few weeks ago. That's the game Pnazek says was his team's best. On the scoreboard it didn't turn out in Montevallo's favor. "We had good continuity. We did what we wanted to do. We had a good shooting percentage and played with our heads - smart offense and tough defense," the Montevallo mentor commented.

Fans can expect their Bulldogs to be tough regardless of the opponent and this week could be turn-around week for the record and consistent effort.

years and regarding depth, the bench contains just seven to represent the varsity effort for 1981-82.

Because of the absence of a full bench, the Bulldogs can well nigh afford too sticky a defense. Fouling out for just three players would end the ballgame.

Although Pnazek wouldn't admit it, the casual observer would think that the lack of depth would add some explanation to the 4-win 6-loss record Montevallo ended the year with. Also contributing to the record are the many road games the team has played. "We've only Calera's Athletic Department will keep the proceeds from a game scheduled this Thursday night. The coaching staff will be taking on a popular radio station team from Birmingham. The game is scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Calera gym and promises to be a good fight as the coaches take to the boards.

Coach Mark Lovett will be providing the spotlight for the night. Coach Danny Alverson will substitute for the ball. Other members of the coaching staff and faculty expected for the night are Bobby (chaw) Sherrer, Gary (Mr. Cool) Griffith, Mancile Register (probably on the score book) and James Garrett who should keep the language in proper grammatical perspective.

Back on the beat

New sports guy comes to Reporter staff

Richard Crosby. That's me. To some (maybe a lot) of you an appropriate greeting may be hello again rather that a simple hi!

Way back in 1976 (when gas was cheaper) I arrived on the Shelby County scene from what some say were parts unknown. Actually it was Hueytown.

I have worked for the Shelby County Reporter for most of the past five years. I started as a simple minded - mild mannered sports reporter. As time progressed and the paper grew in size and readership (not that I had anything to do with it) I took on more responsibility. Then I made a mistake and got out of sports writing.

Two years later, and many (well, at least one) request later. I'm back. Now I have no responsibility. I'm back to being simple minded and mild mannered. You may remember some of the crazy things I did back in '78 and '79. Here's a short list: I bet my beard and lost it on a football prognostication; I became the winningest coach in the county with a perfect 1-0 record obtained in March of 1979; I learned how tough girl soccer players are at Chelsea High School; the now defunct Dynamic Duo of golf met their match against Mr. X; and then there were those lipsmacking gourmet reports I wrote from the various county athletic banquets.

As you can tell from the above, I don't always get serious, but you can bet I'll be bringing you a complete wrapup of county sports each week. I believe in being involved as a reporter in getting to know the players, coaches, school administrators and everyone who has a hand in high school athletics. That way you'll get the whole story.

Of course, your help is invited. If I overlook something that you think is important, than by all means give me a holler. Don't just sit there and wish we had covered the ping pong matches at your child's school. I want to bring you what you want, and if complete high school sports action is your thing, stay tuned.

Back to the courts

Raiders hope injuries over

Shelby Academy was supposed to have a pretty good team. That's what has been told to coach Dewayne Kervin.

"We had a lot of injuries left over from football," the coach explained. "We will finally have everyone healthy."

"We have played some poor basketball so far," Kervin said, adding "We're hoping to get the pace back up. I still have confidence but we're about to run out of excuses."

There have been some bright spots for the team. An 87-54 win over Burney Points in December was probably the best effort of the team. Another good game (although the Raiders lost) was against Minor Christian. "All the rest were so-so" the Raider coach commented. "We haven't played too well together yet.... I hope we have that straightened out."

Two early week gmes were already played. Next Monday Shelby faces Cahawba at home. On Tuesday, Bessemer travels down for a game. On Friday, the Raiders board the bus to Burney Points. Shelby hopes to improve on a 3-5 season mark left over from last year.

Calera plans improvement

Eagle country was busy the last days of 1981. Coach Mark Lovett had his squad pounding the court the final four days of the year in preparation for the upcoming basketball battles of '82.

Calera enters the new year with a record of 2-5 and some questions still unanswered. "Our biggest problem has been getting some scoring help from the bench," Lovett stated. He hoped that the final four days of last year helped to solve that situa-

The best game in the coach's view was the win over Chelsea on December 11th. The Eagles won the game when Richard Russell dropped a two-pointer in the bucket as the buzzer sounded. It's not surprising that Russell is one of the team's leading scorers, averaging 13.7 points per game. Claiming the top spot in that category is Edward Wilson with a 14.4 average.

Rebounding chores for Calera have been led by Melvin Crum and Eric Caber, both with an average of 10 per game. These defensive stalwarts can also contribute to the offense, accounting for six points per game each.

Calera took on Thorsby Tuesday night and heads to Briarwood this Friday. Next Tuesday, January 12th, the Eagles entertain Chelsea in an afternoon contest beginning at 1 p.m.

County tourney just around the corner

The Shelby County Basketball Tournament is just 19 days away and all the county teams will be represented in the annual fight for supremacy.

The Shelby County Coaches

Association met Wednesday night to decide the brackets for the county confrontation. The results from that will be in these pages next week.

Not only will the varsity teams be fighting for the championship but the junior high and B-team representatives from the county schools will also be involved. Pelham High School will again host the event which in years past was the battle ground for classic Montevallo-Thompson clashes. That has changed the last two years. Now the big game of the tournament is the Pelham-Thompson confrontation.

The Warriors won last year in triple-overtime, dashing Panther hopes for the county crown. And the game between these two teams has filled the gym not only with their own fans but with basketball enthusiasts from all over the area.

While it's too early to start forecasting probable winners, the next two weeks of regular season games should give fans an idea of who to watch out for and which team has the best chance of attaining the top spot for the year.

Basketball popular at RMS

Basketball is growing at Riverchase Middle School.

According to coach Faber, "We were thrilled to have over 80 guys try out for the team this year. We were sorry that we could keep only 20. As to a forecast for the team's season I know we'll be much improved. We've added some key players in some key positions, but only time will tell."

Members of the team are: 8th grade team - Sammy Nelms, John North, Lee Snyder, Pace Reid, Don Jeffers,

Gill Creel, Sean McCrory, Charlie Hall, Brad Youngblood and Mike Lorino; coaches -Janice Steward and Steve Faber.

Bulldog wrestlers face tough match against Deaf School

Bulldog wrestlers will face a tough match this Thursday night in Montevallo as the Alabama High School for the Deaf team comes to grapple. Montevallo coach David Bailey says that the match will be a tough one for his squad but that it will also be a learning experience.

Bailey explained to the Reporter that in the state tournament, wrestlers may face a deaf opponent. Some special rules come into play in such a match, and experience in dueling with deaf opponents pays off.

Bailey hopes to place four or five of his team members in the state tournament this year. Presently the team is made up of eight members who compete in six different weight classes.

In the last match before the holidays, Montevallo handled the Calera Eagle squad 20 to 14.

The match this Thursday will get underway at 6 p.m. in the Montevallo High School gym.

SHELBY ACADEMY IS NOT THE DEVIL'S WORK SHOP WE'RE NEVER IDLE!

At Shelby Academy, students, parents, and teachers can't afford to be idle. It takes everyone in our school family to make our school a success. Everyone is important at Shelby Academy. Why don't you join us and we'll find a place for you!

Field Trips - Because classes are small, well-behaved, and cooperative, filed trips are not difficult to organize. Last year, students enjoyed researching in the Birmingham Public Library, touring the state capital, visiting the airport, exploring the Huntsville Space Flight Center, attending the Opera, riding the riverboat in Montgomery, and hiking in the state parks, as well as taking other field trips according to student interests.

Special Events - Our elementary students especially enjoy our annual Halloween Carnival, which is followed soon by our Arts and Crafts Bazaar in November. We present a yearly Christmas program for the parents, consisting of plays, skits, and seasonal songs. Our yearly Homecoming, organized by the school's Student Government Organization, always proves to be a success. Our biggest spring project is the three day horse show, usually held in late May. Elementary students also present a spring play in conjunction with the PTO programs.

Other Activities - As we have mentioned earlier, Shelby Academy offers a full program of activities and special events, including elementary music, beginning band, marching band, concert band, jazz band, choir, majorettes, flag corps, junior and varsity cheerleading, pep club, junior and senior Beta Club, Student Council, Annual staff, junior high and varsity football and basketball, baseball, girls flag football, softball, and special events such as the Senior Class play (a full-scale production), the junior-senior prom, senior Baccalaureate, and Track and Field Day.

Join Us - There is no longer a required membership fee to join Shelby Academy. Presently, you can send your child to our school under Plan II for $25.00 registration and twelve monthly payments of $90.00. We are now taking applications, testing students for eligibility, and interviewing.

For further information call the school at 668-2299, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Shelby Academy offers both morning and afternoon kindergarten, as well as all elementary, junior high, and high school grades. Small classes enable the teacher to spend more time with each student. Shelby Academy is a fully accredited member of the Alabama Private School Association.

Marshell Roy Cunningham. Headmaster

It isn't very often a team gets to play two teams ranked in the "Top Twenty" in the same tournament.

The University of Montevallo got that opportunity Dec. 29-30 in the Levi Watkins Holiday Classic at Alabama State University in Montgomery, and nearly pulled off a stunning sweep before settling for a split in the tournament.

The Falcons knocked off previously unbeaten Georgia Southwestern College, by a 77-63 count, then pushed No. 6-ranked Alabama State to the wire before dropping a 72-78 decision to the powerful Hornets.

The split left Montevallo, which had also received some votes for the NAIA Top Twenty, with an 11-2 record, the finest in the school's history after 13

Senior wing man Herman Bell of Birmingham scored 16 points to pace the Falcons, junior forward Clint Stewart of Columbus, Ga., had 13 points and 10 rebounds, junior guard Joe Hall of Montgomery had 12 points and 9 rebounds, and senior forward Orlando Lee of Macon, Ga., chipped in with 8 points and 8 rebounds. Point guard Alonzo Williams, a sophomore from Enterprise, hit 7 of 7 free throws and had 9 points.

The tournament was the Falcons' first action since Dec. 12, and the team hopefully has the rusty spots removed as Southern States Conference and NAIA District 27 play really cranks up. On Saturday, Jan. 9, it's the conference opener at Birmingham-Southern College, also a district game.

The Falcons travel to Auburn University at Montgomery on Jan. 13, then play their first. home game of 1982 on Jan. 16 against Jacksonville State University.

OUTDOORS WITH EARL

by Earl Franklin Kennamer Alabama deer hunting enthusiasts have until sunset Jan. 25 to bag a buck. That last week in 61 counties from Jan. 19 through Jan. 25 will be a choice period to try for a trophy, because dogs are forbidden. Counties for hunting will be limited to those which had an open gun deer season closing Jan. 18.

In addition, there are three state wildlife management areas that should appeal to the deerslayer because these reportedly have excellent whitetail populations. The 23,280-acre area near Chapman and Greenville will be open for a gun stalk hunt for bucks Jan. 21-23. Bowhunters may hunt through Jan. 25.

At Blue Springs south of Andalusia the 23,740-acre area can be hunted Jan. 11-13 for antlered bucks by gunners; bowhunters can go to the Jan. 25 closing date. There will be a primitive weapons hunt for hunter's choice deer Jan. 15-16. Oakmulgee management area is the 44,500-acre spread west of Centreville. There will be a gun stalk hunt for antlered bucks for Jan. 8-9. Bowhunters have until Jan, 15 in the hunter's choice season. Stalk hunters using primitive weapons may smoke the woods with black powder Jan. 22-23 on a hunter's choice hunt.

Deer hunting also involves proper handling of venison. Now, while I keep pounding away that the proper way not to prepare venison is soaking the meat in any solution, the Ala. Cooperative Extension Service puts in county agents' columns what I consider atrocious advice:

"Tenderizing: To merely tenderize venison, use a marinade such as soda water. Buttermilk tenderizes and draws out some of the wild taste. Wines, vinegars and spices will tenderize and add their flavors to the meat. Marinate older animals at least 24 hours and younger animals only a few hours" (To me marinating means disguising.) "Ground venison: Make sure 15 to 25 percent beef fat is added to venison as it is ground. Without the added fat, the meat will be dry and difficult to

After my blood pressure had subsided to 400 over 100 and the red, blue and green flashing lights in my head had subsided, I replied to the tenderizing treatment: Would you soak a 4-lb.

Venison handled properly does not need applied liquid chemical tenderizing. Should I kill an 8 or a 10-point buck, I'll always use moist heat cooking methods, except for those tender loin chops, sirloin or round roasts. Or I grind everything into burger. As to this nonsense of mixing up to 25 percent beef suet with venison as it is ground, why load up your freezer with cholesterol. Suet is fat and that is the first element to develop rancidity when frozen.

If you must, add suet when you thaw ground deerburger. Personally, whenever I buy ground beef, I choose chuck every time --I get more protein for my money. I don't sacrifice flavor because my wife and I add chopped green pepper, shredded rat cheese, beaten egg, chopped onion, garlic, etc. Butter or oleo is my choice for extra fat.

If I thaw a deer steak which I suspect might be tough, I beat the devil out of it with a "meat" hammer to get the equivalent of cubed steak. My mother used the edge of a heavy porcelain plate or saucer, but the chinaware you buy today might crackle like a fried crisp potato chip if you pounded away with it.

Cattlemen weather tough year as beef prices continue drop

1981 proved to be another "tough year" for Alabama cattlemen and the state's vast, billion dollar beef cattle industry, according to E. Ham Wilson, executive vice president of Alabama Cattlemen's Association, chief spokesman for the industry.

"This is the second consecutive year that live cattle prices have declined to below the cost of production," Wilson reported in a year-end summary. "Continued" high interest rates, high fuel costs, increased costs of equipment and supplies, and overproduction of pork and poultry have created an economic condition for cattlemen that resulted in less consumer demand for beef," he continued.

During 1981 Alabama cattlemen sold about 900,000 head of cattle, an increase of about 10 915,000 head of beef brood cows, percent over 1980, Wilson said. The great bulk of the Cattle was sold through the state's 50 licensed stockyards.

Joe Crawford of Baileyton, president of the association, says the overall feed situation for 1982 is good. "There was a good harvest of hay and feed crops in 1981," Crawford said, "and the mild fall and early winter will be a definite help to cattlemen in surviving the depressed price situation."

Crawford emphasized that Alabama continues to be an important beef cattle producing state. "Alabama ranks 20th in the nation in total numbers of cattle, "he pointed out. "We have 2,000,000 head of cattle in Alabama, and even more significantly, we have about ranking Alabama 15th among states in this important category and last year Alabama produced about 890,000 calves," Crawford concluded.

Wilson stressed the fact that increased production of pork and poultry have caused the prices of all meats, including beef, to decline considerably.

The result of this oversupply of meat, says Wilson, is a Bonanza for the consumer looking for a good buy. The retail prices of beef are lower than the past two years, and more and more supermarkets are featuring specials in prices of various cuts of beef.

"The smart consumer takes note of this," says Wilson, "and many are taking the opportunity to stock their freezers while supplies of beef are plentiful and good prices continue."

From Columbiana Hughes drove up to Chelsea to get 400 pounds of grass seed for reseeding some areas in Montevallo where new underground telephone lines have been install-

He was returning to Montevallo on the Simmsville Road, when the car approaching him swerved into his lane and hit him head-on.

Hughes' city-owned car burst into flames, and, as he put it, "I was lucky to get out. The only things I could save were the deed and my chewing tobacco."

The Chelsea Fire Department and the Pelham Rescue Squad both came to the scene. Neither Hughes nor the driver of the other car, Teresa Ann George of Rt. 1, Jemison, was hurt.

The accident was investigated by R.S. Sasser of the Pelham Police Department.

Methodists ready to expand church

by Bert Seaman

On a bleak, rainy January day eight years ago, a group of United Methodists purchased property for a church building in the Cahaba Valley.

And Sunday, with the weather conditions almost the same, the congregation of Christ Church, United Methodist, prepared to break ground for a new expan-

members for undertaking the project which will add 2,000 square feet of floor space to the

He told the congregation that he remembered the effort to locate property in the area and the trailer that was first used for services after the 10 acres of land was purchased.

Starting out with 70 members, the congregation has grown to a membership of 351.

The new addition will provide much needed space for Sunday

School classes and will be used in various ways for community oriented projects.

It will also contain a kitchen, and the old kitchen will be remodeled for classroom use.

Reporting that the church is in use seven days a week, pastor Byron White stressed the church's desire to "reach out and serve the community."

At the present time, Scout meetings are held there and also aerobic classes.

Besides giving the church extra space, the new addition will help with energy conservation, too, says Building Committee Chairman Richard Robertson.

He explained that now the entire church won't have to be heated or cooled when events are

Robertson reported that half of the $95,000 cost of the addition will be paid by the end of this

He explained that members had agreed to meet their pledges over a four month period.

The remainder of the cost is being financed, he said.

Methodists ready to expand church

by Bert Seaman

On a bleak, rainy January day eight years ago, a group of United Methodists purchased property for a church building in the Cahaba Valley.

And Sunday, with the weather conditions almost the same, the congregation of Christ Church, United Methodist, prepared to break ground for a new expan-

members for undertaking the project which will add 2,000 square feet of floor space to the building.

He told the congregation that he remembered the effort to locate property in the area and the trailer that was first used for services after the 10 acres of land was purchased.

Starting out with 70 members, the congregation has grown to a membership of 351.

The new addition will provide much needed space for Sunday

School classes and will be used in various ways for community oriented projects.

It will also contain a kitchen, and the old kitchen will be remodeled for classroom use.

Reporting that the church is in use seven days a week, pastor Byron White stressed the church's desire to "reach out and serve the community."

At the present time, Scout meetings are held there and also aerobic classes.

Besides giving the church extra space, the new addition will help with energy conservation, too, says Building Committee Chairman Richard Robertson.

He explained that now the entire church won't have to be heated or cooled when events are

Robertson reported that half of the $95,000 cost of the addition will be paid by the end of this

He explained that members had agreed to meet their pledges over a four month period.

The remainder of the cost is being financed, he said.

CHINS spend holidays with families

by David F. Moore Usually, it's a good thing to keep your chin up.

But in one place over the holidays, CHINS were down and no one was upset over it. In fact, they took it as a good sign.

CHINS (Children in Need of Supervision) is the name given to residents of the Shelby County Attention Home. The average occupancy of the home is five to seven CHINS, and according to outreach counselor Susan Johnston, residents may stay there from a day to a year. Before the holidays, seven CHINS were in residence at the home. Three of them, however, were recently released by the juvenile court to return home, and the remaining four went home while the Home closed for Christmas week.

Last week, Johnston said the four residents had been due back weekend following Christmas. But each of their families had called after Christmas, requesting that the child be allowed to stay home through New Year's weekend.

"A lot of these kids want to be home at Christmas and New Year's," Johnston said. "If they do well, they can stay with their families longer," she added.

"We hope we're helping these kids," she continued. "Our main purpose is to reunite families."

CHINS are not delinquents, the counselor emphasized. They are children from 8-18 who, for one reason or another, have had trouble living in their given family situations.

Such children are referred to the Attention Home through Shelby Youth Services law enforcement officers, social workers and sometimes teachers.

Once a child has been placed in the home a detention hearing is held within three days to determine if the child should stay there. Johnston said that when a situation gets to this point, the child usually is returned to the Attention Home.

During the next two to three weeks, while awaiting a hearing in juvenile court, the CHIN receives counseling from the staff and often from outside agencies such as Mental Health. If, by the court hearing date, the counselors feel the child is ready to return home, or to a relative, they make that recommendation to the judge and it is usually followed.

Sometimes the children remain at the Attention Home for up to nine weeks, and in one case, for a

She pointed out that in only a few rare cases have CHINS been the sole perpetrators of their problems. Usually their problems come from the parent-child relationship.

Johnston explained that the main thing Attention Home workers strive to do is open lines of communication between parent and child.

As evidenced by the four current residents, whose families wanted them to stay, the Christmas spirit apparently has a therapeutic effect on most family relationships. Counselors can usually see positive differences after the children return.

"Anytime we see a positive change we jump on it, and work on it," Johnston said. "We ask them why they feel good now, what caused the change. When we can get them to understand that, it's a step in the right direction. But they have to be willing to change."

Johnston remarked, however, that apparently there's no set pattern to frequency of problems, or to a given case.

"One day the phone rings off the hook, the next day we don't get a single call," she said. "We may be filled again after the holidays."

The Attention Home is located on highway 26 west, below

Alabaster. Director/counselor of the home is Brenda Lee, project director is Pelham mayor Burk Dunaway. The overall operation, which includes a staff of four and one volunteer, is overseen by a board of directors.

Shelby Youth Services and the Attention Home are funded by LEPA (Law Enforcement Planning Agency), but this year their budget was cut by 41% and they've had to rely heavily on donation from churches, other organizations and individuals. Johnston is afraid the federal LEPA funding will be dropped altogether next year. That will mean the Home will have to go to more fund raising projects, such as the golf tourney they held this summer at Buxahatchee Country

"We're willing to work to keep us around because we think we're worth it to these children. We hope the rest of the community will see things the same way."

The Helena resident began his Attorney Eason Mitchell second employment as bailiff in December 1973, three years after his retirement from U.S. Steel.

He told the Reporter that the years he's spent in the courthouse have been both enjoyable and educational.

Virginia Smith will replace him as chief bailiff.

Southern Railway Company has announced payment of 1981 ad valorem taxes totaling $50,007 to Shelby County, for itself and its subsidiary, Central of Georgia Railroad Company.

Southern operates 1,626 miles of railroad in Alabama. In 1980, Southern Railway System companies employed 2,960 Alabamians on an annual payroll of $65,711,000 and paid a total of $5,158,000 in taxes to the State of Alabama and its several jurisdic-

Purchases and other payments by Southern totaled $28,014,000 in Alabama in 1980.

Federal phone tax cut in half

On January 1 the federal excise tax on telephone service dropped from 2 percent to 1 percent.

But the tax won't disappear entirely at the end of the year, as Congress voted several years ago.

This year's tax bill postpones that, keeping it 1 percent until January 1, 1983.

Next year's drop will save telephone customers approximately $516 million. The telephone tax was imposed by Congress during World War I as a "temporary" measure. Although repealed briefly after that rate through 1984.

Approximately 1.3 million Alabama tax payers will receive their federal income tax packages within the next week according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Forty-five percent, or 630,000 of these will be 1040A packages, featuring the less complicated "short form." The remaining 770,000 tax packages consist of four different 1040 "long forms" packages with various supporting schedules depending on which forms the taxpayer filed last year.

Altogether, the IRS expects to receive 1.4 million returns from taxpayers in Alabama during the 1982 filing season.

The most significant change in this year's tax package is that it now features only one tax table to be used by all taxpayers, regardless of filing status. Previously, there were four separate tables. Because of this change, an extra step in which the taxpayer subtracts $1,000 from gross income for each exemption, has been added to the computa-

The taxtables, which will include the 1.25 percent tax rate reduction, have also been expanded, and now cover adjusted gross incomes up to $50,000. Previously, the tax tables only went up to $20,000 for individual taxpayers, and $40,000 for married filing jointly.

Tax package has single table

Another significant change will be found on the 1040A "short form" which can now be used for amounts up to $400.

For taxpayers who received income during 1981 on the All-Savers Certificates, new sections have been added to the 1040A and to schedule E of Form 1040.

Finally, retirees will be interested to note that Schedule E is no longer needed to report pension and annuity income; this can now be reported on page one of Form 1040.

Some taxpayers may need to file a form different from the one above.

received, due to a change in their tax status. These individuals can order forms and tax schedules by using the order blank in the tax packages or by calling the tollfree forms distribution number, 1-800-241-3860.

The tax package received in the mail has a pre-addressed, peel-off label and return envelope which taxpayers should use. The label and the envelope help to speed up the processing of the return, decrease the chance of errors and often produce a refund faster according to the IRS.

The tax package contains complete instructions that the taxpayer needs to complete the forms in the package. If additional information is needed on credits, exemptions, deductions or income, the IRS has more than 90 free publications on a wide range of subjects. These publications can also be requested by using ordering procedures listed

Newton H. Debardeleben, Jr. has formed a new engineering consulting firm to be known as DeBardeleben and Associates, Inc. The firm will specialize in design engineering and consulting for small industrial projects.

DeBardeleben has more than 15 years of experience in industrial engineering, construction and construction management. He was previously associated with BE&K Engineering Company and The Rust Engineering the war, it was reinstituted during the depression and at one time rates were as high as 25 percent on long distance calls and 15 percent on local service. Several years ago Congress voted to gradually eliminate the tax, which had stood at 10 percent for almost 20 years. In recent years it has dropped 1 percent each year and was scheduled to be eliminated at the end of 1982. However, legislation enacted in 1980 continued the tax at 2 percent through 1981. The latest bill allows the decrease to 1 percent in 1982 but continues it at

Harpersville youth wins scholarship

Pam Allen preserved so much food during the last six years that she won $600 for her efforts.

During her six years as an active 4-H member, she has racked up a record of canning 217 pints and 1279 quarts of food, and has frozen 1048 pints, 104 quarts, 56 packages, and 197 pounds of meats, fish, vegetables and fruits.

To add variety to her food preservation project, this year she started drying foods, and wound up with about 30 quarts.

Her $600 prize is from the Ball Corporation and she is using it as a scholarship to enter the radiology technology program at Carraway Methodist Medical

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Allen of Harpersville, She is a 1981 graduate of Vincent High School.

Oak Mt. goes forward with improvement plan

by David F. Moore

A month ago Phil Easterwood moved into the director's office at Oak Mountain State Park.

Most of the plaque and picture hanging nails in the walls of the office once occupied by John however, is not.

Easterwood has plans for recreation facility:

• Lights will be added to the golf course's driving range, and a second course marshal will be golfers moving more smoothly in the summer.

A new BMX (bicycle motonear the tennis courts in time for a nationals race this May.

In an effort to build offseason business, rent for the barn loft at the demonstration farm has been discounted from the $75 summer rate to $50. Also, new demonstrations, such as a pickyour-own vegetable garden, are under consideration for the farm.

• To improve fishing, the lower lake will be stocked in a few weeks with algae eating white amuirs. A spillway barrier is being built, the banks will be cleared of thick underbrush, and water, electricty and a sewer line will serve the picnic facility there.

• Camping facilities will be upgraded with modern hookups, better tent pads and site buffers.

· Campers will also have the benefit of a naturalist, and will be provided with slide presentations and other evening activities. Wildlife blinds are being considered to offer visitors a place to Meredith are still empty. The observe the deer, turkey and proverbial drawingboard, other creatures which inhabit the park.

Furthermore, cross) racing track will be built landscaping is being done at many of the facilities scattered across the 9,000 acre park.

> Easterwood said that money for much of the work was programed into the maintenance budget for this fiscal year, but the exact amount was not readily available.

> Other funds were coming in through the Young Adult Conservaiton Corps, a federal program which will run out March 1. All projects receiving these funds have to be completed by the end of March, Easterwood said.

> The refurbishing of the information center at the park entrance, which will start either this week or next, was labled as the "most critical" because of rotting wood.

Easterwood said some of the deck planking around the center, as well as the entire roof will have to be replaced, and the cost is as yet undetermined.

Bids for lights at the driving range are expected to run in the neighborhood of $14,000, and should be let within the next several weeks the director said. Overall camp ground improvements will cost an estimated $2000, YACC and park funds have provided $400 worth of landscaping plants, and $250 from YACC is paying for the spillway barrier at the lower lake. he added.

"We have something for everyone," Easterwood told the Reporter. "But there's always room for improvement."

"We're in the business of outdoor recreation and we want folks coming out here to have a good time," he continued. "The potential for this park is upward, and can go as far as your imagination can lead you."

He pointed out, however, that despite the improvements, he did not intend to lose sight of the natural surroundings which make the park what it is.

St. Vincent's joins hospital competition

by Marcia M. Sears

St. Vincent's Hospital has joined the competition to build a new hospital for north Shelby-south Jefferson residents.

This makes the fifth proposal that has been submitted to the Birmingham Regional Health Systems Agency (BRHSA) for consideration. Under current regulations, hospitals must get a "certificate of need" from approved health agencies, before they can build new hospitals or add major equipment.

St. Vincent's is proposing to construct a 120 bed acute care general hospital on 40 acres it owns on old highway 280, just south of the Cahaba River in Shelby County. Estimated cost is $21,883,184.

The other organizations, whose applications have been. reported earlier are: Riverchase Medical Center, 125 bed hopsital to cost $21,504,570; Shelby Medical Center, 100 bed hospital to cost $16,451,175; Baptist Medical Centers, 120 bed

State seeks death penalty

The state is going to ask the death penalty for Victor Kennedy when he is tried for the murder of Mrs. Annie Laurie Orr next Circuit Judge Harold Walden said last week that the defense could have $500 for experts and investigators to defend the 20-year old Kennedy.

The judge also ruled the state would provide a list of witnesses, any eculpatory evidence, defendant's statements and scientific reports.

The trial is scheduled for February 22. Mrs. Orr was found dead in her Montevlalo home on December 23, 1980. Another youth charged in her murder is Darrell Grayson, who is reportedly undergoing mental testing at Bryce Hospital.

Before Kennedy is tried in the capital case, he will be tried on a burglary charge on January 25. The burglary occurred at the University of Montevallo student union building a few weeks before Mrs. Orr's death.

hospital to cost $18,720,000; and Brookwood Medical Center, to add 100 beds to its existing hospital at a cost of $4,168,808.

The Facilities and Services committee of the BRHSA will meet on January 20 to consider the five applications. The committee's recommendations will then go to the board of BRHSA for consideration at a meeting on January 26.

The board's recommendations will be sent to the State Health Planning and Development agency (SHPDA), which could make a decision on the matter at its February 16 meeting in Montgomery.

Each of the five institutions is expected to push hard to get the board's approval.

On the other hand, the BRHSA is likely not to approve any of them. It concluded a study just last fall which indicated there was almost no need for any additional hospital beds in the entire 6-county area it serves (Shelby, Jefferson, Chilton, Blount, St. Clair and Walker counties). The survey showed that a few more beds at the University Hospital in Birmingham could be justified for teaching purposes at the Medical School. The state agency (SHPDA) has also taken a tough stand based on the same study. Alan Koch, its director, told the Reporter last month he would like to see the hospitals actually have to prove that the absence of additional beds would post a threat to the public health, before approval was given to any of the pro-

But political changes brought about by the Reagan administration, may alter the process under which new health facilities are approved or disapproved.

For one thing, federal budget cutbacks may do away with the regional health systems agencies altogether. For another, with the mood in Washington to cut red tape and federal regulations on almost all agencies, the rules on granting certificates of need may change drastically. Some political leaders are even suggesting that all the regulations be dropped, that require hospitals to show "need."

Slip-sliding around

Wilsonville Police Chief Sherman Humphries and Lamar Vick check out the 6-inch gap where the Yellowleaf Creek bridge no longer jibes after the freezing cold caused so much contraction, the span slipped from its foundation piers. Highway department spokesmen believe the bridge can be put back together soon.

Yellowleaf bridge is slipping off its pier

The bridge across Yellowleaf Creek slid about two-thirds of the way off its piers Monday.

Bob Richardson at the Calera Division Office of the State Highway Department told the Reporter that one of his men discovered the slip Monday when he returned home.

As a result, the Highway Department closed Highway 25 north of Wilsonville to all traffic at about 9 p.m. Monday. Traffic was re-routed to Highway 280 and county highway 47. The Richardson explained that the extreme cold weekend temperatures caused the concrete to contract more than usual. As a result, the foundation and the span no longer fit as they were supposed to.

He said a crew would start working on the bridge Tuesday, but that it is "anybody's guess" how soon the bridge can be put back together.

BMC officials Lowell Hamilton and Doug Gregory outlined the steps that are necessary to take before getting approval from state hospital agencies to build a new facility. Stating, "The health care industry is more controlled than the utilities," Hamilton said that gaining approval is a fight that is "uphill all the way."

Gregory told the group the population figures are the first item to be considered. From census tract figures he estimated there are 8,600 people in the Columbiana Wilsonville area.

But others in the audience added communities from Shelby to Calera and Chelsea. Jay Falkner said, "There are 20,000 people who regard Columbiana as the hub of the wheel."

Dr. Nolen said he thinks the population growth of the area will be so great by the time a new hospital could be built, that none of the existing hospitals would be

Montevallo raises gas rates

Good news and bad news for residents of Montevallo.

The cost of natural gas is going

But, not until April, after most of the severe winter months are Montevallo's supplier of natural gas, Southern Natural Gas, increased the price approximately 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, effective January 1. City council members voted Monday night to abide by a long standing resolution and pass all increases along to customers. However, the city received a recent refund from Southern Natural, and council members postponed passing the increase along until all of the refund is absorbed. City Administrator Don Hughes projected the refund would be exhausted sometime during March.

Council members then voted to make the effective date of the increase begin in April.

J.W. Palmer, owner of a 15 1/2 acre tract of land adjacent to Highway 25 and located on Holloway Hill, petitioned council to annex his property. Council members voted unanimously to accept Palmer's petition. Palmer reportedly plans to establish a mobile home park on the proper-

Administrator Hughes told council that the annexation of the Palmer property may bring in an additional 10 or 20 families whoseproperty may now be surrounded by the city's city limits. A survey has been requested to resolve the question.

Administrator Hughes reported to council members that the city's water board is planning to drill an exploratory water well. Infra-red photographs and geological surveys indicate water is likely to be found in the vicinity of the city park.

Mayor Ralph Sears assured council members that the test well would not be drilled on ball diamonds or other sites actively used for the city's recreation pro-

Hughes also reported that vandals had opened outlying fire hydrants on New Year's Eve. The act drained the city's water storage tanks.

Bill Vann, the city's Park and Recreation Director, listed active programs for the winter season. (See story in B section)

In a financial report, Administrator Hughes indicated that expenditures for the first three months of this fiscal year are exceeding revenues by about $10,000 per month. Hughes went on to say, however, that the city is now entering the heavy revenue period, indicating that the Christmas season sales tax will be forwarded to the city in February or March, and that the privilege license revenues are expected to peak during the last week in January.

Police Chief Allen Needham called attention of the council to a potentially dangerous Peeping Tom who has been sighted in Montevallo during recent weeks. Needham indicated that personnel of his department are alert to the problem.

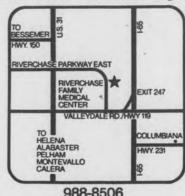

In a final action council members approved the expenditure of nearly $8,000 for a new city car to replace one that was destroyed by fire when Administrator Hughes was involved in a recent head on collision.

Shelco moves forward

by Bert Seaman

Shelco is getting ready to move forward.

Encouraged that residents rejected the latest annexation effort by Calera, and that the vote was close on their last attempt at a fire district, Shelco leaders are making new plans.

On Wednesday, the fire and rescue unit broke ground for a station house on County Road

If the land, materials for the building and landscaping had not been donated, the cost of the project would have exceeded $60,000.

Since Shelco has no authority to collect dues, the unit could not have afforded the undertaking.

Two of the contributors who were responsible for the unit's progress, were on hand for the groundbreaking ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. George White, who gave the unit the two acres of land for the station, were asked to scoop up the first shovelful of dirt, and Dwight Boates, plant manager of Vulcan Materials, was recognized for preparing the site.

The building materials were provided by Atlantic Wood Products, a Georgia firm.

In his opening remarks, Shelco President Wayne Davis said, "We've fought our battles and now we're ready to build."

The 40×80 foot structure will be put up by Davis' company without charge, and he said it should be ready to house the unit's vehicles in two months.

In addition to parking space, the station will also have a meeting area and living quarters so someone can be on duty 24 hours a day. At the present time, dispatching is handled through the Shelby County Sheriff's Depart-

This will be the first time in the unit's 12 year existence that there will be a central location to house equipment. In the past, it's been kept at the homes of members. When the vehicles are under cover, Shelco's Chief, Lonnie Thompson pointed out that state fire insurance inspectors can give the unit a rating which will reduce the fire insurance payments of subscribers.

At the present time, Shelco, which is a non-profit organization, has approximately 135 sustaining members who pay annual dues of $85.

With residents north of Calera voting against being annexed, Shelco treasurer Ed Neal estimated that somewhere in the neighborhood of 500 families will be without fire protection and medical rescue service.

It's hoped that those residents will contract with Shelco for services.

"The only way we're going to make this succeed," Thompson told the Reporter, "is for everyone to participate."

It was noted by Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden at the groundbreaking, that Shelco volunteers nominated for state EMT awards outnumbered any other unit in the county.

In his brief remarks to the crowd, Civil Defense Director Bill Tucker noted that Shelco had been down a long hard road.

But he compared what the unit had been through to working with steel. "You put a lot of heat to it and it comes out stronger," he declared.

He explained that it costs the unit between $2,000-$3,000 per month to operate.

Their only other income is a $750 appropriation from the County Commission and contracts with Wilton and Pea Ridge to provide medical and rescue services.

However, negotiations to provide services are underway with several industries in the area. In order to make a go of it, Shelco will not be able to make any free runs as the unit has in

Commission hears protests, requests

The Rev. Boyce Trott led a delegation of six to the Shelby County Commission office Monday. The group was protesting granting a license to sell liquor to Jean Arthur in Westover.

Rev. Trott, who is with the Mt. Zion Church in Westover said he opposes all alcoholic beverages. Mrs. Arthur already has a license to sell beer and wine, and has appeared at three commission meetings seeking approval of an off-premises liquor license.

She presented a petition with 800 names in her favor, but Commissioner Alph Lowe said her petition contained many names of persons outside the Westover area. Trott said he did not have time to gather a petition.

The request was again tabled for further study of the petition. In another matter Nan Brown, who lives on Highway 42, blistered the commissioners about the condition of her road. The blast went on so long Chairman Tommy Snowden reminded her that the commission had many other obligations besides her road.

The commissioners also saw a mock-up of proposed windows for the county jail, presented by three representatives of the Disco Aluminum Products of Selma. The device was taken under ad-

Susan Treadwell, director of the county Department of Pension and Security, asked the commission to provide transportation so the DPS could transport 2,400 pounds of cheese from Birmingham for food stamp recipients. It is part of the national distribution of cheese from USDA storage warehouses, she said. They agreed. The dispersal is expected to take place in late February or early March.

Doug Ballard, chairman of the board of Shelby Bank asked the commission to use his bank as a depository for some of the county's funds. He said that when he was on the commission, he felt it was best to keep the county's funds in a bank in Columbiana for convenience. But now that his bank has a branch in Columbiana, he would like to have some of the county's business, he said.

Later Karl Harrison, president of the First National Bank of Columbiana gave an impassioned appeal to keep the account, outlining the services his bank has provided at no cost to the county over the many years it had handled the account.

After considerable discussion, the commissioners voted 3 to 1 to stay with First National. Don Murphy dissented.

Employment office cut

Government cutbacks have closed several state employment offices, but the center in Alabaster remains open.

Because of the cutbacks, however, four staff members at the Alabaster office have been laid off in the past 30 days.

According to director Paul Porter, the cut in personnel has whittled his staff to less than 50% of its normal size.

"We're still carrying a full work load," he said. "And we're still providing a full range of services."

He said that as far as he knew, no other cuts are planned for his Alabaster office and that the job service and unemployment insurance will continue to be provided from there.

"The rest of us here are having to work real hard," he added.

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Notebook Time: Letters in the mail, from too many people to mention here, each one a harbinger of something lovely. And I want you to know they bring memories that make my days enjoyable.

We spent the day in a busy shopping center, the day before Christmas, and got shoved and pushed and stepped on. But we had a delightful time. And tonight, nine days after Christmas, I wish it was Christmas Eve again, and we were wholly unaware that we were being pushed and shoved and stepped on.

The redbirds came back to eat at my feeder, and the little grass sparrows. Two robins tip-toed over the ground, and two bluebirds lit in a lilac bush-and, somehow, it's not half so lonesome on my hill today.

The bowl games are history. And though Alabama lost, the fact that little Clemson shipped the whole bunch of biggies, made the day sort of special.

Earl and Christine Gordon, one a special preacher of mine and the other a special preacher's wife, came by to see me today. They were on their way home from Wilton and Shiloh, and stopped by to talk a little while and buy a book. They brought the news that Esther Merrell will enter Brookwood hospital Monday and have surgery Thursday. If you would like to send a card to a lovely lovely lady, just address it: Mrs. Esther Merrell, Brookwood Hospital, Birmingham, Alabama.

A note to many of you who will want to know: Lawrence Looney, maybe the best athelete of us all, is seriously ill at Baptist Medical Center, Princeton. A little card, letting him know you care, will mean a whole lot to Virgil and him.

To the ladies in the Probate Office and the Tax Collector's Office and the Tax Assessor's Office and the County Commission's Office and the Shelby County Reporter's office: Thanks, not only for helping me get some envelopes, but for doing it in such a delightful way.

Remember Hazel and Nalda and Celia Morrow? They lived at the old Morrow place on the Shelby road, where the Mooney road runs into highway 47. But this week they were remembering, and they let me share in those memories. So I want to say Thank You to all of them.

A note to my bird hunting buddies: Get your dogs cranked up and keep your powder dry. These rains will drive the birds out of the swamps and you'll have a 50-50 chance to get a few of 'em.

This for Alfred and Nora Talton: Some folks you love all your life---don't you.

The cold war

For several weeks it looked as though winter might be canceled this year. But then it hit. Arctic cold fronts and record low temperatures attacked a state where some people think 40 degrees is cold. Quickly the call to arms was sounded. Out came long johns, gloves, extra blankets, electric blankets. Call it war, The cold war. And during such war, climbing out of a warm bed in the mornings can take heroic effort--especially when your windows are frozen over in winter patterns of frost. ### Under The Courthouse Dome

Five cases on the Jan. 8 arraignment docket were sent back to the grand jury for further investigation.

The reason given was that the defendant may be dead.

According to a spokesman for District Attorney Billy Hill, it's believed that a body found in another state may be Donald Fondren, Jr.

Fondren is charged with three counts of burglary, 3rd degree and two counts of theft of property, 1st degree.

Another defendant in those burglaries and thefts who failed to appear, was reportedly in the Bibb County jail.

While that report was being checked out, an alias warrant was issued for Jeffery Robey. The third person charged in the cases was Joann Fondren Russell. She pled not guilty and her trial date was set for Feb. 22.

In another case, under the Habitual Offender Act, James William Brown was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary for receiving stolen property, 2nd degree.

Brown had a prior felony conviction in Jefferson County which entitled the state to ask for him to be sentenced under the Habitual Offender Act.

Judge Harold Walden denied Browns's request for probation.

After pleading guilty of attempting to impersonate a police officer, Joel Eshelman was given five months at hard labor for the county.

In a case involving 16 cross ties, James William Wright pled guilty to attempted theft, 2nd degree. He was given a six month

Shannon Lynn Cantrell, VAUCSA; Robert E. Owens, receiving stolen property, James Avery Kidd, VAUCSA; Donald C. Frye, theft, 1st degree; John William Barefield, BRCSP; Jimmy Louis Hamilton, promoting prison contraband; Billy Robinson, possesion of firearms after having been convicted of a crime of violence.

Scheduled on the Jan. 25 trial docket were trials for the following individuals who pled not guilty: Frank Killingsworth, charged with receiving stolen property, 1st degree; Johnny E. Chambers, armed robbery, 1st degree; John W. Florey, theft of property, 2nd degree, burglary, 3rd degree; Ronald Lucas, receiving stolen property, 1st degree.

A request for youthful offender status was denied Rodney Dale Lodge, charged with violating the Alabama uniform controlled substances act, and his case was placed on the Feb. 22 docket after he pled not guilty.

Defendants whose names were turned over to the district attorney's office by the attorney general's welfare fraud unit were: David Yowe and Carol M. Thrash.

Both individuals pled not guilty to the charges of welfare fraud and false pretense. Their cases were set for trial on the Feb. 22 court docket.

J.C. Jemison Jr., who had pled guilty to burglary 3rd degree prior to the arraignment hearing, was sentenced to a year and a day in the state penitentiary. His request for probation was denied.

Demos hear Nunn

U.S. Senator Sam Nunn of Georgia, whose knowledge of U.S. military issues has been widely hailed, will be the keynote speaker at the Alabama Democratic Party dinner January 22 in Birmingham.

"We are honored and pleased that Senator Nunn could take time out of his busy schedule to address our Jefferson-Jackson Dinner," said Jimmy Knight, state party chairman.

The annual fund-raising event, which will be held at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center, will also attract political leaders from throughout the state and the candidates for next year's top offices.

Probate judges sue over 'wife abuse'

by Reporter Staff If wife abuse is such a problem in Alabama, why not make people pay for it when they get married? That was the logic behind a bill passed by last year's legislature which tacked $5 onto the Alabama marriage license fee. The extra money was supposed to go to the district attorneys and the state Office of Prosecution Services to set up shelters and other help for abused wives.

But the Alabama Probate Judges Association does not like the idea. It is in the probate judge's office, after all, where the marriage licenses are purchased.

The association has started a lawsuit attacking the constitutionality of the marriage license bill on several grounds.

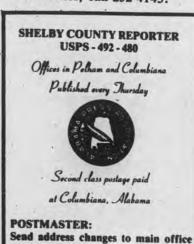

Shelby County's Probate Judge Tommy Snowden says the judges do not feel they should have to do the office work of collecting the fee, and then turn it over to the district attorney. He says the judges feel that district attorneys should find some way to collect the fees themselves.

But the Alabama Coalition Against Domestic Violence (ACADV), the Alabama Women's Agenda, and other interested groups say there is another reason the probate judges are fighting it.

In many counties of the state the judges are still on the fee system, where they get a percentage of all licenses and fees collected, and the new law does not give them any part of the extra $5 that was added on to the marriage license fee. They are attempting to draw public attention to thematter with the hope that the Probate Judges Association will withdraw the lawsuit.

(Shelby County's probate judge is on salary, not on the fee

While the lawsuit is pending, the Shelby County probate judge's office is collecting the extra $5 fee, but is holding the fee until the suit is settled.

'Liberty' residents clarify their position

Letter to the Editor:

On January 19, 1982, an election will be held to decide whether or not to incorporate a new town in my area, the town of "Liberty".

If incorporated this new town will block the City of Alabaster's third try at annexing this area and the area south of "Liberty." I would like to clarify the fact that the intention of forming the new town is not to block sub-divisions and others who wish to be annexed into the city of Alabaster.

This area consists mainly of residents who have owned their land for many years and own a considerable amount of land. They do not wish to be annexed because of higher taxes, city ordinances, and a general loss of freedom on their own land which they now have and enjoy.

Many attempts have been made to stop this annexation, all of which did not include preventing annexation of persons desiring to be annexed.

The first attempt was made by residents speaking up at an Alabaster City council meeting and asking the city to leave out only those opposing. This was ignored. The second attempt wsa to get a petition signed by opposing residents equaling some 90 percent of the area and presenting this to the city along with a map of the area showing how much land was involved in the opposition as compared to the amount of land of those wanting to be an-

Again the city ignored this so a third attempt was to write legislators and senators asking them not to pass the bill. The bill was not passed but the city drew up another proposal with boundaries including those who were opposed. Legal assistance was then sought and a meeting scheduled with the mayor and councilmen of Alabaster to discuss possible alternatives.

An alternate plan was presented leaving out of the city only those residents opposing, but again this was not acceptable to the city of Alabaster.

In a final attempt to secure the freedoms now enjoyed in this area, the formation of a town which will allow these same freedoms seems to be the last alternative.

Helena to crack down on landfill violations

Yesterday was the last day of operations for the county's landfills in Helena and Calera.

However, Helena officials fear that dumping in the area will not stop since the distance to the new landfill near Columbiana is about 20 miles. Therefore, Mayor Charles Penhale and the city council have requested the police department to closely watch out for illegal dumping and littering.

Calera officials, on the other hand, do not anticipate any serious increase in illegal dumping there.

Helena Police Chief Gary Carter told the Reporter that anyone caught dumping trash there would be taken to the station, booked on charges of criminal littering, and face from $100 to $500 in fines, plus court costs.

"We're serious about this thing," Carter said.

Assistant chief Ray Rollan elaborated: "If we arrest somebody (for dumping) we're asking for the maximum fine, which is $500. We'll put all the effort we can into stopping it. All we can do is try to deter the problem before it gets started."

discussed their fears over problems with dumping at the last two council meetings.

Rollan said that illegal dumping in the area, especially after landfill hours, has been a problem for some time. With the closing of the landfill, however, "it's going to get worse, no doubt. If Helena and Calera both don't get on it, the cities will turn into garbage dumps."

But because the new landfill, set to open today on highway 70 four miles east of the Old Montgomery Highway, is within six or seven miles of the former Calera dump the police chief there said he's withholding judgment to see if illegal dumping actually becomes a problem.

"If we start getting (the trash), we'll have to really get on it," said Calera Police Chief Harry Deal. "But we don't get an unusual number of complaints on dumping. We get enough dumping to be unsightly, but no more

Lawman completes 28 years

by David F. Moore

Captain Ed Lightsey last week announced his retirement after 28 years service as a state conservation officer.

Lightsey spent 20 of those years in the supervisory capacity of captain. But that never stopped the conservation officer from long and late hours of patrolling the woods and fields.

"It was the best job in this world," Lightsey claims.

An avid hunter, trapper and fisherman, the outdoors played a big part in Lightsey's attraction to his career. But it was his contact with people that he liked most about the job.

His work with fishermen and hunters from all walks of life took him not only into the outdoors, but also into courtrooms all across Shelby, Talladega, Coosa, Tallapoosa, Clay, Randolph, Chambers, Blount, Cullman and St. Clair Counties.

Lightsey not only knows a lot of people in these parts, but a lot of people know Lightsey, too. His position and reputation preceded him most everywhere he

The bottom line to his jop approach, however, was always the proper management of wildlife resources, a balance between environment and sports. As such, Lightsey says "I don't think you can chart or graph whatever good I might have done. You can't tell that from arrest records. Our major concern was not to arrest people, but that they know the law."

Some people may not relish the memory of their first meeting with the conservation officer, but Lightsey, on the other hand, is an incurable optimist who harbors no animosity towards those he's had to arrest in the past. In fact, he says, "Some of my best friends are people I got to know after I arrested them."

Sandwiched around a stint in the navy, Lightsey was once a coal miner and later a dairyman. Furthermore, after graduation from Auburn in agricultural sciences in 1950, he later earned a teacher's certificate from the University of Alabama. For a while, he even taught at his alma mater, Bibb County High School.

But Lightsey figures he must have always had a little game warden in his blood. Earlier this century, both his grandfather and a second cousin were conservation officers. Lightsey, who's "near about 58," now has a grandson who may keep up the tradition. Eleven year old Eddie Jones who lives in Wilsonville, told him, "Grandfather, I want a job just like you have!"

Running his hand through the remaining white hair under his cap, Lightsey laughs and adds. "That doesn't mean anything, though. He wanted a haircut like mine, too..."

Along with his wife, Juanita, Lightsey has been in Shelby County for nearly 24 years, and lives in the Bethel Community northeast of Columbiana. He has three daughters, Edwina Jones, Glenda Joiner and Jo Morris.

Just prior to his retirement, the former conservation officer took several weeks of back vacation in hopes of getting in lots of hunting and trapping. But the second day of his vacation, Juanita slipped and broke her wrist, so the captain has been busy washing dishes, cleaning around the house and learning how to roll his wife's hair.

Lightsey, of course, took all this quite well.

As soon as she gets the pins removed from her wrist, however, he probably won't waste much time in getting back to the woods. He also plans to do a little beef farming, visit his parents in Centreville, and "not miss so many church services."

Lightsey also hinted that he may one day run for a public office of some sort. At any rate, he promises he's going to stay busy.

"I could have worked eight more years, but I wanted to do some of the things I've always wanted to do," says he. "When I leave here, I'll be busy."

UM names new student affairs dean

After a nationwide search, the University of Montevallo has a new dean of student affairs, and she was chosen from the UM faculty.

DR. LINDA MAHAN

Dr. Linda Mahan, professor of counselor education and a national leader in her academic field, started work in her new job Jan. 1.

She was named dean by UM President James F. Vickrey Jr. after she was recommended by a search committee of faculty, staff and students. She succeeds acting dean Thomas Martin, who filled the post after Dr. William Hamer resigned last September.

A member of the UM faculty since 1971, Dr. Mahan was the student counselor at UM from 1966 to 1969.

Since 1978, she has also coordinated a federal grant program for the Alabama Consortium for the Development of Higher Education, an organization of public and private colleges in central Alabama.

She is national president-elect and former secretary of the Association for Humanistic Education and Development, an organization of counselors and educators. She won national awards from the association in 1979 and 1980.

Dr. Mahan also is a member of Dr. Linda Mahan, professor of a number of state and regional punselor education and a na-professional organizations.

A musician too, Dr. Mahan is a member of the Red Mountain Chamber Orchestra and former member of the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra.

She holds the BM degree from Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga.

and the MA and PhD degrees from the University of Alabama. UM President Vickrey said Dr. Mahan was chosen from more than 80 applicants.

The new UM dean and her husband, Montevallo dentist Dr. S.M. Mahan Jr., live in Brierfield with their two daughters.

Why a new hospital is needed.

Forecasts show that Shelby County and south Jefferson County, the fastest growing area of our state, will have an estimated population of 142,000 by 1985. With heart attacks, strokes and accidents on the increase, readily accessible health care — especially emergency service — is a must.

BMC plans to build a hospital in the heart of this area.

Baptist Medical Centers of Birmingham wants to meet the health needs of this fast-growing region by building a 120-bed general hospital in Riverchase by 1984, and later a complete medical complex. Services provided by the hospital would include emergency care, acute medical, surgical, obstetrical, intensive care, ambulatory care, occupational health programs, community education services, health promotion programs, and multiphasic health screenings.

Why your new hospital should be Baptist Medical Centers.

BMC is locally owned and managed. Baptist Medical Centers has been a major contributor to the Birmingham community for 60 years. Unlike some other hospitals that are controlled by out-of-state owners, BMC manages and operates its own hospitals.

BMC is non-profit. With no shareholders to pay, any excess monies are used to add new or improved services. Because we operate several hospitals, we can provide quality services more efficiently and economically.

BMC is self-supporting. No taxes are collected for operation of Baptist Medical Centers. Therefore, our hospital would not be a drain on the community.

BMC already is helping to meet the health needs of residents of Shelby County through BMC-East Shelby Health Center in Vincent and BMC-Leeds Family Health Center.

BMC stands for excellence in health care. Baptist Medical Centers has an outstanding reputation for surgical and medical care, using the latest techniques and having superb facilities.

BMC is committed to meeting people's needs. As part of our ministry of healing, we're dedicated to serving the total needs of the body, mind and spirit of our patients and demonstrating our Christian concern to the community — such as providing hospice care for the terminally ill, chaplain services, charity care and health education programs.

You can help determine the quality of health care in your area. For the future. Give Baptist Medical Centers your support today. For more information, and to learn how you can help, call 322-9367.

Church welcomes new pastor

Rev. Aubrey C. Todd will begin his ministry at Kingdom Baptist Church on January 17.

He recently resigned from Klein Baptist Church of Harpersville where he had been pastor for 61/2 years, to take the position at Kingdom.

A minister for 22 years, Todd is a graduate of the Baptist Bible Institute in Graceville, Fla. He is married and has one son, who is also a minister, Jim Todd of Vestavia.

Kingdom Baptist Church is located between Columbiana and Wilsonville on hwy. 61. Morning services begin at 10 a.m. and evening services at 7 p.m.

behind post office counter

Two newcomers to the Calera Post Office have been trying to learn the names and addresses of residents as quickly as possible.

"I hope everyone will be patient with us," remarked Harry Mosier, manager of the Pratt City office, who is now Officer in Charge.

He and Faye Hamm from Jemison will be depending on clerk Connie Hall, the only longtime employee left in the Calera Post Office.

Carolyn Terrell, who has been at Calera eight years and served as Officer in Charge until Mosier's arrival, left Monday to assume the position of Postmaster at Maylene.

Terrell began her career with the postal service in Wilton 11 years ago.

She's worked in most of the post offices in the county and served as Officer in Charge at Wilsonville from October 1980 until February 1981.

Mosier, who lives in Pelham, has 12 years of service. He'll be in Calera until Postmaster Warren Findley returns from sick leave.

Since he's unfamiliar with the area, Mosier admits that he'll have to "give a little bit extra," to his work at Calera.

With 890 boxes and two rural routes, the post office serves 2,000 customers.

Before coming to Calera, Hamm served in a dual capacity in Jemison. She was both a clerk and rural mail carrier.

Loophole in Columbiana IRA program confounds city council

An apparent loophole in the individual retirement accounts set up for city employees in Columbiana was brought to the council's attention Thursday.

City Clerk Mary Largin reported that two employees have cashed in their accounts, which contained funds contributed by employees either retired or left the city payroll.

"It's like getting a salary increase if an employee cashes in their account every year," pointed out Councilman Lewis .

The way the account was set up, an employee can put 5% of his salary in an IRA account and the city pays in a matching amount.

"It's strictly for retirement,"

Highways claim two in county wrecks

A Sterrett man died early University Hospital and listed Saturday morning in a single-car accident in the Narrows. Two hours later a Chelsea man died near his home in another single car accident.

According to coronor Billy Thompson Terry H. Reeves, 21, of Sterrett died at 12:30 a.m. Saturday when the compact car he was driving went out of control and smashed into a rock formation along highway 280.

Thompson said that John Simmons III, 19, of Chelsea, died at 2:30 a.m. when his compact car ran off highway 39 and hit a tree.

Four other occupants in Reeves' car were transported to Brookwood Hospital. Treated and released were Carl R. McAnnally, 17, Chelsea; Michael Flamini, 20, Sterrett; and Ben Connell, 17, also of Sterrett.

Agreeing that the matter needs further study to see if the loophole can be eliminated, the council decided to ask a representative of the agency handling the account to attend the next meeting.

Councilwoman Jessie Jones expressed her belief that the panel needs to set a policy on employees not emptying their accounts. And to emphasize how she felt about two other policies of the city, she handed out a prepared written statement.

"I am a believer in boards establishing policy. I also believe that any implementation by any group should be based upon that policy," she said in her state-

She expressed dismay at the city's handling of the situation regarding mobile homes and a walking bridge connecting Lester Street and the First Baptist Church parking lot.

Mentioning the policy on mobile homes which is on the books, Jones noted that although it has not been enforced, except toward certain parties, the council has not voted to do away with

The ordinance says that these types of dwellings only be located in mobile home parks. She pointed out however, that the council allows their placement in other locations as long as there is no objection from neighbors.

She then mentioned that a walking bridge was built after the council had complaints that the area behind the Shelby County jail was cut off from Main Steet after the Baptist Church built a Family Life Center.

Calling the bridge, which was put up by a Boy Scout under the supervision of Scoutmaster Bob Hume, "a temporary measure at best," Jones took the Planning Commission to task for not submitting plans as the council had requested.

She noted that the commission had not met more than three times during 1981 and not at all

"Whatever has been done," Jones declared, "it must be recognized that policy and procedural matters have been ignored."

During a discussion of the bridge, Hume reported that he had paid for the materials in the structure now in place, and he didn't feel that the taxpayers should have to pay for additional

However, Jones said she didn't want to deal with the bridge issue at that moment. The point she wanted to make was the observance of procedure and policy.

We read 98% of our customers' meters each month.

That means only about 2% ever get estimated. And that only happens because of factors beyond the company's control, such as locked gates and doors, and indement weather. When it is impossible to read a meter, the company will estimate the meter reading. And any difference between the estimated usage and the actual usage is corrected when the meter is read the next month. We always try to avoid estimating anyone's reading for two months in a row. But in any case, no customer ever ends up paying for more, or less, electricity than is actually used.

Warriors whip Pelham

by Bob Patrick

The Thompson Warriors beat the Pelham Panthers 42-37 to take the scheduled series between the two schools for this year 2-1. Thompson won the first meeting in the THS Tip-Off Tournament at Pelham. This was the last regularly scheduled game between the two, although they will have an opportunity to meet again in the county and area tour-

The game opened slowly with and Pelham prevailed in the game Thompson claiming a 10-7 lead after the first quarter. In the second quarter, Coach Thomas Johnson had his Warriors go into a semi-stall offense in an attempt to bring the Panthers out of their zone. Coach Tony Taylor, however, countered with some minor adjustments to his zone to challenge the stall offense. The first half ended with Thompson out front 18-13.

In the 3rd quarter, Pelham put a charge together behind the shooting of Geoff Keenum, Devin Tubert and David Toner and took a 29-28 lead. The 4th quarter found the Warriors returning to their inside game led by Darryl Ward and Rod McDade as they outscored Pelham 14-8 to take the victory.

Darryl Ward led all scorers with 18 while Geoff Keenum was the only double digit scorer for Pelham with 10. Both teams shoot well from the field, Thompson hitting 47% and Pelham 50%.

On Friday night, the Panthers were handed their second defeat of the week by the Berry Bucs 61-53. Berry started fast as they scored 32 points in the first half while limiting the Panthers to two field goals and a total of 10 points. The Panthers scored much better in the second half, but could never catch the Bucs. Kenneth Knight led the Berry attack with 15 points with fine support from Hal Lockhart, 12 points, and Kurt Krain, 10 points. Todd Davis led the Panthers with 18 points and Devin Tubert added 14.

The loss left the Panthers with a 7-7 record. This week the Panthers travel to Columbiana Tuesday night for an engagement with the Wildcats and return home Friday night for a return match with the Vincent Yellowjackets.

Solar townhouse in Montevallo conquers zero weather; family stays warm and figures out tax credit

by David F. M The thermometer ou. metted Monday breaking artic front and froze Shelby County.

As the wind howled, Billy Vann decided to switch on the heater--just to be on the safe side. After all, with the wind-chill factor sinking into the negitive teens, Vann thought maybe his house might turn a little cool. Cool?

Is the man crazy, or what?

The answer is "or what." And in Vann's case, "or what" means solar heating.

"Our solar heating is doing very well," Vann warmly told the Reporter Monday. "In fact, we ran the heat pump last night for only the first time. And we may have gotten through without the heater. I set it on the low, economy level."

Vann said that Sunday the south-facing solar panels absorbed enough of the sun's energy to heat the house to 74 degrees. The insulation packed walls kept the temperature to around 64 degrees that night, and the next morning it took the sun only 30-45 minutes to bring the house back to 74.

Vann, his wife Sherry and their two young children became the first family to move into Montevallo's Walden Townhouses three weeks ago. At the time he knew very little about solar heating.

For the Vanns, the main selling point on the townhouse was the three bedroom layout, not the solar system. But Vann said without the savings on heating bills the solar system should provide, they wouldn't have been able to afford the mortage

Vann, director of Montevallo's park and recreation board, said his power bills ran as high as $165 last year. The other day he received his power bill at the new house: $35.

Most of that, he said, was from heavy use of laundry facilities. Soon they'll have meters installed on all their appliances so they'll know exactly how much--or how little-they pay for heat and hot

Terry Arnold, who designed and built the townhouses, told Vann that the solar system should provide about 3/3 of his heating needs. But Vann thinks the system will do even better than that.

"I'm extremely pleased, but I'm not sur.prised," Vann said. "I have a lot of faith in Terry."

Furthermore, Vann said he has no doubts that the cooling system (which incorporates the building's extensive insulation, the small blowers on the auxillary heat pump, and 12-15 inches of gravel under the basement floor which retain coolness) will work this summer, too. In a word, Vann is sold on the system.

Before moving, Vann said he compared prices with several other comparable townhouses which did not have solar, and the $51,000 he's paying for Walden is actually less than the others, which went for as much as $56,000.

Even more pleasing to Vann is to be able to sit in the warm comfort of his solar heat and figure out just how much a tax credit he'll get on his federal income tax. He estimated it would be about $1200.

Knowing that President Reagan wants to chop residential engery credits this year prompted Vann and his wife to buy into Walden before the new year.

"When you walk in the front door," said Vann, "and you're as warm as can be, and you think that it's essentially free--yes, it's unique."

Surprises abound in post-holiday action

Thursday, January 14, 1982

by Richard Crosby

The first week after the holidays was good for some teams and not so good for others. Here's the scoop.

Briarwood's Steve Franklin is happy after his team won both games last week. The Lions bested West Birmingham Christian on Tuesday with a score of 66 to 38. Jeff Nelson led the scoring with 19 points. Peter Clemens accounted for 14 points and 13 rebounds.

Friday the Lions beat Calera 63 to 47. Clemens led the way with 24 points and 14 rebounds. Also scoring in double figures were Scott Engle with 15 and Brad Byers with 11. This week Briarwood faces Chelsea on Friday

Shelby Academy went 3-0 for the week with wins over Autauga (56 to 49), Talladega (61 to 43) and Edgewood (69 to 49). "It looks like we got off to a great week," exclaimed coach Dewayne Kervin.

Top scorers for the games were Billy Eiland, Mike Silvani, Rod Byrd, Keith Knowles, and Allen Terrell. Kervin called the Edgewood game the best of the season for his team with a game plan that was followed perfectly by his team.

This week the Raiders face Burney Points on Friday. Next week Shelby fights Edgewood on Monday and Coosa Valley on Tuesday. Both games will be home contests for the Raiders.

Chelsea won its third game of the season, but dropped the other two contests last week to give the team a 3-11 record. A loss to squad. This week Indian Springs was followed by a win on Thursday over St. Clair County

The week ended on a losing night for the Hornets as TCTS took a 22 point advantage in the end (82-60). Leading scorers for Chelsea were Kent O'Shields and Hornets are Jim Weston, Randy Kennedy and Jock Efferson. "We've gotten good effort from our players," coach Mike Sims told the Reporter. "They're a great bunch to coach."

Sims also informed the Reporter that the Chelsea squad took third place in the Springville Holiday Tournament in basketball trophy the school has won in eight years.

Montevallo's Bulldogs started the new year with an opposite record attained by Shelby Academy. The 'Dogs lost three straight to start the year. Maplesville won 50 to 33, Jemison's Panthers whipped Montevallo 62 to 40, and Bibb County claimed a win 65 to 40.

"Our defense has been good," coach Kurt Pnazek commented. "We've been outsized and not able to control the ball the whole game. I'm disappointed with the loss but not displeased with the way we're playing."

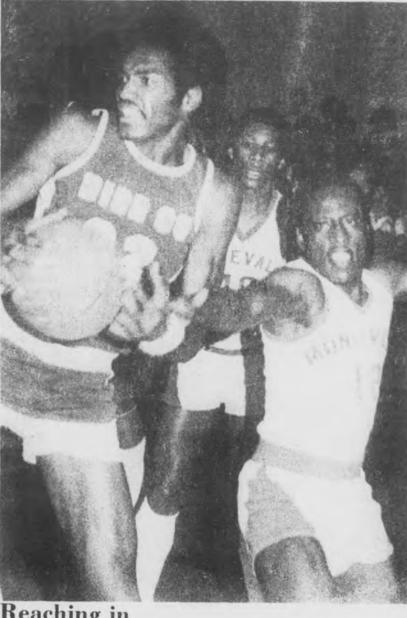

Indian Springs lost its only game of the past week to University School of Nashville 35 to 65. There isn't a lot to say about the loss except the out of state school hs a tough roundball Winterboro (51-61) on Tuesday traveled to Cathedral Christian on Tuesday and hosts Altamont this Friday night.

Shelby County's Wildcats recorded a 1-2 record for the first week of 1982. On Tuesday night they met B.B. Comer and came out on top 60 to 53. Bruce Martin had the hot hand for the Greg Conkle. Playing well for the Wildacts, scoring 25 points. Randy Lewis accounted for 17 points. Thursday night Shelby County entertained Vincent and lost 34 to 48. The 'Mildcats' only hit 26 percent from the field in the game. Martin scored 14 points on the night. Martin scored 15 on Friday night as Shelby County traveled to Alabaster to play Thompson. The Wildcats lost December. That's the first that one 52 to 83. Thomas Simon was also in double figures with 15, and Don Philips scored 12. "They just gave us an old fashioned whipping," commented coach Don Piazza. This week Shelby County took on visiting Pelham Tuesday and travels to Montevallo Friday. Calera lost its first two games of the year. On Tuesday the Eagles faught a losing cause against Thorsby 48 to 52. Richard Russell was the only Eagle in double figures with 27 points. On Thursday Calera lost to Briarwood 47 to 63. Melvin Crum scored 15 points and had 15 rebounds for the Eagles in that contest. Calera only converted 21 of 81 shots from the field against the Lions. Coach Mark Lovett thinks his tea played its best game of the season against Thorsby but was unable to make the one-andone foul shots near the end of the that you can but couldn't hold counted. This week Calera faced Chelsea in a Tuesday afternoon game. On Thursday the Eagles travel to West Blocton, and Friday hit the road again to Jemison.

Vincent won its first game of the new year against Lincoln 55 to 52 last week. The Yellow Jackets were led by Vernon Keller with 18 points, Mike Kelley with 14, Maurice Kelley with 12 and Kevin McKenzie with 11. On Thursday night Vincent whipped the Wildcats of Shelby County 48 to 34. Keller scored 18, Mike Kelley 17 and McKenzie 13 in that game. Saturday night Vincent traveled to Sylacauga and lost to the Aggies 53 to 60. Mike Kelley led the scoring with 18, Keller had 17 and Maurice Kelley dumped in 14. At one point, the Jackets were behind 27 points to the Aggies and faught back to within five before falling.

Vincent coach Richard Crumpton sees his team improving. After talking with him for several minutes it seems that he has his team building to the area tournament and has them at a pace that should have them peaking in that tournament but also in the Shelby County Tournament. The Yellow Jackets will be defending their title as state runnerup in the area tournament and hope that this year they can claim the top spot. A lot of work is ahead for the ream and some tough battles lie in the road to Tuscaloosa. This week started with Vincent playing Moody on Monday and traveling to pelham for a Thursday night

Church league RA's battle Saturdays for roundball lead

Church league basketball is alive and well and played every Saturday around the county. In Columbiana, the First Baptist Church is the site for roundball activity for many youngsters and teens.

Teams compete in three age groups with the youngest composed of fourth, fifth, and sixth graders. Called the Crusaders. this group is composed of six teams. The teams are Columbiana, Shelby, Indian Springs, Calera, Alabaster, and University (Montevallo).

In the Junior High Division, teams from Columbiana, Shelby, Westwood, Indian Springs, Pelham, Calera and Alabaster compete in the Pioneer League.

The Senior High Pioneers are from Alabaster, Columbiana, Shelby, Calera and two teams are from Indian Srings School.

Games begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday morning for the Crusaders. Junior high action is scheduled to start at 9:30 with the senior high game tipoff at 10:30. All games are payed in the Family Life Center at First Baptist Church in Columbiana.

Agreement finally reached for tournament brackets

by Richard Crosby

Shelby County coaches met last Wednesday night at Calera. The meal was better organized than the drawings for the Shelby County Basketball Tournament. Mrs. Johnstone, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Giles outdid themselves with ham, potato salad, green beans, rolls, tea, and banana pudding. Seconds were had by

Back to the meeting though. The B-team brackets were decided by a flip of the coin. Heads county record determines the ranking of the teams, and tails overall record is used. The coin came up heads and the bracket was filled and completed in ten minutes.

No coin was around when the varsity ranking began. In years past, determining which team was number one and so forth came about in several ways. Sometimes county record was used, other times, overall record. One year the teams were seeded by the basketball coaches. Another year, the top teams were awarded spots in the finals and the other teams fought to see who would play them.

It has always been worked out, not without a disagreement or two, but it seemed to this writer that things ended up fairly and the right teams got in the finals for the championship.

In this year's drawing, records and seeding still didn't give a good draw, and some folks got upset. Problem is, someone always gets upset at tournament bracket time. So, unable to reach a verdict, the coaches retired for

On Saturday morning, the coaches and athletic directors for the schools met again at Calera to settle the disputes and nail down the rankings and brackets for the tournament. The coaches decided to go on county records (passed with a 5 to 4 vote), the brackets were fixed and the meeting adjourned just 30 minutes later.

The most important agreement reached after all the arguing was that a standard must be set and added to the bylaws of the coaches association that spells out exactly how the rankings will be determined from now on. Although that has not been done, it will be, according to Coaches Association President Danny Alverson. Basketball coaches will meet after the tournament to decide and set in ink a rule to be used in future years.

Despite what may appear as a big argument it wasn't that bad. These coaches are all friends and if you'll take a look at the story on the upcoming tournament, you'll see that it promises to be tough with some exciting games

County basketball fans can look forward to a tough county tournament this year at Pelham High School. The brackets are just in, but this week instead of what may be a confusing bracket, here's the lowdown.

MONDAY - Chelsea plays Thompson in the tournament opener at 6:30 p.m. The following game has Calera's Eagles going against Indian Springs at 8

TUESDAY - At 5 p.m., Shelby County High School meets Briarwood's Lions. Vincent pays the winner of the Calera-Indian Springs game at 6:30. At 8, Pelham takes the court against the Montevallo Bulldogs.

THURSDAY - Semi-finals night with the first game at 6:30 and the second at 8 p.m. The early game matches the winners of the SCHS-Brairwood and Thompson-Chelsea games. The Pelham-Montevallo game winner faces the winner of the Vincent

FRIDAY - The consolation game is slated for 6:30 with the championship game at 8 p.m. The All Tournament players will be named and the trophies awarded at the conclusion of the you can't wait till next week, draw your own brackets. If you're patient, next week we'll have a handy tear-out bracket detailing the tournament so you can keep track of the battles.

Falcons drop game to B-SC

Birmingham-Southern won a close one Saturday night over theUniversity of Montevallo. The Falcons were downed in overtime 59 to 58.

Orlando Lee led the scoring attack for Montevallo with 17 points. Herman Bell accounted for 11, and Milton Smith and Joe Hall got 10 each.

Turnovers were the key in the game as both teams struggled to maintain possession in the overtime period. The lead in the game bounced back and forth all night as both teams fought for control. The last meeting of the two teams was more to the Falcons' liking as Montevallo whipped BSC by 19 points to win the Birmingham-Southern Invitational Tournament.

Coming on down

Vincent's Faye Miles brings the ball down court for the Lady Yellow Jackets. Vincent whipped SCHS last Thursday night by a seven point margin.

Excitement exists in girl's basketball

Girl's basketball can be an exciting sport. After witnessing my first exposure to the girl's brand of basketball last Thursday night, I must say that near the end of the game I got excited like most other folks who saw the Shelby County-Vincent game.

Both school's programs are young, but regardless of the caliber of play, these girls can make the game enjoyable.

As the Yellow Jackets fought back in the second half to take the lead and the victory, I couldn't help myself as I inched toward the edge of my seat as the plays became more critical.

I guess it just goes to show that any sport where competition is keen can be exciting to a sports fan, and girls basketball is no exception. Don't just take my word for it, go on out and watch a game for yourself.

Raider players earn state football honors

Shelby Academy's Allen Terrell was named All State by the Alabama Private School Association. Terrell received the football hone almost two months ago. Coach Dewayne Kervin said that his senior flanker participated in the North - South All Star Game which was composed of 33 players for each team. Terrell's team won the game.

During the gridiron season, Terrell caught 24 passes for 677 yards and seven touchdowns. He was the second leading pass receiver in the state for 2A schools. The Raider senior is the son of Milton and Glenda Terrell of Pea Ridge.

Also honored on the Raider football team were Billy Eiland, Keith Knowles and Bryan Russell, who along wwith Allen Terrell, were named All District players.

Eiland was the quarterback for the Raiders. He completed 40 of 70 passes for 955 yards and seven touchdowns. In addition, he accounted for 298 yards rushing and placed fourth in the state for total offense.

Knowles amassed 522 yards rushing for the Raiders on 112 carries. He also placed second in the state for tackles on defense. The linebacker averaged 14 tackles per game last year..

Russell was the leading rusher for Shelby Academy with 625 yards on 103 carries. He scored nine touchdowns and led the team in scoring with 68 points to his credit during the football Eiland, Knowles, Russell and Terrell played in the All District Game held after the regular season ended.

Can no longer play public schools

Briarwood dropped from AHSAA

by Richard Crosby Briarwood Christian High School is playing its last games against Shelby County public schools. A rule change by the Park Board offers classes Montevallo Park and Recreation Director Bill Vann announces that the city will be offering a full schedule of activities during the coming months. Courses available are: basketball for 2nd through 5th graders, a church basketball league, couples exercise and fitness, youth judo, aerobics, beginning, gymnastics and beginning crewel. Other programs that will be offered soon are girls' basketball and volleyball, childrens' puppet show and a church volleyball league. Movies will continue to be screened at the recreation building every other Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 till 4:45 p.m. The next screening will be January 27.

To register for classes, call 665-7143. All classes will start during the weeks of January 25 and February 1.

Alabama High School Athletic Association changes the north county school's status regarding membership in the AHSAA.

This change was voted upon by the state's coaches last spring. It takes affect at the end of school this June

The rule stipulates that only schools accredited by the State Department of Education can play other member schools. Schools seeking accreditation can ask for time to complete the process and continue playing other schools in the meantime. Briarwood is not seeking accreditation and will not, according to principal Jimmy Carroll.

"We agreed in principle and practice with all the rules of the AHSAA (Alabama High School Athletic Association)," Carroll told the Reporter. "We have had a real fine relationship in the past years (with the AHSAA)." Briarwood has been an associate member of the state organization for 12 years. Associate members are allowed the same privileges as regular members except voting

Carroll said the school and its directors have a "basic philosophical difference" over accreditation. "The school would be placing itself under government authority. We control our own curriculam. We do not see how going to class has anything to do with our athletic program. What we do in English has nothing to do with football. This (new rule) has been a blow to us.

'It will have an effect .... a negative effect on enrollment and our sports program. We have had a good relationship with Shelby County schools," Carroll continued. "It has been beneficial to all of us. We help them and they help us (concerning competition)."

Calera and Chelsea will have to find new schools to fill the void on the football schedule next year. In basketball, Briarwood plays every county school except Thompson.

Briarwood is a member of the Alabama Christian Athletic Conference and the new rule will probably limit Briarwood's athletic teams to playing games against schools in that conference. Most of the schools in the conference regularly schedule public school for athletic events.

Carroll told the Reporter that he has talked with Herman (Bubba) Scott, the Executive Secretary of the AHSAA and Dr. Teague about the matter but his efforts have been to no avail. "We've been in a lot of prayer about this," Carroll concluded. "We don't know what our next move will be.

County sports fans are certain to miss the Lions next year. The Brairwood name on the schedule was a plus for the Christian School and for the teams it met in competition.

Military planes to zoom over Calera

For citizens of the Calera area. the weekend of January 16-17 may be an exciting one.

Exercise Rapid Recce V, the largest aerial exercise ever held in the State of Alabama, has plans for low level intense traffic over south Shelby County and north Chilton County. The largest concentration of low flying traffic will be an area five to ten miles south of Clanton.

Rapid Recce will test the capabilities of Air National Guard pilots from Birmingham, Montgomery and Meridian, Mississippi, in flying photo reconnaissance missions in realistic simulated combat situations. The flying guardsmen from Alabama will be joined by pilots from Michigan, Florida and New Orleans flying F-106's, F-15's and F-4's. In addition an Airborne Warning and Control Systems (AWACS) aircraft from Tinker AFB, Oklahoma will track the guard planes. Refueling will be performed by a KC-135 from the Knoxville, Tennessee Air Guard.

More than 200 photo reconnaissance missions will be flown during the two day exercise. Aircraft are expected to pass over the area at a rate of one every five minutes. Some of the planes will be flying at altitudes as low as 500

The Air Force states, "This will be a delight for aerial buffs, but could be a dilemma for some due to the high noise levels causspokesman for the Alabama Air National Guard says "This exer-

ed by the powerful aircraft." A cise is invaluable and necessary training for the units participating."

Instead of paying the IRS, put some money away in an IRA. An Individual Retirement Annuity from Liberty National.

With an IRA, you can save on taxes and accumulate money for your retirement. Deduct up to $2,000 annually from your taxable income and watch it grow with the interest it eams in an IRA. Neither your IRA contribution nor the interest it earns is taxable until it is withdrawn. When you do begin to withdraw the funds to supplement your retirement income, it will be taxed as regular earnings. However, you will probably be in a lower tax bracket

Pat Murrah 979-5196

during your retirement so the tax savings are still substantial. Liberty National also offers Waiver of Premium. This disability insurance option protects your retirement income. That's because Liberty National will make your regular deposits to your IRA, should you become disabled. It's a small price to pay for a quarantee of security.

Take this opportunity to profit from the tax and disability benefits offered by an Individual Retirement Annuity from Liberty National. See your agent today about starting your own IRA. It'll

Storm ravages county Shelby Countians looked out their windows Wednesday to see

The snow fell. Roads, trees, power lines and water pipes froze. And Shelby County slid to an icy halt last week.

The few flurries that started falling in Calera, Montevallo, Pea Ridge and Moore's Cross Roads just after 11 a.m. Tuesday, January 12, suddenly developed into the southern equivalent of a blizzard. By afternoon, the full force of the storm's first blow had swept snow across the entire county.

Few, if any people realized the severity of the storm and just how quickly roads would freeze and become impassable. Schools and most businesses were warned by weather forecasters to close at noon, but the ice storm beat them to the punch.

What followed was a slippery rush-hour that stranded hundreds of motorists and sent others sliding into ditches, trees and other cars. Four school buses, unable to complete their routes, were assisted by fire and police personnel, as well as by fourwheeling volunteers.

Red Cross, National Guard and Civil Defense workers moved to set up emergency shelters in strategic locations around the county to house marooned motorists and people whose power and heat soon began flickering out.

And all the while the snow kept falling, temperatures kept dropping, and confusion continued as the Sun Belt residents of Shelby County attempted to cope with the alien situation.

All during the night on Tuesday, tree branches, burdened downed lines, people everywhere with snow and ice, crashed to the were still talking snow stories. In ground. Especially hard hit were this issue of the Reporter, you'll pine trees.

fallen branches littering roads, front yards and driveways.

As the tree branches fell, they took power lines and telephone lines with them. Thousands of homes in the county lost their electricity, and many did not see their power restored for several Homes that were heated with fireplaces, wood burning stoves and gas became refuges for families whose homes quickly turned ice cold.

Food was cooked on summer barbecue grills, with the cook standing in two inches of snow. Water was heated in pots hung makeshift style in fireplaces.

More snow fell on Wednesday and once again Interstate 65 was closed into Birmingham and only essential traffic was attempted.

By Thursday afternoon warmer temperatures melted most of the snow and ice and travelers could get through on major thoroughfares.

On Saturday and Sunday, temperatures dropped again around the zero mark and water pipes that had not already burst were severely tested in homes that had been without heat since Tues-

Despite the hardships, dangers and troubles, no deaths were attributed to the snow and ice storm.

High wood

Linemen work around clock

by David F. Moore

On the eve of 1963, nearly a foot of snow fell on Shelby County. In 1973, a tornado ripped a massive path of destruction across the county. Both incidents knocked out power lines and caused relatively bad power

But those outages were nothing compared to last week's ice

At one time or another, 21,000 county residences and businesses were powerless. (The figure is a cumulative estimate the Reporter was able to derive from figures provided by the three Alabama Power offices and one co-op which serve the county.)

One APC spokesman with over 40 years experience called last week's power outage the worst he's ever known.

A lot of customers would agree.

Radio station WBYE was without power 36 hours, and general manager Marion Jones' residence in Calera was still dark Monday. Bank vice president Pat Kelly's house in Montevallo was also still powerless Monday. Other isolated customers, especially around Lay Lake and Shelby were still in the dark Tuesday and not expected to have electricity until later this week.

But "basically we've about got it whipped," Columbiana APC manager Bob Barrett said Monday. "But we can't guarantee anything. The power went out again just today in Joinertown."

The major problem with restoring the power stemmed from the extremely widespread nature of the damage the ice storm wreaked, according to Barrett and other officials. Ice, in itself, caused some breakage and shorts.

However, most of the damage was caused by frozen trees and branches. They may have been pretty to look at, but draped with ice and snow, they often brought power lines down with them when the frozen wood snapped under the weight.

Cutting away debris and restrhampered by sheer numbers. Damage was so widespread that the various power districts across the state, literally snowed under with repair work, were unable to assist each other for several days.

While local tree and line crews worked split 12-hour shifts around the clock, or single shifts as long as 16 hours, hundreds of reinforcements were called in from Florida and North Carolina. By the time the reinforcements began arriving on Friday, most of the main line customers finally had power.

But the cold, tedious job of locating and restringing subfeeder lines to individual residences still remained. As outage areas were restored here and in nearby counties, and crews were able to converge on other trouble spots, it grew evident that Shelby County was at least one of the worst hit places in the state. Indeed, the hardest hit area, according to several AP spokesmen, was probably that covered by the Montevallo. district, which is spread all the way from Wilsonville to near Tuscaloosa, Out of 20,000 customers, 14,000 lost their electricity. Of those powerless, 9,000 were in Shelby County.

Former APC superintendent Gene Blankenship said that from an outage standpoint, the ice storm damage easily topped that caused by the 1973 tornado.

Like many APC office workers, Blankenship, now a project supervisor, found himself working lines last week late into the night on the back roads of Shelby County. Everybody, he indicated, had been called out for this party.

Another high outage area was APC's Alabaster district, serving 13,000 customers in that city, and in Helena, Pelham and north Shelby's Valleydale and Cahaba Valley sections. According to Alabaster manager Bobby Hosea, about 10,000 of his customers were lost when the ice storm knocked out 11 of 13 breakers on his main feeder lines.

Although some Alabaster customers had power restored within several hours, 8,000 were Continued on page 2

At Monday night's council meeting, Fire Chief James Miles submitted a sample contract and a fee schedule for the councilmen to consider. Fees range from $250 to $5,000 per year for each industry or business that wishes to contract for fire protection with Calera.

The fee will depend on the size of the business and upon the type and quantity of hazardous materials that are stored on the

After considerable discussion, the council voted to go ahead with the plan by a vote of 4 to 1. Councilman Jeff Pilgreen objected, saying he wanted more time to study the proposed fee schedule. But the others noted inging lines was further that letters had already been sent out to several industries, and many favorable inquiries had been received. The council authorized the city clerk to make additional contacts after a ten day waiting period, quoting the fees in the proposal. The mayor was authorized to sign contracts.

If all the industries and businesses subscribe to the service, the city could take in fees totaling about $38,000 per year, according to assistant fire chief Tommy Moon.

In other business, the council considered a request from Ruby Blackmon to change zoning at her property near the armory from R-2 to Trailer zone. They heard a report from councilman Roy Loftin that a dedicated alley runs through the middle of her property. This complicated the matter, especially for Councilman Doug LeSueur, who opposed closing the alley, even though Mrs. Blackmon said it had never been used in the 40 years she had lived there. The matter is expected to come up at a subsequent meeting of the coun-

Bridge over creek reopens

The bridge over Yellowleaf Creek was re-opened to highway traffic late Tuesday afternoon.

The bridge, which is one of two that makes up the "Twin bridges" on State Highway 25 east of Wilsonville, slipped part of the way off its piers a week earlier.

The snow and ice storm prevented the repair crews from starting work on it until last Thursday.

When the crew raised the bridge span, it went back into place, according to a spokeswoman in the Calera Division office of the State Highway Department.

Through highway traffic had to detour to highway 280.

Alabaster stops Liberty election

An election set for Tuesday to incorporate a new town which would be called Liberty, was postponed when legal questions arose.

But it now appears there may be no need for an election. Monday's public hearing on the matter was continued when Alabaster's attorneys brought out flaws in the petition. Afterwards, residents of the area met with Alabaster city officials.

Alabaster Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin said that 23 landowners had turned over their property deeds to the city so that the territory Alabaster wants to annex will exclude them. Probate Judge Tommy Snowden had scheduled an election after receiving a petition signed by 30 persons residing in the community.

The reason they had decided to incorporate was to keep from being annexed into Alabaster.

However, at Monday's public hearing, attorneys for Alabaster argued that the petition did not have enough names on it to qualify for calling an election to incorporate.

They asked that the petition for the election "be dismissed as defective." They quoted Section 11-41-1 of the 1975 Code of Alabama.

The attorneys said that this law requires the signatures of four voters from each quarter- quarter section before a town can be incorporated in this manner.

According to the map and legal description of the land to be incorporated, attorneys pointed out that the signatures of 84 persons should have been on the petition.

The probate judge continued the hearing until Jan. 29.

Alabaster attorneys have also asked for a public hearing on the request from the Saginaw community to incorporate. No date has been set for the hearing as yet, but the election is scheduled for Feb. 5. With Alabaster once again having to change the boundary lines for the proposed annexation, a new legal advertisement will have to to be put in the newspaper and allowed to run four weeks.

City fathers are hoping the legislature will be in session long enough for the introduction of the bill calling for an election.

When the legal work is finished, Mayor Rubin said the property owners who want exemptions from the annexation will no longer receive city services.

Ready to aid

Trucks from a power company in North Carolina are parked in the commuter parking lot at the UM campus under ice-covered trees. Some 30 crewmen from North Carolina stayed in a UM student residence hall, while a number of power company crewmen from Flordia stayed in UM's Conference Center and Lodge, Ramsay Hall. A number of crewmen also ate meals in the student cafeteria.

without electricity from two to five days. The Shoal Creek area off highway 41, the last area in the district to have its power restored, was without electricity until Sunday, Hosea said.

Meanwhile, in Harpersvillle and Vincent, some 1,500 of the 2,500 APC customers served by the Childersburg office were powerless until Saturday afternoon. Manager Theo Strickland said the Calcis area was the last there to be restored.

Reflecting on the big snow of '62-'63, Strickland said last week's massive problems were the worst he's seen in 41 years with APC. "I just hope it doesn't happen again in my life," he add-

The first area to be completely restored to power was between Vandiver and Sterrett, served by the Coosa Valley Electric Co-op out of Talladega. About 500 of the 600 county customers served by the co-op were left sitting in the dark when the sub-station on the St. Clair-Shelby line blew about 9 p.m. Tuesday, operation superintendent Gary Wyatt said. Lights and electric heaters there started coming back on by 9 a.m. Wednesday. The last outage was restored by Friday, Wyatt said.

Most everyone was understanding of the situation, power spokesmen said. Office phones rang off their hooks with customers reporting outages, wondering when they could expect power, and-of course-complaining.

"I'm glad I'm not answering phones," commented Randy Goforth as he warmed himself after a bout of working cold lines Sunday night. An employee of R.H. Bouligny, contracted by APC from Pensacola, Goforth was one of at least 60 reinforcements working from Chelsea to Shelby. "But everybody's been pretty nice to the line crews."

At the phones, however, one man threatened to shoot out the windows in the Columbiana office. A few people offered bribes and a few accused line crews of turning on certain customers

But it doesn't work that way, explained line foreman Doug Walton, who lives in north Shelby. "It's like water--if you turn it on without the hose hooked up, it won't do you any good. There's no way to turn on someone on a sub-feeder when the main is still out."

"People are getting anxious," Walton said Sunday night. "But mostly they're not losing their APC's "game plan," which according to Bobby Hosea and others, worked very well, was to first attack problem areas with high concentrations of people, most of which could be restored to power by repairing a main line. After the mains were in order, then sub lines were attacked, and, finally, individual sub-feeders to single houses.

Montevallo manager Nolan Hardin said that in some cases, most of a neighborhood could be restored to power while an individual line to a single house might have to be temporarily passed over to work on another line that would restore several mile of his office were still without power.

Furthermore, he said some Monday, January 25. people apparently didn't realize According to Shelby County that "the nature of the ice tax assessor Bobbie Reynolds, the damage was so widespread. It's hard to visualize the total amount of destruction by looking out the window or walking down the street."

But most people understood. Most people took the power outage in stride and set out to cope the best they could.

For instance, Wednesday morning after the power went out in a Columbiana subdivision, one unphased woman commented, "That's all right. We'll just sit in the house, play Atari and watch

Alabaster eyes garage sale ordinance

Saying he had mixed emotions about drawing up an ordinance on garage sales, Alabaster Councilman Jack Reagin presented his work for the council's inspection Monday night.

"This isn't designed for the city to make money," Reagin stressed. And he went on to say that its purpose is to control the sales for the protection of both citizens and businessmen.

Some people, Reagin reported, have been setting up for business on a regular basis, and selling new merchandise.

He also called attention to hand lettered signs announcing this type of sale which are left up till either wind or rain destroys Both Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin and the council commended Reagin on the ordinance. However, they wanted more time to examine it, so delayed a vote until the next meeting.

The ordinance stipulates that sales not be held longer than three consecutive days and no more than twice a year.

It also says that permits must be obtained from the city clerk. The fee for a garage sale is $2, with a $15 charge for rummage

However, there will be no charge for churches and nonprofit organizations.

The ordinance describes a garage sale as the sale of surplus or unwanted personal property accumulated in the maintenance or operation of a home or dwell-

It says that a rummage sale is the sale of personal property belonging to a religious, charitable, civic or service

Dealing with the sign issue, Reagin proposed that the city furnish signs with $10 being charged for those not returned.

Workmen's compensation was one of the topics at Monday's meeting. After it was learned that the number of claims have tripled since 1978, the mayor asked for a meeting of all department heads to discuss safety measures. Although two sets of bids were opened, none was accepted. The low bid on a 1982 pick-up truck for the street department. was submitted by Bill Strickland Chevrolet. His price was $7,831.79.

Ivan Leonard bid $7,999.60 and Sherman Holland Ford's bid was $8,295.19.

Street Commissioner Willie Arrington was asked to do a comparative study of the bids and to report his findings at the next meeting.

Since there was more than $2,000 difference in the high and low bid on paving the city's tennis courts, those figures will also be studied before a vote is taken.

Alabaster Paving submitted the lowest price. Their bid was $5,972.40. Dunn Construction bid $6,326.32 and Montevallo Paving bid $8,295.

After studying the budget, Finance Chairman L.O. Farris recommended that the city pay for some new library shelves.

. The request had been made at the last meeting. And the council voted to spend an amount not to exceed $650 for shelves in the library which has moved to the city's new annex.

Duplication among electric utilities would drive your rates higher.

Competition doesn't always lead to lower prices. Competition between two suppliers of electricity in one area means unnecessary and costly duplication of poles, transmission lines, and separate maintenance crews. Elvin Stanton, top aide to former Gov. George C. Wallace, said it was "dirty politics" to suggest the taxpayers would save a great deal of money by electing Wallace governor again. A Montgomery newspaper reported that Wallace is now costing the state approximately $350,000 a year. This includes his salary, retirement, salaries of his staff, security personnel and other fringes.

You have to be an old Auburn football fan to remember him, but death came last week to Carl Voyles, 82, who coached Auburn's football team from 1944-1947. His record wasn't impressive---15-22---but he recruited one of Auburn's alltime greats: Travis Tidwell.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

I went to see his grandmother, every other Thursday, all the time he was growing up. He was such a quiet little boy that I supposed he didn't know that I had been there. But he did. And therein lies our story for this week.

But time didn't wait, for me or for him or for his grandmother, Mrs. W.F. Payne. And while he was growing up, I was getting older, and his grandmother stopped getting older and went to sleep. We laid her to rest outside of town on a little hill where tall trees grew and little winds passed by whispering to the leaves.

Soon after, he went away, following a dream, the same as you and I. And I didn't see him for years, or hear from him in our hurry-up world. Until today, when the picture came, that he had painted, and the letter, that he had written, all part of a lovely thought that left me breathless.

He had written: "...Although I do not have a way with words as you do, I want this painting I did with airbrush on velvet to be my way of saying "Thank You", for the book and for what you have done for others..."

And then he added: " you most of all for never forgetting the ones often forgotten by everyone else..."

> Love. Randy Moore

And so I wrote:

Dear Randy:

The picture is lovely, the letter is even lovelier, and the thought, behind them, makes me glad that you are my friend.

You know, we do good and go our way and after a while the good comes back to us, a thousand times over.

And if I would tell you one thing, and one thing only, it would be that young folks watch us, the same as you watched me, and the little things we do makes a big difference in the way they live. I suppose that's the way He planned it.

So I thank you for the picture and the letter and the lovely thought they represent. But most of all, I thank God that a young man took time to make it all possible.

> Sincerely, Skillet Bird

The Garden Club has completed many projects, of which I mention only one--landscaping of the former school grounds. This landscaping project was recognized and publicized throughout the State. Over the years the Garden Club has worked with and through the County Commission, the City Councils and city employees, the schools, including the students, the Chairmen of Oliver Park and Salem Cemetery. The Club's accomplishments have been a member, the Club have always been with the full cooperation of these leaders and of twenty, approximately one- of the people in the surrounding half of which live outside the city countryside, all working together,

The Garden Club has requested aid from the County Sheriff's Department, city police and State legislators in the continuous fight against litter in the city and county. To date this project has made little progress, but the Garden Club continues to work and to seek help from all the county in this great need.

The criteria for growth of a city is for the city and surrounding rural areas to work together with cooperation and goodwill. Viewing your service to the City of Calera in this light, you may want to reconsider the inference that we, the people outside the city limits, have been a hindrance to the growth of the city.

I write as a resident of fiftythree years just outside the city limits, formerly within police jurisdiction, and with a sincere interest for the good of Calera, my home town.

The bank called me today about four checks.

And when I heard that dreaded word, terror went surging through me.

A money manager I'm not, and before the lady even finished the sentence, I assumed she was going to tell me I was overdrawn. However, what she wanted to talk about was my signature. "We have four checks here," she told me, "on which the signature doesn't look like your writing." "Does it look like it was written by someone with a broken arm?" I inquired.

After a slight pause, she caught

Yes, folks - what I never thought could happen has finally come to pass. Fellow workers now call me "one arm" and they chuckle over my one fingered peck on the right side of the keyboard. Since I'm right handed, naturally it's my right arm that's broken.

And of course everyone assumes I must have slipped on the ice which was everywhere last week.

However, what I slipped on was a dry, smooth, wooden floor.

But here's the catch - I had eight little wheels on my feet. That's right, I was roller skating. In fact, I was doing a darn good job of it until that moment

One minute I was soaring around the room like a graceful bird - the next I was sprawled on the floor like a wounded walrus.

As soon as I could clamber up, skated over to where my daughter, her boyfriend and my granddaughter were standing. "Guess what ?" I laughed. "I just broke my arm." They knew I had to be joking. "No one laughs when their arm is broken," my daughter told me

It was just so preposterous I didn't know what else to do.

After all, I've fallen off horses and been run over by football players. How could a little fall do Fortunately, we weren't too far from a hospital. Another stroke of good luck was the fact that an orthopedic specialist was there on a Sunday.

Actually, I didn't even think I'd get in to see him since I couldn't remember my insurance

Hospitals are real picky about things like that you know. But just as the receptionist reached that question, I was called into the examining room and I turned the question over to my daughter. Knowing that she wouldn't be able to answer, I expected to be thrown out any minute. Instead, someone came in with a surgical glove filled with ice:

After X rays, I began to get a little edgy when they talked aboutinjections and molding.

"Don't worry," the young doctor on duty told me. "Nothing will hurt as bad as when you broke it."

Apparently he's never had a broken arm because he was wrong, wrong, wrong.

The 20 or so shots to deaden my hand were excruciating and they didn't do a thing to keep me from feeling the pain as the doctor forcefully pressed here and there and there and there.

When I finally had the cast on halfway to my shoulder, it was time to pull on the blouse and sweater I'd borrowed from my daughter.

Thank goodness for that. sweater. If I'd only worn the blouse I'd have been in tough shape. It just wouldn't fit over the cast.

I must say, this has been an experience. And I'm learning daily, that with so many things that seem impossible to do with one arm, "where there's a will, there's a way."

more money to spend. The people of Alabaster should take a long look at the people that they have elected to office. If they can't keep their city out of debt, why put their problems on other people? The average home owner will have to pay $68.00 a year in property tax, all mobile home owners will have to pay $75.00 a year. If the city runs sewer lines, they will condemn all septic tanks as they did in Alabaster. Each home owner will have to pay $500.00, that is the price today, five years from now it may cost $5,000.00 and I feel sure that if someone refused to pay the city would sell his home.

I noticed that Mr. Rubin skipped around all the quarries, but he didn't miss any farm land. Also, the way I read the Legal Section in the paper, the City of Alabaster does not have to give fire protection, garbage service and police protecton after they are annexed if he choses not to, also I might add, garbage service can be obtained for $65.00 a year.

Several people walked the mile of our road. There were no limbs on any lines and no downed lines. We called the Power Co. and explained this to them, telling them that all we needed was someone to come out and push a disconnect back up and we would be OK. The Power Co. agreed to try to get someone out here. They did not. We had also explained that there were 37 families on this road, retired senior citizens, the oldest being around 90, plus at least another 6 who are over 60, plus a bunch of small kids. On Friday morning we all got aggravated and several people called the power co. To put it nicely, the telephone personnel were less than polite. ### New honor Columbiana Mayor Buck Falkner presents City Clerk Mary Largin with the pin which designates her a certifeid municipal clerk.

Columbiana clerk honored at lunch

Columbiana's city hall employees had to keep a secret a week longer than they anticipated.

A luncheon to honor City Clerk Mary Largin was postponed last Wednesday after a snow storm paralyzed the county.

But Largin received congratulations Tuesday on her accomplishment of earning certification as a city clerk.

Only one other city clerk in the county, Willie Mae Dennis of Pelham, has been empowered to write the initials CMC (certified municipal clerk), after her name.

Largin credits her office staff and former City Clerk Kathryn daughter, Cristy.

Franks with helping her in her effort to earn certification.

Expressing his pride in Largin's accomplishment, Mayor Buck Falkner said, "I know you really wanted it to work as hard as you did."

Councilmen Lewis Walker and Bill Seales were among those at the luncheon which included a decorated cake.

A silk flower arrangement was also presented to the city clerk who has held that position for six

And cities also pitched in to help each other.

When power outages caused by the snow storm put well pumps out of action in Calera, Alabaster offered their water.

"They were life savers," declared City Clerk Lemoyne Payton.

Learning that the city had no water left in their tanks, Alabaster Water Board Manager Harold Davenport invited Calera to hook onto the line on Hwy. 31.

"Our lines are only eight feet from Calera's lines behind the Alabama Power Complex," Davenport explained.

He said that hoses were run to a fire hydrant there and the

The water came from Alabaster's Saginaw tank which Davenport said was in good

In fact, Alabaster only had minor problems as far as water was concerned, the water board manager said.

Although they lost power at one of the big wells briefly, it came back on again without any ill effect.

"It was never off at all at our other big well," Davenport reported.

He said that busted water meters posed the biggest problem for his crew.

Old man winter rared back last week and delivered a mighty blow to various sections of the country including Alabama and Shelby County.

And this weekend, residents in some areas of the county were still reeling from the the icy punch which hit with full force

Hundreds of homes were still without power Sunday and families continued huddling around fireplaces, gas heaters or wood burning stoves trying to keep warm.

With school closings and no way for many to reach work, families experienced more togetherness than they have in years.

For some the experience was enjoyable, for others a little wearing.

In the Marlin Brasher home in Chelsea, listening to a battery powered radio was a favorite activity. And Keith, the youngest family member, came up with the idea of a daily puppet show to provide entertainment.

A fireplace provided warmth, lanterns were used for light, and food was cooked on a gas stove at a nearby relative's home.

However, the family had difficulty in securing dry ice to keep their freezer from thawing.

It could only be found at one place in Birmingham, reported Mrs. Jackie Brasher, and people were lined up to get it, she added.

Another family fortunate enough to have a fireplace said they were fairly comfortable throughout the ordeal. And having equipped it with a grill that swings in and out, the Ken Kirklands of Dry Valley were able to use it for cooking too. Although they were without from a neighbor, said Mrs. Jean Kirkland. But water was hauled from a lake on their property, she added, to water stock and flush commodes. "We've been amazed at our own self sufficiency," Mrs. Kirkland remarked.

Another family in Dry kept warm with a gas heat But Sam Latture reported that I his wife Alice, and Sy Ma ate only cold food while th tricity was off.

Gail Buie of Colum heated water and even cook her family on a gas space h She had been cooking Coleman stove, Buie explaned, but it ran out of kerosene. A Westover family who enjoys camping took the power outage in stride.

Mrs. Robert Whitaker said the family managed fine using a wood stove and lanterns.

Hospital staff stands by through emergency

Some people get off work when it snows. Some aren't so lucky. Some jobs have to be done, regardless.

For instance, the hospital can't close and the staff go sledding.

By Tuesday afternoon, as the world turned white, nurses and security personnel at Shelby Medical Center began calling various police departments, the sheriff's office and the Civil Defense to coordinate a shuttle service for hospital workers.

"If we hadn't had such great cooperation with all the local police and rescue departments, and the sheriff's office, the ice storm could have had a paralyzing effect on the hospital," said director of public relations Sue Henderson. Tuesday night three assistant administrators and a number of directors and department heads stayed over to be sure everything ran smoothly and someone would be there in the morning.

Nursing director Brenda Lyles and assistant administrator of nursing Faye Hylton, both of Columbiana, believed the weatherman figured things would be bad. They packed their bags Tuesday morning before coming in and it was a good thing they did. They didn't leave the hospital until Friday.

In fact Mrs. Hylton said that 70 hospital employees stayed over both Tuesday and Wednesday So while the snow fell and the nights. Furthermore, four docshuttle ride home stayed on Tuesday night, as well as a full surgical staff.

Lawmen busy during snow

Even though ice and snow slowed down crime in Shelby County last week, deputies stayed busy providing transportation.

Medical personnel were driven to and from Shelby Medical Center and Briarcliff Nursing

And a Shelby youngster who cut himself was also taken to the hospital in a patrol car.

One of the first calls came Tuesday when highways started getting slipprery.

Lt. Wayne Lucas and Deputy J. B. Carter went to Shelby Medical Center and picked up retarded youngsters who were having a workshop there.

They transported them and the adults in charge to their homes. Families without power, and who needed a place to stay, were driven to shelters in their area of the county.

However, the efforts of the deputies weren't always appreciated.

After Sgt. James Mitchell cut his way through fallen trees to reach one home, the residents refused to leave.

Chief Deputy James Jones reported that the department was swamped with calls from relatives who lived some distance away, asking that someone check on a family member.

The worst problem encountered by the department, Lucas said, was the communications problem caused by the loss of power in the repeater station on Double Oak Mt.

Until the power returned, the portable crime lab's generator was used to power the station,

The bus was stolen from the Lucas explained.

Even though driving was hazardous, Lucas said there weren't many wrecks since most people stayed at home during the bad weather.

But to make highways passable for those who had to drive, Lucas reported that several prisoners from the jail cleared fallen trees in several areas of the county.

He said they were supervised by Jack Davidson who guards prisoners on road details.

You save on everything!

A lot of people can't believe that Food World really saves them money. They see the big "specials" at other stores and it fools them. But all you have to do is come to Food World just once. Do your normal shopping. Buy what you want. And then see what your total food bill is. See if you don't wind up with more food for your money at Food World.

Marooned by snow not half the story for Chicago family

by David F. Moore

Last week's snow and ice storm touched every life in Shelby County. And everybody has their own story of slipping and sliding, being marooned, having no power, heat or water.

But for a mother and daughter from Chicago who were forced to seek shelter in Pelham City Hall, last week's frozen misadventure was not so much a story in itself, as it was a brief chapter in a long, almost unbelievable tale of one ordeal after another.

It goes like this:

The story begins with a microscopic organism, a yeast called Candida albicans which everyone has in their bodies. Normally, bacteria and this yeast balance each other in their competition for food in the intestines.

In the case of Patricia Heisler and her daughter Carol, the balance was thrown out of skelter by a disease called candidiasis. The yeast ran rampant and invaded other organs. To make two lengthy medical histories simple, both of them, and especially Carol, became chronically and severely allergic to chemicals--all chemicals.

They experience sometimes violent reactions to chemical preservatives in foods, water from a tap, gas heat, household cleaners, most carpets and paddings, any car fumes, perfumes, hairsprays, smoke and synthetics.

"Anything modern man uses is useless to us," Mrs. Heisler ex-Pelham council room where she and her daughter were still marooned Friday afternoon. "Our immune systems are paralyzed."

Carol, now 18, blonde and smiling despite her physically imposed exile from society, first developed the extreme allergy six years ago. Like most physicians, her Christmas. former doctor in Chicago apparently knew little about detecting and treating the disease. The allergy chemicals he prescribed only made matters worse. Patricia indicates the best thing he did was to tell them to leave the city and all its fumes.

began a long trek for mother and daughter which since August has bounced them across the country several times. Travel was complicated not only by having to leave the rest of the family, but by the fact that for 35 of 40 days, Carol could not eat anything.

They sought relief in Fort Myers, Florida, but the humidity chased them to Orlando. A bad reaction there sent them fleeing to Cocoa Beach where they breathed freely until Space Shuttle launch fumes ran them north to Wisconsin.

Though temperatures dropped, they ran the air conditioner so Carol could breathe more freely. When Patricia became sick they moved to Minnesota, where in turn Carol got sick and was rushed to an emergency room, unable to breathe.

Weakened by not eating and forced to breathe bottled air, Carol and her mother flew back to Florida, to Saint Augustine.

"Call it the will of God, but we went all over the place," she now recalls. "I felt all alone. I saw people eating and living, and it seemed I was in a different

She sits in the darkened council chamber, talking in the light from a window. Outside, it's Friday afternoon and life is finally warmming up again. "Only the strength of God kept me going," she says. "There was no other way."

Finally, through HEAL (Human Ecology Action League), the Heislers heard of Dr. Orian Truss, a Birmingham specialist in allergic medicines who had published several medical papers on the successful treatment of chronic candidiasis using an anti-fungal drug called nystatin.

Plans for San Francisco were dropped. They packed a car with bottled air and water and drove to Alabama. It was Thanksgiving

Carol was so sick by now that Dr. Truss had to first see her in the car. Unable to stay at any local hotels due to chemical cleansers, Dr. Truss recommended a place he knew of in Shelby County where they could stay away from all such irritants.

Gratefully, the Heislers moved plains from the pew in the to a wooded area in the mountains. The ongoing treatments and fresh mountain air began slowly restoring their health. Steve, Patricia's husband, sent organic foods from Chicago and they bought bottled water in Montgomery.

For the first time in ages, life brightened. The rest of the family was even able to join them for

Then the snow and ice hit. Like so many others, late Tuesday night the Heislers lost their electric power, and with it, the only source of heat their delicate systems can tolerate.

Last Wednesday mother and daughter again fled, this time to the Shelby Motel in Alabaster. Despite a lengthy airing, cleanser fumes there forced a temporary evacuation.

Through the Pelham police, Shelby County Red Cross Director Roy Jowers was contacted. A vacant room at the Alabaster

Central United Methodist Church was suggested, but the heat proved to be gas.

Finally, Thursday at 1 A.M., someone hit upon the idea of staying at Pelham city hall. The only problem was that highway 31 was frozen over and closed.

But this was an emergency. So Alabaster police escorted the Heislers to the city limits and Pelham police escorted them on to city hall. They unloaded blankets, food and bottled water, and "camped in" on the pews in the council chamber.

Friday, a city worker told this reporter the women were "living" in the chamber. She was apologetic and a bit embarrassed that they were having to live there, but it was the best that could be arranged.

But the Heislers were literally thrilled with the accommoda-

"With all the traveling we've done, and all the places we've lived--when you talk about Southern hospitality, they really have it!" Patricia says. "Staying here is nice. A blessing."

"It's a treat!" Carol adds. "Everyone in this town is just wonderful!"

The Heislers sing high praise for the helpful people around their wooded hideaway, too. But all problems considered, they prefer not to publicize its loca-

While telling their story, Jowers comes in to report that power has been restored at their other place. They can go back. "Praise the Lord," cries Mrs.

Before they return, Carol has an appointment with Dr. Truss. She beams as she explains that the treatments should return her to normal in "just" a year. In two or three years she can drop the treatments all together.

"I've got people all over the country praying for me," she proclaims. So what do the women plan to do when they're free to return to society and the world of chemicals?

"It's a miracle," her mother

Mrs. Heisler, whose milder allergy has also improved, is looking foward to being with Steve, reuniting all four of her daughters, andpossibly moving to Alabama.

Carol's long-range plans may switch from nursing school to medical school. But her immediate goal is pizza, a treat her system has denied her for three

"I'm not big on pepperoni, but I do want double cheese," she says, beaming in spite of a world of problems. "I love pizza."

POSTSCRIPT: Saturday Mrs. Heisler phoned the Reporter and said that after packing up and returning to their place in the woods, they discovered their water lines had burst during the freeze. Their chapter on the ice storm ordeal was not yet complete and they had temporarily moved back to the city hall. The move, she said, was appropriate to the course of events. But she had faith things would work out. HOLCOMBE'S INSULATION

Young doe rescued

Mrs. Ann Speakman, Shelby County Humane Society Director and her son Danny load a young doe into the society's pickup truck. The deer had been rescued from Lay Lake late Friday morning, by Danny and a companion. The deer had apparently made its way across the lake from the Talladega County side, but became frightened by dogs and started swimming back across the lake. About midway the deer became exhausted from swimming and breaking the ice. Young Speakman and his companion paddled out to the deer, got it aboard the rowboat and brought it back to shore. Mrs. Speakman told the Reporter she is taking the deer to the Wildlife Rescue Service where it will be treated by a veterinarian and either turned loose, or kept by the service.

Be ready for power outages

by Gail Reagan County Agent

If you were one of the thousands of Shelby County residents who went without power during the past week, no doubt you received a taste of what pioneer life was like.

One of the major problems was not only what to eat, but how to cook it. This storm is over but if it should ever happen again, here are some ideas to remember.

Always keep a supply of nonperishable "instant" foods on hand. Power outages can happen at any time, not just during an ice storm. Foods to have on hand which are quick and easy to prepare include canned meats such as tuna, chicken, ham, etc. These are ready to eat with no cooking and are quite tasty. Also keep a supply of purchased canned vegetables on hand. These can be eaten right from the can or heated with a small amount of heat. Note - These should not be home canned foods because home canned foods need to be boiled at least ten minutes before being eaten.

Dried vegetables are handy to have because they can be kept on the shelf and are undisturbed in a power outage. Canned soups and instant soup mixtures were a life saver to many during this past storm. Soups are delicious and nutritious and help get rid of some of the chill of winter weather. Instant oatmeal and rice products are also quick and easy to prepare.

If you have foods which need to be cooked, there are many innovative ways to cook them when your electirc range isn't in operation. Many people were huddled around their fireplace for warmth and realized they could cook food there, too.

The coals can be brushed together to produce a great deal of heat. A cast iron skillet or dutch oven used at the fireplace can create very good meals. To lower the temperature, just move some of the coals away.

"Hobo dinners" are quick and easy fireplace meals. They're made by placing a piece of meat (porkchops or hamburger) in foil along with potatoes, carrots, onions, celery, etc. These cook on the coals in about an hour.

Wood and kerosene heaters provide warmth and can also be used to heat food if the need arises. Outside cooking appliances can also be used such as camp stoves, and grills.

Probably the most handy type of heat for cooking is the small can of sterno heat. These cans contain a small amount of flammable substance and are quite inexpensive. They can be ignited, and with the aid of a rack or stand, many things can be cooked over their flame. It's a good idea to buy a few of these to keep on hand. Portable butane burners which are as convenient as sterno heat are also available.

Most of us were able to make it through the storm but the secret for the future is to be prepared. Be ready for an alternate means of cooking and always keep a supply of ready-to-eat foods on hand. These can be rotated out, but be sure and replace them. You never know when they might be needed again.

CD director talks about storm

One week after the snow started falling, the phone at the Civil Defense building in Columbiana was still ringing away.

Instead of people calling in emergency needs, however, they were now calling in damage estimates to property, belongings and businesses.

CD director Bill Tucker said the second wave of phone calls began Tuesday after Governor Fob James was requested Monday night to seek federal disaster aid for damage inflicted by last week's snow and ice storm.

At the same time, residents inside city limits were calling in similar estimates. However, one city hall worker in Pelham said they'd only taken half a dozen Tucker said damage to trees and damage to Alabama Power facilities were not being figured in the estimate. And items covered by insurance were being recorded at only the amount of the deductible.

"I'm not sure how accurate a figure we'll have (by Wednesday afternoon after press time), but we'll have a figur e," the director

Civil Defense director Bill Tucker, like a lot of people, said a winter storm like this last one is enough to last him all year.

"I just hope it's not true about what I heard," he commented. "Someone said the worst of the winter is supposed to hit in March."

If that's true, Tucker said he already knows several things he plans to have changed concerning CD operations.

Obtain authority from the county commission to dispatch highway department pickup trucks which sit on the lot under such circumstances while the CD needs vehicles.

needs vehicles.

Obtain the use, if not possession, of a federally funded fourwheel drive vehicle originally intended for the Montevallo FD, but now used by that town's highway department. The vehicle would enable the CD to deliver medicine to people snowed in.

Obtain at least three automatic emergency lights for the CD building.

•Have the cooling systems overhauled on the two CD emergency generators.

Besides an emergency shelter for 19 people during the freeze and power outage, the CD building was used as a clearing house to coordinate need calls with sheriff's deputies and various volunteer fire companies which answered the calls around the county.

Tucker praised the constantly running deputies for their professional work, but it was the volunteer fire fighters he praised most highly.

"I'd rate the volunteer fire departments tops in situations like this. They'll bust their rears getting things under control," he said. "Those folks are my first line defense. They have the determination to get out and do it."

Among the emergency trips Tucker asked the deputies and volunteers to make during the ice storm were: •Two Alabaster patients with kidney complications were able to keep treatment appointments in Birmingham, thanks to a shuttle system between several agen-

•A 41-year old Dry Valley woman with a broken hip, and her family were stranded in their powerless electric home trying to keep warm around a propane boat heater. They ran out of disposible propane tanks. A deputy traveled to a highway 280 store and obtained them. Tucker also located a generator.

In the meantime, neighbors lent the family a kerosene heater.

At least the thought counts.

•In Westover, an elderly woman called because her heat was out and all her logs were frozen together in a lump. Joe Green of the Westover VFD went to the woman's house and broke the wood loose.

•Tucker said the only call he was not able to dispatch someone to answer was to a woman on Dunnavant Mountain who was running low on candles.

"We couldn't do everything," Tucker said. "But it was good to see people pull together."

Snow ice cream

If you can't beat it, eat it.
Instead of renting a large size sun lamp next time a severe winter storm strikes (you probably won't have power, anyway), try eating the snow away. Here's a good recipe you can follow:

Snow Ice Cream
Four quarts of clean snow

Two eggs, whole

One teaspoon of vanilla
½ cup of cream or evaporated milk

1½ cups sugar 1½ cups frozen peaches

(thawed)
Mix ingredients with snow and beat until smooth.

Pelham city hall clerk Kathleen Buff gave one of our reporters a sample cup of this ice cream and he said it was good stuff.

But we couldn't help but thinking a concoction like this has a Yankee--or at least northern-influence. So we asked Mrs. Buff and sure enough, she got the recipe from her husband, D.B.. He's from Scottsboro, which is at least more north than Pelham...

At any rate, it's a good way to get rid of extra snow in case the county gets a repeat performance of last week.

Burglars get jewelry, gun in Columbiana

Although Brian Gordon reported that his home was locked, someone entered the Columbiana residence Saturday afternoon and stole two watches, two engagement rings and a shotgun.

According to Columbiana Police Chief Howell Horn, the burglar entered through the back door which was found open.

He said that there were no signs of forced entry.

Thompson Band plans trip to Cincinnati

The Thompson High School Marching Southern Sounds have planned a spring trip to the National/International Music Festival to be held in Cincinatti, Ohio on April 23.

According to a spokesman for the group, the purpose of the trip is to help teach the meaning of competition and music apprecia-

Police take over after buses call it quits Three school buses from River-

chase Middle School called it quits in last Tuesday's storm when they arrived at Helena Elementary School.

The buses each had about a half-load of children, and the drivers were advised by police not to attempt going any further.

The remaining children were transported to their homes by police cars and by volunteers driving four-wheel vehicles, according to Shelby County Transportation supervisor Braxton Baker. Some of the children lived on Shades Crest Road, which was ruled too dangerous for school buses during the Another group of about 40 children were taken to their homes from Valley Elementary School in the same way.

But all the rest of Shelby County's school buses were able to complete their routes before the storm closed the roads.

Baker said there were no accidents, and he praises his mechanics for the "super job" they did throughout the week

Fearful of zero temperatures again on Sunday, the bus drivers started all the buses Sunday afternoon to check them out. Buses that did not crank, were immediately worked on by Jerry Davidson and his staff, Baker

As a result, when schools reopened Monday morning, all county buses were running and made their schedules on time.

the Fungo Hollow area, did not like the idea of a water park with a 450,000 gallon pool, washing up in the wake of a water rate hike which wil double many bills. Also, they said that sewage, traffic and general noise would not only cause problems, but drastically reduce the value of their property.

Stuman said he was prepared both to drill his own well and build a sewage treatment plant.

A motion by Tanner which was later passed, prohibits the city from selling water to the park. Still, some of the protesters were concerned about the drain the extra wells would put on the water table.

Fred Blackwell, representing residents of Fungo Hollow, attacked the proposed park and presented the council with a petition containing the names of 92% of the residents in that area.

"If the council goes along with this, they're going against the founders of this city," Blackwell said, noting that many of Pelham's original residents lived in the area.

Acting spokesman Tom Kimbrough said the park had the support of the Chamber of Commerce, and that all things considered, it would be a shame to miss out on an attraction that would bring in $10 million in 10 the city, and the fact that the general area eventually be developed, moved that the land be rezoned, and it was passed. "No one is really opposed to the project itself," he added. "It's just the matter of where it's going (to be built)."

A rezoning request by Bill Martin, which also was not recommended for change by the planning board, and which was protested by residents of Hunters Glen was also granted by the council. The acre of land is at the entrance to the subdivision.

Martin and his lawyer said the request for a change from residential to agricultural was so his daughter would be allowed to keep a pony there. During the discussion, "one" pony changed to two ponies and a horse.

But what had the residents worried was that Martin would put a mobile home on the land, or start a hog farm if the zoning was changed.

Ken Maynard championed Martin's request by noting the land had been improved since Martin had been there, and that he believed all the man wanted was a place for his daughter to ride. Bob Cleveland, and eventually Hamilton backed Maynard's ensuing motion to grant the change.

Maynard also reported that at least two of the city's new ball parks would be playable by April

Park growth a united effort

Since Phil Easterwood took charge five months ago, numerous improvement plans have been drawn up for Oak Mountain State Park.

On the drawingboard or already in motion are plans for lights at the golf driving range, a bicycle moto-cross (BMX) race track, projects to improve the fishing at the lower lake, and others. (A complete list was given in last week's issue.)

Another change which appears to be having a beneficial effect already is the recently scheduled weekly staff meeting in which ideas and information are kicked around.

PART II

by David F. Moore

"All the ideas are coming from facility operators, not me," the new director explained. "I just see if we have the funds and add what I can (to the ideas). We're all participants in the growth of the park. One man can't do it."

Besides input from his staff. Easterwood also wants input from the public. After all, he said, serving the public is why the park exists in the first place.

"We need the input from the citizens around here," he said. "If there's a legitimate complaint, we'll do something about

The BMX race track is a prime example of the type of input Easterwood seeks. He has been in contact with several of the key persons involved in the growing sport, and together they have gotten the ball rolling.

In fact, a Pelham enthusiast is currently designing the twisting, hilly track layout which will become a permanent addition to the park. Easterwood said supplying the machinery and operators will be no problem, but he hopes to see a lot of volunteer workers show up, too.

He predicts the May 15 'War of the Stars' race should attract some 300-400 young bicycle racers from around the country, and up to 5000 spectators.

But the new manager wants more than ideas from the public. He wants them to use the facility, and he realizes that a good portion of that usage needs to come not only from campers passing on the freeway, but from people who live in the park's vicinity.

"People live around the area who aren't even familiar with what we have here," Easterwood said. "We've got to reach the Shelby County residents first. They'll tell the others."

He predicted the economy and gas prices will continue to further limit the average person's vacation plans. More and more, people will be staying closer to home, and, Easterwood hopes, more and more people will be using Oak Mountain.

"We're looking to provide the maximum quality of service at a price the working man can afford," he stated. "We have to make money. We have to charge a fee to offset the cost of operations. But we're not profit motivated."

According to state figures, some 300,000 people visited the park last year, bringing in $800,000. The park has an operating budget of $1 million, meaning it operated $200,000 in the red. Easterwood said the park received no budget increase in connection with his appointment.

Easterwood also said that since moving to Oak Mountain from Chewacia State Park near Auburn, he has realized several ways in which the park is unique. First, he said, Oak Mountain offers a wide variety of activities and facilities, ranging from 20 miles of mountainous hiking trails to the sandy beach at the swimming lake.

Second, he said the park's staff is unique in its enthusiasum and innovative ideas. Both these aspects had impressed him greatly, he said.

Asked if improved attendence figures were at the bottom line of all the new plans, Easterwood commented: "You always want an increase in visitors. I want a 100% increase."

The exact course future events will take at Oak Mountain State Park remains unknown. But whatever happens, Easterwood is optimistic.

"It's going the right way. And it's going to be exciting. I'm sure

Snow brings fun, hard work to UM

It may have been an unexpected three-day holiday for students and faculty at the University of Montevallo as a result of last week's ice and snow

It was anything but a holiday for much of the UM staff, however, as they worked to keep heat on in the student residence halls and other buildings, to keep streets open, and to make sure the cafeteria could provide meals for the stranded students. UM students had registered for spring semester classes Monday and Tuesday morning.

The university provided shelter for several local families who did not have electrical power as well as for a number of out-of-state power company linemen who came to help Alabama Power Co.

The Alabama Traffic Safety Center at UM even provided space for local residents to bring their freezers, and Center personnel patrolled area highways helping stranded motorists.

Physical plant director Holland Floyd said grounds department chief Sherrell White and police chief Mark Austin met plumbers and air conditioningheating specialists Friday to prepare for the zero degree temperatures as well as for the possible snow and ice storm weather forecasters were predicting. They decided then to keep heat on in campus buildings all weekend, a decision that resulted in only three frozen pipes in campus buildings during the sub-zero temperatures.

Floyd and food services manager Chuck Moyer met Monday to prepare for the predicted snow storm.

The university cafeteria, operated by ARA Food Services. continued to serve meals through the week, although power was cut off sporadically, with five hours the longest stretch, Moyer said. Power was out during only one meal, and food service employees passed around candles they had used on tables during a special energy-conscious meal one night last fall.

This time, the lights were off for real.

The physical plant's electrical crewmen had to rewire some of the circuits after the first power failure. They also connected a generator to provide lighting in the kitchen.

"Monday we tried to do as many things ahead as possible," Moyer said. They prepared baked goods and other less perishable

"The biggest problem was safety," he said. "With no lights it's hard to see what you're do-

Food cannot be cooked, if cooks aren't there to cook it, so if employees could not get into work, UM police driving cars equipped with chains brought Food supplies ran low, too. After the snow began Tuesday, the cafeteria did not get another shipment until late Thursday

"We were changing our menus drastically," Moyer said. "We prepared what we had left."

Not only did the cafeteria provide food for some 1,500 students who live on campus, but also for up to 150 linemen for Alabama Power Co. and for townspeople who ate in the cafeteria. Moyer said the linemen ate in the university's banquet room.

"We needed to serve them in a separate area because they needed to get in and out," he said.

"The university also offered shelter for families stranded without electricity and other utilities. First, it offered shelter in Myrick Hall, the campus gymnasium, as coordinated with the Red Cross.

The physical plant connected another generator to Myrick and brought in kerosene heaters.

"We wanted to have one building with heat if we had an extended power failure," Floyd said. Although campus buildings are heated by steam generated in a central plant, blowers in each building operate with electricity.

Housing director Dr. Mike

Benson said the Housing Office had planned to evacuate students to Myrick if the heat had gone off overnight.

Student workers in the residence halls also planned activities to cut down on cabin fever - - parties, cards and other games, movies and free hot chocolate.

"We had about 300 to show up for one party in Main Hall," Benson said. Students also crowded downtown restaurants, with one delicatessen filled so much that they were reportedly sitting on the floor.

Several Montevallo area families including some faculty and staff members and their families, moved into Ramsay Hall, the university's conference center and lodge.

Some of the UM staff and faculty staying in Ramsay stopped in to help prepare rooms for linemen from Pensacola, who came in early Friday morning and over the weekend. Some 40 linemen were staying in Ramsay earlier this week.

Five students in UM's Continuing Education Division truckdriver training program also stayed in Ramsay because they could not get home.

Friday, UM's Alabama Traffic Safety Center put out the word on local radio stations that it could offer space for local residents to bring their freezers.

By Saturday morning, nine people had called Center Director J.C. Draper, and three had brought their freezers to plug them to the electrical outlets. The other six had electricity back in their homes Saturday morning.

Not only did the Traffic Safety Center personnel offer the space for freezers, but when the snow began Tuesday, they equipped one of the UM motor pool cars with chains and hit the roads looking for people to help.

And find them, they did. They shuttled medical personnnel to and from Shelby Medical Center, took people home from abandoned cars, and stayed on the road helping stranded

motorists until 8 p.m.

Around campus, driving was made easier by UM grounds department employees who began scattering sand on campus streets when the snow began falling at 11 a.m. UM groundsmen as well as heating specialists, plumbers and police worked around the clock to keep the campus functioning as normally as possible, Floyd said.

"They did a heck of a job, too," he said.

"The biggest factor in our favor," Floyd added, "was that we didn't lose power for an extended period of time."

Monday morning, classes began and life was back to normal on campus, except for the 100 extra linemen still eating in the UM cafeteria's banquet room and the 40 linemen staying in Ramsay Hall.

Students may have to make up, some of the lost class time,

County cagers idle as snow douses games

You just had to wait. That's what happened last week as the snow fell and basketball games were canceled throughout the county.

One coach commented over the weekend that it was just like Christmas vacation all over. Teams have their work cut out for them this week after missing four days of school and at least two games. Don't forget that valuable practice time was also

This is the final week of preparation for the Shelby County Basketball Tournament which starts on Monday afternoon. Big games will be played Thursday and Friday, and whichever team gets the best momentum into the weekend may be the team to beat when the tourney starts.

Last week's action consisted of only one game and that was played on Monday night as Shelby Academy defeated Cahawba Christian 77 to 41. Mike Silvani led the scoring for the Raiders with 19 points and 10 rebounds. Billy Eiland dropped in 16 points and Allen Terrell matched that effort with 16 points also to round out the top shooters for the game.

This week's games (which actually started Monday) had Mountain Brook at Pelham and Briarwood at Thompson. On Tuesday, Pelham at Montevallo, Sylacauga at Thompson, Comer at Vincent, Shelby County at

Chelsea, and Altamont at Calera. Thursday night has Montevallo at Briarwood. Friday night looks like this: Vestavia at Pelham, Winterboro at Vincent, Jemison at Shelby County, Calera at Montevallo, Altamont at Indian Springs, and Briarwood at Chelsea.

Most of the coaches contacted told the Reporter that they would be trying to add games to this week's schedule but games and dates were not available at press

So whether you missed the opportunity to witness some basketball action or not last week, you can bet that the sports scene didn't remain idle as everyone took to the ice and snow and participated in outdoor activities that brought smiles to a lot of

Falcons whip Jax, eye AUM next

The storm forced cancellation of a game between Auburn University at Montgomery and the University of Montevallo

But the Falcons made the most of their light agenda, whipping Jacksonville State University made up on Monday, Jan. 18. Then the Falcons host Athens State College on Wednesday, Jan. 20, and the University of Alabama in Huntsville on Saturday, Jan. 23. All the games will be played at 7:30 p.m. and the UAH game will be a doubleheader, with the Lady Falcons facing UAH's women's team at 5:15 p.m.

The Falcons will also be busy he following week, going to Spring Hill College on Monday, Jan. 25, then hosting AUM on Thursday, Jan. 28, and Stillman College on Saturday, Jan. 30.

Montevallo takes a 13-3 overall record into this week, and will be trying to improve on its 2-1 record in the district and 0-1 record in the conference. All three games this week are conference and district battles.

Junior guard Joe Hall of Montgomery played perhaps his finest all-around game yet as a Falcon to spark the Jacksonville State win, hitting 7 of 11 from the field and 7 of 7 from the free throw line for 21 points, grabbing 8 rebounds and picking up 5 steals. Senior forward Curtis Brannon The game at AUM will be of Decatur chipped in with a career-high 14 points, connecting 7 of 10 shots, and added 7 re-

> It was the performance of a couple of substitutes, however, that had UM coach Dr. Bill Elder the most pleased, citing the 8 points from junior guard David Proffitt of Huntsville and 5 points from sophomore forward Wayne Tanner of Cottondale,

"Wayne and David came in and did excellent jobs," Elder acknowledged. "David hit some key buckets for us, and Wayne did, too, before he got a little tired. This was truly a great win for us and certainly a real team effort."

Senior guard Milton Smith of Memphis, Tenn., had 8 points and 7 assists, and junior forward Clint Stewart of Columbus, Ga., had 9 points and 7 rebounds.

Struggling

Struggling for possession of the basketball sometimes gets tough as these two Crusaders from Columbiana and Alabaster illustrate. It doesn't happen often that the fight for control goes all the way to the floor through. (photo by Richard Crosby) Montevallo High School is the host for the Varsity Girl's Basketball Tournament which got underway Monday. Top seeds in the tourney are Montevallo and Thompson.

While all teams in the county semi-finals will be held tonight and Chelsea.

Prognosticator back on the job

On Monday night, Thompson will whip Chelsea, and Calera should upend Indian Springs. Tuesday night it should be Vincent winning over the Eagles, Pelham downing Montevallo and Shelby County advancing over Briarwood.

Thompson should handle Shelby County in the lower bracket's quarterfinal, but the game of the night will be Vincent against Pelham's Panthers. It's that time again - - County Despite some tough games under Tournament time that is, and as their belt, I look for Vincent in past years, I'm sticking my (which should be all healthy) to neck out and prognosticating the take a late lead and hang on for a win.

> That puts Thompson against Vincent in the finals and the Warriors will have to play tough but I think they'll take the game. Pelham will take out frustration in the consolation game and whip Shelby County's Wildcats for third place honors.

Course I could be mistaken. In fact. I've missed more than I've hit right. So, I'll just have to wait and see like everybody else.

County archer stars on tube

Bulldog wrestlers drop schedule

has dropped its schedule of mat- nine members. ches for the remainder of the year. Coach David Bailey told the Reporter that his team didn't have enough members to compete in dual matches. Bailey is planning, however, for his team to complete in the remaining tournaments this year. The next outing for the team will be the Homewood Tournament on January 30th.

In the last match, Montevallo lost to Alabama School for the Blind 54 to 9. Reza Ebrahimi won his match in the 105 pound class by decision, and Jeff Chism pinned his opponent to give the Bulldogs the nine points.

Montevallo has had to give its opponents 30 points at the onset of every match because the team doesn't have enough members to compete in each weight class. The Bulldogs compete in six weight Montevallo's wrestling team classes. The team is composed of

Alabaster junior high

Pete Jones and Tommy Holdbrooks are coaches for the Alabaster junior high team. Making up the roster are Russell Templin, Lee Holdbrooks, Alfred Pickett, Kris Herron, Gary Hill, Brett Bentley, Kevin Duke and Hugh Talbert.

Lady Falcons fall in last week's action

One game came off on time, the other was postponed for two

In both cases, the results were the same. The University of Montevallo Lady Falcons dropped a 74-64 decision to Alabama A&M University on Jan. 11, then played Livingston University on Jan. 15, two days later than orginally scheduled and lost a 92-47 game. Both were road games, and were Montevallo's first basketball action since the Christmas break.

The losses dropped the Lady Falcons' record to a disappointing 2-10 for the year.

Coach Becky Glass and her troops will try to end their skid this week with three games. Montevallo goes to Talladega College on Jan. 18, to the University of North Aabama on Jan. 21, and returns home on Saturday, Jan. 23, to play the University of Alabama in Huntsville. The UAH game will be at 5:15 p.m. as a preliminary to the men's game between the two schools.

The lady Falcons will be at home all the following week, hosting Stillman College on Jan. 28 and the University of West Florida on Jan. 30, Both of those games will be at 5:15 p.m.

Despite the two losses, there were bright spots. Freshman point guard Lori Oldham of LaGrange, Ky., scored 18 against A&M and 15 against Livingston, and continues to lead Montevallo in scoring (12.1) and the state in assists (5.3).

Freshman forward Corliss Cooper of Chattanooga, Tenn., had 17 points against A&M, while junior forward Teresa Hudson of Forest Park, Ga., added 11 points that game. Sophomore guard Janet Ingram of Killen, who missed the A&M game because of extracted wisdom teeth, scored a careerhigh 19 points against Liv-

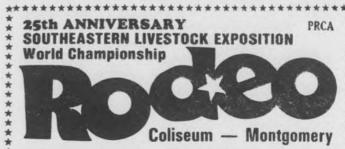

The Lady Falcons are still without starting center Roberta Bass, a senior from Ardmore, Tenn., who is recovering from knee surgery, but hope to have her back soon so she can get in shape for the state tournament.

Montevallo will host the 1982 AAIAW Division II State Tournament on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 25, 26 and

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS-IRAS.

Contrary to popular belief, you don't need big bucks to build a retirement nest egg. At least not Because the new tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts at our FULL SERVICE BANK * let vou build a sizable retirement fund from modest annual investments.

As an example, deposit $1,000 at the start of each year for 30 years and your grand total, with earned interest, could be a whopping $270,292 (Based on 12% interest, compounded annually).

That's worth repeating: $1,000 a year for 30 years, plus interest, could equal over a quarter of a million dollars.

Or, if you prefer, deposit the maximum amount for an individual, $2,000 a year. Which could make you a half of a millionaire in 30 years.

And because our IRA plans are tax-deferred, you deduct the annual investment from your yearly taxable income. So you'll pay no federal taxes on your IRA until you start withdrawing funds (minimum age 59½)

Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket. paying less taxes.

To get all the details about affordable IRAs, see the professionals at our FULL SERVICE BANK. They'll show you how a little chicken feed can help you hatch a golden egg for a golden retirement.

Note The above calculations are intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. This is not a guarantee of interest rates or end

Local barn tops all in state

The silver tea service that was presented at the Alabama Horseman's Association banquet Saturday evening, will be seen in several Shelby County homes this

It was awarded to the Triple E Farm on County Road 12 for being the high point barn in the state.

But instead of keeping the award at her barn, Martha Ann Eisenberg feels that she should share it with the riders who helped earn it.

Twelve riders showed out of the barn this year. Among the awards presented at the Airport Holiday Inn Saturday, was two high point awards earned by Jessica Ann Eisenberg.

The 13 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Eisenberg copped the Western and 4-H awards.

Other award winners from Triple E were: Max Eisenberg, Jillian Boates, Emily Sullivan, Jenifer Page, Ashley Brannon and Martha Ann Eisenberg.

Ribbons awarded to Jessica Ann were: Juvenile Western Pleasure, 1st; Stock Seat Equitation, 1st; Antique Driving, 2nd (her mother won the first place award); Saddle Seat Equitation, 2nd; Arabian Gelding Halter, 3rd; Arabian English Pleasure, Eight year old Max Eisenberg receied a first in 50 inch pony pleasure for eight and under and another first in the 12 and under category.

Coming in first in Leadline 50 inches and under, rider six and under, was four year old Emily Sullivan.

And Jillian Boates, another four year old at the barn, was second in that class.

Jennifer Page, 10, was second in Hunt Seat Equitation; Ashley Brannon, 6, was fourth in and under.

Other riders who showed out of the barn were: Dwight Boates, Heather Sullivan, Rebecca Richmond, Mark Harvey and Debbie

The horses at Triple E include Arabian, Saddlebred, Quarter Horse, Hunter, Welsh and Shetland ponies.

And the classes in which these horses are shown are: pleasure, both English and Western; equitation, lead line, showmanship, costume and driving.

Lisa Usher, Beth Bowman and Carolyn Smiley were other Shelby County riders who won AHA awards.

Usher was first in Equitation over fences and Working Hunter, second in Hunter under saddle. Bowman took the first place award in Arabian costume and was fourth in Arabian English Pleasure.

The three were also runner-ups Leadline 50 inches and under, six for the 4-H award.

Aut a mar check of the water the authority's new well was put into operation.

Drilling of the 310 foot deep well began in 1978, but various difficulties held up its completion this year.

by an official from the State

Health Department Wednesday,

Leon Archer, president of the Westover Water Authority, reported that the total cost of the project is $126,000. It was financed, he said, through the FmHA. Talking about the new well, which has the capacity to pump 150 gallons of water per minute, Archer said that it is going to make a big difference in improving the system.

When operations began in 1968, the water authority served 250 families. There are now nearly 1,000 customers hooked onto the 73 miles of lines.

Homes served by the authority are in Westover, Chelsea, along Hwy. 55 and up Hwy. 47 past Joseph Lumber Company.

Since no water could be found in the Westover area when the authority first began looking for a well site, the first well was drilled in Harpersville.

Now, in addition to the two wells and two tanks which can store 400,000 gallons of water, the authority also has a new headquarters.

It is located on new Hwy. 280 a quarter of a mile east of the intersection with Hwy. 55.

The brick building contains 1,800 feet of office space plus a workshop area.

It is about five miles from the new well which was drilled on a 100x100 plot of land purchased from Kimberly Clark.

Tom DeLoach from the State Health Department takes a sample of water as the Westover Water Authority's new well is turned on. On hand for the event were Engineer Sydney Hargett, Neal Taylor

by Marcia M. Sears

The five groups came trooping in like small armies and staked out their camp headquarters in five separate sections of the auditorium.

They brought briefcases bulging with papers, they brought slide projectors, tape recorders and all the tools of modern day persuasion. Two of the groups even brought along court reporters to take down every word of the proceedings.

They were prepared to fight for the prize that each of them sought: the permission to build a new hospital for north Shelby south Jefferson Counties. The contestants were Shelby Medical Center, St. Vincent's Hospital, Riverchase Medical Center, Brookwood Medical Center and Baptist Medical Centers.

The Facilities and Services Committee of the Birmingham Regional Health Systems Agency was holding its regular January meeting on the 20th, and the requests from the five hosptials were on the agenda.

All five groups believe there is a need for 100 to 125 more hospital beds in the area and each one was seeking the approval of the BRHSA committee, which is the first step in a long process needed to gain the right to build that hospital space.

But they were all brought up short when the committee voted 9 to 3 not to hear any of the proposals. Richard Scott, a committee member from Chilton County, made the motion not to review the applications, pointing out the State Health Planning and Development Agency had said it would not consider them.

Scott argued it would be a waste of time, and the majority of committee members agreed with him. He noted that BRHSA's own survey had shown there was no need for additional hospital beds in the area. As a result of that survey, the state agency had sent out a memo saying the hospitals would first have to prove that public health is actually endangered without a new hospital in that area.

The committee's action came as a surprise and the hospitals' representatives slowly packed up their papers and equipment and left. But they were preparing to attend the meeting of the BRHSA's full board on Tuesday, January 26, hoping that the full board would agree to hear their proposals. As reported earlier in the Reporter, Shelby Medical Center has leased property on highway 280 at Cahaba Valley road for its proposed hospital. St. Vincent's owns 40 acres on old highway 280 just south of the Cahaba River. The Riverchase Medical Center and Baptist Medical Centers have Riverchase property in Shelby County for their proposed hospitals. Brookwood wants to expand at its present location.

Girl Scout cookies go camping

Camping out is one of the main attractions of Girl Scouting.

And since a camp has been established in Shelby County, Girl Scouts here have been even more enthusiastic about the project which raises money to develop those facilities.

Every January, girls gather up boxes of cookies and fan out through their communities in a gigantic sales campaign.

In addition to providing money for the council's camps, proceeds from the sale also benefit individual troops.

Last year, $197,000 was raised by Girl Scouts in the Cahaba Council which includes Shelby and six other counties.

Money from previous cookie sales has enabled the council to build a ranger's house and two lodges at the Kanawahala Program Center off Hwy. 280.

The camp also has several wooden decks with tents and an open pavillion with picnic tables and a place for cooking.

Since development began at the camp site in 1978, a 43 acre lake has been put in, roads built, and power brought into the remote area which is adjacent to Hargis

If adequate funds are raised this year, the council plans to make an access road, level steep roads and install more poles and power lines.

Toward the end of the year, a volleyball and basketball court to shoulder responsibility, may be constructed.

Each individual troop gets $2 confidence.

for every case of cookies sold. If a troop sells more than 55 cases however, it will receive $2.90 per

At Monday's County Commission meeting more than 30 persons lined the courthouse corridor to influence the commissioners against granting the Country Cupboard, Inc. a license to sell liquor. The store already is licensed to sell beer and wine.

> Pirkey noted that the location of the store "makes it almost impossible to police." He thought that if the license were granted the county would have to add more deputies to keep the peace.

A telling point was made by Gamble, who posed the question, "Will you come out and ride with us as we try to help people whose lives are torn up because of alcohol?"

A letter from the county attorney was read aloud, which stated the county might be liable for lawsuits if it did not approve the license, since it had approved other similar licenses in the coun-

He said Mrs. Jean Arthur. manager of the store, had given him a petition with 800 names favoring the license. But Lowe said only 200 of those persons lived within six miles of the store.

Commissioner Harold Davenport said he had planned to vote in favor of the license, but his mind was changed after hearing appeals from the ministers.

Commissioners Don Murphy and Jake Morris also voted to deny, making the vote unanimous.

Litter charges fail in court

The Shelby County Health Department and Commission had hoped to discourage littering when they charged three people with that act and brought them to

However, District Judge Patti Smith found all three defendants not guilty.

One defendant, Dr. James Franks, insisted that the law was used to harass citizens rather than protect them.

Franks had been arrested Thanksgiving morning because a sack of trash found on the roadside near his home contained material with his name on it.

This constituted the prima facie evidence which is all that is needed under the law to charge an individual with littering.

The two other men tried earlier this month were Cumberland Law School Dean Brad Bishop and photographer Sol Hargraves. Papers bearing their names had been found outside the gates at the Helena landfill. Both men testified that they had taken trash inside the landfill and unloaded it in the proper

It was brought out during both trials, that scavengers are usually around the landfill and it was acknowledged that they go through the trash, taking what they want.

Hargraves reported that some of these individuals even helped him unload his trash, transferring it from his truck to theirs.

To prove that photographs with Hargrave's name stamped on the back were found outside the landfill gates, prosecutor Bill Matthews put gatekeeper Zenith Buse on the stand.

When he arrived at work on Nov. 16, Buse said that he found trash outside the gate which included photographs, some of which which were loose and others in boxes.

However, the defense produced an affadavit from gatekeeper John Leemon who had been on duty Saturday, when Hargraves said he brought his trash to the landfill.

Leemon affirmed that when he left that day, there had been no trash outside the gate.

On the same morning that he found the evidence which pointed a finger at Hargraves, Buse testifed he also came upon some mail bearing Bishop's name.

But the law school dean contended that his trash had been dumped inside the landfill.

When Judge Smith tried to pin Buse down about the specific location of the items, Buse admitted he was not even certain if they had been in a bag or just lying on the ground.

In finding these two not guilty, Judge Smith took into account their testimony that they had placed their trash in the proper place. She also cited testimony pertaining to the presence of 'numerous scavengers rummaging through the trash."

Acting as his own counsel, Franks, who practices dentistry in Birmingham, said that because of numerous dogs in his neighborhood, he took his trash to his office in Birmingham for pick-up.

He said that the bag found near his home had probably been dragged there by a dog.

Franks also told the court that the bags of trash were kept indoors until he transported them. But he surmised one of his children had left the bag in question outside.

"The court finds it illogical," the judge wrote in her decision on Franks, "that one would intentionally dump his garbage within 125 feet of his own back door." The dentist had asked Solid Waste Supervisor Carlton Franks if he was aware that he lived in the neighborhood where Franks found the trash.

Franks admitted that he did not since the paper with the dentist's name had the office address in Birmingham.

Before a warrant was issued for his arrest, someone should have at least found out where he lived, Franks declared.

In each case, the state stressed that evidence had been produced which contained the names of the defendants and which had been found in an illegal dumping area.

Crowded courthouse is trouble

The recurring wrangle over office space in the courthouse erupted again Monday.

Doris Turner, chairman of the county Board of Registrars, came to the county commission meeting, saying she was following up on a letter she wrote the commissioners on January 4.

She zeroed in on the commissioners with the question, "What date do you have for us for more space?"

Commissioner Harold Davenport asked her for her suggestions, and commented he had noticed some vacant buildings on the Main Street of Columbiana.

She seemed taken aback by that suggestion, and another registrar, D.L. Spates vigorously shook his head against the idea of moving outside the courthouse.

Mrs, Turner asked Commissioner Don Murphy for his views on how the board can register the crowds in this election year "in this fast-growing county."

Murphy commented the county is no bigger than it was two years ago. He added, "The tax collector needs more space, we have judges up in the attic, and as long as we take a band-aid approach, we won't solve the space problem."

Commissioner Jake Morris suggested using space in the former jail on the third floor of the courthouse annex.

Tax Assessor Bobbie Reynolds told the commissioners her tax appraisal staff could give up their office space in the former Forestry office on the third floor, if they would get equal space in the former jail.

The former jail kitchen was also mentioned.

Commissioners said they would study the ideas and get cost estimates for making the conversions.

mailman from making his appointed rounds. It also kept a Shelby County Sheriff's deputy from reporting to work.

At their monthly meeting Thursday, the Law Enforcement Personnel Board was shown the unnamed deputy's time sheet on which he had written "snow and ice" in place of his hours.

Agreeing that the decision about his pay should be left up to his supervisors, the board noted, however, they thought it could be deducted from overtime.

Although office personnel from the Sheriff's Department did not work Wednesday or Thursday because of the weather, deputies were expected to be on Snow and ice also presented a problem for another deputy in December.

While on duty, Deputy Shelton Griffith fell and injured himself, causing him to be off from work

But rather than use his sick days for the time off, Griffith asked that the absence be listed as injury with pay leave.

Learning that the workmen's compensation check he had received had already been turned over to the Shelby County Commission, the board saw no reason not to approve Griffith's request.

Another situation that took a little longer to work out concerned the date of permanent employment for two temporary workers and two CETA employees.

Temporary workers can only be employed for a four month period. And when that length of time had elapsed for radio operators Isabel Burns and Beverly Clemmons, the board

Snow and ice recently kept the had approved their rehiring on the same basis.

The procedure for doing that is to drop the employee from the payroll one day and rehire them the following day However, in doing that, the board overlooked the rule concerning the establishment of an eligibility list.

After the list is established, in this case on Aug. 20, the rules say that a temporary or provisional worker cannot be left on the job longer than 10 days.

Burns was severed Aug. 21 and put back on the payroll Aug. 22. Clemmons was taken off on the 29th and rehired Aug. 30.

So, working another four months as temporary employees had been a violation of the rules.

In order to correct the situation so the two women would not be working past the 10 day limit as temporary employees after an eligibility list was ready, the board set Aug. 30 as their date of permanent employment.

However, the change in status also meant a change in pay.

The increase actually went into effect in November. But now that the date of permanent employment has been moved back two months, the radio operators have some back pay coming.

It isn't within the board's authority though, Mickey Johnson pointed out, to make the commission come up with the difference in salary.

Since the section of the rules applying to provisional employees has outlived its usefulness, the board voted to delete it.

Section 4.11D now reads, "for each vacancy, the three ranking names of eligible from the open competitive list, if any, shall be

Dump litterers, not the law

The littered roadsides of Shelby County and the illegal garbage dumps throughout the county have inspired hundreds of heated arguments, and hundreds of inches of type in the Shelby County Reporter.

Through the years all kinds of attempts have been made to get people to stop throwing out beer cans and bottles from their cars, and to stop people from dumping trucks full of trash along secluded country roads.

Two different times, all the school children in the county were excused from classes to pick up trash. The hope there was that the youngsters would learn not to litter, and would also shame their elders into using proper trash disposal. That didn't work.

Various county officials have written letters to persons whose names were found on trash and asked them to do better next time. That worked with some, but not with others.

The 'Kitty Klean' campaign was launched with cartoons by George Starcher.

Laws were put on the books and not enforced. County deputies never wanted to sit by the illegal dumps and write tickets to those who dumped.

All along the County Commission was trying one thing after another, hoping to keep the county's roadsides clean and beautiful. After all, this county was the first in the state to have sanitary landfills, and is still used as an example to other counties.

Thinking they had the answer at last, the commission backed the 'prima facie' law, which went on the books last year. Under that law, evidence found at dumps is supposed to be strong enough to convict the person whose name is on the trash.

But in the first test cases of the law, last week, the district judge ruled in favor of the defendants, not the county.

The county's cases were, apparently, not very strong. The evidence and arguments presented by the defendants convinced the judge, apparently, that the defendants had not been guilty of illegal dumping.

Now, the question is, will the 'prima facie' law stand up in court? We think it is worth another try, or several other tries. Just let the county solid waste supervisor get stronger evidence, and get it from the secluded country dumps, not from the entrances to the landfills.

It is ridiculous to let this lettering go on and on. It's way past time to get rough and stay though. The closing of the Calera and Helena landfills might encourage extra illegal dumping, and we certainly don't need any more of that.

With cooperation and enforcement, we should be able to solve this problem.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

We'd take a smooth jelly glass and put soapy water in it and take an old razor blade and rub it around inside of the glass. That's how we sharpened our razor blades. Mr. Alf Blackerby, who carried the Birmingham News, used one blade for 16 months. I don't remember how many times I used mine. But I do remember I bought a small pack in 1929 and another pack in 1933.

Everytime it snowed we'd make our way to a big chinaberry tree that grew in Granny's side yard. That's where the robins came, hunting chinaberries and ending up drunk as Coota Brown. We'd catch 'em in the snow and taken 'em inside and Granny would make a robin pie.

The hickory saplings grew as thick as hairs on a dog's back, on the hill back of Mr. Longshore's barn. We'd ride from one sapling to another, and down a honeysuckle fence, playing Tarzan. Years later it occurred to us that we didn't have a Jane to make it more exciting.

The huckleberries grew on knee-high bushes half way up Mount Dixie, so many they turned the whole hillside blue. If you got enough of 'em, and some half-ripe ones also, you'd have, after Granny finished with 'em, the best pie a boy ever tasted.

Scrambled

They built the dipping vat on Coal Shute Hill, on the other side of town, halfway between Mr. Laney Isbell's house and Mr. Bearden's house this side of the rail road. Mrs. McMillan, who lived at the foot of Granny's hill, gave me a quarter, once a month, to take Maudie to the vat. I remember the day I lost my quarter. And a thousand other days that I looked for it, along the trail that ran through the grass from Granny's house to Mrs. McMillan's house. And then one more time, 60 years later, just to make doubly sure I hadn't overlooked it.

We never caught anything in Tinney Branch, a noisy sparkling branch that tumbled down off Mount Dixie and ran through Longshore's pasture on its way to Beeswax creek, except redhorse minnows and a few chubs. Until one day, in the middle of June, somebody caught a sucker that must have weighed half a pound. We hurried home, taking time about carrying it, and put it on the kitchen table where Granny was making biscuit dough. I'll never forget what she said: "It's too boney. Take it outside and bury it."

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

More often than not, constitutional amendment referendums attract very little attention, but this isn't likely to be the case in regard to the election slated for March 2. A lot of politicians...especially some possible candidates for governor...will be keenly interested in the fate of the first three amendments on the ballot.

If these amendments are approved, they will in effect "nail down' how the oil lease windfall millions will be spent. If they should be rejected, then it's a whole new ball game. To put it another way, the rejection of these proposals could result in the next administration---rather than the present---deciding how the money would be spent.

Gov. James has proposed that the $449 million in windfal money (plus interest it has already earned) be invested in U.S. Treasury bonds, and the intrest from these bonds be used to finance a $520 million bond issue. The bond money would then, be allocated for a variety of capital outlay jects...highways, prisons, mental health, schools, etc.

He points out that the beauty of his plan is that at the end of 20 years the bonded debt will be paid off but the state will still have the original nest egg. While few have objected to this approach of "having your cake and eating it too", some opposition has developed on how the bond proceeds are to be allocated, and still others think the windfall money should be invested in Alabama banks rather than in U.S. Treasury notes.

It is all very complex, and before March 2 rolls around it is also going to be very political.

Odds and Ends -- Jim Folsom Jr., an associate member of the Public Service Commission, indicated a couple of weeks ago he might run for lieutenant governor this fall. However, he now says reaction to that announcement was such that he may instead run

An Alabama polling firm has predicted that House Speaker Joe McCorquodale will win the Democratic nomination for governor -- even if both Gov. James and George Wallace are in the race - but that in the general election McCorquodale would lose to Republican Emory Folmar.

Former Sate Sen, Crum Foshee of Red Level, who served four months in prison on conviction of a "check kiting" charge, has announced he will very likely seek another term in the State senate in the fall elections. Foshee said to regain his old seat would have a a "cleansing" effect on his life. His full civil rights were restored in December, thus allowing him to seek public office again.

Some Alabama Republicans say they are optimistic that they will be able to talk Congressman Jack Edwards into seeking another term in office. Edwards, one of three GOP congressmen from Alabama, had indicated a few weeks ago he would not run for reelection this year.

But it is a time for action, so here it is ...

Get your Shelby County map out and look at the boundaries of Alabaster, Pelham and Helena. Why not put them all together, consolidate them under one name possibly that of Shelbyville? Yes, you would have two or is that three of each... mayors, police chiefs, fire chiefs, city councils, etc., but they could possibly be utilized in some area that would give them a job.

Then too, one or two of the towns may not like the idea of joining up with the other but look at what one town would have to offer the areas outside their boundaries then. In fact, they would be in the city category without a doubt.

What does the Chamber of Commerce for each city... Alabaster, Pelham and Helena have to say about the idea? Then too, the duplicate officials maybe could flip a coin or cut the cards to see who stays in office, etc.

All around us the people are fussing about annexation and some wanting to form new towns and incorporate, or is it cities they want to create?

Some businesses are dying out due to the hard times, some Birmingham businesses are wanting to move to an area outside Birmingham due to the high crime area and continued burglaries.

Offer them a place for their business in the Shelby county city of Shelbyville, or your individual city of Alabaster, Pelham or Helena until we all get as ONE. And Alabaster, don't forget to sell the old Siluria Mills area as a likely spot for them.

Sincerely, Curtis Lee Johnson 403 8th Street SW Alabaster, AL 35007

Mr. Bradford, the hospital administrator, provided shelter for our clients at the hospital and even prepared beds for them in case they had to stay overnight.

Cathy Hutchison, director of Social Services at the hospital, assessed the situation when our people arrived and quickly made arrangements to make their stay as comfortable as possible to the point of arranging to have a meal served to them. Although the cafeteria was closing down, Helen Covington, dietary specialist, arranged to have it opened back up and meals were prepared.

In the meantime, Ms. Hutchison had arranged with Sheriff's Department to have our clients transported home in fourwheel drive vehicles.

J.B. Carter of the Sheriff's department arrived later to take all the clients home.

The actions on the part of these individuals, and also the unnamed individuals that helped are exemplary of the efforts that are called for today. Our thanks go out to all of them. Sincerely,

It worked fine a time or two, but on my third outing it refused to function.

On that particular day, the two events I was to cover were both taking place out in the middle of nowhere. And that involved traveling down treacherous muddy roads.

The thought of getting stuck crossed my mind, but I figured having an extra arm wouldn't help me even if I did.

Fortunately, I was transported on my first journey through the woods in a vehicle better able to travel in mud than the buggy I drive.

But even though I arrived safely, I almost messed up with the picture taking.

Confident I knew what I was doing after a first shot went smoothly, I got my subjects organized for shot number two. As the folks stood there with their smiles in place, the plunger on my cable release refused to go in.

It finally dawned on me that I hadn't advanced the film. So, trying to act as though I weren't really the world's worst dummy, I pushed the little lever that would allow me to take the next picture and continued with my left handed act.

It worked every time after that so I thought I was back in business again. But less than an hour later I found I was wrong.

Reaching my destination at the end of this particular muddy road, which I had to navigate myself, except for the last lap I was driven down a steep hill in a more capable vehicle, I got my subjects posed - and then it happened.

Or to be more accurate, nothing happened.

Ah ha, I thought, it's that film advance again. But no - it wasn't that nor anything else I could think of.

The people waited and I squeezed (the release, I mean) but all to no avail.

Home generator sales boom

Cold, dead powerlines during the recent ice storm have made hot, moving items out of home generators.

From chicken and dairy farmers to John Doe and family in Sunny Subdivision, many people have decided not to be caught powerless again.

One Bessemer firm that handles portable generators opened during the temporary thaw late Wednesday morning on the week of the big storm.

worker Larry Tubb that by 4 p.m. he had sold out of generators. His phone had started ringing at home the night before with orders and inquiries.

Tubb said the store, D&M Air Cooled Engines, handles Homelite and McCulloch brand generators from portable sizes to permanent standby units which are mounted outside like central air conditioning. Prices ranging from $475 to $2,600 apparently did little to slow the rush.

The small portables, starting with four horsepower engines and 1,200 watt production capacity, are generally enough to keep a refrigerator and heater blower running, Tubb explained. Permanent standby units, with handle much more.

Tubb said that before investing in a generator, a person should first determine exactly what his or her needs are going to be, and how much amperage will be re-

Minimum running time for the small models with three quart gas tanks is 1.8 hours. Tubb said home units run about 4.5 hours on five gallons.

Besides ice and snow problems, Tubb said many people are buy-It came as no surprise to store ing generators in the event they lose their power to a tornado.

> "We may not have another storm like this last one for 25 or 50 years," he added. "But folks say they're going to be prepared next time."

> The recent major electricity outage, which caused problems for an estimated 21,000 power customers in Shelby County alone, also dealt fits to dairy and chicken farmers.

Extension agent John Jones said it's still too early to estimate storm losses in production and revenue for the farmers.

The outages interrupted regular milking schedules at Shelby County's many dairies. Not being milked on time can cause infections in cows, and can up to 5,000 watts capacity, can cut the production of milk, Jones said. Sometimes, cows that go for 40 hours or longer without being milked never regain their previous level of production.

In an effort to prevent this, Jones said that during the outage, farmers without generators rented and borrowed them from those who did. Alabama Power Company's rural engineer Rollan Oliver worked with farmers throughout the outage, assisting with generator hookups and other problems, Jones said.

"I imagine our dairy farmers will be more prepared in the future," Jones said.

As for purchasing generators, Jones, like Tubb, said people should determine their emergency electrical needs before investing in a generator. He also suggested that people should shop around and compare prices, quality and ratings first.

Both men noted that generators should be installed by qualified electricians, along with a transfer switch which prevents current from flowing back into the line.

Alabama Power spokesman Horace Waugh at the Alabaster office said it's important for the power company to know if a generator is hooked to a house. so linemen wouldn't run the risk of eletrocution from the electrical Tubb said that transfer switches cost about $200, plus installation.

He also noted another snow related phenomenon other than the rush on generators. Everyone, it seemed, wanted to buy a chainsaw.

FmHA gives farmers chance at new loans

Farmers who are heavily in debt may get some hope for this year's planting season by a new policy adopted by Farmers Home Administration.

The FmHA has announced it will "subordinate" its loans so farmers can get other loans from local banks and other farm lenders.

What that means is the FmHA does not want to see farmers go broke and give up farming.

The new FmHA policy will help farmers to take out fresh loans from banks or other farm lenders for this year, even though the farmer has not been able to meet his repayments to FmHA from last year.

Those repayments to FmhA will become 'subordinate' or second to the repayments on the new loans.

Dale N. Richey, state director says "Liquidations will be kept to a minimum. In dealing with delinquent accounts, we are making every effort to stay with our borrowers if they have met (certain) conditions." needs to. He recommends that every farmer see the county FmHA supervisor as soon as possible.

Some like trees, some like power

by David F. Moore

You can have trees, and you can have electricity. And under normal circumstances, you can have both at the same time.

But situations such as ice storms and tornados stir up obvious conflicts in having one's shade and electricity, too.

If you want beautiful shade trees in your neighborhood or yard, don't count heavily on having electricity when the big freeze or big winds hit. And don't count on having many beautiful trees around if you want to be more certain powerlines stay where they're supposed to.

To trim, or not to trim isn't the question here, according to several Alabama Power Company spokesmen. During severe weather conditions such as two weeks ago, the only ways of preventing outages is, 1) to bury all power lines, or 2) to cut all the trees off at ground level.

From viewpoints of aesthetics and utility, burying power lines is very attractive. You wouldn't have ugly powerlines draped across the front of your house or business, and if trees or branches fell, they certainly wouldn't bring powerlines down with them.

However, the idea of underground powerlines quickly buries itself when one considers the cost and who eventually has to pick up the tab. The cost is high, and you pay for it.

APC media relations manager Ed Crosby said that underground distribution lines are "several times more expensive" to install, and when they are put in, the consumer foots the bill. In the cases of subdivisions which do have buried utility lines, the developer pays the cost and passes it on the homeowner via a more expensive house, Crosby Furthermore, burying only distribution lines within a subdivision or neighborhood may decrease outages, but it cannot guarantee electricity if substations or main lines to the area are exposed.

For example, APC Montevallo district manager Nolin Hardin said the power to Indian Highlands went off several times during the ice storm, despite buried lines within the subdivision. The outages, however, were only as long as four hours, he said.

Crosby also said that when problems do arise with buried power lines, they take longer and cost more to repair.

"At a time when people complain about rates being too high, it would not be practical to change over to underground lines," he said. "We wouldn't have much support for that."

On the other hand, tree trimming also has its drawbacks, one of which is again money.

In 1978, Crosby said APC had to curtail its regular tree trimming program because of the expense and because pending rate increases were tied up in court and with the Public Service Commission. When money finally became available, tree trimming programs were reinstated, although they had fallen behind

Crosby made it clear that APC does not blame the recent outages, which affected some 21,000 customers in Shelby County alone, on the lack of funds for proper tree trimming.

A storm of that magnitude would have caused "severe" outages even if tree trimming had been on schedule, he said.

Hardin explained that along high voltage transmission lines. the APC cuts down all "danger trees" along the right of way. But even if money were available, the public would not stand for such clear cutting along the distribution lines through towns, neighborhoods and yards.

"They'd run us out of the county if we cut down all the danger trees along the distribution lines," Hardin said. "People wouldn't live with that."

As it is, he said some major trimming done during the freeze in areas of heavy damage, brought complaints from several residents.

Crosby said one tree crew, prior to the freeze, ran into such threatening opposition from a passer-by that police had to be called to protect the crew while they finished their work.

So what's the answer? How do you keep beautiful trees, often valued for sentimental reasons as much as beauty and shade, and ensure that electricity is there whenever it's needed? There's no ready answer to the conflict, unless one knows where a weatherman can be hired who can control the occasional wrath of the elements.

County grand jury indicts 48

Ralph T. Browder was indicted for attempted murder by a Shelby County grand jury last week.

The Alabaster man was arrested last July following the shooting of his wife in the bedroom of their home.

Mrs. Browder had 16 bullet wounds in her body when she was rushed to the hospital. One of those wounds later resulted in the amputation of her foot.

In the 94 cases which the grand jury considered, 47 felony indictments were returned and one

Five of the cases involved drugs, 40 were on burglary and theft charges.

No indictments were issued in 21 cases, 24 cases were continued and one case was restored to the District Court docket.

The prisoner in the Shelby County jail who tried to throw a jailer off a catwalk was indicted for assault.

The incident took place when corrections officer Bibb Windsor was attempting to return Anthony Ray Peoples to his cell.

Morris O. Davis and his wife Ruth were indicted for theft in an insurance fraud case. Davis also has two drug cases and a case involving stolen property pending.

The grand jury also found that there was sufficient evidence in the following cases to issue indictments: Bertha Lee Powell, attempted murder; Gene T. Robertson, escape; James Ray McKenzie, theft from his employer, Jack's Hamburgers in Montevallo.

Instead, she drove to the rear of the building where the police station is located and honked her horn. Elder jumped out of the car and fled on foot but was captured a short time later down the highway.

Robbie Satterfield pled guilty to four charges of burglary, 3rd degree and was sentenced to four years in prison.

Gary L. Wooten pled guilty to theft of property, 3rd degree and was given a six month suspended sentence plus payment of costs. Wooten also pled guilty to theft of property, 2nd degree for which he will be sentenced on Feb. 22. Alvin Lewis Ward pled guilty to attempted theft, 2nd degree and was given a one year suspended sentence and ordered to pay costs.

A one year sentence to be served was Clemson Martin's punishment after he pled guilty to receiving stolen property, 2nd degree. He was also sentenced to a year for buying, receiving and concealing stolen property. Douglas Bishop pled guilty to attempted theft of property, 2nd degree and he received a six month suspended sentence plus the payment of costs.

Charles William Taylor and Lela Taylor pled guilty to interfering with the lawful custody of a minor and were given a six month suspended sentence; Sherrie Diane Burnette pled guilty to receiving stolen property, 2nd degree with sentencing set for Feb. 22; Patricia Ann Shirley pled guilty to false pretense and will also be sentenced Feb. 22.

Individuals who pled guilty in drug cases are as follows: John T. Bice, misdemeanor possession of marijuana, sentenced to pay $250 plus costs; Brenda Coleman, felony possession of marijuana, sentencing set for Feb. 22; Ronald M. In other business, Chief Dana Barnes of the Montevallo Emergency Medical Service told council members that assistant chief Dr. James Rogers has resigned. Rogers resigned to devote full time to his teaching duties at the University of Montevallo. Barnes also reported that Pam Thompson has joined the Montevallo service. # County welfare recipients cut

by David F. Moore

Changes in the past few months have disqualified some 100 Shelby County families from Aid to Dependent Children. Furthermore, another 35-40 families are expected to see reductions in their February welfare checks, according to a spokesman for the Department of Pensions and Security.

The welfare system belt tightener is the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981, passed by Congress in August. Most of the act's reform points were implemented between October and January, but some of the effects will not be reflected in payments until February, said Columbiana DPS social worker Rosalyn Lucas

In October of 1981, welfare payments of $52,095 were made to 572 Shelby County families in the form of Aid to Dependent Children (ADC). DPS records show that payments for January 1982 are down to $45,030 for 470 families, a decrease in $7,065 and 102 recipient families.

Lucas estimated that after the February payments are figured, the number of recipient families would drop to 425. But she stressed that all the people to be affected by the Omnibus Act, have already been notified.

The change with the most widespread effect on Shelby County, is the law governing the assumption of step parent income, Lucas said. No longer will a step parent's income be disregarded when figuring DPS payments. Lucas said this one change alone affected 90 percent of all DPS cases in which a stepfather was involved, and disqualified 75 families receiving a total of about $5,300 monthly.

Other changes with major effects on Shelby County are imposed income caps and the new sequence of figuring the "30 and 1/3 disregards," Lucas explain-

In the first instance, no ADC payments are now made if the family's income exceeds 150 percent of the basic needs standard, or if the payment is less than $10.

As examples, Lucas said the basic needs standard for a family of two is $288, so the income cap would be $432; if less than that were earned, the family would be eligible for ADC payments of 30.75 percent or $89 if the child is also deprived of parental support due to death, disability or the absence from home of one or more parents. The income cap for a family of three is $576, and the payment standard is $118, she

The effects of the "30 and 1/3 disregards" will not be fully reflected until the February payments are made, but Lucas said the new policy for figuring the payments would probably mean a cut for 35-40 families. Previously, the "30 and 1/3 disregards" deduction was figured off the top of a person's income, but under the new act child care and work expenses are first substracted from the in-

Other changes in the welfare laws effect the consideration of "lump sum income" from insurance and other payments; resource limitations for savings.

Other changes in the welfare laws include:

•Lump sum incomes from insurance settlements, social security backpayments and other sources can now be a factor in eligibility.

•Resource limitations on savings, second automobiles and other such real property were reduced from $1,750 to $1,000.

•Earned income tax credit refunds are now figured in the budget as income available.

•DPS's recooping powers have been strengthened, and any over or under payments will be "recooped" or reflected in the next payments.

·Anyone on strike is not eligible for payments.

•ADC and medicaid age limits were dropped from 21 to 18 years

•Unborn children are no longer eligible for medicaid. The expectant mother must be eligible for medicaid to have it pay for the delivery of the baby.

 Clients with irregular incomes will be required to report monthly earnings and their budgets are refigured each month instead

Lucas said most social workers she had spoken to contend that the reforms affected by the Omnibus Act are both good and needed. Only in rare cases, she said, will the reforms cause undue hardships among recipients. Furthermore, since the new policies are aimed mostly at recipients with incomes of some sort, and most of the Shelby County recipients have no income, those needing the help the most will continue to receive it. However, "even though we regard most of these policy changes as good, they can't help but hurt some of our folks," Lucas said.

Prior to the Omnibus Act, she said the qualifications and standards DPS was required to follow had become too lenient, and that some recipients were gaining advantages over people who work-

Highways suffer $200,000 damage

The storm of January 12-15 cost the county highways of Shelby County at least $200,000.

That is the estimate the county engineer Gary Ray gave the state highway department, and Ray thinks it is a conservative figure. Ray explained that when moisture gets under the asphalt, and then freezes, the paving

"blows up" when any load heavier than a passenger car travels over it.

Immediately after the storm, Ray contacted all the corporations and individuals who normally send trucks out over county roads, and asked them to keep their trucks off the roads for a voluntary cooperation from these truckers. The county highways that are especially in danger of crumbling are highways 42 and 86 in the Calera-Shelby area, highway 55 near Sterrett and highways 13 and 93 in the Turner-Genry's Gap area of west Shelby County.

Ray said he has had excellent

Ray said that if we had a period of dry weather and some warm temperatures, the highways could "mend" themselves if there is no heavy traffic over

The 'sergeant' position remained vacant for about 9 months. but since it had been an approved position, the sheriff failed to mention it in his budget request. At the time, the difference in pay was only about $18 biweekly. But when the budget year started on October 1, the difference jumped to $144 biweekly. This jump came about because the county is tied to the state trooper pay scale and cannot control the salaries that are paid to county sheriff's department men. The state approved a trooper raise on

Now the sheriff has asked deputy Billy Thomas to fill the sergeant post, but the increase pay will once again put his budget in the red. per year in straight salary and an benefits, than he made as a depubecause they have no control over those salaries unless the legislature would agree to cut the tie between the county sheriff's department and the state troopers.

The jump in salaries in October also meant that two lieutenants and the chief deputy each make more money than the sheriff. Several other deputies, because of longevity pay, also make more money than the sheriff. The raise some of the men received on October 1 was as much as $11,000 annually, more than the annual salary of several persons who work in other county depart-

MEMO TO THE PUBLIC:

Recently we have learned that supporters of the Shelby Medical Center of Alabaster, Alabama, have misunderstood our public communication regarding the development of hospital services for southern Jefferson and Shelby counties.

We wish to publicly express our regret that this has occurred.

There has been no intended reference toward the competency or qualifications of any other hospital.

Shelby Medical Center is one of the finest hospitals in this area with the latest in modern equipment and highly trained personnel. Baptist Medical Centers values its relationship with Shelby Medical Center and is especially sorry that our actions have been misunderstood.

Residents not paying garbage collectors

Browning Ferris Industries, the new franchise garbage and trash hauler for north Shelby County, is running into trouble over payments for its services.

According to a report by Don Murphy at the County Commission meeting Monday, BFI has sent out a letter to its customers that they will pick up garbage from homes just once a week in the future instead of twice a

They will reduce their charge from $6.50 to $5.00 per month. Murphy said that several residents had complained to him about it. It was pointed out that the county franchise allows one pickup a week, and that those persons who had two pickups had made their own arrangements with the previous franchise operator.

BFI has also requested residents to put a BFI sticker on their mailbox posts or their garbage cans so that their truck drivers can know which residents are paying for pickup service. Apparently several residents of the area have been getting pickup services and not paying for it.

State gives runaround on Oak Mt. director

The Shelby County Commission wanted to find out why John Meredith was transferred as manager of Oak Mountain State Park.

They were dissatisfied with the explanations given them by Gary Beers, who heads up the Parks Division of the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources.

So the commissioners went to Governor Fob James last Friday to tell him that Beers had not told them anything that would show cause for Meredith's transfer.

Making the trip to Montgomery were Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden and commissioners Don Murphy, Harold Davenport, and J. Alpha Lowe.

But James was not available to see them, and instead they talked with his assistant, Bobby Davis. Commissioner Don Murphy called the meeting "totally unsatisfactory," indicating that they were unable to learn anything new about the situation.

Commission hears another 'industrial park' request

Following in the footsteps of Alabama Power and Vulcan Materials, the Southern Haulers company has asked the Shelby

Jaycees host CPR in Montevallo

The Montevallo Jaycees will host a program on CPR and first aid Wednesday, February 3. The program will be held at the city hall at 7:30 p.m.

Mountain Brook firefighter Cliff Carlise, an instructor in CPR and "first response," will give the presentation and be avilable afterwards for questions.

The public is invited to attend. For more information call Henry Lucas, 665-5422.

County Commission for industrial park status.

The Commission set the date of February 8 for the public hearing on the proposal.

The letter requesting the hearing was signed by R.E. Edwards. Southern Haulers, a major trucking firm, is located north of the present Calera City limits.

Any industry located outside a city can request industrial park status if the property is composed of 10 acres or more. The recent requests have been attempts to avoid city taxation if the areas had been annexed to the city of Calera.

Commissioner Harold Davenport stated his opposition, saying he predicted one approval would lead to requests from "anybody with 10 acres."

One 'Poole' is not another

Wayne Edward Poole of Dee's Trailer Court in Columbiana is not the Wayne Poole whose name appeared in a legal notice in the Shelby County Reporter in the weeks of December 31, 1981 and January 7, 14 and 21, 1982.

against a Wayne Poole in regard to certain personal property and cash, but Poole was not identified further. Wayne Edward Poole, whose birthdate is March 7, 1960, is not related to the Poole in the legal In the legal notice, the State of notice, and does not even know

HSA rebuffs hospitals

No decision was made Tuesday afternoon on the five hospital proposals by the board of the Birmingham Regional Hospital Health Services Agency. (See related story, on page 1)

The board met in Birmingham and refused to hear presentations from the five hospitals that want to build additional hospital space for north Shelby County.

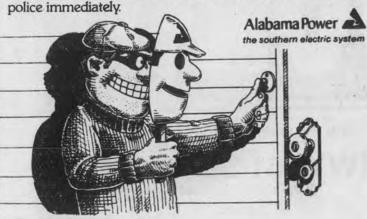

Alabama Power Co. 1982

The reasons given for not hearing the proposals were the same as those given at the meeting last week of the Facilities and Services committee of the BRHSA.

The hospitals will reportedly try to be heard at the meeting of the State Health Planning and Development Agency in Montgomery in February.

Imposters posing as power company employees may visit your home.

Imposters claiming to be Alabama Power personnel have unlawfully entered several homes. Remember, even if someone at your door is wearing clothing with official-looking insignia, check their identification. Our employees are trained to produce ID's when visiting homes. And they'll be happy to wait while you call to verify. If anyone claiming to be from Alabama Power won't show an ID, lock your door and call the

Vandiver Fire Department adds new trucks

- expression of the state of the company of the state of Vandiver shows off one of its new fire trucks.

Department reports great progress and improvements in 1981.

During the year the department answered 52 fire calls and 27 rescue calls in the Vandiver/Sterrett area. Vandiver now has three state licensed Emergency Medical Technicians. An ambulance donated by the city of Leeds is in the process of being reworked for transport purposes.

In December 1981 the department purchased two newer, more efficient trucks from the Sale Creek Tennessee Fire Dept.

One truck is a 750 gallon per minute Maxim Pumper. The other is a 1967 Mack Diesel carrying 2250 gallons.

A spokesperson for the group said these trucks will help qualify the department for a lower insurance rating, which will lower Vandiver and Sterrett residents fire insurance premiums.

She said the ten board members felt these purchases

The Vandiver Volunteer Fire necessary to keep the area's protection efficient and up to date. They have signed to guarantee a loan guaranteeing payments for the next four years.

> To accomplish the budget for 1982, this department is requesting an annual fire fee donation of $20 per home and business in the Vandiver/Sterrett area. Those residents on fixed incomes (welfare, social security, etc.) will not be required to pay the full amount, however any donation will be appreciated.

> Tax deductible donations may be made at Bailey's in Sterrett, the Trading Post, Watson's Grocery, and Vandiver Grocer (Vines) in Vandiver or mailed to:

Fire department personnel say they are proud of the work accomplished by people who have supported the department the past four years.

Veterans received $3.3 million

Shelby County veterans and their dependents received a total of $3,300,880 during fiscal year 1980-81, for various benefits from the Veterans Administra-

Jim Mayhew, local service officer, said the bulk of money was paid for VA disability compensation and pension benefits. "Other expenditures were for readjustment and vocational rehabilitation training, insurance and indemnities."

"Most of the funds for Shelby County were obtained through the Shelby County office of the Alabama Department of Veterans Affairs," he added.

He emphasized that the local office has no official connection with the Veterans Administration, which is a federal agency.

"These expenditures do not include the thousands of dollars spent for educational benefits for veterans and dependents which are paid for by the state of Alabama and administered through local county offices," he added.

"We in the local office are proud of the benefits we've been able to secure for our veterans and their dependents during 1981, as well as the 36 years of our existence since World War II."

Mayor answers Pelham water questions

by David F. Moore

The molecular makeup of water is simple--two parts hydrogen, one part oxygen.

Under normal circumstances, obtaining water is also simple. Twist a knob and out it comes to quench our thirst, clean our clothes and bodies, wash our cars and water our grass.

Water is easily taken for granted-unless we don't have enough of it, or someone tells us it's suddenly going to cost much more.

Then, water becomes an issue. Both these exceptions have caused issues in Pelham. Last summer there wasn't enough water. And at a recent council meeting, over the protest of a group of residents, new rates were passed which, in some cases, will increase water bills by 100% (see the January 7 issue of the Reporter).

Before the new rates were passed, the residents fired a number of questions at Mayor Burk Dunaway and the council concerning water board finances, expected income from the higher rates, and just how all the money is to be used.

Because all that information was not available at the meeting, not all those questions were answered. So the Reporter recently interviewed Mayor Dunaway and asked those same questions again.

Water Works' profits since the system went into operation in 1965 have always been minimal because money was pumped back into upgrading the system, Dunaway said. He said some capital improvements had been made to the system every year.

Water revenues for the 1981 fiscal year amounted to $457,005.09. Mortage payments, operating costs and other expenditures for the year totaled $434,613.99, giving the water board a profit of $22,391.10.

However, $5,589.15 from the city's general fund was spent to lay water lines to the new Wal-Mart store, which, the mayor said, actually lowered water board profits to about $17,000.

Dunaway explained that major past improvements to the city water system have been made with FHA loans at 5% interest.

"As long as you can borrow money at 5% and less, it's no problem," he said. "But those days are gone."

Dunaway explained that FHA loans now cost a minimum of 12%. Furthermore, Pelham's growth is begining to disqualify it from FHA loans.

Current water board plans call for about $250,000 of improvements. The mayor said most of the money will probably be borrowed from local banks on short term loans of no more than five years.

"It's hard to justify a quartermillion dollar loan with $17,000," Dunaway said. With inflation, operating costs next year would probably eat up the rest of the profit, he added.

Using last summer's water consumption figures, the mayor and city engineer Paul Yeager projected the new water rates would increase revenues by $200,000. They expect, however, that the higher cost will decrease consuption.

Dunaway also said the water board currently has $30,000 left over from an FHA loan. That should be enough to drill one well, which is part of the first phase of improvements the city hopes to complete before May or June when water demands will again increase.

In addition to drilling the new well, which will be located off highway 119 near the Oak Mountain fishing lake, a well house and additional lines will be needed.

Work on this well, which will be the seventh on the Pelham system, is expected to begin in about two weeks when final approval is given from the health department and FHA. As soon as the well is complete, an eighth well will be drilled at an existing site in Indian Hills. Dunaway laid from highway 31 to the storage tank across from Valley Elementary.

"The best we could hope for from the two new wells," said Dunaway, "would be to provide for our existing customers. Even then, we may still have a problem this summer if we don't get a lot of water out of them. We just won't know until we drill them and test pump."

If the demand is there, in the next couple of years the mayor

Drip, drip, drip.....

The latest controversy over water in Pelham washed up last week when the council rezoned 23 acres of land there for the development of a 450,000 gallon wave pool and water park. As one resident put it, "After not having enough water last summer, this new park was real bad timing." The council voted not to sell water to the park. The developers said they would drill their own wells.

possibly a ninth well to serve it will also be needed. Furthermore, Yeager said there is a need for a main line pressure regulator. (Though some residents have complained of low pressure, others have had their lines blown with pressures up to a reported 350 PSI.)

Dunaway estimated the cost of these improvements to run about $250,000 also.

Yeager said the city can currently pump about 2,000 gallons of water per minute, and Dunaway added that's more water per residential customer than Birmingham can provide. "If Birmingham's usage was as much as ours, they'd have been in worse trouble than us last summer."

Yeager also said that similar sized cities average water usages between 40 and 100 gallons per capita per day. In Pelham last summer, that average was 220 gallons per day. According to Yeager, the difference, and the cause of last summer's shortage, is grass watering.

During that time, the city imposed water restrictions on its 10,000 customers and set up certain days each subdivision could water grass. Yeager said illegal night watering was evident from streams running down the gutters in the morning, overwash from heavy waterings.

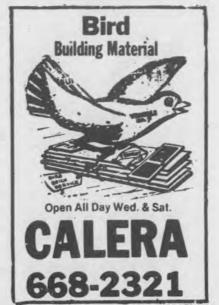

Though people caught watering illegally were cited, Yeager said one man told him he didn't care if his neighbor's house burned, he was going to water his

"I wish there was some way to have pretty lawns and not use so much water," Dunaway com-

Had water rates been increased all along, Dunaway indicated such a single large jump might not have been necessary. But as it is, this is the first time Pelham has ever had any increase in water prices. Before, the mayor said. increases had not been necessary.

"I'm sure there's a lot of people who'd rather not have it increased, and who are unhappy about it," Dunaway said. "I'm unhappy about having to do it. But my thinking is that if you have to borrow money, borrow as little as you need and pay back as soon as possible."

"When we get them the water we need, I'd love to reduce the rates after two or three or four years, or whatever," Dunaway stated. "I've said that before."

A Chelsea High School student working after school in an Alabaster store, saw a woman walk out with a bulging purse.

And because Karen Johnson was observant, a shoplifter was apprehended.

Figures released during Shoplifting Prevention Week, which was Jan. 18-23, show that dollar losses due to shoplifting exceed $16 billion.

To show their gratitude for Karen's effort, the management of the store where she works, presented her with a check and letter of commendation.

Karen is working at the store to acquire sales and marketing knowledge for her class at the Shelby County Area Vocational Center.

She takes distributive education which is taught by Betty Fulton.

When she noticed the woman leaving the store with her full purse, Karen alerted assistant manager, Janice Pickett, who found the unpaid for items.

The woman and two accomplices were arrested and an investigation later turned up items stolen from other stores in their home.

Reminding Karen that the incident wasn't isolated, the store's security manager wrote "Remember, there are people coming in the store every day who steal merchandise right in front of you."

Despite the disappointing outcomes of most of the season's games, Montevallo coach Becky Glass continues to find some bright spots and glimmers of hope for her young charges.

One of the pleasant surprises has been the sometimes spectacular play of freshman forward Corliss Cooper of Chattanooga. In the last five games, she has scored 88 points, a 17.6 average, while hitting 49.3% from the field and pulling down 49 rebounds, a 9.9 average.

Montevallo was good on 29 of 41 shots, a blistering 70.7%, almost doubling their previous average, and picked up their first Southern States Conference win of the Season with a 68-63 triumph over the University of Alabama in Huntsville.

"Basketball sure is a strange game. Who'd have believed we could set a school record after the way we'd been shooting lately," Elder marveled. "But we needed it; UAH shot well. We also needed that win, because we're just about at the point where we can't afford to lose again, and I think the fellows knew that."

Tonight Jan. 28, Montevallo hosts Auburn University-Montgomery and on Saturday, entertains Stillman College in a district game. Both contests tip off at 7:30 p.m. in Myrick Hall, and follow Lady Falcon preliminary games at 5:30 p.m.

Joe Hall paces the Falcons in scoring, field goal percent and free throw percentage. Orlando Lee is the top rebounder and shot blocker while averaging 12.9 ppg. Milton Smith tops the squad in assists and steals and averages 9.4

ppg. Herman Bell averages 8.5 starter, junior Clint Stewart of ppg, while the team's fifth Columbus, Ga., is at 6.3 ppg,

Dinner Theatre comedy opens

Celebrity Dinner Theatre presents its second comedy production of the 1982 season, NEVER TOO LATE, for a four-week run opening on Tuesday night, February 2 and playing through Saturday, February 27.

Written by playwright, Sumner Arthur Long, NEVER TOO LATE was a hit on Broadway starring Paul Ford and Maureen O'Sullivan, and was later made into a

The comedy is about Harry Lambert, a married man in his fifties who learns from his wife Edith, that he's going to be a father again. His last child, a daughter, was born 24 years ago. The shock of becoming a father again after all this time and the personality changes in his wife from meek to dominate provides hilarious situations throughout this three-act comedy.

Newcomer to Celebrity, Patricia Michaels and veteran performer Hall Parrish, play the starring roles of Edith and Harry Lambert. Ms. Michaels comes to Birmingham from the Lampliter Dinner Theatre where she appeared in THE SECOND TIME AROUND. Parrish, who is also the director, was seen in last month's comedy, TAKE A NUMBER DARLING, and is remembered for his major roles in the Celebrity shows, PICNIC, FIFTY PROOF, LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS, and CHAPTER TWO.

Celebrity favorites returning in supporting roles are Laura Edwards, Stephen Gee, Janelle Cochrane and John Lutz. Carl Sutton makes his debut at Celebrity having just completed a four-week run of the comedy. THE SECOND TIME AROUND at the Lampliter Dinner Theatre in Montgomery.

Tuesday and Wednesday nights, February 2 and 3, will be "Preview Nights", at the discount price of $10.75 per person for buffet dinner, show, and tax. After the show there will be a champagne party with the cast.

Celebrity Dinner Theatre is located on Highway 31 South in the Vestavia Hills section of Birmingham. Cocktails are served from 6:30 p.m. until closing, buffet dinner is from 6:45 p.m. - 8 p.m. and the show begins at 8:15 p.m. For reservations call

Raiders set winning pace

by Richard Crosby

The Shelby County Basketball Tournament is underway at Pelham High School this week, but to bring you up-to-date with the records and results of last week, here's this week's roundup.

Shelby Academy Raiders

Shelby Academy has set the woods on fire since the new year began. The Raiders posted eight straight wins, with four of those coming last week. On Monday, Shelby defeated Berney Points 68 to 61. Mike Silvani led the scoring with 18 points, followed by Allan Terrell with 16 and Billy Eiland with 12.

Tuesday Coosa Valley was the loser to the Raiders by a 39 to 64 count. Silvani and Eiland were tops with 17 points each to pace the Raiders. Ricky Lynn and Kevin Garrett each bucketed 11 points for the Rebels. On Thursday evening Bessemer-Faith came to Shelby Academy and left with a loss. Shelby won 55 to 35 with Eiland and Silvani leading the way with 16 and 15 points respectively.

Shelby ended the week with a win over Cahawba Christian 69 to 39. Keith Knowles was high point man with 14 points. Terrell had 12 and Silvani 11. The Raiders enter the Coosa Valley Invitational Tournament this Thursday afternoon, facing Talladega. A win there will pit them Friday night against the winner of the Berney Points - Crenshaw game.

The season record stands at 11-5 for coach Dewayne Kervin's

Thompson Warriors

Thompson lost both its games last week. The Warriors fell at home to Sylacauga by 13 points last Monday night, and Thursday, Childersburg made a shot at the buzzer to claim a one point margin - 63 to 62.

"The Childersburg game was the toughest mentally we played all year," coach Thomas Johnson told the Reporter. "We played real well. It was nip and tuck all the way. The biggest lead of the night was just six points. Against Sylacauga we shot 22 percent from the field the first half and only 33 percent for the game. You can't expect to win with those numbers."

The Thompson B-Team also lost to Childersburg last Thursday night. The game took four overtime periods to decide and the Warriors lost by one point.

Montevallo Bulldogs Montevallo went 2-1 in last

Taylor Blackwell put in 15 points against Calera as the Bulldogs upped their record to 6-10 on the year.

Chelsea Hornets

Chelsea had its best week in quite a while with two wins in two games. The Hornets inched out Shelby County 49 to 48 on Tuesday night. Jim Weston led the team with 14 points, followed by Greg Conkle with 10.

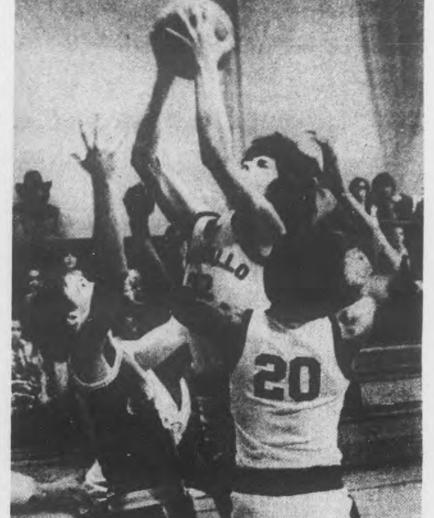

On Friday night the Hornets whipped Briarwood 40 to 31. Weston had 15 points and Kent O'Shields got 11. "We had good team effort," Coach Mike Sims told the reporter. "We're playing our best ball right now." Sims also mentioned that he's getting some good effort from Randy Kennedy, Jamie Perrin, Paul Kendricks and Jock Efferson.

Calera Eagles
Calera lost both outings last week. The Eagles dropped a Tuesday night fight with Altamont 45 to 48. Richard Russell led the attack with 24 points. Russell also took top honors Friday night with 17 points in a losing cause against Montevallo.

One of the problems for Calera has been the absence of starter Edward Wilson who has been sick for the past 10 days. Coach Mark Lovett hoped to have Wilson back on the team for the start of the county tournament.

Vincent 'Jackets

Vincent did the opposite of Calera last week. The Yellow Jackets won both games. On Tuesday Vincent played host to B.B. Comer and took advantage of the Tigers by whipping them

Thompson junior high takes county crown

Thompson edged out Vincent 49 to 46 to claim the junior high county championship. The winning game came last Thursday night at the conclusion of the tournament. Montevallo was the host school for the affair this year.

The Warriors had a first round bye and then knocked off Pelham in the semifinals. Vincent gained the championship berth by beating Chelsea 60 to 28 and then downing Briarwood.

Montevallo and Shelby County both lost in the first round of the tournament. The Wildcats lost to Briarwood 42 to 43. It took two overtime periods to decide the victor. Montevallo lost to Pelham 26 to 41.

Junior High All County selections were named Thursday night at the conclusion of the tournament. Honored are: Jimmy Collier - Briarwood; Ricky Gaddis - Montevallo; Tyrone Wade - Pelham; Bruce Hamilton, Cedric Riggins and Norman Smith - Vincent; Richard Kidd, Robert Shields, Jerone Taylor and Tracy Threatt - Thompson.

Thompson's Threatt was also honored as the Most Valuable Player in the tournament.

Most coaches cheered for Cincinnati

Super Bowl XVI is history and just to let you know what a couple of county fans were rooting for, here's my list of who cheered for whom.

Mark Lovett of Calera was a Cincinnati fan as were Richard Crumpton, Don Piazza, and Steve Franklin.

San Fransisco fans included Kurt Pnazek, Dewayne Kervin and Thomas Johnson.

This writer was also a Bengal fan, but couldn't understand why Anderson didn't bootleg on the fourth-and-one call that ended up being the turning point of the game.

The Bulldogs whipped Shelby

The Bulldogs whipped Shelby County 43 to 17 in the first round and Pelham 80 to 45 in the semi-finals to reach the championship game.

Debra Tyus led the scoring for the champs with 13 points. Teammates Lessie Gaddis accounted for 11 points and Tanya Staffney 10 points. For Thompson, Janeice Scoggins led the way with 23 points and Anna Threatt bucketed nine.

Montevallo coach Sue Wilson said her team played with good effort. "I'm really proud of these girls for hanging together and accomplishing this goal," Ms. Wilson told the Reporter. "We had some tough moments but did what we had to at the right time."

At the conclusion of the tournament, Montevallo was awarded the championship trophy by Shelby County Coaches Association President Danny Alverson. He also named the All County selections as voted by the girl's coaches.

Named All County were: Janeice Scoggins and Angie Harris - Thompson, Rebecca Shaw -Chelsea, Sheila Howard and Janie Store - Briarwod, Sherry Goodwin and Hazel Hutchins -Pelham, Ruth Perkins, Lessie Gaddis and Debra Tyus -Montevallo.

The Lady Warriors defeated Vincent 53 to 34 in the first round and Briarwood 55 to 31 in the semis. In other tournament games, Pelham beat Indian Springs and Chelsea lost to Briarwood.

Pelham records best week going into county tourney

by Bob Patrick

Pelham enjoyed one of it's most productive weeks of the season as the Panthers slipped by Mountain Brook on Monday night 48-47 and then followed with convincing victories over Montevallo, 68-45, and Vestiavia 52-39.

The Mountain Brook contest saw the Spartans jump to a 14-10 lead in the first quarter behind the shooting of Jim Poist. Pelham played a fine floor game and had captured a 1 point lead by half 24-23.

The second half was a see-saw battle with the Panthers coming out on top by 1. Bryan Hughes had a fine game leading the Panthers with 19 while Todd Davis contributed 10.

On Tuesday night the Panthers traveled to Montevallo to take on the Bulldogs. the Panthers jumped out to an early lead and were never headed off as they won convincingly 68-45. Coach Taylor substituted freely in the game as indicated by the Pelham scoring.

Todd Davis led all scorers with 17 but the remaining 9 Panthers all scored ranging from 3 to 7 points. It was a team victory for Pelham.

Friday night saw the Panthers close out their successful week with a 52-39 victory over the Vestavia Rebels. This represented the third victory of the season for the Panthers over the Rebels and gave them a clear sweep of this years' series. Davis again led all scorers with 17 points with fine support from David Toner with 10 and Devin Tubert

Coach Taylor was well pleased with the team's performance this week. "It sure was good to get back on the winning track," said Taylor whose team had not won in 1982. The victories left the Panthers with a 10-7 record and a good momentum going into this week's always tough county tournament.

Taylor feels that his Panthers are beginning to play some good basketball and could be a factor in the tournament. "Our defense played well against Vestavia Friday night, and this is what we need to win."

Calera honors football team at banquet

by Richard Crosby

Calera athletes were honored last Thursday night at the school's annual football banquet. A crowd of 150 were on hand to honor the team which set school and county records in the 1981 season.

Coach Danny Alverson presided over the banquet and awarded trophies to his outstanding players. The awards and recipients were: Most Improved Lineman - David Bice, Most Improved Back - Edward Wilson, Good Sportsmanship Award - Derrick Merritte, 110 Percent Award - Ronald Byrd, Captains are Ricky Winterbottom Richard Russell and John Killingsworth.

Steve Beardin won the Ricky
M. Cairns Eagle Spirit award.
Principal Danny Goggins awarded the E. Marvin Smith
Scholastic Award to Marvin Har-

Quarterback Club President Robert Wade presented trophies to players selected by the club's membership. Defensive Players of the Year were Mike Roberson and Todd Killingsworth. Offensive Back of the Year is Richard Russell, and Offensive Lineman of the Year is Steve Beardin.

Girl's coach Elizabeth Jones awarded letters to her volleyball team members and named Gwendolyn Merritte as the Most Valuable Player.

Mrs. Margie Killingsworth, Lady Eagles Club President, presented each team member, trainer and coaches a trophy. David Ellison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dusty Ellison, won the autographed football that was given away during the banquet.

Alverson concluded the evening telling the audience his plans for next year. He also informed them that he and Principal Goggins have been working to pay off the athletic department debt which stood at $17,000 at the beginning of the year. "Our good year on the field resulted in a good year at the gate," Alverson stated.

We cut corners where possible and have now reduced our debt to $10,000. Our goal for next year is to 'Go 10 and 0 (on the football field) and get out of debt.' If we can do this, it will be the first time since I've been associated with the team (10 years) that the athletic department will be debt from?'

Alverson was praised for his work on the budget and his success on the football field with a standing ovation. He was named Shelby County Coach of the Year by the County Coaches Associa-can buy all the building materials for your spring building project right now, while the building supply market is down, and actually PAY LESS THAN LAST YEAR'S PRICES! And we have a notary's certification to prove it.

WECERTIFY IT:

During the winter months, when building slows down, the building materials market barely creeps along. And less demand means lower cost. Come spring though, as the demand increases, so will the prices. But MARVIN'S UNIQUE PRE-PURCHASE PLAN brings the cost down BELOW 1981 SPRING PRICES!

If for some reason you cancel your project prior to delivery, it's no problem. MARYIN'S MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE insures that you'll get a FULL REFUND of your purchase price. You can't lose!

And by buying now, YOU'LL SAVE UP TO 34% OFF LAST YEAR'S PRICES! That could mean a savings of hundreds of dollars or more! Check out the prices below. Then come into Marvin's and see for yourself how much YOU CAN SAVE... BUT ONLY AT MARVIN'S!

Bearded deer?

Mike Brown's deer doesn't have a very impressive rack, but it does have a nice 11-inch beard. The Alabaster man was deer hunting off highway 26 Saturday when he stirred up this 23-pounder. "I wasn't about to let him fly by," he said, so he fired away. Mike said it's the first turkey he's ever shot. We said it's the first deer we've ever seen with wings. He said the woods are full of them...(Photo by David F.

Salvage dealers warn car buyers

Are you sure that the used automobile you have just bought is not a stolen vehicle? There are over 12,000 vehicles stolen in the state of Alabama every year. Here's a few suggestions from Mr. Don Clements, president of the Alabama Dismantlers and Recyclers Association. (auto salvage dealers) on now to spot a stolen car.

"Every day we buy cars, both wrecked and in good condition, so we've got to be careful in today's market that we don't get caught by a car thief," explains the Dothan salvage dealer, "Here are some of the things we watch for."

"First, see if the vin (identification) plate, located right in front of the driver on top of the dash board, has been tampered with. Next, check to see if the dashboard is loose, then see if the ignition switch is loose.

"Look at your keys and find out if they are the original keys issued by the manufacturer. Look for pull marks in the ignition switch, which look like scrat-

"Be cautious if the license plate bolts are new. Look at the engine identification numbers and see if they look like they've been tampered with. Note if the registration is recently issued. Finally, answer these questions to yourself honestly: 1. Is the seller too easy to deal with? 2. Is the asking price under the market? 3. Do they want cash payment? 4. Has the vehicle been purchased lately by the seller?

Clements said that recent laws passed by the Alabama legislature have made it a lot tougher for the car thief to sell their stolen autos, so those offered for sale will be easier to

Hunting season draws to a close

County hunters can forget deer for a year. The hunting season ended January 28th (today). Turkey hunters can take a rest for a couple months. That season also ended today and won't be back till late March.

Most hunters will admit that this season was a good one. Archers might have gotten the best results, having the longest season in several years, and being unlimited in the amount and sex

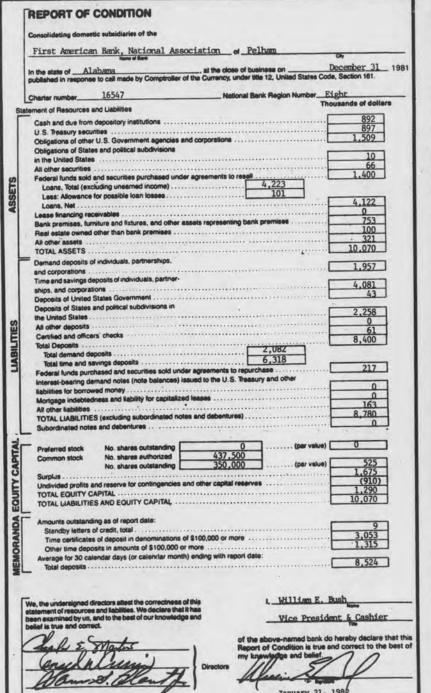

Turkey hunters traditionally hold out till spring for their big effort. It takes more skill calling them gobblers up close than waiting for them in the bushes. If you just can't give up hun-

Writer wants support for hunting deer

Letter to the Sports Editor:

To Sportsmen who enjoy hunting with dogs this is an open letter to you!

Most dog hunters do not realize how close we came to losing our sport this year. And unless we who hunt with dogs make our wishes known to members of the Dept. of Conservation Governor's Advisory Board we may soon see the end of dogging for deer in Alabama.

The reason is the renegade deer hunter. These are the so-called lazy hunters, those who shoot deer from the public highways and have no respect for people or their property. They shoot deer in front of dogs that are not theirs, steal dog's that the legitimate dog hunter has fed and taken pride in for years, or take the dog for only a short while to hunt them to death during the season and leave them in the woods.

It's time we stood up and let this Advisory Board know that we, the legitimate dog hunters, want to keep our sport and are willing to do everything we can even if it means reporting the renegade law violator's. These people have given the legitimate dog hunters a bad image, and a bad name. Unless they are stopped the future of dog hunting in our state looks bleak.

Let Charles Kelley, director of the Game and Fish Division of the Alabama Department of Conservation know that we want to help do our part to be able to keep and pursue our sport.

antenna. I asked him why he chose me when he must have had a bunch of other football fanatics requesting his service.

His answer: (and I was expecting something like "Because yours was the most expensive") "I'm so far behind now that I won't even get to watch the game." I promised to tell him the score Monday in case he was 'telling it like it is'.

The revenue from the game was nearly unbelievable. I could tell that CBS was trying to get some extra bucks near the end of the game as three straight timeouts were filled with four commercials apiece.

Now all I have to do is figure out a way for the Reporter to sell ads for $350,000 each. I'll take a time-out to think about it.

Even if you never add a cent to your savings account, that money will still earn regularly.

18 year old car wins derby in annual pinewood contest

An 18 year old racing car was still the fastest car on the track Saturday.

Lucky Crocker, a guest of one of the dads in Cub Scout Pack 5, won the adult race in the pack's annual Pinewood Derby.

This is the first time that grown-ups have taken part in the event, which is held every year at Christ Church, United Methodist.

Crocker lived up to his nickname when the pinewood racer he made when he was a Cub Scout crossed the finish line in first place.

Thirty boys entered racers in the derby this year. And the winners were as follows: Lightweight David Nolin, 2nd; Heavyweight -Brad Burgess, 1st; Michael Knight, 2nd.

In the design category, Kelly White was awarded first place,

- Jonathan Sternes, 1st; John Brian Crisman, 2nd and Brian Chambers, 3rd.

Second and third place winners in the adult race were Bob Thomas, 2nd and Curt Klerner,

THS class of 1972 plans big reunion

Members of Thompson High School's class of 1972 are planning to hold a reunion in April.

So far, 120 members of the salary. class have been contacted, but those in charge of the event are still trying to find about 30 class members whose whereabouts are unknown.

Anyone who has not been contacted as yet, or who would like further information, may contact Mary (Henry) Harris, 663-7203 or Carol (Roy) Tipton, 664-2852.

And after getting advice from the agent who handles the pro-Buck Falkner appointed a committee to draw up a resolution on Neal Bailey from Trans America told the panel that they should draw up guidelines which would penalize withdrawals.

It was noted that the IRA had been used like a savings account by the employee who withdrew the funds in December and then expressed his intentions of investing in it again this year.

Employees can put up to $1,500 in the account and the city contributes 5% of the employees

Pointing out that it was to the employees' advantage to keep the money in the account, Bailey reported that the interest rate had gone from 10% to 141/2%.

If an employee put $1,000 a year into the account, Bailey observed, and retired 25 years later, the 4% hike in interest would give him $221,000.

He also noted that participaaccount was tax deductible.

It was Bailey's suggestion that if an employee withdrew the account for financial gain, the city would never participate again.

However, if there was a valid reason for emptying the account, Bailey suggested a penalty of 2-5 years before the city would again contribute.

The mayor appointed Councilmen Frank Owen, Lewis Walker and Harold McCord to draw up guidlines and present them at the next meeting.

It was decided that the subject of advertising benches also be studied further.

The Woodcrest agency had asked permission to put the pre cast concrete and redwood benches at various locations in the ci-

New lures expected to attract customers

P & W Tackle in Pelham Mall has in a complete new line-up of spring fishing equipment.

Wayne Swinney has recently returned from a number of tackle shows where he's been boning up on the industry's latest developments and has carefully selected what he thinks are the season's best bets.

Wayne says the Nilsmaster lure is going to be one of the hottest items this spring.

The Nilsmaster has long been popular with northern fisherman. P & W will be one of the first tackle shops in the state to offer this proven lure.

P & W is starting off the season with a big supply of squeeler worms, Lancer graphite rods, vests, and rainsuits for men and women.

And having been named the area dealer, P & W has been given a special price from the factory on the ever popular Shimano

For those favoring saltwater fishing, you haven't been ignored. P & W has in stock everything you'll need before heading off to the gulf.

P & W offers quick service on rod and reel repairs as well as gun repairs. Or if its just a problem with a sticking reel, the folks at P & W will clean your reel while you browse through the new spring inventory.

A known name in bass fishing circles, Swinney takes pride in offering only quality equipment at every level of expertise, from the novice fisherman to the accomplished angler.

P & W will begin staying open until 9 p.m. on Fridays to insure you'll get to the lakes and rivers with everything you might need for a long day of fishing.

And hunters be aware, all hunting supplies including rifles and shotguns, pants, coats, and other outdoor apparel have been marked down to end of the season

Feb. concert marks organ's 20th year

Dr. Betty Louise Lumby, University of Montevallo organist and Music Department faculty member, will present a concert Sunday, Feb. 7 at 4 p.m. in UM's LeBaron Recital Hall.

The concert, rescheduled because of the recent snow and ice storm, will honor the 20th anniversary of UM's 15-rank organ which was built by Dirk Flentrop of Zaandam, Holland.

The organ was the first complete 20th century tracker instrument by the Flentrop firm to be placed in the Southeastern United

The program will consist of "The Greater Catechism," a collection of organ works by Bach composed on Lutheran chorale melodies.

The public is invited to attend.

Musicians perform contemporary works

A program of contemporary music, including works by University of Montevallo students and faculty, will be performed Monday, Feb. 1, in UM's LeBaron Recital Hall.

The program includes "Two Nursery Rhymes," by Arthur Bliss, Gettig's piano Sonata No. 1, and a UM Student Woodwind Ouintet Performance of Inocente Carreno's "Quinteto."

Also featured on the program are vocal, ensemble and synthesizer works by UM composition students Barry Roshto and Doug Whitworth and UM Music Department faculty member Dr. Ed Robertson.

The concert, and annual event at UM, begins at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend free of

UM offers fitness

The University of Montevallo is offering its faculty-staff physical fitness program to area residents.

Dr. Ward Tishler, program director, said participants will either meet at 12 noon Monday, Wednesday and Friday, or 5:15 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Thursday in Bibb Graves Hall.

The program lasts through May

Off-campus participants pay $20 each or $25 per family. Phone Tishler at 665-2521, ext. 407, for more information.

Activities include stretching, calisthenics, walking, running, weight-lifting and diet informa-

Here to stay

Ted Metz is getting a grant to help him convert his sandscapes into concrete.

In Service

Marine Lance Cpl. Paul J. Thompson, son of Barbra and Donald E. Thompson Jr. of Arrowhead Trail, Alabaster, has reported for duty with the Marine Wing Headquarters Squadron One, Marine Corps Air Station, Futenma, on Okinawa.

Shawn L. Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan J. Browning of Rt. 1, Columbiana, has been appointed a sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

Browning is a fuels specialist at Minot Air Force Base, N.D., with the 91st Supply Squadron.

Grant to help

Artist tries 'firming up' sand

For the past four years, University of Montevallo sculptor Ted Metz has poured, molded, shaped and sliced through dry sand to make "sandscapes," complex geometric designs on the floors of a number of Southeastern museums and galleries.

But like beach sand castles, Metz's floor sculptures are not permanent. They change every time an insect crawls across the surface or a youngster pokes his finger into the loose material.

Metz has received a grant from the National Endowment on the Arts to help him experiment with methods to convert the designs into a more permanent medium, concrete. He hopes to use the designs in architecture.

A graduate of Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Va., Metz also holds a master of fine arts degree in sculpture from the University of South Carolina. At UM, he teaches ceramics and sculpture.

For the UM artist, working with permanent forms may be somewhat of a return to some of his early works which evolved from geometric designs in stainless steel and plastics through permanent designs made of clay - designs that dealt with landscapes and earth forms.

One of Metz's earth form clay pieces now in the Birmingham Museum of Art has been selected for a three-year touring exhibit of the eastern states sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American Art.

During the past 11 years, Metz has won a number of awards and has exhibited his works in more than 50 art shows, including oneman exhibits as well as juried and invitational group shows throughout the Southeast.

State wins asphalt lawsuit netting county highways $807

fund of $807 from liquid asphalt purchases covering the years 1973

The refund comes as the result of settlement of an antitrust suit filed against five major producers of liquid asphalt: Chevron, USA; Hunt Oil Co.; Seminole Asphalt Refining; Vulcan Asphalt Refining Company and Warrior Sales and Distributors of Alabama.

The suit was filed by the state of Alabama and alleged that the defendants conspired to fix prices and allocate territories and

By use of a class action lawsuit, Attorney General Charles Graddick represented several cities, counties, and the state.

A total settlement of $230,000 was reached. The state will get the largest refund, in the amount

Shelby County Engineer Gary

Ray said that the county has had a contract with Chevron for many years and purchases asphalt from Chevron to repair county highways. Any big jobs in the county are performed under contract to private construction companies, he said.

Ray indicated that the refund would probably be applied toward repairing damage to county roads that occurred during the recent heavy ice storm.

Can you believe it?

Food costs less than 50 years ago

by Ed Curran U.S. Department of Agriculture

Grandpa always remembers that bread was 10 cents a loaf, steak was 49 cents a pound and beer was a nickel a glass during the "good old days." But he somehow forgets that he worked for $14 or $15 a week and that those weeks consisted of six days and that those days ran 10 to 12 hours long--back in the "good old days."

But U.S. Department of Agriculture economist Lloyd Teigen has put this all in perspective to point out that while food is by no means cheap today, it's more of a bargain now than it was a half century ago.

That's because while food than they were in the 1930s, the average worker's paycheck now is 11 times higher than it was Teigen figures that the average wage earner in 1930 had to work 118 minutes to buy the food the modern worker toils only 61 minutes to buy. By 1940, that total was down to 107 minutes and it reached 94 minutes in 1950. It was just 73 minutes in 1960 and only 58 minutes in 1970--the latter well below today's total.

The reason: Teigen's index-which includes the difference in after tax income--shows that while food costs fell 2 1/2 percent a year from 1947 to 1972, they shot up 11 percent from 1972 to 1974. Since then, they have reprices are four-times higher now mained on a plateau that has seen year to year variations of less than 3 percent.

Again, using his index, Teigen notes that from 1940 to 1980:

The cost of meats fell 37.6

 Poultry costs to consumers fell nearly 80 percent. · Dairy costs fell 37.6 percent.

· Margarine costs fell 65 per-

 The costs of processed fruits and vegetables fell 55 percent.

 The cost of cereal and baked goods fell 48 percent.

The cost of sugar fell 34.2

All of this may not help much at the supermarket checkout counter. But it might give you a leg up on grandpa next time he says how good things were in the "good old days."

Office promotions anger teachers

rs in the Shelby County 'stem are frustrated and angry that four employees in the central office are being given higher pay.

They feel this way because they haven't had a raise in two years. At last Tuesday's Board of Education meeting, a crowd estimated at 350, heard the board unanimously approve the salary increases, which amount to a total of approximately $11,000. Superintendent of Education Charles Knowles pointed out that the higher pay was not a raise, but rather the salary that goes along with promotions the four receiv-

This did little to mollify the teachers, especially since one increase amounted to $5,600 a

With that amount added to the salary she received as office manager, Wylodene Hill is now getting $27,420 per year.

The duties she performs as administrative assistant and her educational qualifications (MA, AA certificate), entitle her to that salary, Knowles says.

Board chairman Barbara Whitman explained that the additional pay accompanying the promotions was included in this year's budget under salaries.

She noted the board felt they had the money to increase the salaries of four individuals, but not 1,003 employees (656 teachers, 347 support workers).

And underlining that fact, Knowles mentioned that there will probably be a $100,000 deficit at the end of the year in order to meet the last payroll.

But UNISERV Director Wayne Sumners said that the figures he gathered from the Tax Assessor's office tell a different

He contends that the amount of sales tax and beer tax which the board will receive this year, is enough to at least give teachers a one time payment of $300 and support workers $150.

Even though the projected figures for the tax revenue were called conservative by Sumners, Knowles contended that they were only "projections."

Referring to the one time handout as a "band-aid" approach, the superintendent contended that it wouldn't help the school system.

A committee was formed last October to study the reorganization in the central office which resulted in setting up departments headed by Hill and the other

Another committee is now at work studying salaries and fringe benefits for administrators and

It was at the first meeting, attended only by administrators, that teacher representatives were added. The expanded group met Feb. 2.

That committee, Knowles pointed out, was formed at his request. By offering salaries and benefits comparable to other systems in the state, "we will be in an advantageous position to hold good employees," he declared. And the pay raise the legislature is studying for teachers, is not tied in to what the committee is working on.

One teacher asked if Hill would get the same raise that the legislature gives teachers since she is certified, and Knowles replied that she would.

Some of the teachers viewed that as a second raise, but Knowles pointed out again that her increase in salary was not a raise, but the pay that goes with the added responsibilities of her position.

There was some question about the number of employees in the central office, and teachers wondered if the number on the payroll are really necessary.

According to one classroom teacher, resource teachers don't help in reducing the pupil-teacher

Since Knowles took office, three resource teachers have been put on the central office staff.

He also added two clerk-typists and an office manager, bringing the total number on the central staff to 29 - six more than former superintendent Elvin Hill had.

From the viewpoint of one longtime teacher in the county, the promotions now give us, "too many Indian Chiefs,"

But Knowles and the board see the move as making the office more efficient with the delegation of duties.

Annette Smith moved from secretary to chief administrative clerk at a monthly salary of $1,088 plus $50 for taking and transcribing the minutes at board meetings.

The promotion increases her annual salary from $12,360 to $13,656.

Chief personnel clerk is Sherry Hutto's title. Her promotion means she'll be making a monthly salary of $1,103 with an annual salary of $13,236. As clerktypist she made $11,148 annually.

In order to bring the fragmented accounting system in the central office together, Betty Jones was made chief accounting clerk at a monthly salary of Her yearly income as clerktypist increased from $10,788 to $12,876.

Questioned as to whether these jobs had been advertised. Knowles said they had not because it was a case of the four employees being promoted to the new positions.

Board member Paul Sumners called the move "ill timed." And some teachers asked the panel, "If school is a family affair, why don't you help us feed our

County land appraisers earn highest scores in state test

Jim Sumners and Steve Hagar of the Shelby County Tax Assessor's office were at the top of the class when they recently qualified as "Alabama Certified Appraisers."

The designation is new to the state, and came about as a result of the state's property reappraisal programs.

The Alabama Association of Assessing Officials and the State Department of Revenue backed the classes, saying that since all counties were going to be doing their own assessing, the appraisers should have professional training. With the cooperation of Auburn University, the classes were offered at intervals during the past two years. Both Sumners and Hagar began attending and had over 200 hours of class work and three years experience before taking the examination.

Sumners is supervisor of the Property Maintenance Department and Hagar is chief appraiser for the county.

Of 43 candidates who were qualified to take the test, only 10 persons passed, and the two Shelby Countians earned the highest scores of the 10. They were notified of their honor on January 22.

Highway 25 is now under study as a possible location for the building.

At the present location, city officials feel they do not have enough room for the present city functions, and there is almost no room to expand.

In another property matter, the city council Monday night heard Charles and Bill Baxley say they believed $7,000 would be a fair price for their property on Pilgreen Drive. The city has offered $3,500 after the city appraiser suggested a price of $1,850. The land is needed for a city gas line. The Baxleys felt that the city's payment of $4,306 for Billy Tidwell's two parcels of land, should mean that the Baxleys six parcels are worth $7,000.

Because the two parties could not get together, the city intends to go ahead with condemnation proceedings.

280 opening delayed

The target date for opening the new section of highway 280 from Oak Mountain to Chelsea has been moved forward to mid-March.

State highway department district engineer James Braden told the Reporter the December opening date had been postponed because of the late arrival of safety railings.

Only two weeks of working time are needed to open the new road but Braden predicted February's tendency towards rain would probably slow progress.

Only one lane of the road will be opened at a time, he believes, and it may be longer yet before the tie-in on the east side of Oak Mountain is complete. The west side of the mountain should be open to four lanes of traffic by March.

Braden also said the rest area atop Oak Mountain was due to close this week for two to three months. The rest area is to be renovated and handicap facilities will be installed, he said.

Pelham catches dog flack

by David F. Moore

For years Pelham, like most local cities, has had problems dealing with dog complaints. So last fall, in an attempt to curb doggie woes once and for all, the council passed its third and strictist dog ordinance to date.

But some of the city's residents feel the latest dog ordinance is actually creating more problems than it's solving. More than a dozen people, most of whom live in Chandalar, attended Monday's council meeting to protest the ordinance, and more particularly the manner in which it's enforced.

As Chandalar spokesman Jim

Pino told the council, it's the $70. "over zealous" enforcement of the leash law that's causing most of the problems.

Pino said the residents had come "merely to appraise the council of the situation." But the appraisals grew heated several times before the council voted to discuss the issue at a call meeting and report back by the regular February 15 meeting.

"I don't doubt but that we need a leash law," admitted resident Frank Hackett. "But it does not have to be enforced to such a harassing degree."

Riverchase veterinarian W.J. Whitman told the council that the dogs being caught by the canine patrol appeared to be "easy marks," as opposed to vicious, rabid or problem dogs. Whitman, who's under contract with the city, said 20-25 dogs were brought to him by the dog catcher in December for boarding until their masters had signed bonds against the arrest warrants issued by the dog catchers.

With fines, boarding fees, bond and court costs, having Rover nabbed running loose in Pelham can cost the owner $60 or

With such strict laws, Chris DeHaven said, the government has overstepped itself and created a "police state." He equated the dog catchers' methods with a policemen pulling over every adult driver and giving him an alcohol test for drinking.

"I would plead for some sanity from the council, or that you start enforcing all laws to this extreme," DeHaven said to a round of applause from the audience.

The ordinance states that if a dog is outside its house, it has to be confined, on a leash, or under its owner's immediate supervi-

Several residents, however, said that in their presence the dog catchers came into their yards or carports and picked up their dogs; or clapped and called to the dog, enticing it to the caged truck; or set in their driveway waiting for the dogs to come out-

Dunaway said the dog catchers contend that in these instances the dogs had been running loose, and the canine patrol had gone to the dogs' homes to wait for them to return.

Two residents questioned how the dog catchers knew where the dogs lived; others questioned why no apparent steps were taken to notify owners when their dog was picked up.

Indian Hills resident Sue Ann Myers said the problem was not confined to Chandalar, and that it upset her to see the dog truck "just cruising down our street, not answering complaints." Councilman Ray Hamilton labeled the problem as being one "of procedure, rather than substance of the ordinance."

Hamilton and Duanway responded to complaints about the canine patrol issuing arrest warrants against owners, by noting that previous dog laws required the person making the complaint to sign the warrant. The problem with this, they said, is that complainers seem seldom, if ever, to want to sign warrants against their neighbors.

After more than an hour of discussion the council passed Ken Maynard's motion for a call meeting to be held to review the matter and report back at the next regular meeting.

In answer to questions from residents slated to appear in court this week on loose doggie charges, Dunaway said he would ask the judge to postpone their court dates until after the special meeting.

After the meeting Dunaway conceded that even with the new leash law, he still gets far more complaints on loose dogs than anything.

"It's a problem,' he said. "No doubt about it. And it's going to be difficult to come up with a solution everyone will be happy

Among the other residents who attended the meeting in connection with the dog issue were Ellen Hackett, Phillip Mangina, Mike Elward, Ruby and Nita Rubria. Gary Boren, John and Diane Boolos, and Jack, Charlie and Michael Ivey.

Pelham's dog catchers are Paul Yeager III, Craig Underwood and sometimes Cary Sullivan. Dunaway said they are in college, but together work five days a

Park boss denies rumor

by David F. Moore

New park superintendent Phillip Easterwood denied Friday that politics or personalities played any part in the hiring of a shop worker at Oak Mountain golf course.

Questions concerning the hiring of the ex-wife of a state senator surfaced last week after Shelby County Commissioners traveled to Montgomery to question state officals on the reassignment of former, long-time park superintendent John Meredith, and former chief engineer Henry "Seemingly, this entire issue isn't over the park, but over personalities," Easterwood told the Reporter. "If the county commission was interested in the good of the park, it seems they'd come out here and see our positive and upward momentum."

Meredith was transferred in December to Chewacla State Park near Auburn, where he was superintendent before his appointment to Oak Mountain in 1972; Gould was transfered to Joe Wheeler State Park.

A job at Chewacla was also found for Mrs. Meredith, who had worked in the Oak Mountain Pro-Shop with Mrs. Gould. Soon after the Merediths and Gould left, Easterwood reassigned Gould's wife, Lillian, to the cash register at the grill across the hall from the pro-shop.

Easterwood made Tommy Truss, a park employee since 1974, manager of the pro-shop. Truss, in turn, interviewed four people, three of whom he recomwhich he did after approval from the state's acting park director Gary Beers.

Hired were course marshall Mike Bradley, Mrs. Mary Patricia Cook and Stephanie Stephanu, a park maintanance worker whose job under the federal Young Adult Conservation Corps was about to expire.

Mrs. Cook's hiring raised a question of politics with at least one county commissioner because she is the ex-wife of Senator Doug Cook of Vestavia.

Easterwood, however, said that Mrs. Cook went through the park's normal hiring pro-

Truss told the Reporter he was neither pressured nor told whom to hire, but that Mrs. Cook was hired on the merits of her inter-

Easterwood said Mrs. Gould had never indicated to him any negative feelings about her reassignment. Her shift, he said, would enable her to better benefit the park, while allowing the two new workers to be trained in the pro-shop during the off-season.

Both women were hired at the state's beginning salary for resort worker classifications, which Easterwood said was in the $4/hour range. Considering the responsibility of working in a pro-shop that last year netted $189,000 profit, and considering how much they could be making in the private sector, Easterwood said he thought the women were probably underpaid.

He pointed out they were shown no special considerations mended that Easterwood hire, as far as pay for their classifications went and that their salaries were approved through the park commissioner's office.

"We don't look at Mrs. Gould, Mrs. Cook or Stephanie as individuals, but we have to look at the overall work-hours needed to run the park," Easterwood said.

Easterwood explained that all of the park's 50 employees occasionally are called on to do jobs outside the normal duties their positions entail.

For instance, he said he informed Cook and Stephanu last Wednesday that they would probably be asked to plant shrubbery around the pro-shop. In the spring, Gould, he said, would likely be moved again to the gift shop or snack bar near the main office.

"Personnel changes are just that--changes in personnel," Easterwood said. "Our main priority is to provide quality outdoor recreation. That was John Meredith's philosphy and it's mine, too. Believe me, if I don't uphold the standards of Oak Mountain, there's people in Montgomery who'll see to it that I don't have a job at all."

"I'm not a politician," Easterwood stated. "Any expertise I have is in park management, and to me the main issue is the park and providing quality recreation. Politics can remain in-well the realm of politicians."

If backers of Meredith visited the park, Easterwood said he could show them the progress being made there.

Easterwood called Meredith a good man and a friend of his. From that viewpoint, he said he understood the commissioners' feeling towards Meredith.

But, he added, "if they want to continue to dwell on the fact that John Meredith is in Auburn and "I think it's funny because they have such an excellent man in here (as superintendent)," Truss said in a separate interview. "He can do a lot for Shelby County. They're just having a hard time accepting him for some reason. But he's tough enough to stick it out."

Clerk elected

Pelham City Clerk Willie Mae Dennis was elected last week as director of District III of the Alabama Municipal Clerks Association. The position was vacated by Odenville clerk Margaret Newton.

The league is divided into 13 districts across the state, and is designed to act as a clearninghouse for information on dealing with problems facing city clerks and their municipalities. The organization also strives to further the professionalism of the clerks, Dennis said.

Dennis, who recently became the first certified city clerk in Shelby County, and who has been city clerk of Pelham since the town incorporation in the '60s, said she was "railroaded" into the honorary position.

The election was held January

Ms. Albright showed the 30-minute documentary, "Shouting song," for the first time last Thursday at the University of Montevallo. Some of the singers in the videotape production came to the first showing, and after they saw the film, they sang sitting in the traditional sacred harp square.

Ms. Albright filmed sacred harp singing at four rural Alabama churches and at the National Sacred Harp Singing Convention at Samford University. She received a grant to product the videotape production from the Committee for the Humanities in Alabama, a state program of the National Endowment for the Humanities. UM is fiscal agent for the grant.

The Alabama Public Telvision Network will broadcast the show statewide, although the time and date will be announced later. ### Alabaster hears garage sale objections

City fathers in Alabaster agreed that Councilman Jack Reagin had drawn up a good ordinance governing garage sales.

But at Monday night's meeting they found that there are some citizens who disagree.

Martin Blankenship pf Port South objected to the sales being limited to two per year and also to a fee being charged. "I don't think you can pass such an ordinance unless it's revised," the irate resident declared.

The purpose of the ordinance, Reagin explained, is to exclude those who are making a business out of garage sales, yard sales and similar types of activity.

But another person in the audience felt that it was hurting even those who were doing it

"Why should everyone who needs to get rid of junk be punished?" Harvey McHan ask-

Both men felt that many families needed to hold sales throughout the yard. Jim Durrett, who also objected to the ordinance in its present form, mentioned the signs that must be obtained from city hall. If the signs announcing the sale aren't returned, a $10 charge is to be made for each one missing. It was Durrett's suggestion that individuals who wanted to hold sales put their names in a book at city hall rather than pay a fee for a permit.

There was also opposition to charging churches and other charitable organizations. But Reagin pointed out that the ordinance clearly states that churches and non-profit organizations are exempt.

Blankenship said he was glad the city's attorneys were studying the ordinance because he believed it was unconstitutional.

After it was brought to the council's attention that Alabaster resident, Laymon Roy, had been promised that 1.5 acres of land belonging to him would be taken out of the city's boundaries, they voted unanimously to do so.

Informing the council that a property swap had taken place under a previous administration, Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin said that the terms of the agreement had never been carried out.

A piece of property had been purchased from Roy which became part of the city park. In exchange for that land, the city had given Roy another piece of property which was to have been removed from the city limits.

In other business, bids were accepted for paving the tennis court and a pickup truck for the street department.

The paving contract went to the low bidders, Alabaster Paving whose figure was $5,972.40. Strickland Chevrolet was awarded the contract for the pickup truck. Their low bid bid was $7,880.89.

County employee salaries listed

Salaries of public servants are much in the news, with the legislature in session, and with the recent flap over raises given to certain board of education employees in Shelby County.

Here are some of the other salaries paid to employees of Shelby County:

In the courthouse, persons paid by the Shelby County Commission, (excluding the sheriff's department) received no raise for the current fiscal year.

The bi-weekly salary for a person beginning work with the county with no experience is $398.80 per week. A person with six months experience can start at $409.50. A person with "one year from six months" experience can qualify for a salary of $422.60 biweekly, or $10,987.60 per year.

The top pay a secretary in the county employ can earn is $452.90 bi-weekly, or $11,775.40 per year. The chief clerk in each of the county's offices earns $513.45 bi-weekly or $13,349.70 per year. Add about one-third for the value of fringe benefits.

Some of these employees are grimly mentioning that raises this year given to sheriff's deputies amounted to more than the annual salary of some of the courthouse workers.

The sheriff's department is tied to the same pay scale as the state troopers earn, and the county commission has no control over these wages. Even the sheriff was astounded at how much the raises were this year. Chief Deputy James Jones' raise was in the neighborhood of $11,000 this year. He and two lieutenants in the department now bring home bigger salaries than the sheriff according to Sheriff Buddy Glasgow. (The sheriff's salary is determined by legislative act, and is not tied to the troopers' scale.)

The sheriff also told the Reporter that some deputies, with many years of service, qualify for higher salaries than

A captain in step 7, the highest step, now earns $31,564 per year. A lieutenant in the same step earns $28,275. Those with sergeant rank can earn up to $25,415. Add to each salary about one-third more, which is the value of fringe benefits.

'Promotions' disregard teacher morale

School is supposed to be a family affair in Shelby County.

But the promotions and accompanying pay raises doled out last week by the board of education to four central office workers has stirted serious marital problems among the second most important element of the "family": the teachers.

We have no arguments that the board's office in Columbiana needed reorganizing, that department heads were needed, and higher wages should accompany additional responsibilities. That's not the issue.

the seemingly total disregard for the feelings and financial needs of the teachers and support personnel in the school system.

Teachers and other school workers have not had a raise in two years (quick: how much has inflation jumped since 1979?) Did anyone ever stop to consider what effect these promotions will have on their morale?

And doesn't the board realize that across the entire country governments, school systems, businesses and families are having to tighten their economic

The issue is one of timing, and belts during these times of recession?

> Viewing the Shelby County Board of Education's action in such light brings to mind past legislative sessions in which seantors and representatives, as their first act in office, passed themselves pay raises without flinching. Or of pre-revolution days in European countries where ruling classes held all the cards (and money), while the peasants grew increasingly restless.

> True: the $11,000 in raises would not have gone far toward helping salaries or providing "band-aid" bonuses to the 1,003 teachers and support personnel in the system. But on the other hand, $11,000 to a select few can hurt the majority's morale.

In a word, the board's timing was lousy.

Unfortunately, those who stand to be hurt the most by the ill-timed move are the members of the most important element of the "family:" the students. Low teacher morale has never been known to help the quality of education.

Good Morning

by Milton Bird

The weekly 'Good Morning' column written by Milton Bird, is brought to you with the good wishes of the First National Bank of Columbiana, member of the FDIC.

Memory Lane: Mrs. Hicks, a little lady not much bigger than a loaf of bread, lived at the foot of Granny's hill, on the side toward Wilsonville. The way she came, visiting, was maybe half a quarter.

A pretty good walk, uphill, for a little-lady. And if I saw her coming up the hill once, I saw her coming a thousand times, always for one reason: to see if she, by chance, had left her glasses at Granny's house. And I don't remember a single time that her glasses weren't sticking in her hair just above her forehead. Why she didn't, after a thousand trips, reach up to see if her glasses were there, I never did know. I guess because I never did ask her.

The jukebox was down the aisle, in a little opening between the booths, and coming out of it was the soft mellow sound of a piece called Josephine. There were a dozen of us there, with maybe a couple of dollars in all, and enough gas in the cars outside to get us home if we went the short way. But nobody seemed to

To Be You. Tomorrow would be a Saturday and there'd be a ball game at Columbiana or Wilsonville or Sterrett or Vincent or Helena or Siluria. And there wouldn't be any money there either. And nobody would seem to mind. Folks would put a nickel in the hat to pay for the balls, and holler for somebody they liked better than the rest. And there's one other thing: keeping up with the Joneses was the easiest thing in the world to do.

I guess there was a thousand gallons of kerosene in the ditch next to the rail road a little past the wash-hole in Longshore's pasture. It got there becuase the train jumped the track and one car, filled with kerosene, tilted and let the kerosene spill out.

Granny let us go, down the wash-hole trail out past the dewberry patch and the indian trails. We had two buckets each, all except Marcus Polk and Hector Lyons. they carried a ten gallon tub, one on each side, swinging it in little half circles as they walked. I remember Granny said, when somebody asked why she let us go: "Hadn't you heard? Kerosene is going to ten cents a gallon next week."

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

Gov. Fob James will tell you without a moment's hesitation what he considers to be the major achievement of administration--it is what he calls his "War on Illiteracy."

It is a fact that when he came to Montgomery three years ago most Alabama school children who took competency tests in the basic subjects could not match the national average. It is also true that last year for the first time in history the Alabama students did indeed match or exceed the national average in these

"That was worth the trip to Montgomery, that alone," Gov. James said in a recent interview.

But it is obvious that the apparent success of the program has not created similar enthusiasm in the Legislature. This past week, with leaders of the Alabama Education Association calling the shots, the legislative fiscal committees performed radical and perhaps fatal surgery on the governor's war effort. Funds for the "War on Illiteracy" program in the education appropriation bill were reduced drastically. In effect, the lawmakers ordered a cease-fire in the war.

The AEA has consistently opposed the program because it strikes at the very heart of what that organization stands for. The AEA believes the way to improve the quality of education in Alabama is to raise the salaries of teachers, and it further believes that the pay raises should be based on but two standards--seniority and the number of degrees earned by a teacher. The suggestion that teachers be rewarded financially because they are superior, rather than on the age-old standards seniority/degrees is totally unac-

Meeting called 'farce'

Letter to the Editor:

We are writing in regard to the Shelby County Board of Education meeting held at Montevallo High School, Jan. 26.

We considered it a farce, that is, according to Webster's dictionary, an absurd display or pretense. Even support personnel considered by them as nonprofessionals have intelligence enough to see thru their political manipulation.

It was evident at this meeting, with a large representation of teachers and support personnel, that we are tired of political partying in the central office.

Shelby Countians voted for tax monies to be collected and used to help educate their children instead is being used to promote central office personnel (give salary increases). Mr. Knowles states they are being promoted, yet, there wasn't anyone that had an opportunity to apply for these job openings nor were there any vacancies to be filled after these four people were promoted.

The four people promoted (so called) have a salary increase equal to more than twice the annual salary of some support personnel employed by this school system for more than 5 years. These support personnel people are full time employees of this school system and have not had a salary increase in two school terms. Yet, in the central office there is money to promote office personnel but no monies for pay increases.

Thru the years Chelsea School has had lots of school and community pride, tho left without industries and businesses to support and help finance many school projects. The citizenry of the Chelsea area have worked long and hard to upgrade and improve the school.

Be it known, to Superintendent Knowles and the entire Shelby County Board of Education, that we do not intend to sit idly by as they continue this type of operation to upgrade the central office staff, yet almost all administration, classroom teachers and support personnel are to continue with no pay increase and many have had an increased work load without any monetary compensation. We have every intent of letting them know in the days just out ahead we are as much a part of the Shelby County School system as the central office staff. Employees of the Chelsea High

'Create a chancellor'

by Fob James

We're losing millions of dollars through waste and duplication on the college and university campuses in Alabama, simply because we don't have the laws we need to stop it. We will, however, if the Legislature approves the corrective measures I have recommended.

I have proposed legislation to strengthen and rename the Alabama Commission on Higher Education in order to regain control over our institutions of higher learning.

I am advocating the creation of the office of Chancellor to serve under the State Board of Education in managing the junior colleges and technical colleges. The Chancellor would be answerable to the state board, which now supervises the two-year institu-

One of the major weaknesses of the present Commission on Higher Education is the lack of effective control over the instructional programs in the colleges and universities. It has the power to regulate and reject the addition of new subjects to the curriculum and does not affect those already being used.

What we need is a commission with tough authority to review the old as well as the new teaching programs and get rid of them if necessary. That is what the bill we are recommending to the Legislature will do.

Here's an example of how it would work:

Suppose the Commission found that too many colleges are offering identical or almost identical courses in a particualr subject. It could tell one or more of them to drop the course and, unless over-ruled by the Legislature, the course would be eliminated.

The Commission cannot do that now if the courses are already in existence. It only has authority in courses being offered as new subjects.

By court order, the Commission also has only limited authority over the off-campus branches created by four-year and two-year colleges. The court said the Commission's power to regulate or terminate off-campus branches applies only to those created after July 30, 1979.

It is obvious that the Commission as presently constituted has little more than advisory authority in some of the most vital areas, far short of the power it must have to stop the waste of taxpayers' money brought about by uncontrolled duplication of ser-

-Fourinstitutions have doctoral programs in physics. In 1979 the four schools awarded a total of 11 degrees in that field.

-- Since 1974, Alabama's fouryear colleges and universities have awarded twice as many master's degrees than bachelor's degrees in education.

-- In the past decade, appropriations for higher education in Alabama have increased 190% - twice as much as the national average. Why not use these resources to maximize advantages for the students and people of Alabama.

A trustees state position

Position Statement of Trustees, University of Alabama:

More than five years ago, The Board of Trustees of The University of Alabama requested the Legislature to initiate an amendment to the Constitution of our State increasing the membership of the Board.

Reduction in the number of Congressional Districts in past years has reduced the number of elected members on the Poard to eight at a time when the Board is faced with increasingly complex, important, and time-consuming matters. Further, the population of the state has increased, and the number of students enrolled on the three campuses under the Board's jurisdiction has continued to grow.

The University has statewide responsibilities. The Board of Trustees serves all the people of the State. The proposed increase in the number of Trustees will enable the Board to meet its obligations more effectively.

The Legislature has now adopted such a bill, and the amendment will be submitted to the people in a referendum scheduled for March 2, 1982. Elected membership will be increased from eight to fifteen, assuring increased representation from each Congressional

The members of the Board of Trustees strongly recommended the adoption of this amendment by the people of Alabama at the March referendum.

However, the very next day, whatever had been plaguing me struck again. Getting ready for bed, I looked in the mirror and to my horror, my neck was bare. What should have been there was a diamond pendant.

Trying to think when I'd last seen it, I remembered the chain catching in the label of my dress when I'd pulled it off after church.

And once again there was a happy ending for me.

Crawling around on the shag rug, I first located the chain, and nearby found the diamond.

So I was in fine spirits when I woke up on my birthday. But I tried not to think about which birthday it was.

By a strange quirk of fate though, I was given a reminder of just how many years I've been around.

There was a little sticker on a pair of knee socks I bought before going to work. As I pulled it off, I noticed the number was my age.

Can you beat that? Spooky, isn't it?

Here's local education salaries

There is concern among teachers in the Shelby County School system that the Board of Education's central office staff has more employees than are necessary.

And over 300 teachers and support workers turned out for the board meeting last week when four office employees were promoted and given higher pay.

They were told that the increase in pay the four received, which totaled a little over $11,000 would not have gone very far if divided among the 1,003 school system employees.

But the feeling was expressed that less money should be spent on salaries in the central office.

Although some of the teachers thought Superintendent of Education Charles Knowles had added quite a few employees to his staff since he took office, only six additional people wer e hired.

Of the 29 employees, 13 are either in managerial or instructional positions, 13 others are office workers, including a custodian, and there are three resource teachers (one is a counselor).

The seven coordinators are paid $600 above a high school principal's salary depending on rank in certification.

Although a high school principal with a doctorate and AA certificate can earn $28,380 annually if they are in step 10, no principal can be higher than step 3 this year.

So the highest salary a high school principal can earn now is $27,540.

The deputy superintendent is paid $2,400 above other coordinator positions.

Resource teachers are paid $600 above a teacher's salary plus one extra month. A teacher at step 10 with a AA certificate is paid $16,752.

Supervisors are paid the same way as resource teachers except the additional pay is $1,200 instead of $600.

Until the promotions, there were four clerk-typists. In step 10, an employee in this classification earns $11,868.

The custodian of school funds, in step 10, earns $17,904; the payroll clerk, $13,956.

Until she was promoted, the secretary, who was in step 5, earned $12,360. As chief administrative clerk, she now makes $13,656.

The salary for office manager was figured according to the teacher's salary schedule plus $900 above that rate.

However, the employee who held that position was promoted to a new position called administrative assistant at an annual salary of $27,420.

The board's maintenance supervisor is paid an annual salary of $19,809.

The superintendent of education makes $33,000 a year.

Columbiana girl enters pageant

Cathy Lynn McCord of Columbiana has been selected to be a state contestant in the 1982 Miss Alabama USA Pageant.

The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. McCord will enter competition to be held at the Sheraton Hotel in Huntsville, February 20 at 7:30 p.m. The Miss Alabama USA

Pageant is the official state finals to the Miss USA-Universe Pageant which will be nationally televised in May.

State winner will receive a scholarship to Jacksonville State University, round trip flight and ten days stay at Miss USA Pageant, diamond pendant, crown and other gifts.

The public is invited to attend the pageant. Tickets will be on sale at the door on pageant night.

During the two weeks the class studied the unit, students also made miniature wagons resembling ones the early settlers used, and some class members brought in old tools.

Local MDs average *80,000 income

Physicians in Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi and Kentucky earned the highest average net incomes of all physicians in the United States in 1978.

The mean net income for doctors, after professional expenses, but before taxes, in the four-state area was $79,700. The average in the United States was $65,500. The area where physicians' incomes are lowest was New England, where the figure was $54,900.

These figures are taken from a report by James Seldon in the January, 1982 edtion of "Alabama Business and Economic Reports," published by Auburn University at Montgomery. They reflect incomes for the calendar year 1978.

Seldon is an associate professor of economics at AUM, and uses figures from the American Medical Association's "Thirteenth Periodic Survey of Physicians."

The four states are grouped for reporting purposes into the "East South Central Census District (ESC)." The figures show that ESC physicians earned 21.7 percent more than the national average net income. For general practitioners, the gap was even wider, at 32.6 percent above the national average. Net returns in all areas of specialization in the ESC also showed well above average net income levels.

Seldon notes that the income differentials do not reflect higher fee levels.

The fees charged by ESC physicians were at or below national averages. But the number of patients they saw each week was much higher, and ESC physicians worked a slightly longer average number of weeks per year than others.

Weekly patient-visits per physician in the ESC were some 29 percent higher than the national average. At the same time, the average time a physician spent per patient visit was over 27 per-

In 1978 the number of physicians in Alabama was 122 for every 100,000 persons in the population. This was 35 percent below the U.S. mean of 187 per 100,000.

Seldon summarizes, "The picture which emerges from these figures is of ESC District physicians fewer in number per capita, facing higher demands per physician as a result, adapting to that heavier demand by making and earning higher incomes. Since there is good evidence to support the claim that physicians tend to make too little use of auxiliaries as substitutes for scarce physician time, the ESC practice "style" may in fact be desirable from the point of view of efficient resource use rather than an indication of a physician shortage. To patients who associate greater physician contact time with better quality care, of course, this will be little comfort."

Number One! Pelham is county champ

by Richard Crosby

CHAMPIONS!! In the true sense of the word, Pelham's Panthers became just that last Friday night. The road wasn't easy and it took several years and heartbeaking losses before coming, but how sweet it is to say 'Number One' and realize that it's true.

Pelham grabbed the County Championship and savored every minute of the victory. Just a look a the picture on the right of this page can tell it all. There were tears.... hundreds of fans overcome by joy, and there was the inevitable cry of "WE'RE NUMBER ONE". The hugging and chanting began in the last thirty seconds of the overtime period as the Panthers' victory became apparent.

Pelham moved ahead of the valiant Thompson Warriors by five points and the story was over. The final bucket by Thompson with seconds remaining only changed the score, not the outcome.

The final count was 43 to 40 and the first win of its kind was Pelham's. Tournament Most Valuable Player Bobby Sutton might have summed up the feelings of the team, saying "We deserved it." Coach Tony Taylor attributed the win to the team's leadership. "It was a team effort. We've waited a long time. Our fans play an important role and they were tremendous."

The championship game was a tough one for both Pelham and Thompson. The Warriors took the lead and held on till late in the second quarter as Pelham moved ahead. The Panthers held that lead for nearly the rest of the game.

As the clock ticked down, Thompson forged back into the battle and the lead see-sawed until the final seconds of regulation time.

Thompson grabbed the ball with four seconds and the scored tied at 38 points apiece, and heaved a one hander toward the Warrior goal. The crowd almost had heart failure as the ball went straight on line to the rim, but fell just 12 inches short of its mark and the game went to overtime.

The three minute period extra inning started with Pelham getting control and making the first bucket, and then another as the Warrior shooting went cold. Sutton came to the foul line for a one-and-one and dropped the first one in for the five point advantage. That was all it took as the seconds ticked away and Thompson got its only points of the overtime period as the buzzer declared Pelham the victor.

Pelham coach Tony Taylor chalked up his first county championship with the win. His six years at the helm in Pelham have produced two second place wins and two third place trophies and finally, the championship trophy to place in the showcase.

The win was of special note for the Panthers who last year lost in triple overtime to Thompson and the year before lost to Vincent to settle for second place. Pelham defeated Vincent 68 to 49 in the semi-finals in this year's tournamen

Thompson wins B-team title

by Richard Crosby

Victory came Thomson's way in the B-Team County Tournament. The Warriors whipped Vincent 49 to 42 for the championship trophy. The Friday night preliminary saw Thompson come from behind and out-distance the B-Team Yellow Jackets.

Thompson knocked off two other teams before eliminating Vincent. On Wednesday, Chelsea was the victim by a 76 to 29 count. Tony Hale led the Warriors with 26 points and teammate Luvell Bivins scored 16. For Chelsea, Bill Kendrick bucketed 12.

Montevallo was the next course for the championship diet. Thompson ate them up 43 to 31. Hale accounted for 14 points and Terrance Hale 11.

Vincent clawed its way to the championship by beating Indian Springs on Tuesday 46 to 31. Eddie Reynolds led Vincent with 16 points. For Indian Springs, Stewart Hall had 14. Pelham fell to defeat in the semi-finals to Vincent by a tough two point margin. The Yellow Jackets scored 49 to Pelham's 47. Reynolds scored 18 and Tony Bradfort 11 for Vincent. Pelham's Eddie Reeves dropped in 16 points and Kyle Hutchinson 12.

In the championship game, Thompson was led by tournament Most Valuable Player Tony Hale with 14 points. Also on top were Luvell Bivins and Anthony Edwards with 12. For Vincent, Eddie Reynolds led with 15 and Tony Hamilton scored 14.

Other tournament games: Chelsea over Calera 35 to 24. Billy Kendrick 14 for the Hornets, Tony Faucett 14 for the Eagles. Montevallo defeated Briarwood 34 to 18. Kevin Kynerd dropped in eight for the Lions while Tyrone Bell and Jeff Gentry scored eight each for Montevallo. Pelham whipped Shelby County 53 to 41. Cecil Woods scored 13 for the Wildcats. Eddie Reeves scored 23 for Pelham.

Shelby Academy takes third in Coosa Valley tournament

The Coosa Valley Invitational Tournament trophy went to someone else. Both Coosa Valley and Shelby Acadmy failed to reach the finals of the tournament which concluded last Saturday.

Despite the top two trophies leaving town, Shelby's Raiders did garner some hardware. The Raiders whipped the Coosa Valley Rebels in the consolation game for third place.

Shelby took the win 65 to 51. That victory upped the Raiders record to 13-7 for the season. Billy Eiland led the team over the Rebels, scoring 20 points. Teammate Allen Terrell dropped in 17.

The Raiders started the tournament with a win over Talladega County 55 to 43. Terrell led in the bucket department with 21 points. Eiland contributed 14. In the semi-finals, Shelby lost to rival Crenshaw Christian 48 to 50. A last second desperation hot from mid court dropped in the hole to give Crenshaw the win.

Rod Byrd had the hot hand for Shelby with 18 points. Mike Silvani scored 15. Crenshaw won the tournament Saturday night.

Named to the All Tournament Team from Shelby Academy were Billy Eiland and Allen Terrell. From Coosa Valley, Victor Hardwick and Ricky Lynn earned the honor.

In a regular season game played last Tuesday, Shelby lost its first game of 1982 to Minor Christian 61 to 76. Eiland scored 18 and Silvani 14 in the road game.

This week Shelby had four games scheduled. On Monday the Raiders hosted Edgewood, and on Tuesday Talladega. Thursday and Friday have the Raiders on the road against Autauga and Central of Montgomery respectively.

Private schools start basketball playoffs for state berths

Raiders and Rebels from the county's two private schools will compete for state basketball tournament berths next week. The annual District VII Tournament gets underway Monday nght at Coosa Valley Acadmy in Harpersville.

The tournament will last three days as both Coosa Valley and Shelby Academy fight to win or place second in order to advance to the state playoffs.

Schools competing in the tournament with Shelby and Coosa are Minor Christian, Berney Points, Bessemer-Faith, Talladega and Cahawba Christian.

The state private school tournament is composed of sixteen teams - the top two teams in each of the seven district tournaments, and two wild card berths determined by the best regular season record.

Last year Shelby Academy received a wild card berth to enter the tourney and lost in the first round to Crenshaw Christian.

If Shelby or Coosa should win the district title, that school would host a team whch finished second in its district tournament for the first round of the state tournament. If either of the county schools finish second in the district, then they will travel to play a first place district win-

To find out how it all comes out, travel to Coosa Valley next Wednesday night for the finals of the tournament or turn to these pages next week for the report.

Pride is measure of success for Calera wrestling team

by Richard Crosby

They didn't finish number one or anything as lofty as that, but the Calera wrestlers did impress their coach with tough determination and a desire to succeed.

"None of the boys took first place but they showed true character in their willingness to practice hard and give their best," Coach Bobby Sherrer beamed as he talked of his wresting team. The junior high bunch from Calera completed their second year last Saturday and compiled a record of 3-7 for the season.

The final tournament for the Eagles was the Jefferson County Junior High Wrestling Tournament which has held at Hewitt-Trussville High last Friday and Saturday.

Capturing individual honors were Van Campbell with a third place finish in the 157 pound class, Barry Pickett with also a third place finish in the 167 pound class, and Mike West, who finished fifth in the 147 pound Calera finished the tournament in eleventh place. Sixteen teams competed in the meet. Also wrestling for Calera were Ray Hyde and his brother Jeff, Shawn Massey, Joey Harkins, and Scott McClendon.

Looking to next year, Coach Sherrer said that he plans to move into varsity competition. "Our program is getting bigger every year," Sherrer told the Reporter. "We're hoping for more participation next year. Our boys have worked hard and put in a lot of hours. I'm extremely proud of them."

Calera made money in its wrestling program this year. Sherrer commented that the wrestling mat the school purchased last year will probably be paid for with another good year.

It just goes to show that you don't have to be number one in a sport to have athletes give their best for their school and....to pay for the program out of funds generated from that sport.

Varsity All Tournament

All Tournament selections from the varsity squads included Kent O'Shields-Chelsea, Eric Tolbert-Montevallo, Kevin McKenzie-Vincent, Bruce Martin-SCHS, Peter Clemens-Briarwood, Donald Bivins, Chris Thomas, Darryl Ward and Lester Gaiters, all from Thompson, Todd Davis and most Valuable Player Bobby Sutton from

Bulldog wrestlers grapple in sectionals

Montevallo wrestlers will vie for berths in the state championships this weekend. The Bulldogs head to Brookwood High near Tuscaloosa Friday to compete in the sectional wrestling competi-

Coach David Bailey is looking for his team to advance at least three of its members to the state playoffs. The state competition will be held at Oxford High School on February 11-13.

Montevallo wrestlers will have to place in the top four in their respective weight class.

Montevallo competed in its last tournament before the sectionals last weekend, when the Bulldogs went to the Homewood High School Invitational Tournament. Ten schools competed in the tourney.

Andy Chism from Montevallo placed second in the 105 pound class. Jeff Chism placed fourth in the 145 pound class. Those were the only members of the Montevallo squad to place. Bailey's squad had a practice session against Calera's junior high team on Tuesday evening in preparation for the sectional

Wild turkey calling school to reveal secrets of success

Most turkey hunters won't teach even their own brothers how to go after the wily gobbler. Although turkey populations are on the increase in most parts of the nation, turkey hunters are still a secret fraternity, a mystic

But now someone has broken the vows. There's a school where experienced and recognized turkey hunters will tell all.

There is no better gobbler hunting than that in Alabama's Tombigbee River bottoms. It's there, near the town of Aliceville, that Gulf States Paper Corporation operates Westervelt Lodge. Elegantly rustic, Westervelt is the crown jewel of the 500,000-acre forest empire where Gulf States has earned national renown for wildlife management and forest recreation.

Each year Westervelt hosts a three-day school for turkey hunters, March 12-14. Small groups undergo a concentrated course that covers everything from camouflage to calling.

World turkey calling champion, Ben Rodgers Lee, and well known turkey hunting guide, J. Wayne Fears, are only two of the outstanding hunters and biologists who will share their years of experience.

Instruction is so personalized that the course is valuable not only for beginners, but for veteran turkey hunters who can benefit from a little time "with the course pro".

Graduate wildlife biologists take students into the forests to learn turkey habits and habitat. Shooting instructors demonstrate the importance of shot patterning. They give each student an opportunity to shoot, trap and to measure the performance of his own shotgun at various ranges. Experienced hunters teach calling and share their secrets.

The entire program is crammed with practical lessons that are conducted in class groups, in the field and informal seminars.

The center of all this is the Westervelt Forest, a 11,000 acre wildlife domain that has been intensely managed for a quarter century. Gulf States biologists say that Westervelt's birds descend from the "oldest natural turkey population in America" with no contamination by domestic or pen-raised turkeys. A single fee, $350 for the Wild Turkey Hunting School covers lodging, meals and personalized instruction. The cost is about what you would spend for three days at a fine golf resort. And you can prove your new expert skills by displaying a certificate attesting to your membership in the "Order of the Beard and Spur". Since this school fills up each year, bookings are on a first come basis.

Westervelt offers some of the best wild turkey to be found. This year the season will run from March 20 to April 25.

For additional information on the school or hunts, write or call Westervelt Louge, P.O. Box 2362, Tuscaloosa, AL 35403, 556-3909.

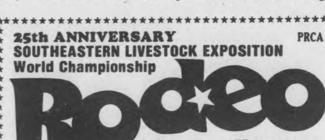

Last year was Vincent's worst finish when they brought home only the fourth place trophy. In 1980 the team finished second. Vincent won the meet in 1979 and placed third in '78.

Coaches Debbie Jackson and Jim Barnes are leading a stable of 24 (nine boys and 15 girls) to Montgomery in search of another state championship.

The squad will compete in relays, shot put, high and long jump, mile and two-mile, and the rest of the regular track and field events.

Jennifer Wilder from Montevallo is the county's only other entry to the meet. She is expected to do well in the

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS-IRAS.

Kitty doesn't have much money these days. But if she had a taxdeferred Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at our FULL SERVICE BANK, she could have a lot of money in the days to come.

By depositing just $19.23 toward an IRA every week, she could end up with $255,800 in 30

That's worth repeating: A deposit of $19.23 a week could total $255,800.

Of course, because the maximum allowable yearly investment has been increased to $2,000, it's possible to earn even more. Making deposits by the week, by the month, or whatever is most convenient

But whatever she invests could soon be earning high-yield interest to help make her golden years a lot more golden.

And, because our Individual Retirement Accounts are taxdeferred. Kitty could deduct each of her yearly investments from her taxable income. So she'd pay no federal taxes on her IRA until she starts withdrawing funds (minimum age: 591/2). Then when she retires, she'll probably be in a lower tax bracket, paying lower taxes.

If you'd like to set up an affordable IRA, come talk to the professionals at our FULL SERVICE BANK.

They'll show you how a regular savinos plan can help almost anyone retire with a quarter of a million dollars.

Including Kitty. *This example assumes 12% interest, compounded annually, based on the average quarterly balance. It is intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. It is not a guarantee of interest rates or end financial results.

Falcons snap back after lackluster month

For the first five games of the new year, University of Montevallo men's basketball coach Dr. Bill Elder had to be wondering where his team's shooting touch had gone. In that stretch, three of which the Falcons lost, they had connected on only 116 of 324 shots from the floor, a frigid 35.6 percent.

But on Saturday night, January 23rd, in Myrick Gym the touch came back. Montevallo was good on 29 of 41 shots, a blistering 70.7 percent, and picked up its first Southern States Conference win of the season with a 68-63 triumph over the University of Alabama Hunt-

"Basketball is sure a strange game; who'd have believed we could set a school record after the way we'd been shooting lately," Elder marveled. "But we needed it. We also needed the win because we're just about at the point where we can't afford to lose again, and I think the fellows

The 70.7 percent shattered the Falcons' old mark of 67.5 percent set against Birmingham-Southern on January 15th, 1979.

In other action last week, Montevallo whipped Spring Hill 81 to 67, lost to Auburn Univeristy of Montgomery 55-62, and won again over Stillman College 101-88. The season record now stands at 16-6.

The Falcons are on the road this week, visiting Athens State on Wednesday and Alabama-Huntsville Friday, February 6th.

Raiders entered the tournament with the best overall record (13-1) for a first round bye.

Berney Points was the victim for the Raiders who blew by with a score of 31 to 15. Dennis Attaway led the scoring department for Shelby in both the Berney Points and Coosa Valley games. He, along with teammate Robert Thomas were named to the All Tournament Team Coaching the junior high team for Shelby is Joby Alexander. This Saturday he takes the team to the Jackson Academy Tournament which pits the eight top teams in the state against each other. Although the Private School Association does not hold a state championship tournament for the junior high, a win in the Jackson tournament holds the same esteem.

Sports Scribbles

by Richard Crosby

The notebook laid bare. That's what I get to do in this box. After a week of traveling around, talking to coaches, having parents call, and scribbling on match book covers, business cards and whatever else is handy, I have to clear it out.

Tacos. The name draws hunger pangs from below. That was the main course served by Mrs. Betty McWilliams (Mrs. Mac) and Fran Hunter. The meal was available in the hospitality room at the county tournament. These folks in Pelham outdid themselves last week in keeping the tummies of coaches, principles and this reporter full. Sure was good and I did my part in putting away a sizeable portion. It took a lot of hard work and some extra hands. I know I speak for everyone who partook -Thanks.

Shelby County High will be video- taping its basketball games in the future. Thompson has been doing it all season. The Wildcat boosters have erected a scaffold on the side of the gym wall with a steel ladder leading up to it. From that vantage point the game will be taped for later scrutiny.

Coach Richard Crumpton will soon be a daddy. Found out last week that despite rumors, the expected one won't arrive with a basketball or a bird gun in hand. Congratulations.

Fanatic fans. That's what Pelham has. From the moment the Panthers took to the court till 20 minutes after the game, they raged with the loudest cheering heard in years. School spirit is a byline when it comes to Pelham.

Boat lovers, buyers and lookers from around the area weren't too impressed with this year's show in Birmingham. Course they may have been referring only to the bathing suit fashion show....

One last unknown scribble found on the edge of page: It polaroid works, then stop by cjhusty. Hmmm, wonder where and what I was supposed to do?

UM player honored

Montevallo Falcon basket- the bucket!" baller Joe Hall set a school record last week. The 6'1" wing man poured in thirty points for the Falcons against Stillman College last week and was named Player of the Week in the Southern State Conference and the NAIA District 27.

"Joe has definately been a pleasant surprise," Coach Elder admitted. "We knew he had a chance to start when he came here, but he's certainly exceeded our expectations. He's got tremendous confidence in his ability now, and I like the way he takes the ball inside and challenges the big guys.. and gets outstanding performances from Hall this week as the Falcons face critical games for playoff hopes.

Theme chosen for Miss Pelham contest

"You've Come A Long Way Baby," is the theme of this year's Miss Pelham High School

In keeping with the theme, young girls from local elementary and secondary schools will depict the role of women past to the pre-

"Since its origin in 1974, this festivity has grown and has become one of the best in the area," said spokesman David Fowler. He added, "The coordinators of this year's contest believe that it will be the best ever."

Heading the project sponsored by the school faculty, is English teacher Sally Rigsby. "This is the event of the year that everyone at Pelham looks forward to," she

Working with Rigsby is Mrs. Armistead, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Bresler, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Doyal, Mrs. Payne and Mrs.

Highlight of the program will be the crowning of a new Miss PHs by the reigning Miss PHS Lynn Dean. An award will also be made to a new Miss Congeniality by last year's recipient Nancy Noble.

Other entertainment includes an appearance by Shelby County's Junior Miss, Anna Bailey, and a performance by the PHS jazz band.

The seventh annual Miss PHS pageant will be held in the school gym on February 6 at 7 p.m. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Theatre major writes College Night script

University of Montevallo mance, the Saturday night show, senior theatre major Darrell Revel of Hueytown is back in school after two years of professional theatre work in Philadelphia and New York.

And with a script he wrote for one of UM's College Night productions, he says he hopes to give UM students and alumni a chance to see top quality theatre in the performances next month -- "a Homecoming evening of Broadway caliber," he said.

Revel completed a script he said he had had in mind since 1978, and for his work, he received the $250 prize for best script submitted.

It was back in 1919 that students at UM, then Alabama College, began College Night as what was probably a typical stunt night. Over the years, it evolved into an intense rivalry between two campus teams, Purples and Golds, named after school colors. It became the most important tradition at Montevallo.

Today, the two student teams present an original musical theatre production four nights in mid-February. The last perforis the climax of UM's Homecom-

College Night is that strong a tradition.

Revel began acting at age eight in a second grade Christmas play. He said one of his grandfather's friends saw the play and through connections, helped get the young actor a part in a play produced by Actors Touring Theatre from Philadelphia.

During his high school years in Hueytown, he was in Actors Civic Theatre in Birmingham - a local theatre group that evolved into the Birmingham Festival Theatre.

From 1975 to 1979, he attended UM, acting in plays and working as a member of the Purple side in College Night.

During his two years up east, he performed in the New York Theatre Company production of "Star Spangled Girl."

In Philadelphia, he taught creative dramatics and beginning acting at the Germantown Theatre Guild.

He also wrote a one-act play, "The Gallows," which was presented in Philadelphia and at the New York Cafe Dinner

His latest effort will be presented as the Purple show in College Night, Wednesday-Saturday, Feb. 10-13, at 8 p.m. in Palmer Hall on the UM campus. Tickets will be on sale to the public.

After he graduates next December, Revel plans to move to Los Angeles. "I don't think I'm old enough for New York," he said. "It's so fast-paced and you have so many con games to contend with. You have to mature, sharp and alert.

"I want to age a little bit before I go back to New York." Revel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Revel of Huevtown.

Area Services Center board treasurer honors

The Board of Directors of the United Way - Montevallo Area Services Center recenly honored Mr. Clifton Lacey for his faithful and outstanding service as a board member.

Board says thanks

The Shelby County Board of Education passed a resolution at its last meeting thanking the public for help during the storm of January 12.

The resolution stated that more than 11,000 students had to be moved unexpectedly from the schools to their homes. It noted that the task was completed "within a relatively short period of time without damage to property and without injury to any student or board employee."

The board said it is "deeply indebted to and expresses its sincere appreciation to its employees; city county and state agencies; parents; students and citizens. It was only through their interest, cooperation and support that Shelby County public school students reached home safely. Thank you all."

The resolution was signed by all boar d members: Barbara H. Whitman, Chairman; Claude E. Lee, J.H. Upchurch, B.E. Fancher and John P. Sumners.

An engraved plaque was presented to him commending him for his serving 5 years as treasurer of the board.

The members of the Board agreed that Mr. Lacey has executed the office of treasurer with efficiency and enthusiasm and has been an exemplary Board Member. Expressions of appreciation and gratitude were extended to him for his outstanding service to the Montevallo community.

Shelby family united after 20 years

Nine Shelby County brothers and sisters got together recently in Shelby for the first time in over twenty years. It was the first time they had all been together since their mother Pauline Gibson Motes died in 1959, said a family

All ten of the children of the late Mr .and Mrs. Edgar Lee Motes had hoped to be at the reunion but Olene Catalino's trip from her home in San Diego was delayed until after her brother Jasper Motes and wife Evelyn had returned home to New Mex-

Mrs. Catalino is now in Shelby County visiting relatives and renewing old acquaintances.

Brothers and siters attending the family affair earlier this month were Chester Motes with wife, Audry, William Motes with wife Flossie and Lillian Ellison. all of Pelham, Cecil Motes of Shelby with wife Bonnie, Roberta Shelton of Helena, Lovene Kuglar and husband Johnny of Gulf Shores, Geneva Martin of Bessemer and E.L. Motes of Birmingham with wife Helen.

They have among them 40 children, 98 grandchildren and 29 great grandchildren, making a total of 177 persons in four generations of the family.

Around forty relatives gathered at the Spring Creek home of Norma (daughter of Cecil Motes) and husband C.B. Burnett for the reunion. Some of them had not seen each other for more than fifty years, they said. Several friends also dropped by Catalino said she is enjoying seeing girlhood friends, reminiscing about old times and visiting places where she grew up.

the gathering.

During her childhood, the family lived mostly in the Pelham area, and she recalled living near Blueberry Hill along the railroad east of Pelham when she began first grade at Pelham School.

"We walked the railroad to school and I was afraid to walk across the trestle so I'd get down and crawl across," she laughed.

The family lived at Pleasant Valley near Chelsea for awhile when she was a teenager and she made some life-long friends there among the Kendrick girls. After moving back to Pelham they would ride the train between Chelsea and Pelham to visit each other, she said. She still enjoys visiting with Freddie Kendrick Ferguson at her Chelsea home when she is in Alabama.

Catalino recalled that she, sister Geneva, Freddie and her sister Lera Jean used to sing in a quartet at K-Springs Church.

She and Geneva also sang in a quartet with Betty Johnson, who married Joe Poole of Helena, and Mary Watts whose father was section foreman for ACL railroad in Pelham. Ella Spiegle played the piano for them. They sang at churches and brush arbor meetings in the Pelham-Keystone area and even sang a time or two on a Bessemer radio station.

Another girlhood friend she has enjoyed visiting during the current trip to Shelby County is Leona Jones who married Thomas Maxwell and now lives at Simmsville.

Although the weather she has experienced during her visit is quite a contrast to her sunny California home, she says the great visits with family and friends are well worth the change for awhile.

UM's College Night begins next week

students and alumni will cheer for their favorite team again during this year's Homecoming Saturday, Feb. 13.

At UM, it's not a football or basketball game that rallies the students and brings back the alumni. It is the competition between two student teams to see which can create and present the best musical theatre production.

It's called College Night, and UM students have presented the original productions since 1919, when UM, then Alabama Girls Technical Institute, was evolving into Alabama College, the state college for women. UM first admitted men as fulltime students in College Night is so strong a tradition that it became the focus of Montevallo's annual Homecoming in 1940.

While Homecoming is one day, College Night lasts four days or several weeks, depending on who explains it. The two teams, Pur-

WD sales increase

Winn Dixie Stores, Inc., reported sales for the 16 week quarter ended January 6, 1982 of $2,010,422,000 as compared with $1,895,125,000 for the 16 weeks ended January 7, 1981, an increase of 6.1 percent.

For the 28 weeks ended January 6, the sales total was $3,475,778,000 compared with $3,257,834,000, an increase of 6.7 percent.

Winn-Dixie opened 16 new stores and closed 15 since June 24, 1981, having 1,221 units in operation on January 6, 1982 compared with 1,216 last year.

University of Montevallo ple and Gold, the school colors, perform four straight nights beginning Wednesday, Feb. 10, this year.

However, students work on the scripts, sets, costumes, choreography and lighting for more than four weeks. During the month before the shows, the Purples and Golds also compete in intramural sports.

Each side has its own officers, orchestras, directors, actors, cheerleaders, mascots and traditional songs and cheers. They stage a joint pep rally in the weeks before Homecoming. They troop together into Palmer Hall for the shows to sing the team songs and yell traditional cheers before and after each perfor-

Even erecting a team-sign is a ritual during the beginning of the four-week preparation period, as students walk to the site together led by a drummer and cheerleaders.

Team leaders elected this year are Brad Hall of Scottsboro and Flo King of Fairhope, Gold, and Pendergast John Gaithersburg, Md., and Doria Gibbons of Mobile, Purple.

After the Homecoming performance Saturday night, offcampus judges will select the winner using a complex formula that even includes the results of the intramural games. Purples hold the edge in the unique competition 32 to 29, with class years winning in 1919 and 1920.

Team members and alumni have already bought most of the Saturday night tickets, but campus visitors can usually get a ticket to the Wednesday, Thurs-

DR. BONNIE STRICKLAND

Montevallo names psychologist outstanding 'Alumnus of Year'

The president-elect of the Clinical Section of the American Psychological Association has been named Alumnus of the Year at the University of Montevallo.

Dr. Bonnie Strickland, chair of the Psychology Department at the University of Massachusetts, is a 1958 graduate of UM, where her major was health, physical education and recreation.

She earned a master's degree in 1960 and a doctorate in 1962, both in psychology and both at Ohio State University. And in 1962, at age 25, she began 11 years of teaching and student personnel work at Emory University, Decatur, Ga., three years of which she was dean of women.

When she moved to Massachusetts in 1972, she went as a full professor, and in 1976, she became department head.

Over the years, she was been honored by colleagues and students. She received the Outstanding Faculty Award at Emory in 1969 and was named a Diplomate in Clinical Psychology by the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology in 1970.

In 1981, she was elected to her post in the APA. The election followed a number of years of professional service and activities in the association.

She also heads the APA Board

Confederate historian to talk on Civil War

Confederate historian Richard McCardle, Camp Branch, will speak at the winter meeting of the Shelby County Historical Socie-

McCardle, whose interest in southern history is mostly confined to the War between the States and the post-war era, recently located the site of the encampment of Wilson's Raiders which had taken place at Nunnaley's Ford on the Cahaba on the night of March 29, 1865.

Artifacts from this site will be shown as part of McCardle's discussion of the Civil War in Shelby County. Locating, recording and preserving other historic sites of the Civil War in this area will be stimulated.

ROBERT AND MARIE MOORE

Couple celebrate

Starting 2nd 50 years in new house

by Shelba Nivens Robert and Marie Moore of Elliotttsville have certainly had things to celebrate recently.

Not only have they just celebrated the anniversary of 50 golden years together, but Robert is now recuperating in a brand new home after successful openheart surgery.

When their wedding anniversary rolled around on January 21, he was still confined to the hospital, so on Sunday, January 31 their children honored them with a tea.

Around 150 friends and relatives dropped by to visit in the nearly-completed house constructed by their children.

Clanahan, Everett Taff,

Charlotte Robertson, Jean

The Moores lived in Pelham for most of their married life, but sold the property there after it was rezoned for commercial use. They moved to the Elliottsville area last year.

Moore grew up in the Mt. Era community, the son of James Edward (Ed) and Nancy Luvinia Blackerby Moore.

He recalls entering first grade about 1917 in a little one-room, log school house near Mt. Era Methodist Church. Some of the teachers he remembers there were Sam, Jeffy and Loius Crumpton and Leedy Wheeler.

Classes were later held in the church building while a new three-room school building was constructed, he said.

"I was ten years old when we built it," he recalled, "Me and Mr. Charlie Davis and some others sawed the blocks and rived the boards for it. We used an old draw-blade saw to draw the shingles out."

Other children of Ed and Luvinia Moore were Althea Cadenhead and twins Gurnie and Earnest Moore who are deceased, Oliver Moore, Marlin Moore, Lela Moore and Lunie Davis of Pelham.

Paternal grandparents of Robert Moore were James Harrison and Narcissa Davis Moore.

Parents of his wife Marie were James Thomas Shelton and Edna Seigle Shelton of the Helena area. "When we met and started going together, they (the Moores) lived below Helena," Marie said.

(where the Dunham Farms development is now located)," Robert broke in, adding with a grin, "We met up at a sacred harp singing school at the Presbyterian Church in Helena. Esther Bentley from Joiner Town was the teacher. That was about 1928."

"We went together four years before we married," she added. "We mostly went to church. We never went to the picture shows. I've never been to one in my life and neither has he."

They went to a lot of singings, they said, and after they married, she played the piano for a quartet composed of Robert and some of his brothers and sisters. They sang for many years at singings in the county.

During the early years of marriage Robert worked at sawing logs, paperwood and cross ties

Any royalty or other payment that is based upon, or determined with respect to, the production of oil gas or other adipula hydrocarbon minerals and that is paid to the State or tality thereof in advance of the actual realization of the production upon which it is based or with respect to which it is determined shall be considered an Oil and Gas Capital Payment irrespective of whether it is to be credited, in whole or in part, against future payments based upon, or determined with respect to the actual production of oil gas or other hydrocarbon minerals. No royalty or other payment shall be considered an Oil and Gas Capital Payment if it is based upon, or determined with respect to, the production of oil, gas or other hydrocarbon minerals actually realized at or prior to the time such royalty or other payment is remitted to the State or any agency or instrumentality thereof.

'State" means the State of Alabama. 'Trust Capital" means all assets of the Trust Fund other than Trust Income that is at the time subject to appropriation by the Legislature and has not become part of the Trust Capital

"Trust Fund" means "The Alabama Heritage Trust Fund" created by this amendment.

"Trust income", when used with reference to any period, means the net in come received during such period from the investment and reinvestment of all assets of the Trust Fund, determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 5(c) of this amendment. "Trustee" means a member of the Board of Trustees of the Trust Fund:

'Section 3. Management of Trust Fund Vested in Board of Trustees. (a) The Trust Fund shall be under the management and control of the Board, and all powers necessary or appropriate for the manage ment and control of the Trust Fund shall be vested solely in the Board. The Board shall have a membership of nine Trustees consisting of the Governor, the State Treasurer, the Director of Finance (or such other official as may by law succeed to the responsibilities of the Director of Finance), two Trustees appointed by the Governor, two Trustees appointed by the Lieutenant Governor, and two Trustees appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance shall each serve as a Trustee ex officio, and the service of each such official as a Trustee shall begin and end concurrently with the beginning and end of his or her tenure in such office. As promptly as practicable after the effective date of this amendment, the other Trustees shall be appointed for the following initial terms: the Trustees to be appointed by the Governor shall be appointed for terms beginning immediately upon their respective appointments and ending at noon on October 1 in the first and second calendar years, respectively, next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall become effective; the Trustees to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor shall be appointed for a term beginning immediately upon his or her appointment and ending at noon on October 1 in the third calendar year next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall become effective; and the Trustees to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall be appointed for a term beginning immediately upon his or her appointment and ending at noon on October 1 in the fourth calendar year next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall become effective Thereafter, the term of office of each appointed Trustee shall be six years, commencing at noon on the October 1 on which the term of the immediate predecessor Trustee shall end. (b) If at any time there shall be a vacancy among the appointed Trustees, a successor Trustee shall be appointed to serve for the unexpired term applicable to such vacancy. The appointment of each appointed Trustee (other than those initially appointed). whether for a full six-year term or to complete an unexpired term, shall be made by the same officer of the State who appointed the Trustee whose term shall have expired or is to expire or in whose position on the Board a vacancy otherwise exists and shall be made not earlier than thirty (30) days prior to the date on which such Trustee is to take office as such. Each appointed Trustee shall hold office from the effective date of his or her appointment until his or her confirmation or rejection by the Senate as provided in subsection (c) of this section, and, if confirmed by the Senate, until the expiration of the term (or portion thereof) for which he or she was appointed; provided that if the term of any Trustee shall expire prior to the reappointment of such Trustee or prior to the appointment of his or her successor, such Trustee shall continue to serve until his or her successor is appointed, and if such Trustee is reappointed for a new term after the expiration of the immediately preceding term which he or she has been serving, his or her new term of office shall be deemed to have commenced at noon on the October 1 on which the immediately preceding term shall have expired. Trustees shall be eligible for reappointment without limit as to the number of terms previously served. (c) At the beginning of every regular session of the Legislature the Governor shall certify to the Senate the names of all who shall have been appointed as Trustees since the commencement of the last regular session of the Legislature, and the Senate shall confirm or reject each of them as it shall determine to be in the best interests of the State. If the Senate takes no action during such regular session with respect to any Trustee whose appointment was so certified, such Trustee shall be deemed to have been confirmed by the Senate. If the Senate rejects the appointment of any Trustee, such rejection shall immediately terminate the service of such Trustee and the resulting vacancy in the membership of the Board shall be filled by a subsequent appointment made in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section. Trustees appointed during a regular session of the Legislature shall not be subject to confirmation or rejection by the Senate until the regular session of the Legislature next succeeding their ap-(d) Each appointed

Trustee shall, at the time of his or her appointment and at all times during his or her term of office, be a qualified elector of the State, and a failure by any Trustee to remain so qualified during such term shall cause a vacancy of the office of such Trustee. Each appointed Trustee shall have recognized competence and experience in the evaluation and management of investments. No person holding a full-time office or position of employment with the United States of America, the State, any county or municipality in the State, or any instrumentality, agency or subdivision of any of the foregoing, shall be eligible for appointment as a Trustee. Any person who is an appointed Trustee shall be deemed to vacate his or her office as such Trustee by the acceptance of any office or employment which, had such person held such office or been so employed at the time of his or her appointment as a Trustee, would have rendered such person ineligible for appointment as a Trustee. Service by any person as a member, director, trustee or other participant in the management or administration of any governmental agency, board or commission, or public educational institution, or other public body of the United States of America, the State, or any county or municipality or other political subdivision shall not render such person ineligible for appointment as a Trustee unless such service constitutes full-time employment. Any appointed Trustee may be impeached and removed from office as a Trustee in the same manner and on the same grounds provided in Section 174 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, or successor provision thereof, and the general laws of the State for impeachment and removal of the officers of the State subject to said Section 174 or successor provision thereof. The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance may not be impeached and removed from office as a Trustee apart from their impeachment and removal from the

of which, ex officio, they serve as Trustees. (e) The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance shall perform the duties of Trustees, ex officio, without any compensation other than that to which they are respectively entitled as Governor, State Treasurer and Director of Finance. Appointed Trustees shall be entitled to such compensation for their services as may from time to time be provided by law duly enacted by the Legislature, but the power to provide compensation of appointed Trustees shall be discretionary with the Legislature and nothing in art this amendment shall be construed to confer upon such Trustees an absolute right to any compensation for their services. Each appointed Trustee shall be reimbursed for expenses actually incurred in the performance of his or her duties as a Trustee.

(f) A majority of the Trustees shall constitute a quorum for the transaction

of business by the Board,

and decisions shall be made on the basis of a ma-

respective offices by virtue

jority of the quorum then present and voting, with each Trustee to have a single vote. No vacancy in the membership of the Board or the voluntary disqualification or abstention of any Trustee shall impair the right of a quorum to exercise all of the powers and duties of the Board. The Governor shall be the chairman and presiding officer of the Board, and the Board may appoint such other of ficers to perform such duties, not inconsistent with the provisions of this amendment or applicable law, as the Board shall deem necessary or appropriate. In addition to such regular meetings of the Board as may be provided by law or by bylaws or rules duly adopted by the Board, special meetings of the Board may be called by the Governor acting alone or by any three other Trustees acting in concert. in each case upon two days' notice to each Trustee given in person or by registered letter or telegram; provided however, that such notice to each Trustee may be waived by such Trustee. either before or after the meeting with respect to which such notice would otherwise be required. Any meeting held by the Board for any purpose shall be open to the public, except that executive or secret sessions may be held by the Board when the character or good name of a person is involved. At proceedings of the Board shall be reduced to writing on behalf of the Board and maintained in the perma nent records of the Board a copy of which shall be filed in the principal office of the Board and shall be open for public inspection there during regular business hours. The principal office of the Board shall be the tor of Finance. (g) No Trustee shall vote on or participate in the discussion or consideration of any matter coming before the Board in which such Trustee, personally or through family connections principal office of the Direc-

or business associations, has any direct or indirect pecuniary interest, including, but without limitation thereto, decisions of the Board concerning the investment of moneys constituting part of the Trust Fund in any deposit or obligation of any bank or corporation in which such Trustee may have such an interest. If there shall be brought before the Board any matter in which a Trustee shall have any interest which may conflict with his duties as a Trustee, he or she shall immediately make a complete disclosure to the Board of such interest and shall thereafter withdraw from participation in any deliberation and decision of the Board with respect to such matter

(h) The Board shall have all of the powers necessary to carry out and effectuate the purposes and provisions of this amendment, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following powers:

(1) to adopt, alter and repeal bylaws, regulations and rules for the regulation and conduct of its affairs and business:

(2) to make, enter into and execute contracts. agreements and other instruments and to take such other actions as may be necessary or convenient to accomplish any purpose for which the Trust Fund was created or to exercise any power expressly, or by reasonable implication. granted by this amend-

(3) to enter into contracts with, to accept aid and grants from, to cooperate with and to do any and all things that may be necessary in order to avail itself of the aid and cooperation of the United States of America, the State or any agency, instrumentality or political subdivision of either thereof in furtherance of the purposes of this amendment;

and (4) to appoint, employ and contract with such employees, agents, advisors and consultants, including, but not limited to. attorneys, accountants, financial experts and such other advisors, consultants and agents as may in its judgment be necessary or desirable, and to fix their compensation; provided, however, that any obligation created or assumed by the Board shall not create any pecuniary obligation or liability of the State or the Trust Fund other than such as shall be payable out of moneys appropriated by the Legislature to defray the expenses of the Board in carrying out the purposes of this amendment. No lien or charge against any assets of the Trust Fund for any purpose whatsoever shall be created by or result from any law enacted by the Legislature or any action taken by the Board or any other department. agency or instrumentality of the State.

(i) The expenses of making and disposing of investments such as brokerage commissions. legal expenses referable to a particular transaction. transfer taxes and other customary transactional expenses shall, as provided in Section 5(c) of this amendment, be payable from the investment income of the Trust Fund, but no administrative or other expenses not specifically required to make or dispose of a particular investment snall be payable out of any assets of the Trust Fund The Legislature shall provide for the administrative and other necessary expenses of the Board in the same manner as it provides for the expenses of operating other departments and agencies of the State.

"Section 4. Sources of Trust Capital. (a) There shall be transferred from the general fund of the State into the Trust Fund.

as the initial Trust Capital, moneys in an amount equa to the sum of (i) all proceeds of any Oil and Gas Capital Payments received by the State at any time after January 1, 1981, and on or before November 1. 1981, and (ii) all income or profit derived from the investment and reinvestment of the proceeds of such Oil and Gas Capital Payments (including income or profit derived from the investment and reinvestment of previously derived income or profit) prior to the transfer of such proceeds into the Trust Fund, less and except the following:

(1) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been disbursed by the State, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use of the Board of Corrections pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-764 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature;

(2) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been disbursed by the State, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use of the Department of Mental Health pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-770 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature;

(3) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use or benefit of the Alabama Housing Finance Authority and which, as of the effective date of this amendment, is required by any then applicable law to be held apart from the Trust Fund and not Included with the moneys to be transferred into such fund as part of the initial Trust Capital: (4) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit not exceeding $6,000,000 which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the reimbursement of the counties of the State for expenses incurred by such counties in the incarceration or confinement of convicts or other prisoners who are the responsibility of the State; and

(5) any amount of such exceeding

proceeds, income or profit

$10,000,000 which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the support and encouragement of educational, agricultural and industrial activities involving basic and applied scientific research and development Promptly following the effective date of this amendment, the State Treasurer shall take all actions necessary to transfer to the Board the possession, control and management of the initial Trust Capital. If at the time of such transfer into the Trust Fund all or part of the initial Trust Capital is invested in certificates of deposit or other investments which cannot be converted into cash prior to the maturity thereof without loss of interest or other penalty, the State Treasurer shall directly transfer such certificates of deposit or other investments to the Board as part of the initial Trust Capital without first converting the same into cash. In the event that any certificates of deposit or other investments shall be transferred into the Trust Fund, the initial Trust Capital shall include only the income or profit from such certificates of deposit or other investments that has been received by the State on or before such transfer or that constitutes accrued interest, amortized discount or other amounts which, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, should be considered as having been earned by the State as of the date of such transfer. To the extent that any income or profit derived from such certificates of deposit or other investments is referable to any period after the transfer thereof into the Trust Fund, such income or profit shall constitute Trust Income and shall not constitute part of the Trust Capital (except to the extent otherwise provided by Section 5(a) of this amendment). Any provision of this amendment to the contrary notwithstanding, no Uil and

Gas Capital Payment received by the State after November 1, 1981, or any income from the investment thereof, shall, unless subsequently authorized by law, be transferred into the Trust Fund. (b) The Trust Capital shall be augmented by any Trust Income which, as provided in Section 5(a) of this amendment, shall have remained in the Trust Fund beyond the end of the Fiscal Year next succeeding the Fiscal Year during which it was received without having been appropriated for any purpose by act of the Legislature. The Trust Capital shall also consist of (i) such other moneys or assets as the Legislature may by law appropriate and transfer to the Trust Fund as a permanent part thereof and (ii) such other moneys or assets as may be contributed to the Trust Fund from any source.

"Section 5. Investment of Moneys in Trust Fund; Appropriation of Trust Income (a) Except to the extent otherwise provided in Section 6 of this amendment. the Trust Capital shall be held in perpetual trust and shall not be appropriated by the Legislature or expended or disbursed for any purpose other than to acquire Eligible Investments in accordance with the provisions of this amendment. All Eligible Investments acguired, in whole or in part, with moneys constituting part of the Trust Capital shall to the extent of such moneys constitute part of the Trust Capital, but any Trust Income derived therefrom shall be subject to appropriation and withdrawal by the Legislature to the extent provided in this amendment. Until and including the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding the Fiscal Year during which any Trust Income shall be received into the Trust Fund, the Legislature may at any time and from time to time, whether before or after the actual receipt of such Trust Income, enact laws appropriating all or any part of such Trust Income for any lawful purpose, and any Trust Income so appropriated may be withdrawn from the Trust Fund at any time after the receipt thereof; provided. however, that the right of the Legislature to appropriate any Trust Income prior to the actual receipt thereof shall not be construed to authorize the recognition and withdrawal of any moneys equivalent to such Trust Income prior to the actual receipt thereof into the Trust Fund. If any Trust Income shall not be appropriated by a law which becomes effective on or before the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding that during which it was received, such Trust Income shall thereafter cease to be subject to appropriation and shall become part of the Trust Capital to be held in the Trust Fund on the same terms and conditions as are applicable to all other assets constituting the Trust Capital. Any Trust Income appropriated by a law becoming effective on or before the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding that during which it was received shall remain Trust Income even though it is permitted to remain in the Trust Fund after the end of such Fiscal Year, and any such Trust Income shall be subject to withdrawal from the Trust Fund at any time thereafter in the manner provided by law for the purposes for which it shall theretofore have been appropriated. (b) To the extent practicable, the Board shall keep all moneys at any time held in the Trust Fund (including both Trust Capital and Trust Income) invested in such Eligible Investments as shall, in its sole and uncontrolled judgment, produce the greatest Trust Income over the term of such investments while preserving the Trust Capital. In making any investment of moneys held in the Trust Fund, the Board shall exercise the judgment and care. under the circumstances prevailing at the time of such investment, which an institutional investor of the highest standard of prudence, intelligence and financial expertise would exercise in the management and investment of large assets entrusted to it not for the purpose of speculative profit but for the permanent generation and disposition of funds, considering the probable safety of capital as well as the expected amount and frequency of income. The Board shall have full power and authority to select the Eligible Investments in which moneys held in the Trust Fund shall at any time be invested, and, to the extent not inconsistent with any express provision of this amendment, the Eli gible Investments so selected shall be acquired from such issuers, under writers, brokers or other sellers on such terms and conditions, shall be acquired for purchase prices reflecting such discount below or premium above the par or face amount thereof, shall bear such dates and be in such form. denominations and series. shall mature or be subject to mandatory redemption on such dates, shall bear interest at such rate or rates payable at such intervals or, alternatively, shall provide income to the holder thereof in such other manner (including, without limitation thereto, the purchase of such investments at a discount which represents all or part of the income or profit to be derived therefrom), shall be unsecured or secured in such manner, shall contain such provisions for prepayment or redemption at the option of the issuer or obligor, and shall contain or be subject to such other provisions as shall, in all of the foregoing respects, be determined by the Board in the exercise of its sole and uncontrolled judgment. The Board shall have full power and authority to invest the Trust Capital in long-term investments producing

Trust Income in accordance with such schedule as the Board shall, in the exercise of its sole and uncontrolled judgment, determine

to be in the best interests of the State, and in determining such schedule the Board may emphasize future benefits in preference to near-term

needs. The Board shall have complete and uncontrolled discretion in making decisions as to when

moneys in the Trust Fund

The state of the s

shall be invested, as to the purchase price or other acquisition cost to be paid or incurred in acquiring investments for the Trust Fund, as to when investments constituting part of the Trust Fund shall be sold, liquidated or otherwise disposed of, and, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 100 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as to the amount and nature of the price or other consideration to be received by the Trust Fund upon the sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments constituting part of the Trust Fund; provided, however, that to the extent the provisions of this amendment authorize the withdrawal of moneys from the Trust Fund (including both Trust Capital and Trust Income) pursuant to appropriation by the Legislature, the Board shall invest the moneys so subject to withdrawal in investments which shall mature or otherwise be subject to liquidation on such terms as will provide cash when required for withdrawal from the Trust Fund. No law shall be enacted nor any action taken by the executive department of the State which impairs or interferes with the power, authority and discretion conferred upon the Board by this amendment with respect to the acquisition, management, control and disposition of investments at any time constituting part of the Trust Fund. (c) The Trust Income for any period shall be the net income (determined as hereinafter provided) actually received in cash or cash equivalents during such period from the investment and reinvestment of all moneys held in the Trust Fund (including both moneys representing Trust Capital and moneys representing previously received Trust Income that has not become part of the Trust Capital). No accrual or other accounting calculation or classification shall constitute the basis for recognizing Trust Income unless the moneys in question shall have been actually received and paid into the Trust Fund. The Trust Income for any period shall consist of the aggregate interest received from investments during such period plus any profit realized during such period from any payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments resulting in the receipt of an amount greater than the purchase price thereof less (i) any negative audit adjustments to income and any losses with respect to investments which are required to be charged against the income of the Trust Fund for such period pursuant to the provisions of subsection (d) of this section, (ii) any accrued interest paid as part of the purchase price of investments acquired during such period, and (iii) all expenses of selling and disposing of investments during such period such as brokerage commissions. legal expenses referable to a particular transaction transfer taxes and other customary transactional expenses. For purposes of determining the amount of the Trust Capital at any time held in the Trust Fund, any investment acquired for a purchase price reflecting a discount below its face or par amount shall, at all times prior to its payment. sale, liquidation or other disposition, be valued at its original purchase price. If any investment is acquired for a purchase price reflecting a premium above its face or par amount, then, for purposes of calculating Trust Income, the cumulative interest or other income theretofore received from such investment as of any time shall be reduced by the then applicable Amortized Premium of such investment. For purposes of determining the amount of Trust Capital at any time held in the Trust Fund, any investment acquired for a purchase price reflecting a premium above its face or par amount shall, at all times prior to its payment. sale, liquidation or other disposition, be valued at its original purchase price less its then applicable Amortized Premium (d) The Trust Income shall be adjusted in accordance with the succeeeding provisions of this subsection if the application of generally accepted accounting principles in connection with the annual audit of the Trust Fund requires any negative adjustment of income, including the recognition of any reduction in value or write off of investments for reasons relating to the probability of their payment or collectibility, or if any loss is realized upon any payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of any investment resulting in the receipt of any amount less than the value thereof determined in

sions of this amendment; provided, however, that no reduction in value of any investment shall be made because the rate of interest or other yield thereon has fallen below the market rates then applicable to comparable investments. Any audit adjustment . resulting in a charge against income or any loss realized from the payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments, as the case may be, shall be charged first against any Trust Income which, as of the time such adjustment is made or such loss is realized, has accumulated in the Trust Fund and is then available for withdrawal, whether or not theretofore appropriated, and if the amount to be so charged is greater than the amount of accumulated Trust Income subject to withdrawal, such amount shall be charged against Trust Income thereafter received in the current and succeeding Fiscal Years until the ful amount of such audit adjustment or loss, as the case may be, has been recovered or made good out of the investment income of the Trust Fund. and from and after the time that such audit adjustment is made or such loss is realized, as the case may be, no income of the Trust Fund shall be considered Trust Income for purposes of this amendment until the full amount of such adjustment or loss shall have been so recovered or made good. In the event that, as a result of any audit adjustment or any realized loss. the aggregate amount of income appropriated and withdrawn from the Trust Fund as of any time during or at the end of any Fiscal Year exceeds the aggregate Trust Income which, taking into account such adjustment or loss, should have been available for withdrawal at or before such time, then, and in such event, the excess amount so withdrawn need not be returned to the Trust Fund from the general fund of the State or from any other source of funds available to the State, but the amount of such excess withdrawal shall be recovered through charges against future income of the Trust Fund as above provid-

(e) To the extent appropriate and not at the time prohibited by law, the Board shall use the facilities of the State Treasurer in the administration of the Trust Fund, including, but without limitation thereto, the keep ing of records, the management of bank accounts, the transfer of funds and the safekeeping of securities evidencing investments. (f) The Board shall cause an annual audit of the Trust Fund to be performed for each Fiscal Year by the State Auditor or, in the discretion of the Board, by an independent accounting firm- and shall cause a report of such audit to be prepared in accordance with applicable accounting principles and made public within ninety (90) days following the end of the Fiscal Year covered thereby. The Board shall cause to be prepared and publicized such financial and other information concerning the Trust Fund as may from time to time be provided by law duly enacted by the Legislature, but in the absence of any law directing the preparation and publication of different reports, the Board shall cause to be prepared and made public, within thirty (30) days after the end of each quarterly period in each Fiscal Year a report containing (i) a statement of the Trust Capital then held in the Trust Fund showing any changes thereto since the last quarterly report, (ii) a statement of the Trust Income then held in the Trust Fund showing receipts and withdrawals therefrom during the quarterly period in question and further showing the portion thereof previously appropriated and the portion thereof subject to appropriation but not then appropriated, (iii) a statement of the investments then held in the Trust Fund including descriptions thereof and the respective values thereof, (iv) a statement of the Trust Income received to date during the current Fiscal Year, (v) if such report covers the first, second or third quarterly padd, an estimate of the Income anticipated for the entire current Fiscal Year and for each of the remaining quarterly periods thereof, and (vi) an estimate of the Trust Income anticinated for the next succeeding Fiscal Year and in each of the quarterly periods thereof.

"Section 6. Alternative Disposition of Certain Trust Fund Moneys. (a) By any duly enacted law or laws, her becoming effective before or after the effective date of this amendment, the Legislature may appropriate moneys constituting Trust Capital or Trust Income or a combination of both for the use or benefit of the Alabama Housing Finance Authority in such aggregate amount as, when added to any amount excluded from the nitial Trust Capital pursuant to clause (3) of the first sentence of Section 4 of this amendment, shall not exceed the sum of $19,500,000. All or any part of the moneys so approprieted may be held in the Trust Fund until disbursed for the purpose for which appropriated, or all or any part of such moneys may be immediately withdrawn from the Trust Fund and transferred to the Alabama Housing Finance Authority for the use thereof or, alternatively, transferred to the State and held by it until used to pay expenses for and on behalf of such authority, all in accordance with such law or laws as may from time to time be enacted by the Legislature.

(b) In order to provide an alternative source for the moneys appropriated for the use of the Board of Corrections pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-764 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature, the Legislature may, by any duly enacted law or laws, whether becoming effective before or after the effective date of this amendment, appropriate moneys constituting Trust Capital or Trust Income or a combination of both for the use of the Board of Corrections in making capital expenditures; provided, however, that the aggregate amount so appropriated for the use of the Board of Corrections and withdrawn from the Trust Fund shall not exceed an amount computed as the difference between $45,000,000 and the sum of (i) the amount excluded from the initial Trust Capital pursuant to clause (1) of the first sentence of Section 4 of this amendment and (ii) all other amounts at any time appropriated by the Legislature from the proceeds of bonds of the State or other sources for the use of the Board of Corrections in substitution for or replacement of all or any part of the moneys appropriated pursuant to said Act No. 81-764.

(c) In order to provide an alternative source for the moneys appropriated for the use of the Department of Mental Health pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-770 enacted at the the Legislature, the Legislature may, by any duly enacted law or laws. whether or not becoming effective before or after the effective date of this amendment, appropriate moneys constituting Trust Capital or Trust Income or a combination of both for the use of the Department of Mental Health in making capital expenditures; provided, however, that the aggregate amount so appropriated for the use of the Department of Mental Health and withdrawn from the Trust Fund shall not exceed an amount computed as the difference between $65,000,000 and the sum of (i) the amount excluded from the initial Trust Capital pursuant to clause (2) of the first sentence of Section 4 of this amendment and (ii) all other amounts at any time appropriated by the Legislature from the proceeds of bonds of the State or other sources for the use of the Department of Mental Health in substitution for or replacement of all or any part of the moneys appropriated pursuant to said Act No. 81-770.

"Section 7. Limitation of Personal Liability of Trustees. An individual Trustee shall not in any way be personally liable for any liability, loss or expense suffered by the Trust Fund unless such liability, loss or expense arises out of or results from the willful misconduct or wrongdoing of such Trustee.

"Section 8. Legislative Oversight Commission. (a) There is hereby created the Alabama Heritage Trust Fund Legislative Oversight Commission to consist of the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the House, and five members each from the House of Representatives and the Senate to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant Governor, respectively. If the Legislature is in regular session at the time this amendment shall become effective, the original members of the Commission shall be appointed at such regular session, and if the Legislature is not in regular session at the time this amendment shall become effective, the members of the Commission shall be appointed at the next regular session of the Legislature. The original members of the Commission shall serve for the remainder of their elected terms of office as members of the Legislature, and the terms of office of members of the Commission shall thereafter correspond to the full four-year terms for which members of the Legislature are elected. If at any time there shall be a vacancy among the appointed members of the Commission, a successor shall be appointed from the same body of the Legislature as that to which the previous incumbent belonged, and such successor shall serve for the remainder of the unexpired term of such previous in-

(b) The Commission shall hold an organizational meeting at the State Capitol within ten (10) days after the appointment of the original members thereof, and shall elect a chairman and vice chairman from among its members. Thereafter, the Commission shall meet, from time to time, at the call of the chairman or vice chairman or upon the request of seven or more members, with such notice and in accordance with such procedure as shall be prescribed by the rules of the Commission. (c) The Commission shall adopt its own rules of procedure for the transaction of business, except as otherwise provided in this amendment. A majority of the members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of transacting any business or performing any authorized duties. All members of the Commission, including both those who serve ex officio and those who are appointed, shall have an equal vote. The Commission shall keep full and complete minutes in writing of its proceedings, and every action taken shall be authorized by duly adopted resolution recorded in such minutes. (d) Each member of the Commission shall be entitled to his or her regular legislative compensation and per diem and travel expenses for each day he or she attends a meeting or conducts business of the Commission, and such compensation and expenses shall be paid as provided by law out of the funds from time to time appropriated by the Legislature to pay the expenses of administering the Trust Fund. (e) The Commission shall monitor and evaluate the management of the Trus Fund by the Board, shall report to the Legislature on both the present and future availability of Trust Income for appropriation by the Legislature, and shall recommend to the Legislature the enactment of such laws respecting the Trust Fund as the Commis sion shall deem desirable; provided, however, that nothing contained in this amendment respecting the Commission shall be construed to authorize the Legislature to enact laws inconsistent with the express provisions of this amendment. "Section 9. Amendment Self-Executing. This amendment shall be selfexecuting, but the Legislature shall have the right and the power to enact laws supplemental to this amendment and in furtherance of the purposes and objectives thereof, provided that such laws are not inconsistent with the express provisions of this amendment.'

WHEREAS, Act No. 81-1190 of the Legislature of Alabama passed during the Third Special Session. 1981, provides that an election be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon certain proposed amendments to the Constitution of Alabama; and WHEREAS, said Act further provides that the election be held on March 2, 1982; and, WHEREAS, The Constitution of Alabama, 1901, requires that notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, be given by a Proclamation of the Governor; and

WHEREAS, such Proclamation is to be published in each county in the State of Alabama for at least four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for such election NOW, THEREFORE, I, Fob James, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form prescribed by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, 1901:

The State of Alabama is authorized to become indebted and to sell and issue its interest bearing bonds in addition to all other bonds of the State, in an aggregate principal amount $520,000,000. The ex penses incurred in the sale and issuance of said bonds shall be paid out of the proceeds derived from the sale thereof. The proceeds of said bonds shall be paid into the State Treasury, shall be kept continually invested pending the expenditure thereof, and shall together with the income derived from the invest ment and reinvestment thereof (including income derived from the investment and reinvestment of previously derived income). be retained in one or more separate accounts of the State Treasury until expended for the purposes authorized in this amendment and in the manner provided by law. The proceeds of said bonds remaining after payment of the expenses of selling and issuing the same, together with the investment income derived from said proceeds, shall be used solely for the purpose of paying the capital costs of public facilities and works of internal improvement consisting of (i) public roads, streets, highways and bridges, (ii) buildings, equipment and other facilities for public schools, public technical and vocational schools and public institutions of higher education, (iii) state prisons, facilities for the facilities necessary or useful in connection with prisons and other penal or correctional facilities, (iv) mental hospitals and other mental health facilities, (v) the improvement of navigation in Mobile Harbor by the deepening and widening of channels therein and the construction and installafacilities in Mobile Harbor and on navigable inland waterways, (vi) the renovation and restoration of buildings in the main governmental complex of the State, including the State Capitol Building and the present headquarters office building of the State Highway Department, (vii) the construction and equipment of a new headquarters office building for the State Highway Department, (viii) facilities for the Alabama Department of Youth Services, (ix) the renovation and restoration of the State Coliseum in Montgomery County, (x) public parks and park facilities, the acquisition of land for conser vation and preservation by the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the planting of

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR WHEREAS, Act No. 81-1190 of the Legislature of Alabama passed during the Third Special Session, 1981, provides that an election be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon certain proposed amendments to the Constitution of Alabama; and WHEREAS, said Act further provides that the election be held on March 2, 1982; and,

WHEREAS. The Constitution of Alabama, 1901, requires that notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, be given by a Proclamation of the Governor; and,

WHEREAS, such Proclamation is to be published in each county in the State of Alabama for at least four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for

such election: NOW, THEREFORE, I, Fob James, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form prescribed by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, 1901: "Any, provision of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901 or amendments thereto to the contrary notwithstanding Legislature may from time to time by law provide for the payment by the State of Alabama of expenses incurred by the Alabama Housing Finance Authority (organized pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 80-585 enacted at the 1980 Regular Session of the Legislature) in the exercise of the powers granted to it by law, including, but without limitation, expenses incurred by the Alabama Housing Finance Authority in the issuance of its bonds and the utilization of the proceeds therefrom to make or acquire mortgage loans to private persons firms or corporations that are secured by mortgages on single or multi-family residential property located in the State. The Legislature may appropriate moneys from any available source for the direct payment of such expenses or it may authorize the transfer of moneys to the Alabama Housing Finance Authority to be used for that purpose

Notwithstanding the payment by the State, either directly or indirectly, in any manner authorized herein of the expenses incurred by the Alabama Housing Finance Authority, no bonds or other evidences of indebtedness issued by the Alabama Housing Finance Authority shall be deemed to constitute an indebtedness of the State within the meaning of any constitutional or statutory provision whatsoever, nor shall any action taken by the Alabama Housing Finance Authority be deem ed to constitute a lending of money or credit by the State to any individual, association, or corporation, or a participation by the State in works of internal improvement, within the meaning of Section 93 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as amended. This amendment shall have no force and effect after December 31, 1983, and shall not constitute a part of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901 after such date, but the expiration thereof on such date shall not be considered by any court as a reason for holding unconstitutional any law which would have been constitutional without the adoption of this amendment.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Fob James, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form prescribed by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, 1901:

The county commission of Chilton County shall have the power to levy and collect a special property tax, in addition to all other taxes now or hereafter authorized by the Constitution and laws of Alabama, not exceeding two and one-half mills on each dollar's worth of taxable property outside the corporate limits of any incorporated municipality in the county, as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year, the proceeds of which shall be used exclusively for fire, medical and emergency services to areas outside palities of the county. The tax assessor of Chilton County shall assess the tax herein provided for, and the tax collector of Chilton County shall collect the incorporated munici-

the tax, in the same manner and method that other ad valorem taxes are collected, and the funds shall be distributed to the Chilton County Commission to be distributed by said commission, in equal shares, to all of the rural fire departments in said county that have and maintain an Insurance Services Office of Alabama approved rating.

After the special tax shall have been levied for a period of twenty years from the date of ratification of this amendment, it shall be discontinued unless a majority of qualified electors of Chilton County, participating in an election called by the county commission, shall vote in favor of its continuance. This amendment shall not become operative as to Chilton County unless the same is approved by a majority of the qualified electors of Chilton County who vote thereon upon its submission.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday, the 2nd of March, 1982, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said coun-

The Lauderdale County school district of Lauderdale County shall, subject to authorization at an election in each local school tax district as hereinafter provided, have power to levy and collect a special district tax, at a rate not exceeding ten mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of the taxable property in such district for public school purposes therein, which special tax shall be in addition to all taxes now authorized or that may hereafter be authorized by the Constitution of Alabama to be levied in such district; provided, that no tax shall be levied under this amendment unless the rate of such tax, the time it is to continue, and the purpose thereof shall have been first submitted to the vote of the qualified electors of the local school tax district in which the tax is proposed to be levied and shall have been authorized by a majority of the qualified electors voting at the election at which the submission is made Each elections held under this amendment shall be called and held, the ballots canvassed, the results declared, and the tax levied and collected in the same manner as is now or may hereafter be provided by law in the case of school district taxes authorized by Amendment III to the Constitution of Alabama, except that no countywide or systemwide tax shall be required to be levied as a condition precedent to either the authorization or levy of a local school district tax under this amendment. The holding of one election shall not preclude a later election in the same district under the authority of this amendment. The proceeds of any special district tax authorized by this amendment shall be expended solely for capital outlay purposes in the public schools in the district in which the tax shall be levied.

The county board of education of Lauderdale County may from time to time, without the necessity of any election, change the boundaries of any local school tax district at any time existing in the county, or consolidate any two or more school districts therein, if the taxes authorized to be levied for public school purposes in all of the territory in such district after such change of boundaries or consolidation is effected shall be at the same aggregate rate and for the same duration of time; provided, that nothing contained herein shall be construed to impair or permit the impairment of the obligation of any contract created with respect to any securities theretofore issued with respect to any school district. The provisions of the preceding sentence shall not be deemed to abridge any existing power conferred on the said county board of education by any existing law, but shall be in addition thereto such election:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Fob James, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama in the manner and form prescribed by law upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of

Alabama, 1901: PROCEDURE FOR FILL-ING VACANCIES IN OF-FICE OF JUDGE OF CIR-CUIT COURT AND THE OFFICE OF JUDGE OF THE DISTRICT COURT AT COUNTY: MOBILE MOBILE COUNTY JUDICIAL COMMISSION.

All vacancies in the office of judge of the circuit court and the office of judge of the district court of Mobile County which shall occur subsequent to January 15, 1982, shall be filled in the manner and for the time as herein provided.

The Mobile County judicial commission is hereby created for the purpose of nominating to the governor persons for appointment to such a vacancy. The members of such commission shall be (a) two persons who are members of the Alabama state bar, and (b) two persons who are not members of the Alabama state bar, and (c) one judge of the circuit court of Mobile County.

All members of such commission must reside in the territorial jurisdiction of the circuit court of Mobile County The two members of such commission who are required to be members of the Alabama state bar shall be elected by the members of such bar who are regularly licensed and qualified to practice law in this state and who reside in the territorial jurisdiction of the circuit court of Mobile County. The executive committee of the Mobile County bar association or its successor body in such capacity, is authorized and directed to make rules, not inconsistent with this amendment, for the election of such members of such commission as are required to be members of the Alabama state bar. Such executive committee shall certify in writing to the probate judge of Mobile County the names of the persons elected as members of such commission by such members of such bar. The senators and representatives in the Alabama legislature from Mobile County shall elect the two members of such commission who are required not to be members of the Alabama state bar Such senators and representatives shall certify in writing to such probate judge the names of the persons elected by them as such members

The judges of the circuit court of Mobile County shall elect the member of such commission who is required to be a judge of such circuit court. The judges of such circuit court shall certify in writing to such probate judge the name of the circuit judge elected by such circuit judges as such The terms of office of all members of such commission shall be six years, except that the terms of office of the two members of the state bar first elected shall be for one and two years respectively, and of the two members first elected by the senators and representatives in the Alabama legislature from Mobile County shall be for three and four years respectively, and the term of the circuit judge elected by the circuit judges shall be for five years; the length of such terms of office of the members of such commission being indicated by the respective electing bodies. The terms of the initial members of such commission shall begin on January 16, 1982. A vacancy in the office of a member of such commission shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as such member was originally chosen. The probate judge of Mobile County shall record all such certificates of election and shall safely and permanently keep the original certificates. Forthwith upon his receipt and recordation of every such certificate, he shall send to the governor a certified copy of every such cer-

No member of such commission shall be eligible to succeed himself as such member or for nomination to the governor for appointment as judge of such circuit court or district court during the term of office for which such member shall have been selected.

The members of such commission shall not receive any salary or other compensation for their services as such members. No member of such commission other than the member required to be a judge of the circuit court shall hold any public office, and no mber of such commission shall hold any official position in any political par-

If, subsequent to January 15, 1982, a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of the circuit court or in the office of judge of the district court of Mobile County, such commission shall nominate to the governor three persons having the qualifications for such office. Such nomination shall be made only by the concurrence of a majority of the members of such commission. The governor shall appoint to the office in which the vacancy exists one of the three persons so nominated for such office. Any vacancy occurring in the office of judge of the circuit or district court of Mobile County, which is required to be filled by appointment on nominations made by a judicial commission, shall be made within ninety days from the date of the submission of such nominations. In the event the governor fails to fill the vacancy from such nominations within such period. the appointment shall be made by the chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama. The appointee shall hold such office until the next general election for any state officer held at least six months after the vacancy occurs and until his successor is elected and qualified; the successor shall hold office for the unexpired term and until his successor is elected and qualified. The legislature may prescribe by local law for Winston County for forest fire protection in the county and may authorize the county governing body to further promote and provide for tax on acreage, on a basis other than ad valorem, therefor. The legislature may provide for the manner for levying and collecting such assessments and the distribution thereof. The legislature may further provide for the administration of such forest fire protection promotion.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1982, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday, the 2nd of March, 1982, in each county of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said coun-

WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, this the 14th day of December, 1981. Fob James

Teachers want pay raise - now

Voicing the feelings of most of the teachers and support workers gathered in the Shelby County High School auditorium, one member of the group said, "We're tired of being patted on the back and told we've done a good job."

What the speaker and those who attended Friday's meeting want is a pay raise. And they want it now, not next year.

At the last board of education meeting, promotions and the accompanying salary increases were approved for four office workers in the central office.

That annoyed teachers and support workers who haven't had a raise in two years.

Paychecks are almost certain to increase next year, due to a raise the legislature is expected to vote in and as the result of a salary adjustment schedule a local committee of educators is now studying.

But for right now, Superintendent of Education Charles Knowles and the board say no raise is possible because the money is not in the budget.

Education Alabama Association teacher representative Wayne Sumners disagrees.

He told the teachers and support workers that figures he got from the tax assessor's office showed that the board would have a little over a quarter million dollar surplus this year.

He explained that this figure was based on revenue collected in the first four months of this fiscal Saying that Sumners had a right to his projection, the superintendent last week told the Reporter that he felt the board's projection was more acurate.

And based on those figures. Knowles said that in order to meet the last payroll, the budget would show a $100,000 deficit.

He also noted that this wasn't an unusual occurrence.

Knowles also pointed out that there was a mistake in the figures given to Sumners on which he based his projection.

In any case, teachers are smarting from the board's approval of the increased pay for the office workers in the central office while they were passed over.

Pointing out that teachers and support workers are the backbone of the educational process, Sumners told them, "You deserve a raise, you need it now and they have the money."

Since a retroactive pay raise isn't possible, the AEA representative advised teachers not to delay taking action.

board meeting, Sumners told those who hadn't been present, was a 2% one time raise.

amount would be a little less than a quarter of a million dollars.

Recalling the turnout of approximately 350 school employees at that meeting at Montevallo High School, Sumners observed, "At least the board knows teachers are alive now - I don't think they knew that before."

And to keep the board aware of their existence and needs, a massive letter writing campaign to board members was suggested.

"We should let them know All that he had requested at the that we feel we deserve some local support from our board," one teacher declared.

Another proposal was to have And he noted that the total better communication with parents to keep them informed of teachers' needs.

Pointing out the time teachers spend on duties other than teaching, a member of the audience said she totaled up the hours consumed by these extras and it came out to 85 seven hour

These duties included filling out health cards, enrollment cards, grading papers, fixing bulletin boards, preparing lesson plans, holding parent conferences and cleaning rooms.

The teachers admitted they were unsure of where to draw the line between their responsibilities

Alabaster annexation treading on thin ice

Alabaster officials may still be treading on thin ice in their latest annexation attempt.

The crack which could possibly break the ice and send the latest effort to a watery grave is a strip of land between US Highway 31

That area is occupied by 75 Saginaw families who do not want to be included in the annex-

Representative Jabo Waggoner says he will not vote for a bill which includes their area which is east of I-65.

Although Mayor H.A. "Doc" Rubin told the Reporter these families could have been excluded from the latest annexation effort by presenting their property deeds, Saginaw resident Troy Hoagland denies the offer was ever made.

assurances from Rep. Sonny Moore that he will introduce the annexation bill in the house.

Sen. Doug Cook has agreed to introduce it in the senate, Rubin related.

However, Waggoner declares he will amend the bill if it is introduced in its present form.

Instead of Highway 31 being people should be given the right the boundary line, Waggoner says he would change the line to along

The representative from Vestavia explained that his decision was based on the calls and petitions he received from residents of the Saginaw area that would be included in the Alabaster annexation.

But city officials point out that the number of people who want to be taken in by the city far outnumber those who are opposed.

The city's latest effort at enlarging its boundaries by 14 square miles takes in seven subdivisions.

It is the city's contention these to vote.

This is the second of four weeks that the legal description of the area to be annexed is being advertised.

So as far as the time element is concerned, it should be ale to come to a vote in the legislature if it is introduced, since the session will continue until April.

After the Saginaw incorporation attempt was thwarted by a petition filed by Alabaster's attorneys, residents looked for other avenues of escape from annexation.

The incorporation petition was withdrawn when attorneys pointed out there were not four signatures of people living on each quarter-quarter section, as required by law. The Saginaw group is asking for an attorney general's ruling on the petiton filed by Alabaster attorneys, citing the fact that none of those who signed it are residents of the city.

Another tactic they're trying, Hoagland says, is to get a bill introduced in the legislature which would exempt any nonconsenting landowner from being annexed.

Pelham denies business license; slightly softens stand on dogs

by David F. Moore

The Pelham Council took a strong stand against a gold store's license renewal in a special called meeting last week. At the same meeting the council also only slightly softened its stand on a leash law which has drawn flak recently as being too stringent and over-zealously enforced.

Pelham Police Captain Allen Wade, armed with numerous dossiers, a 20-minute taped confession, and backed by seven law enforcers from Alabaster, Mountain Brook, Pelham, the Shelby County Sheriff's Department and the Bureau of Alcohol and Firearms, had little trouble in persuading the council to deny Bama Gold and Silver a business license renewal.

The highway 31 business was first denied a business license renewal by city clerk Willie Mae Dennis after its license expired at the end of 1981. According to law, any denied business has the right to a review of the action by the council, so Mayor Burk Dunaway called the special meeting for last Thursday even-

However, no one represneted Bama Gold and Silver at the meeting, although Dunaway said he had notified store personnel of their requested hearing more than 24 hours in advance. Wade presented the council with copies of purchase forms from Bama, which are required by city ordinance to be filled out when such stores buy gold and silver from individuals. He pointed out what he called contradictions in identifying sellers, inconsistencies in information, and several alleged instances of store personnel illegally buying gold and silver from minors.

The most damning evidence against the license renewal came when a Mountain Brook investigator said warrants had been issued in Jefferson County against one of Bama's allegedowners for buying and melting down stolen silver.

Burglar still faces

murder case charges

It only took 15 minutes for a Shelby County jury to find Victor Kennedy guilty of burglary 3rd degree.

That trial was held Wednesday. Later this month, Kennedy will be back in the courtroom again on a capitol murder charge.

He and Daryl Grayson are accused of killing Mrs. M.L. Orr in her Montevallo home in December, 1980.

No trial date has been set for Grayson.

The two are from Montevallo and both have birthdays this month. Kennedy turned 20 on Tuesday and Grayson will be 21 on Feb. 26. The burglary case tried last week took place nine days prior to the Orr murder.

Kennedy was found guilty of taking a stereo system from the Baptist Student Center located on Highland St. near the University of Montevallo campus.

In closing arguments to the jury, District Attorney Billy Hill stressed to the jury that the case was important because it affected a person's fundamental right to be secure.

The stolen stereo, records, and tape recorder belonged to University of Montevallo student Dewayne Curry, who lived at the center.

On the evening of the theft,

Columbiana forces recycling firm out of city

by Bert Seaman

Benny Davis found himself between a rock and a hard place at Thursday's meeting of the Columbiana Council.

After complaints from members of two churches, which are located near Davis' business, the council passed a resolution that he must move it outside the city limits.

But Davis claims it's financially impossible for him to relocate. And after examining the resolution, city attorney Sonny Conwill says that it will not hold up as written.

It will be reviewed, he said, at the next council meeting. Those who voiced complaints

The Alabama Scene

by Bob Ingram

There is politics aplenty on Goat Hill these days, and it will get worse before it gets better...

Not surprisingly, some gubernatorial politics is being mixed in with the constitutional amendment referendum scheduled for March 2. The first three amendments on the ballot, if passed, would in effect lock up the $449 million in oil lease revenue. If the amendments fail, that money will likely be still around for the next governor to spend. For that reason, supporters of at least one likely candidate for governor are quietly spreading the word to vote "no" on March 2...

And speaking of the governor's race, former Atty. Gen. Bill Baxley says there is no longer any doubt---he will make a second race for governor in September. He was runner-up to Fob James four years ago. Baxley had said months ago he probably would not run if George Wallace was in the race. This latest announcement may mean he knows that Wallace is not going to run... or he simply doesn't care if he Congressman Jack Edwards, saying he was yielding to the pressure of his constituents, has decided to seek another term in the U.S. House. He had indicated earlier he would not run again, an announcement that had Republicans wailing and gnashing their teeth, fearful that the seat might be lost to the Democrats...

And in a related move, at least two incumbent Jefferson County elected officials are gearing up to seek the Democratic nomination for Congress, and then challenge Republican incumbent Rep. Albert Lee Smith.

City Councilman Pete Clifford---a loser to Smith two years ago---will try again, and county Commissioner (and former state legislator) Ben Erdreich is also expected to run for the same office.

There have been a rash of oneliners resulting from a resolution introduced in the Legislature by Sen. Bobby Denton. He proposes that members of the legislature be presented a lapel button as a momento of their sevice in Montgomery. There have been a lot of suggestions---most of them unprintable---as to what the button should depict. You might have a suggestion or two

Fob seeks support

amendment election, the way you vote on one amendment has no effect on the others on the ballot. Each amendment stands on its own. You can vote "yes" or Technically that is true in the vote "yes" for all three.

I am referring to the first three amendments on the ballot. They are all part of the bold new investment and public works program agreed on by my administration and the Legislature

It takes all three amendments amendments and see why they are so closely tied together. The unprecedented investment program the Legislature approved for the oil lease windfall involves putting every penny of the original $449 million into a perpetual trust along with some $11 million in interest already accumulated on the money. That makes a total of $460 million which will go into the trust fund and remain untouched for years:

Amendment No. 1 on the ballot creates the perpetual trust. Without nailing the trust fund down in the constitution, a future Legislature could withdraw the money and spend it for whatever use it saw fit. Under our plan, every cent of the windfall will be in the trust fund 20 years from now, drawing interest every day.

Another vital part of our program is a $520 million bond issue which will provide funds to meet the state's most urgent building needs and, at the same time, create jobs for thousands of the state's unemployed.

Amendment No. 2 authorizes the state to issue those bonds and spells out what the money can be used for - highways and bridges, schools, prisons, menta! health facilities, a deep-water channel offthe coast of Mobile, and scores of lesser public works protthe recently opened medical

By telling you how the money can be used, the amendment assures you that you will get your money's worth. It doesn't list how much will be spent in each area. Those figures are spelled out in an appropriation bill already passed by the Legislature and waiting for the constitutional amendment to be approved.

Actually, the bond issue will provide more than $650 million in building funds instead of just the original $520 million. As soon as it is available, the $520 million will be invested in lending institutions within the state and, before all of the bond issue money is spent, the interest will amount to an estimated $150 million. Besides the buildings of roads, bridges, schools and the other public works projects, the oil lease windfall program also sets aside seed money to finance some $600 million in low-cost mortgage loans to low and middleincome wage earners who want to own their own homes.

Amendment No. 3 on the ballot permits the state to use its funds to pay the expenses of the Alabama Housing Finance Authority, which is administering the mortgage loan program.

The amendment is essential because the consitution presently prohibits the state from lending its money or credit "to any individual, association or corporation." Amendment No. 3 is only a temporary provision. It automatically expires December 31, 1983, the same date the federal mortgage funds run out.

I encourage each of you to go to the polls on March 2 and to vote "yes" on these first three amendments. Let's get this onetime oil lease windfall money working to improve our state.

Need clean air

Letter to the Editor:

This is to express great concern about legislation pending in Congress reauthorizing the Clean Air Act. The Clean Air Act provides the standards necessary in maintaining a healthy environment.

There is danger of having these Clean Air Act standards diminished by groups whose interests would benefit from a weakened Clean Air Act. It is important to maintain the standards set forth in the Clean Air Act to work towards a satisfactory environment providing security for everyone. Consequently, citizens should take the responsibility to inform their Representative and Senator of their concern and support for maintaining a strong Clean Air Act.

The air people breathe is part of the absolutely essential elements sustaining life. Therefore, it should be kept as pure as possible in order to insure a healthy environment for everyone to enjoy.

Club finds home

Letter to the Editor:

For some time the North Shelby Junior Women's Club has experienced much difficulty in trying to obtain a permanent place for it's members to attend monthly meetings. We would like to express our appreciation to Mr. Don Murphy for helping to arrange for our club to meet at First Real Estate's office in Pelham.

We feel civic clubs like ours can and do meet many useful needs in a community and should be assisted and encouraged with their projects. With the support of the businesses and private citizens in North Shelby County, we plan to move forward with many challenging projects which will help to enhance the quality of life in our community.

The North Shelby Junior Women's Club Jo Kirchner, Chairman Martha Cagle, Chairman

Education, the Board of Education and its employees were working harmoniously toward the goal of educating ALL of ever pit our dedicated principals Shelby County's children. Three years later, the teachers are concerned that the harmony, cooperation and communication, which previously existed between us and the central office no longer exists.

For three years we have been put down, misinformed and unappreciated by our Superintendent. We have silently felt intimidated and angered. Finally, the time has come to peacefully express our confusion, sorrow and disgust caused by the Superintendent's unconcern and the board's failure to listen.

We find it difficult to believe: 1) that school is a family affair, when we, as teachers, no longer feel a part of the "family";

2) that Mr. Knowles would ever make demands of us, who are specialists in our fields, rather than respecting our positions enough to hear our opinions and suggestions;

3) that Mr. Knowles, whose campaign's priority was "instruction first" would continue to hire personnel other than classroom teachers;

4) that Mr. Knowles would lead the public to believe that their new tax dollars have reduced pupil-teacher ratios in the primary grades but has neglected to publicize the overload in the intermediate grades and high school;

5) that Mr. Knowles would allow some students to be transported twenty miles (one-way) to be serviced by his gifted program while others are serviced in their own schools;

6) that Mr. Knowles would dare threaten us with having enough applications to replace us

7) that Mr. Knowles would inform his teachers to solve problems through a "chain of command";

8) that Mr. Knowles would ever fail to support his teachers who have financial needs (not wants) or morale problems;

9) that Mr. Knowles would ever refuse to exercise an "open-door" policy to those who elected him:

10) that Mr. Knowles would ever mislead Shelby County. teachers on any issue-especially financial matters;

11) that Mr. Knowles would ever hire persons to fill unadvertised positions and have such gross inconsistencies in his hiring procedures;

12) that Mr. Knowles would against their teachers;

13) that Mr. Knowles requests NICE salary increases (which are "not raises") for some central staf personnel because of additional duties, yet require teachers to participate in professional development programs and other additional duties without additional pay;

14) that Mr. Knowles would lead the public to believe that Shelby County students really have access to an art teacher when she comes to serve only 2% to 4% of our students 1/2 day or less per month;

15) that Mr. Knowles would send a memorandum instructing his principals not to allow students to carry readers home;

16) that Mr. Knowles would allow any central office secretarial staff's salary to exceed that of a teacher's salary.

17) that our Board of Education is unaware of our feelings;

18) that the teacher is not the most valuable employee of the Board of Education and still the least respected.

Teachers are a special breed of people. Somehow we continue to broaden young minds and develop young characters. We remain dedicated to the children and parents of the children of our district. What a tremendous task we have chosen as our profession. Isn't it difficult to believe that the priorities of our elected leaders are so poorly arranged?

agrees to contribute 12 mills to schools

Some might view the consent of Riverchase Family Medical Center to contribute to the Shelby County School System as a bit of arm twisting.

But the delegation representing facility in north Shelby County were undoubtedly able to see the handwriting on the wall at Monday's meeting of the Shelby County Commission.

Unless they agreed to pay an amount equivalent to the 12 mills the school system gets from the ad valorem tax, it appeared that Commissioner Don Murphy would not introduce the motion the delegation wanted.

They told the commission that a "kink" in the law made it necessary for the county in which the facility was located to give their approval for its location.

An attorney for Brookwood Health Services explained that this discovery had been made only last week.

And it was also pointed out that the approval was needed immediately in order for the bond issue providing the financing to be transacted. Since the center is in Murphy's district, the commissioners waited for him to make the motion granting the approval. Instead, Murphy asked for a recess so the delegation might reconsider paying the educational portion of ad valorem taxes.

"The people in my district are hollering for more ad valorem taxes so we can have a better school system," he reported.

But the Riverchase Health Care Center would be exempt from paying those taxes for a five year period because of their incorporation under a medical clinic board.

Since the Riverchase medical center is actually within the boundaries of Hoover, those guiding the project were not aware they also needed this county's consent.

Following the recess, the group

Safety Sabbath proclaimed

Gov. Fob James, at the request of the Alabama Safety Council, has proclaimed Sunday, February 14, as "Safety Sabbath," according to James H. (Jimmy) Faulkner, Sr., Safety Council President.

"The proclamation calls on all clergy and lay leaders of religious organizations to direct their spiritual influence toward their congregations for safety," Faulkner said.

The proclamation asks them to emphasize the use of such lifesaving aids as safety belts and child safety seats and to "urge all citizens to take seriously and act upon the counsel of safety leaders."

the gesture to get the ball rolling. Commission Chairman Tommy Snowden had reported that 17 industries in the county were also exempt from ad valorem taxes. 5511 It was agreed that an attempt be made to get these industries to follow the example of Riverchase Family Medical Center and pay an amount equivalent to the millage the school system would get from ad valorem taxes.

How much the school system will get from the medical center's taxes hasn't been determined since the appraisal hasn't been done yet.

But the commission was told that the building and property were valued at $2.5 million.

Only the three acres on which the health care center stands were to have been exempt. The remainder of the 27 acres is taxable.

The medical clinic board actually holds title to the Riverchase facility and Brookwood leases it from them.

Although a joint certificate of need was filed by Shelby Medical Center and Brookwood, SMC did not contribute any of the financing.

Ribbon cut on Riverchase Family Medical Center

A formal ribbon cutting, a speech by former Governor George Wallace and tours of the facility, highlighted the grand opening of the Riverchase Family Medical Center Sunday after-

Hundreds of citizens from north Shelby County and south Jefferson County were on hand to hear the former governor tell of medical care when he was a youth in Barbour County, and then contrast that care with today's facilities, specialists and advanced medicine.

The new $2 million facility, a joint project of Brookwood and Shelby Medical Centers, is located on Riverchase Parkway East off Valleydale Road in north Shelby County.

Construction of the 19,787 square foot primary health care center was begun in June, 1981. Doors were opened on January 4 and the grand opening was held

The Riverchase facility provides north Shelby County and south Jefferson County residents and employees with a variety of health care services and programs in a central location.

The clinic, which includes 14 examination rooms, physicians offices, a diagnostic laboratory and radiology and dental services is staffed by three full-time primary care doctors and numerous specialists who serve on a part-time rotating basis. The fully-staffed Minor Emergency Room is the only one of its kind in the area. It is devoted to the treatment of injuries, illnesses and urgent medical problems which are not immediately life threatening or do not require immediate hospitalization.

The Minor Emergency Room is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Also housed in the center is a full-service pharmacy and two 100-person classrooms in which community health education, childbirth, exercise and wellness classes will be taught. The meeting rooms are available to the community for civic and business meetings when not in use

Emergency Room staff. Sunday. Hospital to purchase CAT scanner

Shelby Medical Center has been given final approval by the State Health Planning and Development Agency to purchase Computerized Axial Tomography (CAT) scanner. Installation of the scanner will begin in April, according to Dr. Morgan Eiland, Medical Director of Radiology.

"Plans have been underway for some time in anticipation of the machine and a room which can easily be converted to accommodate this equipment was incorporated in our recently completed building program so there would be no unnecessary delay in receiving the equipment," said Roland hospital ad-Bradford, ministrator.

"Our goal at Shelby Medical Center is to continually strive to upgrade and improve our facility by acquiring the most advanced medical equipment available," he said. "The purchasing of this type of sophisticated equipment is in accordance with the progressive attitude of the SMC Board of Directors whose goal is to provide the residents of Shelby County with total comprehensive health care service," he added.

"The CAT scanner enables us to see parts of the body which we've never been able to see before," said Eiland. "The machine projects x-rays through the body which are picked up by sensors in the scanner which feeds the information into a computer. The computer then analyzes the information and produces an image of that part of the body on a screen."

"This instrument has had an impact on medicine equivalent to that of penicillin," Eiland said. "It will enable us to look at the body a section at a time and to see abnormalities that before would have require surgery to observe," Eiland said. "We are able to make a more specific diagnosis at a much earlier date and consequently we are able to treat people faster and with better results," he added.

"It will eliminate many invasive tests currently being used and will cause no discomfort to the patient," he said.

Center is sending between five and eight patients per week to other hospitals for a CAT scan. "By having our own equipment, we will be able to perform the scan on all our patients who need it including those who are too sick to be transfered to other hospitals," Eiland said. "Having this equipment inhouse will not only make it available with no waiting period but will reduce the high cost of transporting patients into Jefferson County. Another advantage is the scan can be done on an outpatient basis thus eliminating hospitalization in many cases,"

As traffic patterns change

Business returns to Highway 31

by David F. Moore

The completion of I-65's missing link through Shelby County last spring was a welcome event to motorists frustrated by bumper-to-bumper traffic on highway 31.

But businessmen along the 31 corridor in Alabaster and Pelham were not in a position to share such enthusiasm. By at least one estimate, some business immediately fell by 50 percent when the freeway opened.

However, since the May 1981 opening of I-65, business has recovered some of its lost traffic as local residents find that traveling highway 31 today is easy compared to the nightmare of the past.

A general rule-of-thumb allows about three years for local businesses to recover from the shock of interstate bypass, but there are signs that it may pick up quicker than that in Shelby

During the first few weeks, the freeway had a visible impact on traffic and business. Indeed, a long-time bookkeeper at an Alabaster Gulf station says highway 31 looked like a "ghost town."

"I could have worked (the service station) by myself," says Eunice Tidmore, whose son Ricky has since bought out Tidmore's Gulf. "I thought the business was really gone. Then it gradually started coming back, and it's still coming back every day."

She says many people at first went out of their way to drive the interstate, and confesses she was one of them. Most of the tourist traffic and trucking still sticks to I-65, but as the newness continues to wear off, more and more local traffic is returning.

William Ulmer, owner of W.H. Ulmer Tobacco and Candy Wholesalers in Alabaster which services numerous stores along the 31 corridor, says his sales, and consequently those of local businesses, fell off 50 percent when the interstate opened. In the past eight months, however, Ulmer says 35 percent of his business has returned.

Eunice Tidmore says her books probably reflect similar figures. Traffic flow estimates seem to agree with these figures.

State highway department district engineer James Braden estimates that the interstate cut in half highway 31's daily traffic flow which was as high as 35,000 vehicles in north Shelby. Although the state has not yet tabulated flow patterns. Braden estimates traffic on 31 in north Shelby is back up to about 20,000 vehicles per day.

Braden also believes Shelby County may be ahead of the normal pattern of returning traffic.

Braden also says that a contract was let recently to Central Alabama Paving and Construction for resurfacing highway 31 from the Alabaster city limits to the Cahaba River. The project, set to start this month and be and business on 31.

Joe Smith, store manager at Unpainted Furniture in Pelham, predicts the completion of I-459 should also benefit business along the 31 corridor by making the area more accessible to outlying areas such as Bessemer and the eastern side of Birmingham. Smith, who noticed the initial decline of business traffic when I-65 opened, believes the interstate will be a long-run benefit to business. "All the way down there to Pelham," Smith says, "is really only about five minutes, now."

Two businessmen say the opening of I-65 actually increased the clanging of their cash registers.

Ken Nason, owner of One Hour Martinizing in Pelham says that every month since the opening of the interstate, his business has increased. For one thing, he points out that on-off accessibility to 31 has greatly increased. But since his biggest increase is in his Birmingham.

morning store traffic, he thinks interstate travel allows commuters more time for errands before they have to be at work in EAST

Traffic patterns

The opening of I-65 last spring immediately changed local traffic patterns. More gradual has been the change in shopping habits of people who patronize stores along highway 31 in Alabaster and Pelham. (Photo by David F. Moore)

Country Grocery owner Jack Shelton says he used to have customers drive the back roads to his highway 52 location just to stay away from 31's dangerous congestion. The freeway exit at highway 52, he says, has made a relatively important artery out of this road, thus increasing the traffic flow and consequently his yolume of walk-in customers. Susan Byars, manager of Strickland's women's shop in Pelham says she noticed an initial decline in business, but says it appears to be recovering from the indications of January sales.

A customer who drove up from Montevallo to buy shoes at Strickland's offers some insight into the discussion. "Traveling up 31 sure is a lot nicer without all that traffic," she says, trying on another pair of heels.

Like many of the restaurants along the strip, the Triple J felt the blow of tourists and truckers taking to the interstate. "But as far as we're concerned," says founder and former owner Joe John Joseph, "business has already hit the bottom and is starting back up."

"We're getting more local people now," Joseph says. "Traffic is up over the last several months, and if you get traffic, you get people to stop."

The future is always uncertain, Joseph says, but adds with a smile, "If Krystal, Quincy's, Wal-Mart and K-Mart are coming here, somebody must know something about business on

A Girl Scout since 1973, Swett has earned her first class award, Silver Leadership award and Silver award, three of the highest awards given in Scouting.

She is a sophomore at Pelham High School and the daughter of Mitzi and Rusell Swett.

However, the council did deem it unnecessary to hear a 20-minute taped confession of a juvenile who said he had sold stolen goods at Bama.

Wade said at various times Albert Eichelberger, and his brother Scott, both of Birmingham, represented themselves as owners of the store. However, evidence brought to surface by state investigators revealed that the owner is Michael Renee Griffin, a convicted felon in North Carolina, Wade said.

to back the city clerk's denial of the license.

Concerning dogs and the leash law, however, the council was slightly divided.

Councilman Ken Maynard James Gustin, a Birmingham held reservations as to enforcing to its letter the city ordinance calling for dogs to be either confined by leash, fence or house, or tional burglaries in north Shelby under the immediate supervision of their owners.

Referring to the numerous that Gustin said Bama was one of complaints registered by residents his primary fences, and it was at the regular council meeting common knowledge that the two days earlier, Maynard said, "There's fire somewhere if there's that much smoke. ## Denton wants ant killer changed

Senator Jeremiah Denton has urged the Environmental Protection Agency to speed its decision ferriamicide, a chemical designed to control fire ants.

Currently, the chemical Amdro is used to control fire ants. Because of prohibitive costs, however, many have suggested forced, with only a few minor changes. Dunaway said it was unfortunate that friendly dogs get caught easier than problem dogs that often escape. But, he added, even a friendly dog that's not confined is still guilty.

Complaints against loose dogs still out-weigh complaints that the new law is causing problems, he added.

However, Dunaway did suggest that picked up dogs be returned to their owners, if possible, instead of being impounded and thus costing a boarding fee. In cases where the dog is returned, the owner will still be issued a citation and be required to go to municipal court.

Furthermore, Councilman John Tanner suggested that in instances where suspected owners of nabbed dogs are not home, the dog catcher should leave notice of the dog's description, and the fact that it had been impounded.

Some people head for warmer climates during the winter months to escape the cold.

However, that wasn't the intent of a group from Vincent's First Assembly of God when they headed for Mexico last week.

A group of 28 people, which included adults and children, traveled to La Pesata to build a church.

The project was instituted at the request of the missionary the church supports in that area.

Adults who volunteered their services either took leaves from their jobs or used vacation time.

"Godspell," a musical adaptation of the Gospel of Matthew, will be presented at the University of Montevallo, Feb. 19-21.

The musical was first presented off-Broadway in 1971. It features actors and actresses wearing brightly colored costumes and make-up. They use mime, charades, ventriloquism and puppets to act out the major parables of Jesus.

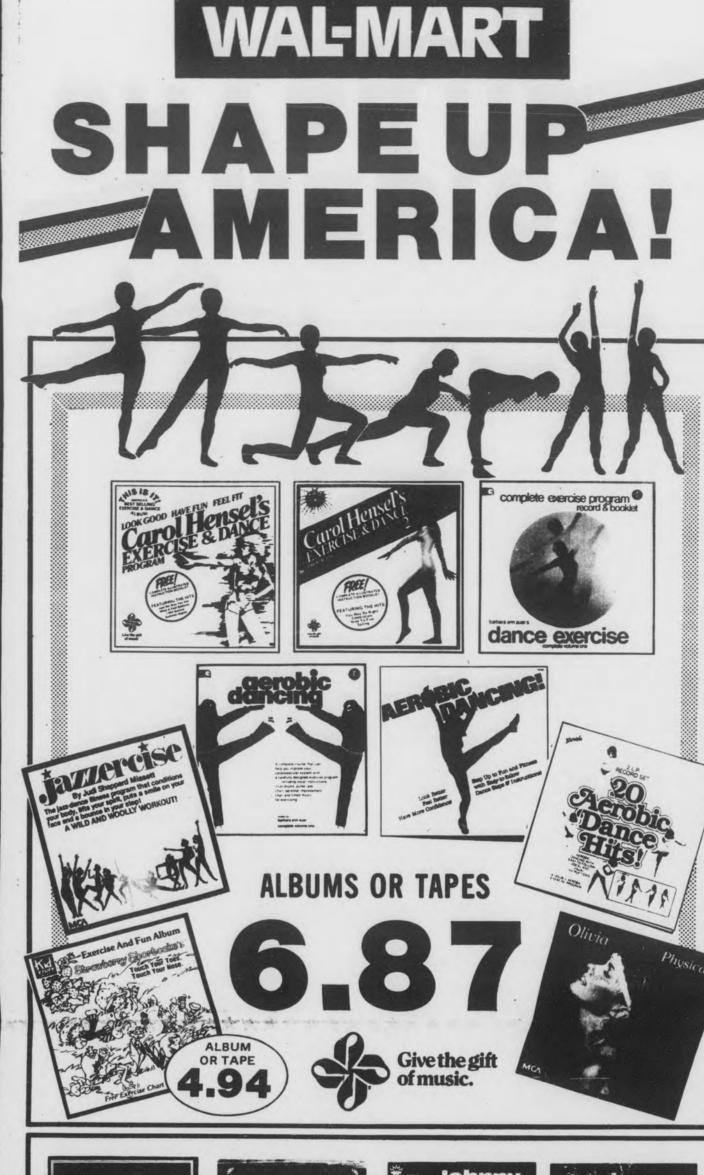

Music ranges from vaudeville to reck and roll and includes the popular song, "Day by Day."

The UM production, directed by theatre graduate student Marty Hendrickson, includes an original set and an original interpretation of Christ's crucifixion. Included in the cast are two Montevallo residents, Cliff Anderson and Krislin Stewart.

The production begins at 8 p.m. in UM's Reynolds Studio Theatre. A special matinee performance will be given Sunday, Feb. 21 at 2 p.m.

Admission is $3 and tickets will be on sale at the door.

Interest hiked

Commodity Credit Corporation commodity and farm storage facility loans disbursed in February will have a 14% interest

The new rate, up from 12.25%, reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U.S. treasury in February, said Everett Rank, executive vice president of the corporation.

IRS increases

interest charges

The annual interest rate charged on tax underpayments and paid on overpayments, effective February 1, will rise from 12 to 20 percent, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The rate on the underpayment of individual and corporate estimated taxes and most other tax law provisions imposing interest also will be 20 percent, according to the IRS.

This rate change stems from a provision of the Economic Recovery Act of 1981, requiring that the rate be set by each October 15 and be based on 100 percent of the average prime interest rate for the preceding month.

Previously, the rate was changed every two years to equal 90 percent of the prime.

Fellowship awarded to UM vice president

Dr. Russell Warren, vice president for Academic Affairs at the University of Montevallo, will spend this summer in Washington as an Association of American Colleges National

With the fellowship, Warren plans to study the relationship of business to general college classes -- the "core curriculum."

"Businesses have a valid voice in helping to decide the content of a core curriculum -- one of several voices, of course," he said. "I plan to ask business leaders their ideas about what attitudes, skills and knowledge college students should acquire in college that will apply to their work in business."

Warren will work in the AAC national headquarters as a senior staff member with one or two other college administrators who received the fellowship. The Montevallo vice president will also assist AAC staff members in the association's continuing projects.

The fellowship is the second straight summer program in college administration Warren has attnened. Last year he went to an advanced college management program at Carnegie-Mellon University. The Fellowship this summer is sponsored by The Arthur Vining Davis Foundation.

Warren came to Montevallo in 1978 from the University of Richmond, where he had been assistant to the president for academic affairs. He earned a doctorate in economics at Tulane University and his bachelor's degree at Richmond.

Warren is a member of a number of professional, honorary and other organizations including Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Tau Omega.

In 1976, he was named one of five Outstanding Young Men in Virginia, and in 1973, he received the Omicron Delta Kappa award as the Outstanding Professor at Richmond.

He is also a former instructor in the U.S. Army Finance School.

Custom framing preserves valued prints

Don't allow the beauty and work to discolor and deteriorate.

Henry Payne of Payne's Custom Framing explains why traditional mounting may not provide sufficient protection to valued prints.

"Limited edition prints are exactly what the name implies...limited in number, therefore they are assured of a possibility of increasing in value," Payne says.

"When limited edition prints are produced they are inspected by the artist, numbered and then all are signed by the artist. A portion of these are assigned a number, also. Those bearing signature and number are more costly to purchase and in the collector's eye, are the prime prints. After the specified number of prints are produced the plates are destroyed.

"Limited edition prints should be treated much like a fine original. They, too, tend to increase in value with time and their beauty must be preserved with what is rightly called conservation mounting," he said.

The

A fine print, says Payne, will approximately 300 custom frame sional frame making services value of fine prints and paper art- not hold its original beauty or styles in various woods and Fifteen percent off on your first value unless properly mounted. They should be matted, separating the face of the print from the glass.

> Payne says when fine prints are mounted using regular mat board and a backing, the owner is taking a greater risk of print deterioration.

> A trace of acid existing in the wood pulp of the regular mat board, used in traditional mounting, may in time cause a darkening of the paper. This is particularly noticeable along the mat opening. Also, the art paper will become brittle.

Conservation mounting uses only acid-free materials. The print is backed by two or three ply ragboard and underneath the matting another layer of one ply ragboard is positioned, encasing the artwork in acid free materials.

Chelsea couple marks 65th anniversary

by Shelba Nivens

L.H. Bradley said he was raised by good Christian parents and taught not to steal, then went and stole the biggest thing in his life. "I stole her," he said with a grin, indicating his wife Florence Roper Bradley.

He continued, "I drove by her house in a buggy and picked her up and we went down to Nelson Switch near old Bethel Church and caught a trainfor Talladega where my brother was section foreman."

She was fourteen and he was seventeen. And when her father realized what was going on, he made every effort to stop the wedding.

A relay telephone system served the area. "But I'd already climbed the pole and cut her daddy's telephone line," Bradley recalled. "So they had to go somewhere else to use the phone."

However, by the time the young couple arrived in Talladega, where they hoped to get a marriage license, a call had reached there and they were uanble to obtain one.

Bradley continued reminiscing, "We went on to Pell City, but I couldn't get my papers there either. My brother finally got them for us in Anniston."

His wife broke in, "Then we got married in Talladega at the Methodist parsonage. Rev. Tatum married us."

That was February 8, 1917. This past Sunday, February 7, the couple celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary.

Bradley recalled, "The first time I saw her daddy after we got married, it nearly scared me to death. But he told me, 'I've got this little house up here and nobody's using it and I'd like for you and Florence to live in it, and I'll help you get your furniture.""

Both the Bradley and Roper families lived near the old Poindexter place in the Lester's Chapel community of Chelsea. Florence Roper and L.H. Bradley played together as children and both went to school at New Bethesda church. "And I went

Draper named in top women

Kathryn Brown Draper, of Alabaster, has been selected as one of the Outstanding Young Women of America for 1981.

This awards program recognizes young women who give their time, talents, and unselfish service to enrich the quality of American life.

Draper was selected by the Board of Advisors from thousands of nominations submitted by business and civic leaders throughout the country.

She is married to John Draper of Alabaster and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Brown Jr. of Montevallo.

A graduate of the University of Alabama with a degree in Fine Arts Management, she has dance studios in Montevallo and Pelham with approximately 300 students.

Her credits include performance with Town and Gown Theatre in Birmingham and work with the Music Department at the University of Montevallo. She was responsible for the A total of 1,000 students from Choreography in UM's production of 'Oklahoma', and is currently working on 'Annie Get Your Gun' which will be presented in the spring.

Her parents were Jo Anna Peeples and William Jackson Roper. His were Emma Riggins and Bart Bradley.

Before coming to the Chelsea area, the Bert Bradley family lived near old Bethel Baptist Church in the area of Jackson Springs between Columbiana and Wilsonville.

"My family was Baptist," L.H. Bradley recalled. "But when we moved down here we went to the Methodist church and you couldn't tell the difference. My daddy was superintendent of Sunday School for years at Lester's Chapel Methodist."

His wife added, "He grew up a Baptist and I grew up a Methodist and now we go to K-Springs Church of God. But it doesn't matter what you are. All God's children are brothers and sisters."

During the years, L.H. Bradley farmed, saw milled and hauled things for people, he said. He also drove a school bus to Chelsea School for over 29 years. "They let him drive until he was 70," said his wife.

He added, "I hauled two generations of children to school. I quit in 1970."

several places in the Chelsea area, and once their house burned.

"That was the year all kind of bad things happened to us," Mrs. Bradley recalled, "My daddy died in January of that year, then on August 11 our little baby died and about the 20th of August our house burned."

She went on to tell how she was ironing on the front porch and had a big fire built in the fireplace inside to heat the irons. "A spark caught the house and it was falling in before I knew it," she recalled. "I ran to the kitchen and saved my utensils and dishes and I got a bedstead and drug it out."

Her husband was out in the field cutting hay, she said, and this is all they saved. Even the smoke house full of canned goods burned.

"But the Lord blessed us so good," she declared, telling how a friend let them move in to a vacant house that same night and how other friends gave them things for themselves and the house. She added, "The Lord has really blessed us."

Churches of various denominations are assisting those who participate in peace marches, and Monday, St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Birmingham hosted the group.

They plan to reach New York City in June where disarmament talks are to be held.

People from the various communities they pass through often walk with them for a while. One member of the group recounted that four young people had accompanied them for 160 miles in Louisiana.

Organizers along the route find lodging and they also provide a vehicle which carries drinking water and food to accompany the marchers.

There are also four other routes across the country on which marches for peace are taking place.

Averaging 18 miles a day, the seven travelers on the southern route say they have walked 560 miles since they started out New Year's Day.

Steve Cleghorn, one of the Birmingham sponsors, compared the travelers' walk to that of

"They are accepting hospitality," he pointed out, "and they're bringing a message of peace."

Vincent wins state track title

by Richard Croshy

Number One Again! That's the chant around Vincent High School this week as the Girls Track Team brought home the state indoor track meet championship.

Vincent took the championship for the A-2A class with a total of 46 points over rival Calhoun. The point total for the Yellow Jackets was a record and brought the top trophy back to Vincent after a three year absence.

Garrett Coliseum was the site for the annual two-day track meet. Vincent led after the first day with a total of 25 points. The winning edge didn't come to Vincent until the final event - the Mile Relay.

Knowing that Calhoun would win the event, Vincent coaches Jim Barnes and Debbie Jackson told their girls that they would have to place second in the relay in order to win the overall title.

Mile Relay members Majorie Hall, Ellen Jordan, Angela Riggins and Teresa Peterson put together a fine performance and finished just a half second ahead of third place finisher Springville. That gave Vincent enough points to edge out Calhoun by one point for the track title.

In last year's event, Vincent finished fourth. In 1980 the team claimed second place. The first championship came in 1979. The year before Vincent placed third.

Winning the most individual medals at the meet was Wanda McCrimmon. She took first place in the long jump, second in the high jump, third in the 60 yard hurdles and fourth in the 60 yard

Teresa Peterson set a new state record in the 60 yard hurdles and brought home the first place medallion. She also took third in the 60 yard dash and fourth in the long jump.

Loretta Perkins took the state crown in the high jump for Vincent. Sebrena Kidd set a new state record in the shot put of 34 ft. 8 & one-half inches, but it only stood for ten minutes, as her record was broken and Ms. Kidd settled for second place.

Majorie Hall brought home a third place medal for the 880. Angela Riggins placed fifth in the Jennifer Wilder of Montevallo High School placed third in the mile run. She was the only participant from the county other than Vincent athletes.

Other members of the Vincent High School State Championship Girls Track team are: Tabatha Datcher, Polly Datcher, Machelle Hamm, Teresa Greenleaf, and Dorcus Davis. Team manager is Cassandra McKinney.

Vincent also had participants in the boy's junior and varsity meet and the girl's junior high.

Sharon Kelley won the shot put for the junior girls with a heave of 31 feet.

The junior high boys failed to collect medals and points, but gained invaluable experience. Making the trip to Montgomery were Russell Campbell, Jamie Dunlap, Jeffrey Kelley, Elgie Johnson, and Wayne Lackey.

Three varsity boys for Vincent participated. Kenneth Swain placed third in the long jump and fourth in the 440. He was the only point getter for the squad. Earl Lucas placed sixth in the two mile race and Scott Kelley ran in the mile and half-mile events.

It's good to win a state trophy and Vincent plans to keep that feeling alive. The school has the best girl's track team in the county and a program worthy of duplication should other schools get active in the sport.

Roundball Roundup

Raider whirlwind hard to beat

by Richard Crosby

Hurricane season. It's that time of year and it's happening on the basketball court. Course, it can have two meanings. In the case of Calera, they're getting their doors blown in just about every time out. For Shelby Academy, the reverse is true. The Raiders seem to be tougher than Hurricane Frederic .

While the Eagles lost four straight last week, the Raiders were winning four and completing one of their best years and heading to district playoffs and a shot at the state tournament. Calera will play Vincent in the first round of the Area playoffs next week, and then will pack the tennis shoes in mothballs.

Shelby Academy piled up four big wins last week. The first took place Monday and Edgewood was a 77 to 57 victim. Allen Terrell scored 20 to lead the Raiders, followed by Mike Silvani with 17 and Billy Eiland and Keith Knowles with 16 each.

On Tuesday night Shelby blew the doors off Talladega 10 to 39. Silvani led the wrecking crew with 21 points. Eiland scored 13, Knowles 12, and Terrell and Rod Byrd tied with 10 each.

Thursday night had the Raiders on the road and beating Autauga 57 to 42. Knowles dropped in 16 and Silvani 12. The final regular season game for Shelby was a 60 to 48 win against Central of Montgomery. Eiland and Knowles led with 18 each and Silvani scored 14.

The four straight wins give the Raiders a 17-7 season record. Shelby is 14-2 since January, and is a favorite in the district tournament which starts next Tuesday at Coosa Valley.

Calera lost to West Blocton, Chelsea, Pelham and Shelby County last week. The Eagles couldn't get anything going and hope that this week's games will end the season on a winning note. Top scorers for Calera last week were Edward Wilson with 15 against Blocton, Melvin Crum with 15 in the Chelsea game, and Richard Russell with 18 against Shelby County.

This week Calera faced Briarwood Tuesday night and finishes the season Saturday at Samford Univeristy as the Eagles take on Cathedral Christian.

Thompson won two and lost two since the county tournament. The Warriors played on Saturday after the county affair and lost by four points to Berry High. The Following Tuesday, Thompson beat B.B. Comer by four. On Thursday the Warriors suffered their second defeat of the week by a one point margin to Vestavia.

The week ended on a better note though as the Warriors nipped Montevallo by two points. The game was played at the University of Montevallo. Top scorers for Thompson were Chris Thomas with 13 and Lester Gaiters and Darryl Ward with 11

The week ended with Thompson having a 11-10 season record. Coach Thomas Johnson told the Reporter that eight of the teams losses were by four points or less. The regular season ends for the Warriors Friday night as they travel to Bibb County. Earlier this week, Thompson played Briarwood and Childersburg.

The Lions of Briarwood won two out of three last week. Coach Steve Franklin's crew lost to West Minister from Gadsden 42 to 63. Peter Clemens scored 13 in that affair. On Thursday night the Lions beat Coosa Christian 71 to 52. Brad Byers led the pack with 17 and Clemens had 16.

The final game of the week was a tough one as Briarwood narrowly escaped Indian Springs 54 to 52. "I bet we missed 10 foul shots in the fourth quarter," Franklin remarked. Indian Springs came from behind, fouled, and took control of the ball as Lion team members missed the front end of a one-and-one. In Continued on page 3 mayor Ralph Sears.

The big influx will be baseball fans coming to enjoy the Dizzy Dean Senior Baseball State Tournament and the Dizzy Dean Senior World Series.

Both tournaments are for boys aged 17 and 18, and the national tournament will bring together teams and fans from Alabama, Mississippi, Louisana, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Maryland, and Ten-

The state tournament is scheduled Friday-Wednesday, July 23-28, and the World series is scheduled Monday-Saturday, Aug. 2-7. All games will be played at the University of Montevallo's Kermit A. Johnson Field, a 1,000 seat lighted facility that is said to be one of the best small-college baseball fields in the country.

City and university officials signed host contracts in ceremonies last week at the University.

Baseball Organization at the signings were A.L. Rigsby of Center Point, E.C. Johnson of Huntsville, W. Comer Sims of Selma, and Ed. E. Reno of Morris. All are members of the Dizzy Dean National Board.

University representatives included John Van Valkenburg, director of development, Dr. Leon G. Davis, UM athletic director, and Bob Riesener, UM baseball coach.

"This is definitely an exciting day for us, to be hosting two such tournaments of this caliber," said Coach Riesener at the signing ceremonies. "We believe we have some excellent facilities and

Lady Bulldogs making bid for state crown

Montevallo's Lady Bulldogs are heading for the state playoffs. In fact, the quarterfinal match was played Tuesday, and saw the Montevallo girls face Autaugaville. A win would place them in the semi-finals Friday afternoon at Boutwell Auditorium in Birmingham.

A win over Moody High School last Saturday evening put Montevallo into the state contest. The Ladies whipped Moody 51 to Representing the Dizzy Dean 30. That victory upped the unbeaten record of the team to 20 wins.

In the Area Tournament held at Vincent last week, Montevallo defeated Chelsea 37 to 22, and then claimed victory over T.C.T.S. 68 to 38 for the Area

Leading the scoring for Montevallo is Lessie Gaddis who has amassed 297 points in the season. Against Chelsea she dropped in 10, against T.C.T.S. 21, and against Moody 16. The number two bucketeer for Montevallo is Debra Tyus who accounted for 254 points on the season. Ruth Perkins has 173 and Tanya Staffney has 157.

If Montevallo prevailed in Tuesday night's match, it will face the winner of the Shields-Houston County game in the semi-finals at 2 p.m. Friday. The state championship game is slated for Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Members of the Area and Region Winning, undefeated Montevallo Lady Bulldogs are: Lessie Gaddis, Tanya Staffney, Debra Tyus, Ruth Perkins, Jahn Bolling, Mary Chism, Ellen Finley, Tabatha McCary, Carol

Paschel, and Lisa Deviner. Sue Wilson is the coach for the team. managers are Lorene Gentry and Vickie Williams. Miss Susie Dement is the team scorer. Dorothy Bishop is the assistant coach.

Bridling

Margaret Bowman demonstrates the proper way to bridle a horse at a recent 4-H Horse Club meeting. She and Beth Bowman (1), Melissa Schale, Jessica Ann Eisenberg, and Jenifer Page demonstrated saddling, how to enter a stall and tie a horse safely and hoof care to approximately forty 4-H horse club members, parents and leaders. The next 4-H Horse Club meeting will be held Saturday, February 13 at the horse farm of Mr. and Mrs. M.M. Argo, Jr. The program will be on how to cue a horse to take the correct lead.

The church basketball league got underway with three good games last Tuesday night.

In the first game Concord Baptist out-scored Enon Baptist 40-30. Bo Blankenship kept Concord in command throughout the game as he poured in 15 points while Billy Shanahan added 8. Buddy and Ronny Holsomback led the losers with 10 and 11 respectively.

The second game went down to the wire with Elliottsville a winner over Northside Baptist by 4. Northside cut the lead to 2 points with 8 seconds but a long pass and easy lay up sealed the victory. Joe Waid led all scorers on the night with 19 points while sitting out 10 minutes of the second half. Don Kilpatrick added 10 for the winners as Dale Milstead sank 15 for Northside. In the final game Shiloh took a 40-33 win over First Methodist of Montevallo. Shiloh, the most talented team in the league, was led by Thomas Brown with 12 points while 7 foot Butch Lilly had 10 points and 5 blocked shots in just 20 minutes of play.

First Methodist was carried by Ronnie and Joe Adkins with 9 and 10 points.

The league will continue next Tuesday at the Montevallo Middle School with the first game starting at 6:30 p.m.

In other activities around the park Karen Mitchell is ready to begin instructing Taekwondo Karate classes beginning next week. The classes will meet on Monday and Thursday nights with a childrens' class at 5:30 and adult classes at 6:30. Spectators are welcome at any time.

SA junior high places second

Shelby Academy's junior high Raiders placed second in the Jackson Academy Tournament last weekend. The team finished the year with a 19-5 record which is probably the best the school has ever had.

The Raiders whipped Jackson and Sumter Academies to advance to the finals where they fell to Tuscaloosa.

The tournament is made up of the eight best junior high squads in the state private school association. Although not officially sanctioned as a state championship tournament, Shelby Academy can claim to be the state's second best private school squad because of the tournament's prestige.

Last week I mentioned that several folks had said they were disappointed with the boat show. That wasn't repeated this week as I heard comments about the World Of Wheels. Course all the good comments were about Miss Candy Loving - Playboy's 25th Anniversary Playmate. Most of those I talked with had little to say about the cars except that they were shiny.

Last week I made a goof in the private school junior high district tournament story. Brian Tuck was named the Most Valuable Player for Coosa Valley. Dennis Robertson was named to the All Tournament Team. I'm glad to set the record straight and congratulate Brian.

The Coaches Association met last Wednesday night at Chelsea. President Danny Alverson appointed a committee to present to the group a method of determining the county tournament brackets. That report should be in for next months meeting at Briarwood.

Not wanting to harass a friend but finding the opportunity too good to pass up.... Danny (Big Al) Alverson forgot to call me last week about the coaches meeting. I realized too late that my tummy had missed its monthly filling, and of all schools to host the meeting, Chelsea is one of my favorites. Those folks know how to put out some great food and rolls....hmmmm. I'll get even with him for this.

Folks still ask me why we don't cover the professional tennis tournament in Birmingham. In the last two weeks, I've had three people ask for press passes to the event. Truth is, the event hasn't been held in two years, since the Birmingham Junior League lost its bid for the tournament. Trust me, I miss it just as bad as everyone else.

That's enough scribbling for one week. Stay tuned.....

by Bob Patrick

The Pelham Panthers set a new school record for most points in a single contest last Friday night as they raced by the Chelsea Hornets 89-58.

Todd Davis led the Panther attack with 32 points and 15 rebounds. The supporting cast was equally impressive with Bobby Sutton, Bryan Hughes and Devin Tubert each contributing 12 each.

Pelham raced to an early lead but saw the Hornets fight back to close to within 10 at the half. 40-30. The third period saw Todd Davis really go to work as he hit six field goals and added a free throw for his record high of 13 points in one quarter. Todd's 32 points was also a single game season high for him.

The win pushed the Panthers' record to 15-7 as they lost to Berry on Monday night 69-55 and whipped Calera on Thursday night 67-33. Todd Davis was the leading scorer in those games also, hitting for 14against Berry and 15 against Calera.

Pelham closes out its home season Tuesday night hosting the Wildcats from Columbiana and Friday night travels to Midfield for their last regularly scheduled game.

THE NEW TAX-DEFERRED INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNTS-IRAS.

That's a ridiculous question, of course. Because everyone could use an extra $540.585 toward their retirement.

And now, with a tax-deferred Individual Retirement Account (IRA) from our FULL SERVICE BANK, almost everyone can have an extra $540,585. Even if you're already covered by a company pension plan.

To build such an impressive nest egg. you'll need to salt away $2,000 a year-for 30 years-into your own high-yield retirement account.

Or, as demonstrated in the box at right, you can deposit less than $2,000 a year and still end up with a sizeable amount of cash. You can even set up a convenient payment schedule. Making deposits by the week, by the month or whatever suits you best.

WHAT A TAX-DEFERRED IRA COULD MEAN TO YOU

$ 15,000 $ 30,000 $ 60,000 $135,146 $270,292 $540,585

Note: This chart is intended to be an example of how regular deposits into an IRA can grow into a substantial sum. This is not a guarantee of interest rates or end financial results.

And because our retirement accounts are tax-deferred, you deduct your annual investment from your taxable income. So you'll pay no federal tax on an IRA until you start withdrawing funds (minimum age: 591/2). Then, when you retire, you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket, paying lower taxes.

If you're intrigued with the thought of reducing your tax load while increasing your security, call or visit the professionals at our FULL SERVICE BANK for all the details

OUTDOORS WITH EARL

by Earl Franklin Kennamer . More than seven years ago I predicted the recent violence and anger between landowners and deer hunters.

For 20 years I have been watching the pot come to a boil and now I see that the so-called solution includes only stiffer fines and penalties for night hunting, poaching, threatening landowners, etc., by "deer" anhunters.

However, I must ignore such so-called corrective legislation as the final word, obviously proposed by certain individuals selected to study the situation and come up with a plausible answer to woes of both landowners, dedicated non-dog hunters and ruthlessly driven white-tailed deer.

The REAL solution is simple: outlaw deer hunting with dogs and rigidly enforce the law!

In late 1974 when I was Alabama Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, I researched and prepared material for a public meeting including Lee and Chambers counties on problems of deer hunting with dogs.

Lee County courthouse was packed. Several wildlife conservation officers were asked to be present, but all but one had made excuses why they could not be present at the boisterous melee they knew would take place.

In essence I, as wildlife specialist, was representing several landowners in both counties who had asked me to call the meeting to help them stop trespassing on their properties by uninvited deer hunters who used dogs, shot from the highway and used spotlights around their homes and farms. However, the night of the meeting, none of these landowners was present. I recognized several landowners. but they were probably afraid to speak, because of the loud and profane declarations.

I tried to give the audience the facts, but was continually shouted down. The only real support I got was from Dr. Keith Causey, Auburn University Zoology-Entomology Dept. wildlife professor and researcher on deer biology and management, who knew the situation as well as I and many others present, including some of his game management students. He was also shouted down.

Here are a few of the brief statements I made, attempting to prove why deer dogging is detrimental:

"In 1936...individuals convinced the Virginia General Assembly to enact a law prohibiting the hunting of deer with dogs west of the Blue Ridge mountains. Between 1937 and 1944...1700 animals were...released...Following the restocking the first hunting season was permitted in 1945 with...200 animals...harvested in two days. Since that time the hunting period has been extended to 12...days and the 1973 kill was 16,567 animals...

dogs are used in deer hunting, trespass problems are considerably more numerous and the dangerous practice of road hunting is prevalent...I am convinced that the landowner is the only one capable of having laws enacted which will stop the running of deer hounds on private lands..." (Letter from R.H. Cross, Jr., Chief, Division of Virginia Game and Inland Fisheries, April 2, 1974.)

"...Numbers of deer limit the effectiveness of still hunting, and when hunting success decreases to a point no longer attractive to hunters, hunting pressure decreases, thereby becoming a built-in safeguard to the population. With dog hunting, successful hunts can be held on very low deer populations, keeping the population low and therefore incapable of furnishing sizeable harvests. Under this situation it is possible for a minority group to monopolize what hunting is available in a given area. (Letter to Roy T. Johnston, Ft. Benning, Ga. Wildlife Dept. from Jack A. Crockford, assistant director, Georgia State Game & Fish Commission, Oct. 27, 1965.)

"... There is considerable differences in the quality of meat that is obtained between stalk hunts and dog hunts. (sic).

"The stalk hunter usually takes his animal with a well placed shot upon a still or slow moving animal. If he eviscerates the animal soon after the kill and then sees that it is chilled before skinning and cutting -- he has good quality and very good tasting meat. The so-called "wild taste" is almost non-existant.

Much work remains to be done, but the fact of the matter is that if you live in Westover and your house catches fire today, the Westover Volunteer Fire Department will come to your aid.

According to Debbie Willingham, who is a firefighter, and wife of the volunteer company's chief, WVFD's goal is to lower the area's fire insurance rating from a current "10" to a "9".

To meet the state's qualifications for the lower rates, the fire station on the new highway 280 near highway 55 has to be completed, additional equipment is still needed, and the volunteers will have to pass a minimum standards test.

To further this goal, the WVFD Woman's Auxiliary last Saturday held a chili dinner at Union United Methodist church, and raised $299.37.

Furthermore, the auxiliary has already made $75 off the sale of their handy area phone directories which cover the 669, 672 Another 20 persons are active and 678 exchanges.

Fund raisers over the past three years enabled the fire department to begin construction late in the summer on its fire station. In September the first truck was purchased, '46 International with a 350 gallon-per-minute pump. A second truck, a '49 America-LaFrance with a 750 gpm pump, was purchased in November.

"But we still need so much more," Willingham said. "I think now the majority of the community is behind us. The response seems to be pretty good."

Currently, 40 firefighters have volunteered their services to Chief Perry Willingham and assistant chief Joe Green.

with the auxiliary, Willingham

Under recently appointed Captain Michael Sims, the firefighters have been undergoing training sessions Sunday afternoons at the station. Willingham said Sims has a major training session planned for March 22-26 to prepare for the state's minimum standards.

If the equipment that's still needed can be raised in time, she said the company may pass for the lower insurance rating by June or July.

To keep residents abreast of progress and plans, Willingham said a quarterly newsletter will be sent out begining next week.

Anyone wishing to donate their time to construction on the station is invited stop by most any Saturday afternoon, Wilingham said. Anyone desiring a phone directory can contact auxiliary president Jo Fish at 678-6660 or Willingham added that the new fire department answered seven fires in 1981 since buying its first truck in September.

Fires within a five-mile radius of the WVFD station can be reported by calling the sheriff's office at 669-4181, Willingham at 669-4566 or Joe Green at 678-9866.

Infant attends UM classes

by Shelba Nivens Little seventeen-month-old Julia Austin is attending classes at the University of Montevallo for her fourth semester.

Impossible for a child of Julia's age to learn from studies in a college classroom?

Well, according to Julia's mother Cindy Austin, the towhaired toddler has learned much from her visits in the developmental psychology classes.

But, actually, it is for the benefit of the students that Julia has visited class sessions since she was five weeks old.

"She comes to class with her mother - and her father has come some - four to six times each semester," said class instructor Judy Rogers.

Visits are scattered throughout the semester so class members may observe the young child's growth and development over a three or four month period. Other children about Julia's age are sometimes brought in so students may observe interaction between them, said Rogers.

At the end of each semester students report on what they have observed about her development in such areas as language, personality, motor ability, etc.

Rogers said that at the end of last semester each student in the psychology class, in addition to class reports, wrote either a letter or report for Julia and her parents to keep.

Julia's mother said the students were very observant and their comments are a help to her in working with her child. Several of them commented that she seems exceptionally bright, she said, something for which she is so thankful after the tough time little Julia had "getting into the world."

"She was not breathing when she was born," said Cindy, "and the doctor watched her for awile to be sure she did not have brain damage."

Some of the students remarked on the way the youngster observed them while she was being observed by them. She would walk down the aisles between the desks and "give each one the once over before going on to the next one," someone commented. this seemed to be Julia's way of getting to know them.

Rogers said she hopes to spend some of Julia's visits this semester letting class members observe the child out-of-doors.

The setting for Julia's visit to class last week was very informal with students seated in clusters around the room or on the floor at the child's level. They played games with her, watched her play and scribble on the chalk board and note paper, and carried on "conversations" with her.

Question: (Showing her colorful animal book) "Do you see the cow, Julia?"

Answer: (Sharp eyes and a little finger picking out a tiny mouse at the larger animal's foot) "Mou..." Question: (Opening Julia's "purse" like Mommy's) "What is your baby's name, Julia?" Answer: (Seeking out the snack she knows is hidden beneath the doll) "Wan...cracker." While students may observe through Julia's actions that her mind does not always follow the pattern they might suggest, they may also see that she can catch the hint in a voice and follow through with little wit of her Question: (Extending notebook and pencil) "Want to write something for me, Julia? Don't run off with them, I'll need them for my next class."

Answer: (With teasing smile, pencil and book under one arm and tiny feet moving swiftly toward the open door) "Bye, bye."

Interaction with the students has helped Julia to become a very friendly child, said her mother, adding, "She reacts very well with other people and is not afraid of people like some young children are."

There are usually far more females than males in the particular class that Julia visits and it has been observed that she usually picks out the few males in the class to favor with her attentions.

"Last semester there was one boy in the class -- Mark - who was very shy with her to begin with and who had never liked children," recalled Cindy. "Well, Julia attached herself to him and before long they were friends. He came out to the house and played with her."

Julia was born August 9, 1980 at Shelby Medical Center. Her parents are neighbors of the psychology class instructor, Dr.

Julia's father, Mark Austin, is chief of campus police. Her mother is a part-time dispatcher for Montevallo city police.

Seminar to focus on rural health, rescue

"Farm Emergencies", a two day seminar for farmers and emergency medical technicians (EMTs), will be held at the Birmingham-Jefferson Civic Center. The February 15 and 16 seminar is the first of its kind ever offered in Alabama.

Sponsored by Birmingham Regional Emergency Medical Services System (BREMSS) and Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, the seminar will cover

Farmers, gardeners should prepare for planting season

Although we are still having cold weather, spring is just around the corner.

County Agent John Jones advises that gardens be planned well aheadof time. "Check with a reputable garden center or seed dealer to see if he can supply the vegetable varieties you need," he

He added that people should be careful when buying seed and think twice before purchasing seed which is cheap or on sale.

He advises gardeners to check with a reputable garden center or seed dealer to see if he can supply the vegetable varieties needed. And if they wish to order from a seed mail order company, he said, they should check with friends and neighbors and ask their experience with the company.

Jones said the extension office at the courthouse in Columbiana will supply gardeners with a list of vegetable varieties which do best in Shelby County. Interested ersons may call him at 669-6763 nd he will mail a copy of the list

Montevallo cemetery 'rediscovered'

Members of the Shelby County Historical Society have discovered a "lost" cemetery in Montevallo.

Actually, some of them have known of the cemetery's existence for several years. It just slipped their minds when they began taking census of all known cemeteries in the county.

But according to Madine Evans of the Society, information from the grave markers has now been recorded and will be included in the next edition of the group's 'Shelby County Cemetery Census'. Census of some fifty county cemeteries has already been printed by the Society, and the upcoming volume will list data from more than 100 others.

McGaughy of H.G. Montevallo said his father told him that he remembered a cemetery on top of the hill overlooking Montevallo's Orr Park, and he found overgrown graves there behind an old, deserted house.

A chain link fence surrounds the graves but one corner has been torn down by a fallen tree and the lock on the gate has been broken.

Calls to older residents and history buffs of the community failed to produce information on the property or living persons connected with the old burying plot.

He said he talked with City Administrator Don Hughes, who got Boy Scouts to clear away some of the overgrowth. However, it has since become overgrown again, and McGaughy said he recalls seeing some markers earlier which he can no longer find. He also said that some of the remaining stones have been broken since he first visited the graveyard.

McGaughy also noticed that windows in the empty house nearby were being broken.

Someone knew how to reach the owner, Richard Browne, at his present residence in Maryland, and he came to the county to check on his property.

Browne said last week that he does not know who owns the cemetery property adjoining his land which was purchased by his father in 1937. But, about fifteen years ago, he said, two elderly ladies from Birmingham, who identified themselves as descendants of people buried in the cemetery, came down and asked about having a fence erected around the graves.

He corresponded with one of the ladies, a Mrs. Johnny Hall, after the fence was put up, he said, but has been unable to reach her in recent years.

Eloise Meroney mentioned the cemetery in her book on the history of Montevallo, calling it the Powell family cemetery.

Edward Powell, she said, was one of the earliest settlers -following Jesse and Benjamin Wilson -- to secure title to land in the area after it was acquired from the Indians. Both he and Edmund King came from Georgia in 1817 and had important parts in shaping the early community. They were both wealthy, influential men, she wrote, and rivalry and antagonism existed between them.

A stone in the old cemetery marks the grave of Edward W. Powell who died December 14, 1837 at the age of 58.

According to Meroney's book

WWII divisions

seeks members

The Third Armored (Spearhead) Division Association is seeking to contact its World War II combat veterans. The National Association is holding its 35th annual reunion in Orlando, Florida, July 21-24.

Former members may write to Marcus Schumacher, National President, 4221 Harbor Hill Drive, Largo, Florida 33540.

Montevallo

"Montevallo, the First One Hundred Years" Powell's large, twostoried home was situated where the present Presbyterian Church is located and... he owned a great deal of the land southeast of Main Street down to Shoal Creek. The home was "destroyed in the famous cyclone of 1874."

Meroney found no records of a Nelson son, she said, but there were at least three daughters. One daughter married Dudley Randall, one married a Hale and the other married Alexander Nelson Jr., who "figured prominently in the affairs of the town from the 1840's on."

H.G. McGaughy examines grave markers in an old cemetery he helped bring to the attention of local historians. He hopes to help form a group of descendants to care for the burial plot in Montevallo where some of the markers were recently broken.

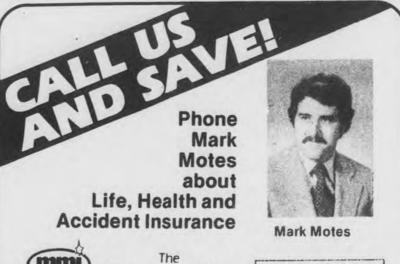

Arbor day group

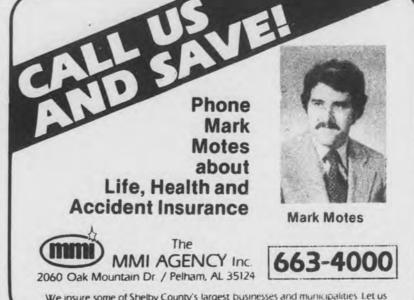

Stones in the cemetery on the hill bear the names of some these family members.

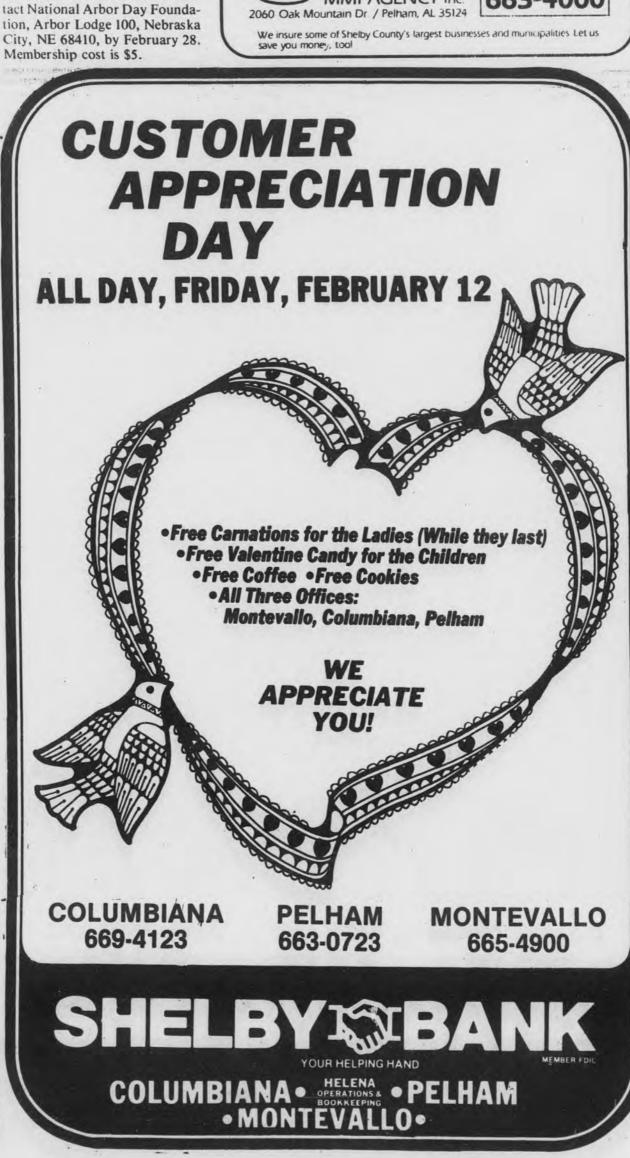

Miss Meroney says she feels sure that many of their descendants still live in the county.

Members of the Shelby County Historical Society would like to contact these descendants and perhaps form a descendants group to help repair the fence, clean the plot and keep it up. They asked that concerned persons or anyone having information about the families or old cemetery please contact H.G. McGaughy, Mrs. John Reese, Mrs. Earl Evans or someone in the Society office at the University of Montevallo.

They would also like to hear from anyone who knows the location of old cemeteries which may have been left out of the Society's cemetery census.

Any royalty or other payment that is based upon, or determined with respect to, the production of oil, gas or other hydrocarbon minerals and that is paid to the State or any agency or instrumentality thereof in advance of the actual realization of the production upon which it is based or with respect to which it is determined shall be considered an Oil and Gas Capital Payment irrespective of whether it is to be credited, in whole or in part, against future payments based upon, or determined with respect to, the actual production of oil. gas or other hydrocarbon minerals. No royalty or other payment shall be considered an Oil and Gas Capital Payment if it is based upon, or determined with respect to, the production of oil, gas or other hydrocarbon minerals actually realized at or prior to the time such royalty or other payment is remitted to the State or any agency or instrumentality thereof. "State" means the State of Alabama.

"Trust Capital" means all assets of the Trust Fund other than Trust Income that is at the time subject to appropriation by the Legislature and has not become part of the Trust Capital.

"Trust Fund" means "The Alabama Heritage Trust Fund" created by this amendment.

"Trust Income", when used with reference to any period, means the net income received during such period from the investment and reinvestment of all assets of the Trust Fund, determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 5(c) of this amend-

"Trustee" means a member of the Board of Trustees of the Trust Fund. Section 3. Management of Trust Fund Vested in Board of Trustees. (a) The Trust Fund shall be under the management and control of the Board, and all powers necessary or appropriate for the management and control of the Trust Fund shall be vested solely in the Board. The Board shall have a membership of nine Trustees conisting of the Governor, the State Treasurer, the Director of Finance (or such other official as may by law succeed to the responsibilities of the Director of Finance), two Trustees appointed by the Governor, two Trustees appointed by the Lieutenant Governor, and two Trustees appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance shall each serve as a Trustee ex officio, and the service of each such official as a Trustee shall begin and end concurrently with the beginning and end of his or her tenure in such office. As promptly as practicable after the effective date of this amendment, the other Trustees shall be appointed for the following initial terms: the Trustees to be appointed by the Governor shall be appointed for terms beginning immediately upon their respective appointments and ending at noon on October 1 in the first and second calendar years, respectively, next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall become effective; the Trustees to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor shall be appointed for a term beginning immediately upon his or her appointment and ending at noon on October 1 in the third calendar year next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall become effective; and the Trustees to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall be appointed for a term beginning immediately upon his or her appointment and ending at noon on October 1 in the fourth calendar year next following the calendar year in which this amendment shall effective. become Thereafter, the term of office of each appointed Trustee shall be six years, commencing at noon on the October 1 on which the term of the immediate predecessor Trustee shall (b) If at any time there shall be a vacancy among the appointed Trustees, a successor Trustee shall be appointed to serve for the unexpired term applicable to such vacancy. The appointment of each appointed Trustee (other than those initially appointed). whether for a full six-year term or to complete an unexpired term, shall be made by the same officer of the State who appointed the Trustee whose term shall have expired or is to expire or in whose position on the Board a vacancy otherwise exists and shall be made not earlier than thirty (30) days prior to the date on which such Trustee is to take office as such. Each appointed Trustee shall hold office from the effective date of his or her appointment until his or her confirmation or rejection by the Senate as provided in subsection (c) of this section, and, if confirmed by the Senate, until the expiration of the term (or portion thereof) for which he or she that if the term of any Trustee shall expire prior to the reappointment of such Trustee or prior to the appointment of his or her successor, such Trustee shall continue to serve until his or her successor is appointed, and if such Trustee is reappointed for a new term after the expiration of the immediately preceding term which he or she has been serving, his or her new term of office shall be deemed to have commenced at noon on the October 1 on which the immediately preceding term shall have expired Trustees shall be eligible for reappointment without limit as to the number of terms previously served. (c) At the beginning of every regular session of the Legislature the Governor shall certify to the Senate the names of all who shall have been appointed as Trustees since the commencement of the last regular session of the Legislature, and the Senate shall confirm or reject each of them as it shall determine to be in the best interests of the State. If the Senate takes no action during such regular session with respect to any Trustee whose appointment was so certified, such Trustee shall be deemed to have been confirmed by the Senate. If the Senate rejects the appointment of any Trustee, such rejection shall immediately terminate the service of such Trustee and the resulting vacancy in the membership of the Board shall be filled by a subsequent appointment made in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b) of this section. Trustees appointed during a regular session of the Legislature shall not be subject to confirmation or rejection by the Senate until the regular session of the Legislature next succeeding their appointment

(d) Each appointed Trustee shall, at the time of his or her appointment and at all times during his or her term of office, be a qualified elector of the State, and a failure by any Trustee to remain so qualified during such term shall cause a vacancy of the office of such Trustee. Each appointed Trustee shall have recognized competence and experience in the evaluation and management of investments. No person holding a full-time office or position of employment with the United States of America, the State, any county or municipality in the State, or any instrumentality, agency or subdivision of any of the foregoing, shall be eligible for appointment as a Trustee. Any person who is an appointed Trustee shall be deemed to vacate his or her office as such Trustee by the acceptance of any office or employment which, had such person held such office or been so employed at the time of his or her appointment as a Trustee would have rendered such person ineligible for appointment as a Trustee. Service by any person as a member, director, trustee or other participant in the management or administration of any governmental agency, board or commission, or public educational institution, or other public body of the United States of America, the State, or any county or municipality or other political subdivision shall not render such person ineligible for appointment as a Trustee unless such service constitutes full-time employment. Any appointed Trustee may be impeached and removed from office as a Trustee in the same manner and on the same grounds provided in Section 174 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, or successor provision thereof, and the general laws of the State for impeachment and removal of the officers of the State subject to said Section 174 or successor provision thereof. The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance may not be impeached and removed from office as a Trustee apart from their impeachment and removal from the respective offices by virtue of which, ex officio, they serve as Trustees.

(e) The Governor, the State Treasurer and the Director of Finance shall perform the duties of, Trustees, ex officio, without any compensation other than that to which they are respectively entitled as Governor, State Treasurer and Director of Finance. Appointed Trustees shall be entitled to such compensation for their services as may from time to time be provided by law duly enacted by the Legislature, but the power to provide compensation of appointed Trustees shall be discretionary with the Legislature and nothing in this amendment shall be construed to confer upon such Trustees an absolute right to any compensation for their services. Each appointed Trustee st reimbursed for expenses actually incurred in the performance of his or her duties as a Trustee.

(f) A majority of the

quorum for the transaction

of business by the Board,

and decisions shall be made on the basis of a majority of the quorum then present and voting, with each Trustee to have a single vote. No vacancy in the membership of the Board or the voluntary disqualification or abstention of any Trustee shall impair the right of a quorum to exercise all of the powers and duties of the Board. The Governor shall be the chairman and presiding officer of the Board, and the Board may appoint such other officers to perform such duties, not inconsistent with the provisions of this amendment or applicable law, as the Board shall deem necessary or appropriate. In addition to such regular meetings of the Board as may be provided by law or by bylaws or rules duly adopted by the Board, special meetings of the Board may be called by the Governor acting alone or by any three other Trustees acting in concert, in each case upon two days' notice to each Trustee given in person or by registered letter or telegram; provided, however, that such notice to each Trustee may be waived by such Trustee, either before or after the meeting with respect to which such notice would otherwise be required. Any meeting held by the Board for any purpose shall be open to the public, except that executive or secret sessions may be held by the Board when the character or good name of a person is involved. All proceedings of the Board shall be reduced to writing on behalf of the Board and maintained in the permanent records of the Board, a copy of which shall be filed in the principal office of the Board and shall be open for public inspection there during regular business principal office of the Director of Finance. (g) No Trustee shall vote on or participate in the discussion or consideration of any matter coming before the Board in which such Trustee, personally or through family connections hours. The principal office of the Board shall be the

or business associations. has any direct or indirect pecuniary interest, including, but without limitation thereto, decisions of the Board concerning the investment of moneys constituting part of the Trust Fund in any deposit or obligation of any bank or corporation in which such Trustee may have such an interest. If there shall be brought before the Board any matter in which a Trustee shall have any interest which may conflict with his duties as a Trustee, he or she shall immediately make a complete disclosure to the Board of such interest and shall thereafter withdraw from participation in any deliberation and decision of the Board with respect to such matter

(h) The Board shall have all of the powers necessary to carry out and effectuate the purposes and provisions of this amendment, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following powers:

(1) to adopt, alter and repeal bylaws, regulations and rules for the regulation and conduct of its affairs and business:

(2) to make, enter into and execute contracts. agreements and other instruments and to take such other actions as may be necessary or convenient to accomplish any purpose for which the Trust Fund was created or to exercise any power expressly, or by reasonable implication. granted by this amendment:

(3) to enter into contracts with, to accept aid and grants from, to cooperate with and to do any and all things that may be necessary in order to avail itself of the aid and cooperation of the United States of America, the State or any agency, instrumentality or political subdivision of either thereof in furtherance of the purposes of this amendment;

and (4) to appoint, employ and contract with such employees, agents, advisors and consultants, including, but not limited to, attorneys, accountants, financial experts and such other advisors, consultants and agents as may in its judgment be necessary or desirable, and to fix their compensation;

provided, however, that any obligation created or assumed by the Board shall not create any pecuniary obligation or liability of the State or the Trust Fund other than such as shall be payable out of moneys appropriated by Legislature to defray the expenses of the Board in carrying out the purposes of this amendment. No lien or charge against any assets of the Trust Fund for any purpose whatsoever shall be created by or result from any law enacted by the Legislature or any action taken by the Board or any other department, agency or instrumentality of the State.

(i) The expenses of making and disposing of investments such as brokerage commissions. legal expenses referable to a particular transaction transfer taxes and other customary transactional expenses shall, as provided in Section 5(c) of this amendment, be payable from the investment income of the Trust Fund, but no administrative or other expenses not specifically required to make or dispose of a particular investment shall be payable out of any assets of the Trust Fund. The Legislature shall provide for the administrative and other necessary expenses of the Board in the same manner as it provides for the expenses of operating other departments and agencies of the State. "Section 4. Sources of Trust Capital. (a) There shall be transferred from the general fund of the State into the Trust Fund, as the initial Trust Capital, moneys in an amount equal to the sum of (i) all proceeds of any Oil and Gas Capital Payments received by the State at any time after January 1, 1981, and on or before November 1, 1981, and (ii) all income or profit derived from the investment and reinvestment of the proceeds of such Oil and Gas Capital Payments (including income or profit derived from the investment and reinvestment of previously derived income or profit) prior to the transfer of such proceeds into the Trust Fund, less and except the following:

(1) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been disbursed by the State, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use of the Board of Corrections pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-764 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature; (2) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been disbursed by the State, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use of the Department of Mental Health pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-770 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature; (3) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the use or benefit of the Alabama Housing Finance Authority and which, as of the effective date of this amendment, is required by any then applicable law to be held apart from the Trust Fund and not Included with the moneys to be transferred into such fund as part of the initial Trust Capital;

(4) any amount of such proceeds, income or profit exceeding $6,000,000 which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the reimbursement of the counties of the State for expenses incurred by such counties in the incarceration or confinement of convicts or other prisoners who are the responsibility of the State; and (5) any amount of such exceeding $10,000,000 which has been appropriated by the Legislature, prior to the effective date of this amendment, for the support and encouragement of educational, agricultural and industrial activities involving basic and applied scientific research and development. Promptly following the effective date of this amendment, the State Treasurer shall take all actions necessary to transfer to the Board the possession, control and management of the initial Trust Capital. If at the time of such transfer into the Trust Fund all or part of the initial Trust Capital is invested in certificates of deposit or other investments which cannot be converted into cash prior to the maturity thereof without loss of interest or other penalty, the State Treasurer shall directly transfer such certificates of deposit or other investments to the Board as part of the initial Trust Capital without first converting the same into cash. In the event that any certificates of deposit or other investments shall be transferred into the Trust Fund, the initial Trust Capital shall include only the income or profit from such certificates of deposit or other investments that has been received by the State on or before such transfer or that constitutes accrued interest, amortized discount or other amounts which, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, should be considered as having been earned by the State as of the date of such transfer. To the extent that any income or profit derived from such certificates of deposit or other investments is referable to any period after the transfer thereof into the Trust Fund. such income or profit shall constitute Trust Income to the extent otherwise provided by Section 5(a) of this amendment). Any provision of this amendment to the contrary notwithstanding, no Oil and Gas Capital Payment received by the State after November 1, 1981, or any income from the investment thereof, shall, unless subsequently authorized by law, be transferred into the Trust Fund.

and shall not constitute part of the Trust Capital (except

(b) The Trust Capital shall be augmented by any Trust Income which, as provided in Section 5(a) of this amendment, shall have remained in the Trust Fund beyond the end of the Fiscal Year next succeeding the Fiscal Year during which it was received without having been appropriated for any purpose by act of the Legislature. The Trust Capital shall also consist of (i) such other moneys or assets as the Legislature may by law appropriate and transfer to the Trust Fund as a permanent part thereof and (ii) such other moneys or assets as may be contributed to the Trust Fund from any source. "Section 5. Investment of Moneys in Trust Fund; Appropriation of Trust Income. (a) Except to the extent otherwise provided in Section 6 of this amendment, the Trust Capital shall be held in perpetual trust and shall not be appropriated by the Legislature or expended or disbursed for any purpose other than to acquire Eligible Investments in accordance with the provisions of this amendment. All Eligible Investments acquired, in whole or in part, with moneys constituting part of the Trust Capita shall to the extent of such moneys constitute part of the Trust Capital, but any Trust Income derived therefrom shall be subject Legislature to the extent provided in this amendment. Until and including the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding the Fiscal Year during which any Trust income shall be received into the Trust Fund, the Legislature may at any time and from time to time, whether before or after the actual receipt of such Trust Income, enact laws appropriating all or any part of such Trust Income for any lawful purpose, and any Trust Income so appropriated may be withdrawn from the Trust Fund at any time after the receipt thereof; provided, however, that the right of the Legislature to appropriete any Trust Income prior to the actual receipt thereof shall not be construed to authorize the recognition and withdrawal of any moneys equivalent to such Trust Income prior to the actual receipt thereof into the Trust Fund. If any Trust Income shall not be appropriated by a law which becomes effective on or before the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding that during which it was received, such Trust Income shall thereafter cease to be subject to anpropriation and shall become part of the Trust Capital to be held in the Trust Fund on the same terms and conditions as are applicable to all other assets constituting the Trust Capital. Any Trust Income appropriated by a law becoming effective on or before the last day of the Fiscal Year next succeeding that during which it was received shall remain Trust Income even though it is permitted to remain in the Trust Fund after the end of such Fiscal Year, and any withdrawal by the

such Trust Income shall be subject to withdrawal from the Trust Fund at any time thereafter in the manner propriated provided by law for the purposes for which it shall theretofore have been ap-(b) To the extent practicable, the Board shall keep all moneys at any time held in the Trust Fund (including both Trust Capital and Trust Income) invested in such Eligible Investments as shall, in its sole and uncontrolled judgment, produce the greatest Trust Income over the term of such investments while preserving the Trust Capital. In making any investment of moneys held in the Trust Fund, the Board shall exercise the judgment and care, under the circumstances prevailing at the time of such investment, which an institutional investor of the highest standard of prudence, intelligence and financial expertise would exercise in the management and investment of large assets entrusted to it not for the purpose of speculative profit but for the permanent generation and disposition of funds, considering the probable safety of capital as well as the expected amount and frequency of income. The Board shall have full power and authority to select the Eligible Investments in which moneys held in the Trust Fund shall at any time be invested, and, to the extent not inconsistent with any express provision of this amendment, the Eligible Investments so selected shall be acquired from such issuers, underwriters, brokers or other sellers on such terms and conditions, shall be acquired for purchase prices reflecting such discount below or premium above the par or face amount thereof, shall bear such dates and be in such form, denominations and series shall mature or be subject to mandatory redemption on such dates, shall bear interest at such rate or rates payable at such intervals or, alternatively, shall provide income to the holder thereof in such other manner (including, without limitation thereto, the purchase of such investments at a discount which represents all or part of the income or profit to be derived therefrom), shall be unsecured or secured in such manner, shall contain such provisions for prepayment or redemption at the option of the issuer of obligor, and shall contain or be subject to such other provisions as shall, in all of the foregoing respects, be determined by the Board in the exercise of its sole and uncontrolled judgment. The Board shall have full power and authority to invest the Trust Capital in long-term investments producing Trust Income in accordance with such schedule as the Board shall, in the exercise of its sole and uncontrolled judgment, determine

to be in the best interests of the State, and in determining such schedule the Board may emphasize

future benefits in preference to near-term

needs. The Board shall

have complete and uncontrolled discretion in making decisions as to when

moneys in the Trust Fund

shall be invested, as to the purchase price or other acquisition cost to be paid or incurred in acquiring investments for the Trust Fund, as to when investments constituting part of the Trust Fund shall be sold, liquidated or otherwise disposed of, and, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 100 of the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, as to the amount and nature of the price or other consideration to be received by the Trust Fund upon the sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments constituting part of the Trust Fund; provided, however, that to the extent the provisions of this amendment authorize the withdrawal of moneys from the Trust Fund (including both Trust Capital and Trust Income) pursuant to appropriation by the Legislature, the Board shall invest the moneys so subject to withdrawal in investments which shall mature or otherwise be subject to liquidation on such terms as will provide cash when required for withdrawal from the Trust Fund. No law shall be enacted nor any action taken by the executive department of the State which impairs or interferes with the power, authority and discretion conferred upon the Board by this amendment with respect to the acquisition, management, control and disposition of investments at any time constituting part of the Trust Fund. (c) The Trust Income for any period shall be the net income (determined as hereinafter provided) actually received in cash or cash equivalents during such period from the investment and reinvestment of all moneys held in the Trust Fund (including both moneys representing Trust Capital and moneys representing previously received Trust Income that has not become part of the Trust Capital). No accrual or other accounting calculation or classification shall constitute the basis for recognizing Trust Income unless the moneys in ques tion shall have been actually received and paid into the Trust Fund. The Trust Income for any period shall consist of the aggregate interest received from investments during such period plus any profit realized during such period from any payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments resulting in the receipt of an amount greater than the purchase price thereof, less (i) any negative audit adjustments to income and any losses with respect to investments which are required to be charged against the income of the Trust Fund for such period pursuant to the provisions of subsection (d) of this section. (ii) any accrued interest paid as part of the purchase price of investments acquired during such period, and (iii) all expenses of selling and disposing of investments during such period such as brokerage commissions. legal expenses referable to a particular transaction, transfer taxes and other customary transactional expenses. For purposes of determining the amount of the Trust Capital at any time held in the Trust Fund, any investment acquired for a purchase price reflecting a discount below its face or par amount shall, at all times prior to its payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition, be valued at its original purchase price. If any investment is acquired for a purchase price reflecting a premium above its face or par amount, then, for purposes of calculating Trust Income, the cumulative interest or other income theretofore received from such investment as of any time shall be reduced by the then applicable Amortized Premium of such investment. For purposes of determining the amount of Trust Capital at any time held in the Trust Fund, any investment acquired for a purchase price reflecting a premium above its face or par amount shall, at all times prior to its payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition, be valued at its original purchase price less its then applicable Amortized Premium (d) The Trust Income shall be adjusted in accordance with the succeeeding provisions of this subsection if the application of generally accepted accounting principles in connection with the annual audit of the Trust Fund requires any negative adjustment of income, including the recognition of any reduction in value or write off of investments for reasons relating to the probability of their payment or collectibility, or if any loss is realized upon any payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of any investment resulting in the receipt of any amount less than the value thereof determined in

sions of this amendment: provided, however, that no reduction in value of any investment shall be made because the rate of interest or other yield thereon has fallen below the market rates then applicable to comparable investments. Any audit adjustment resulting in a charge against income or any loss realized from the payment, sale, liquidation or other disposition of investments, as the case may be, shall be charged first against any Trust Income which, as of the time such adjustment is made or such loss is realized, has accumulated in the Trust Fund and is then available for withdrawal. whether or not theretofore appropriated, and if the amount to be so charged is greater than the amount of accumulated Trust Income subject to withdrawal, such amount shall be charged against Trust Income thereafter received in the current and succeeding Fiscal Years until the full amount of such audit adjustment or loss, as the case may be, has been recovered or made good out of the investment income of the Trust Fund. and from and after the time that such audit adjustment is made or such loss is , realized, as the case may be, no income of the Trust Fund shall be considered Trust Income for purposes of this amendment until the full amount of such adjustment or loss shall have been so recovered or made good. In the event that, as a result of any audit adjustment or any realized loss, the aggregate amount of income appropriated and withdrawn from the Trust Fund as of any time during or at the end of any Fiscal Year exceeds the aggregate Trust Income which, taking into account such adjustment or loss. should have been available for withdrawal at or before such time, then, and in such event, the excess amount so withdrawn need not be returned to the Trust Fund from the general fund of the State or from any other source of funds available to the State, but the amount of such excess withdrawal shall be

(e) To the extent appropriate and not at the time prohibited by law, the Board shall use the facilities of the State Treasurer in the administration of the Trust Fund, including, but without limitation thereto, the keeping of records, the manage ment of bank accounts, the transfer of funds and the safekeeping of securities evidencing investments.

(f) The Board shall cause recovered through charges against future income of the Trust Fund as above provid-

an annual audit of the Trust Fund to be performed for each Fiscal Year by the State Auditor or, in the discretion of the Board, by an independent accounting firm and shall cause a report of such audit to be prepared in accordance with applicable accounting principles and made public within ninety (90) days following the end of the Fiscal Year covered thereby. The Board shall cause to be prepared and publicized such financial and other information concerning the Trust Fund as may from time to time be provided by law duly enacted by the Legislature. but in the absence of any law directing the preparation and publication of different reports, the Board shall cause to be prepared and made public, within thirty (30) days after the end of each quarterly period in each Fiscal Year. a report containing (i) a statement of the Trust Capital then held in the Trust Fund showing any changes thereto since the last quarterly report, (ii) a statement of the Trust Income then held in the Trust Fund showing receipts and withdrawals therefrom during the quarterly period in question and further showing the portion thereof previously appropriated and the portion thereof subject to appropriation but not then appropriated, (iii) a statement of the in vestments then held in the Trust Fund including descriptions thereof and the respective values thereof, (iv) a statement of the Trust Income received to date during the current Fiscal Year, (v) if such report covers the first, second or third quarterly period, an estimate of the Trust Income anticipated for the entire current Fiscal Year and for each of the remaining quarterly periods thereof, and (vi) an estimate of the Trust Income anticipated for the next succeeding Fiscal Year and in each of the quarterly periods thereof.

"Section 6. Alternative Disposition of Certain Trust Fund Moneys. (a) By any duly enacted law or laws. whether becoming effective before or after the effective date of this amendment, the Legislature may appropriate moneys constituting Trust Capital or Trust Income or a combination of both for the use or benefit of the Alabama Housing Finance Authority in such aggregate amount as, when added to any amount excluded from the initial Trust Capital pursuant to clause (3) of the first sentence of Section 4 of this amendment, shall not exceed the sum of $19,500,000. All or any part of the moneys so appropriated may be held in the Trust Fund until disbursed for the purpose for which appropriated, or all or any part of such moneys may be immediate ly withdrawn from the Trust Fund and transferred to the Alabama Housing Finance Authority for the use thereof or, alternatively, transferred to the State and held by it until used to pay expenses for and on behalf of such authority, all in accordance with such law or laws as may from time to time be enacted by the Legislature

(b) In order to provide an alternative source for the moneys appropriated for the use of the Board of Cor rections pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 81-764 enacted at the 1981 Regular Session of the Legislature, the Legislature may, by any duly enacted law or laws. whether becoming effective before or after the effective date of this amendment, appropriate moneys constituting Trust Capital or Trust Income or a combination of both for the use of the Board of Corrections in making capital expenditures; provided, however, that the aggregate amount so appropriated for the use of the Board of Corrections and withdrawn from the Trust Fund shall not exceed an amount computed as the difference between $45,000,000 and the sum of (i) the amount excluded from the initial Trust Capital pursuant to clause (1) of the first sentence of Section 4 of this amendment and (ii) all other amounts at any time appropriated by the Legislature from the proceeds of bonds of the State or other sources for the use of the Board of Corrections in substitution for or replacement of all or any part of the moneys appropriated pursuant to said Act No. 81-764
